Dune Ccg Variant Solo Rules

Solo rules By C Gerard Luft

(see The Last Section For Playing With Out Dune Cards)

Set Up

You will need a deck of DUNE CCG card (with an equal amount of cards from each Allegiance) and a paper and pencil.

Turn

The turn consists of drawing one card. You start the game with the CALADAN Homeworld card (you're a vassal of the late Duke Leto Atredies). Your Allegiance is as follows in the first column of the table below. In the Second Column your opponent Allegiance are list:

Player's Allegiances	Adversaries
House Atredies	House Atredies
Houses Harkonnen & Corrino	Bene Gesserit
Sisterhood	The Guild
Fremen	House Harkonnen
Water Seller's Union	Spice Miner's Guild
Dune Smugglers	The Guild

You begin with five spice tokens. When you draw a card each turn, the only figures you need to apply are cost and Allegiance. In this variant of the rules, the cost is how many spice tokens you receive or loose. If the card is of your allegiances or is a "N/A", you gain its cost in spice tokens. If the card is of the adversary Allegiances, then its cost is how many spice tokens you loose.

Winning

You win when you obtain 20 spice tokens (adjust to a lower amount if you have a smaller deck). If, at any time during the game, you are reduced to zero spice tokens, you loose.

Playing Without Dune Cards

Using the FIND IT section to view the entire card list, roll 1d1000 (3 ten sided dice: 1st die is hundreds, 2nd die is tens, and 3rd die is ones). Reroll any number above 662. Then find the card's number. That card is the card you have drawn for this turn.

Dune: Eye Of The Storm Ccg

Eye of the storm, collectible card game, Last Unicorn Games. Five Rings Publishing Group.

Objective

Only changes to the rules are discussed. Otherwise play proceeds as normal. These are a combination of rules for Common Deck play with some other minor rules changes thrown in. A common deck game is more unpredictable than using preconstructed decks.

Setup

Each player starts with their Homeworld in play plus one of each ally, aide, charter, fief, personnel, and equipment card that has allegiance to that house. Personnel & equipment are assigned after the other cards are put down. All these cards start in play.

Distribution Of Holdings

Take one of each Charter and Fief (including Dune). Do not include those deployed in setup. Shuffle them and deal them all out to the players. Players start with these in play.

Common Deck Setup

Take all other cards, Imperial & House cards & shuffle them together, this is the Common Deck. Each Imperial card is unique so only include one of each. Do not put holdings or charters into this deck. Adjust the numbers of each type of House card to suit your tastes. All players share the same deck & discard.

To Win

The conditions to win are the same except that 30 spice are required.

Areas Of Play

There is no assembly, Imperial deck, or Imperial Discard. Imperial cards are petitioned directly from your hand. Effects that target the assembly instead target the players hand. Effects that target the Imperial deck, or Imperial Discard instead target the Common deck or discard. There is no Imperial Draw or Discard.

Rites

A player may only initiate one rite (CHOAM or Land-sraad) per turn. Fiefs subdued in Battle are automatically captured (The attacker takes control of the Fief) A players Homeworld fief gets +5 Resistance. Charters subdued in Arbitration are automatically captured.

Dueling: The Duelist can only target another Duelist.

Subdual Of Personas

Whenever a persona is vanquished or subdued roll 1D6

#	Result
1-2	Persona Killed
3-5	Persona Injured- Treat this as the normal subdual rules: Card is flipped & accrues deferment tokens
6	Persona Captured

Effects targeting subdued personas target injured personas.

Captured Personas

Captives are face up & engaged Engage a persona to interrogate a captive. A captive can only be interrogated once per turn as a general operation. Roll 1D6:

#	Result
1-2	Killed
3	Nothing
4-5	Information: Look at opponents hand. Limit this result to once per captive
6	Blackmail or Brain washed: Take control of Persona. Persona gains intrigue skill = 4

Captives may be sold back to their original controllers

Equipment & Transports

Treat subdued results against these cards as discard (destroyed)

Reinterpretation Of Cards

Note: I have not seen all of the cards and none after the first expansion.

Card	Change
Usurp Holding	Do not use this card
Glacier Refinery	Do not use this card unless someone is playing the water merchants
Salvaging Operation	Do not use this card
Historic Acquisition	Do not use this card

Dungeon Building

Dungeons are constructed with Room cards. Rooms are laid out in levels. The first level contains one room, your Dungeon Heart.

The second level has 2 rooms. The third level has 3 rooms. The fourth level has 4 rooms & so on.

The second level must be built before the third level, and so on. As you play, you will add rooms to your Dungeon.

Hero Phase

Roll on the Invasion Table to see if the Heroes attack you this turn.

Invasion Table

1D10	Result:	Notes:
1-7	Nothing	No Heroes Attack
8-9	Minor Invasion	1D6 Heroes Attack
10+	Major Invasion	2D6 Heroes Attack

Add 1 to the roll if you have 5 or more levels in your dungeon. Randomly Draw the Indicated number of Hero Counters from the Hero Cup. The Heroes will attack a random room in the outermost Level of your Dungeon.

Trap Phase

Attacking Heroes spring all the Traps at the Room they attack. Discard 1 random trap per Thief attacking. There are 5 types of Traps: Traps: Automatically kill one random attacking Unit.

Alarms: Re-Deploy 1 Creature to this room. Weakness: All Heroes have Force -2 while at this room. Damage: Roll 1D6 for each Hero. On a roll of 1-2 the Hero is destroyed.

Death: Roll 1D6: on a roll of 1-2 all the Heroes are killed! Discard all sprung Traps at the room.

Door Phase

The Heroes have to spend some time breaking through the door. Each door has a Door value = X. You may re-deploy X Creatures to this room.

Battle Phase

The Band of Heroes will fight with the Creatures present at the Room. These are the Combatants. Pick 1 random Face-up combatant Hero & 1 random Face-up combatant Creature.

This is known as a Duel Pair. Both Units are Duelers. Calculate a Battle Total (BT) for each Dueler.

BT The Duelers Force + 1D10 (The Battle Roll).

The Dueler with the higher BT wins the Duel. The loser is killed (discarded back to appropriate Cup). If there is a tie, both are killed.

The Winning Dueler Counter is placed face down. When all the units of a side are face down, flip them all face up. Continue Dueling until one side is eliminated.

Your opponent gets to control the Hero units on your turn.

War Phase

If the Creatures won Battle phase, the turn ends. If the Heroes won in Battle phase, the Room is Captured, and The Heroes attack another random room on the same level. (or the next lower level if this level was completely captured) Each time the Heroes move to another room, you will have to Repeat Trap, Door, Battle & War Phases.

Discard Captured rooms.

Numerical Superiority Rule

In a Battle, the side with more units gets +1 to all Battle rolls. If a side has twice or more the number of units, it gets +2 to all Battle rolls.

Spells

Discard Spell cards after they are played.

Turn Sequence

Each turn is divided into 5 phases: Draw Phase Search Phase Encounter Phase Resolution Phase Treasure Phase

Draw Phase

Each player fills their hand to 8 cards from their own deck. If the deck runs out shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Search Phase

Each player may discard up to 4 cards and draw replacements.

Encounter Phase

First the PP may play one or more Treasure Cards Second, the DM plays one of the following:

1. Nothing
2. A meld of 1 or more Creature Cards.
3. One Trap Card.

The DM may also play one Room card. The PP may play a "Secret passage" card to discard a card played by the GM.

Resolution Phase

The PP plays nothing if the DM played nothing. The PP may play a Stealth card to eliminate a Trap card if the DM played a Trap card. If the DM played a trap card and the PP did not play a Stealth card, one random hero is killed.

If the DM played a meld of Creature cards add up the "Fight" value of all the creatures. All creatures in the Meld must be of the same type, for instance they must all be Undead, or they must all be Goblinkin. "X" type creatures may not meld.

Some Room cards add to the Fight total. The PP may play attribute cards to fight the Meld. The PP may play one Attribute cards on each of his heroes.

The Attribute card must match one of the heroes' attributes. Gain "Fight" points equal to the heroes level in that attribute. For Example: If you play Sword on the Barbarian you get 2 Fight points.

Some cards give an additional bonus vs certain types of creatures. Add up the Fight point total of the entire party (Minimum = 1). If the Creature total is equal to or less than the party total, no heroes are killed.

If the Creature total is greater than the party total, one random hero is killed. If the Creature total is twice the party total, two random heroes are killed. If the Creature total is three times the party total, three random heroes are killed, and so on.

If any heroes are killed discard all the Treasure cards played. If all the heroes are killed the DM wins the Game.

Treasure Phase

The PP may claim Treasure cards still in play. Treasures are placed in the PP's Treasure pile. If the Party ever gains 50+ Treasure points the PP automatically wins.

Play a Prisoner card to gain a new Hero. If you have a hero with the Heal attribute Play a Heal Card to gain back any Hero killed this turn. If you have a hero with the Shield attribute Play a Shield Card to gain back any Hero killed this turn.

If you have a hero with the Armor attribute Play a Armor Card to gain back any Hero killed this turn. Play Experience cards or claim Magic Item cards in play: One random Hero gets +1 Level in one Random Attribute:

FAQ's

1) Armor x2 attribute: how do you use it? This means that you can save up to 2 heroes killed if you play an Armor card on this character?

No. If you play an armor card you can either add 2 Fight points (If the character had only Armor x1 then just add 1) or save one character. Add the points if it'll make the difference, otherwise use the card to avoid a casualty. The extra level of armor adds to the fight total, but does not affect the special ability.

2) Stealth x2 attribute: since the DM can only play 1 trap how do you use the x2?

As above. If you play a stealth card you can either add 2 Fight points (If the character had only Stealth x1 then just add 1) or negate 1 Trap.

Obstacles

Additional Material by Zak add a new DM card type, Obstacles.

Obstacles have a Fight Value like creatures and can be played by the DM as a 4th option (instead of playing traps, creatures or nothing). The resolution phase against Obstacles is the same as the vs Creatures case: the only difference is that if the DM win the PP only loose his treasure (no kills). In alternative the PP can play a stealth card to eliminate an obstacle

Add the following cards to the DM deck # Name: Fight 1 Portcullis 5 1 Collapsed Floor 4 2 Reinforced door 3

Add to the PP deck 1 stealth card.

Dungeons & Dragons After The Cartoon

(Version 2.0) By Joe G

Introduction

Roleplaying game for one to six player characters and a Dungeon Master. Back when the Dungeons & Dragons cartoon aired, TSR released gamebooks and board games based upon it, but they missed the chance to put out a special edition of the actual RPG: a simplified version featuring the show's characters, combining the feel of D&D with easier-to-play rules. That's what this unofficial game tries to represent. Like D&D proper, this RPG produces imaginary adventures but in a simpler way. No noting down stuff, no character advancement, or miniatures combat.

Story

While on an amusement park ride, six young friends went through a portal that sent them to a realm of magic and mystery. Hank, Eric, Diana, Presto, Sheila and Bobby got some guidance and magical items from the Dungeon Master, an impish old sage, and fought the likes of the mighty Venger - until he was cleansed of evil. With the gateway home now opened, will the six companions again face whatever adventures remain in the Realm?

You Need

- * A copy of this game (adjust to print each player's sheet separately).
- * A twenty-sided die, known as "d20".
- * Something to keep track of hit points, the life energy: beads, counters, spare dice or any trinket you may have in good amounts (50 or so).

- * A small tray or bag to store these hit points when not in use or when they are lost and maybe a box to keep it all in.

Winning

All player characters as a team win an adventure by seeing it through to the end. Note: adventures are standalone affairs here. There's no continuity between them.

Losing

The game is lost whenever any player character ends up defeated by having his/her hit points reduced to zero. The Dungeon Master won't let any of them die, and will teleport the whole party away to safety, but the cause is forfeit. No one wins.

Initiative

Some situations like combat require a turn order. Initiative goes in alphabetical order (which reflects the protagonists' more or less aggressive character): Bobby - Diana - Eric - Hank - monster(s) - Presto - Sheila (whichever ones are present).

Playing As The Dungeon Master

One player must act as the Dungeon Master - he gets a special Dungeon Master sheet detailing monsters and the adventure's various parts. He narrates the adventure to the other players, and controls all monsters as they make their attacks. While not a "player" per se, he gets to hone his storytelling skills, giving directions to the player characters. He's not the enemy; seeing the adventure through is also his goal but he must control all elements fairly. He should allow the player character's actions to move the game along, but he has the final word. His rulings must be obeyed.

Dungeon Master Aids

In the story, The Dungeon Master acts as a mentor to the young warriors and directs them to quests where such heroes may be needed. In this game, he doesn't actually appear "in person". Whoever takes this role gets the game going by telling the other players of the places and situations in which they're found - giving them the chance to act and react - rolling the die in order to randomly choose the adventure parts indicated by the numbers on his sheet (except from the beginning) and reading the corresponding text as well as using his own words to further relay certain events or consequences. This will call for some improvisation and filling in some details with the imagination, such as the exact type of monster as all instances of "huge", "medium" and "small monsters" must be replaced with specific creatures. Whenever adventure sections introduce monsters, the Dungeon Master controls the creatures' attacks as per the combat rules below.

Playing As The Characters

Up to six players choose their characters from the ones available, receive their corresponding sheets, get as many hit points to keep track of vitality as allowed by their starting number, and begin play, imagining their characters in situations and places as described by the Dungeon Master - and by saying what they would do. The way they spell it is up to player preference and could range from "My character tries to break the door open" to "I SMASH a hole open with all the force of my mighty club!", for example. Games take the form of a journey that must be finished in order to win. Along the way, player characters can declare their intent without turn order or much limitation. Only when two or more players are really scrambling to go next, the one with the highest initiative takes precedence. They also have to stick together, so they should agree on their next move as a team: whether to take an extended rest, march forward, etc. They should decide together, discuss it or maybe even vote, but they need to agree. As determined by the Dungeon Master, if there's enough difficulty to anything that a player character tries to do or must be done by him/her or by everybody, he/she needs to do a skill check. And when faced by monsters, all heroes go into a fight.

Skill Checks

Players describe what their characters do, and when an action has difficulty, their skills are also put to the test. However, if the action is not on a character sheet's skill list, it cannot be attempted by the player. He/she could leave the task to another or come up with a different course of action. When there's something listed that could work (and the Dungeon Master does not object), he/she may do the appropriate skill check, represented by a die roll. If the skill indicates "1d20 + 4", for example, this means rolling the 20-sided die once and adding the bonus number to the result, 4 in this case. If the total is 15 or higher, the attempt succeeds. 14 or lower is a failure. If the die showed an 12 in this example, that would total 16 thanks to the + 4 bonus and the effort would succeed. Failing could mean you need to retry or leave it to someone else's character. Yet some obstacles (like escaping from an enclosing or scaling a cliff face) may need to be cleared by every teammember for the quest to continue. If Presto the Magician keeps failing to climb the cliff and falls again and again, he can continue to try but he's liable to break some bones. On the other hand, a failed use of rope or magic could end up giving him some burns. Here's when failure rolls come into play.

Failure Rolls

If an action fails, it may be retried any number of times, but after each miss a failure roll must be done: the player whose action failed rolls the die again, if the die shows a 1, he/she then loses 1 hit point (the Dungeon Master should come up with a mishap to explain the wound). Note: failure rolls are not done during combat.

Combat

When the heroes find themselves facing any monsters small as a bat or huge as a dragon, combat breaks out. Combat too is played out through dialog and imagination, but it goes in initiative-order turns that go round for as long as the battle lasts. It also uses counters as an aid to keep track of monsters: the Dungeon Master lays groups of counters on the table before him to match each enemy's hit points, and throws these points back to the tray one-by-one as the monsters get hit. Combat lasts until any one of the player characters is defeated by having his/her hit points reduced to zero (in which case the game is lost), all monsters present are defeated in the same way, or all player characters run away.

During the players' turns, they'll have to announce their attack and which monster they are targeting with any level of description they'd like ("I attack the first orc"/"I pole-vault myself feet-first to slimy face there on the left") then roll the die. If they don't attack, they may pass, try to run away or attempt another move also found under "Combat actions" on their sheet, if any. During the monsters' turn, the Dungeon Master controls each one of them and will always make them attack, if they can. He gets to decide which hero is the target for each attack and announces it before rolling the die: "The beholder shoots Eric with its eye stalk beams". His sheet lists monster attacks by their size. (Dungeon Master tip: choosing to attack a character with more or with less hit points could help control the difficulty if they're having it too easy or too hard).

To attack, roll the die and add the appropriate bonus (e.g. 1d20 + 2). If the total is 15 or higher, the attack hits. If it's 14 or lower, it misses. A successful attack always reduces its target's hit points by 1, with one exception: critical hits.

Critical Hits

Whenever someone rolls a 20 on the die while making an attack (without adding the bonus number), he/she scores a critical hit and the target loses 2 hit points instead of 1. Monsters too are able to score critical hits against player characters.

Running Away

As their combat action, a player character may attempt to run away from battle when it's his/her turn, in order to sit out the rest of combat and let his/her companions fight it out (this skill is listed alongside the other combat actions). Such maneuver is not without danger, however, and it costs the character 1 hit point whether the roll succeeds (allowing to escape) or fails (another round caught in the fight). Attempting to run away is not possible while fighting a huge monster, or if whoever wanted to run is down to his/her last hit point.

End Of Combat

Combat may end from a player character running out of hit points, in which case the Dungeon Master teleports all heroes away and they lose the game. Or they may succeed in defeating all monsters present, upon which everybody gets 2 hit points back (up to their starting number) due to their taking a short rest and composing themselves. If combat were to end by all heroes running away, monsters left behind won't bother them anymore, but there'll be no chance to stop and recover hit points. Either way, it's back to out-of-combat roleplay.

Objects

Player characters are assumed to carry items necessary for adventuring: a length of rope, a knife, supplies, etc., which can be put to use as needed during non-combat roleplay. Characters may also own special equipment: Sheila the Thief is expected to handle lock-picking tools, for example. Any such object use must first be approved by the Dungeon Master, however. If the adventure involves finding a relevant item, once it's acquired, players and the Dungeon Master need only remember that it was found.

Extended Rest

When not engaged in combat or facing immediate peril, players can agree to take an extended rest; this allows all characters to refill their hit points up to their starting number. This can be done once per game and represents their camping, eating and/or sleeping

Replaying The Game

After succeeding or failing to reach the prize, the adventure can be attempted again any number of times since it isn't likely to ever play out the same. Unlike D&D proper, players aren't expected to use the same character for every play session and may pick another. Or try their hand at being the Dungeon Master.

Dungeons To Go

Introduction

DtG is a simple Old School low level Fantasy RPG. It is designed to get players going as quick as possible. It is not a total D&D clone, but uses many of the same ideas.

There are 2 Sections: Players Guide and DM's Guide. These rules are very much meant to be incomplete. It is the DM's job to flesh them out.

Players Roll high for Attacks, Saves, and Skills. Leveling Charts for classes are replaced by accumulation of Special Abilities.

Players Guide

Character Generation

Roll 3D6 for the basic Attributes (Stats): Strength, Intelligence, Wisdom, Dexterity, Constitution, and Charisma. Abbreviations: Str, Int, Wis, Dex, Con, Cha Next pick Race, Alignment, and Class. There are 5 Alignments: Lawful, Chaotic, Good, Evil, Neutral.

Players start with maximum Hit Points at First Level. All Characters start with a purse of 2D6 Gold.

Stat Bonus Table

Stat:	3	4-5	6-8	9-12	13-15	16-17	18
Bonus:	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3

Strength gives a Bonus to Damage. Constitution gives a Bonus to Hit Points. Wisdom gives a Bonus to Priest Spells cast per Day.

Intelligence gives a Bonus to Mage Spells cast per Day. Dexterity gives a Bonus to Movement and Initiative.

Race Mods

Race:	Str	Int	Wis	Dex	Con	Cha
Elf	-1	+1	-1	+1	-1	+1
Dwarf	+1	0	0	-1	+1	-1
Halfling	-1	-1	-1	+1	+1	+1

Elves act like strange, easily distracted Children. Elves can be Fighters, Mages, or Thieves. Elves have Infravision. Dwarves act like stubborn, grumpy, badly behaved Children.

Dwarves can be Fighters. Dwarves have Infravision. Halflings act like jolly, sweet, good natured Children. Halflings can be Thieves.

Movement Speeds

Humans and Elves move 6 Spaces per Turn Short Races like Dwarves and Halflings move at 4 Spaces per Turn. Humans and Elves can jump 2 Spaces. Short Races can jump 1 Space. Humans and Elves can swim 3 Spaces. Short Races can swim 2 Spaces.

Classes

There are 4 Available Classes: Fighter, Mage, Rogue, and Priest.

Fighters

Fighters can use any Armor or Weapon. They get 1D10 Hit Points per Level. (Much more than the other Classes) They start with Medium Armor and Shield and a Long Sword and Dagger.

Mages

Mages get no Armor and can only use a Staff or Dagger. They get -4 Attack with everything else. Armor and Shields interfere with their Spellcasting.

They get 1D4 Hit Points per Level. They start with a Spell Book, Robe, and a Staff and Dagger. Mages can use many Relics unavailable to other Classes.

Rogues

Rogues can wear Leather Armor. Many of their Skills are penalized (-5) with a Shield or Heavier Armor. They can use Daggers, One Handed Swords, Clubs, Slings, Bows, Crossbows, Knuckledusters, Garrotes, Blackjacks, Bombs, Throwing Knives, and Improvised Weapons. They get -2 Attack with everything else.

They get 1D6 Hit Points per Level. They start with Light Armor and a Short Bow, Short Sword, and Dagger.

Priests

Priests can wear any Armor. They can use Blunt Weapons. Their first SA must be Religion Lore. They get 1D6 Hit Points per Level. They start with Medium Armor and Shield and a Mace and Holy Symbol.

A Priest should pick 1 God from the List of Gods. This will give extra SA's.

Special Abilities

Special Abilities (SA) are class based. They are Buffs, Skills, or Spells. At first level, each Character starts with 5 Special Abilities. Each level after that, they gain an additional 2 Special Abilities.

30+ Sample SA are given for each of the 4 Basic classes. The DM should feel free to create more. Some SA should only be available at higher Levels.

Players may also pick SA off the Common Special Ability List. Elves, Dwarves, and Halflings may pick off the Demi-Human SA List. If the GM wants he can create SA lists specific to rarer classes such as Rangers, Druids, Bards, Paladins, Monks, etc.

Skill Notation

Skills are given in the Following Format: Attribute Skill = X. For example: Int Skill = 14 This would mean that the Character would have to roll 14 or higher to succeed. The Roll will be modified by the Intelligence Bonus (or Penalty).

(LX) Notation: (LX) = Character must be at least Level X to have this SA. Example: (L5) = Character must be at least Level 5 to have this Special Ability.

Sample Fighter Special Abilities

1. Champion: Damage +1 and Attack +1. (L7)
2. Dual Wield: No penalty to hit while wielding 2 Weapons.

Spell Casting

A First level Mage may cast 5 Spells per Day. And 1 more for every level above. Mage Spells per day is Modified by the Intelligence Stat. If a Mage loses his Spell Book, his number of Spells per day is -4.

It would take 20 Gold and a Month of Research and writing to recreate. A First level Priest may cast 3 Spells per Day. And 1 more for every level above. Priest Spells per day is Modified by the Wisdom Stat.

Priests that anger their God get penalties to their Spells per Day. Rituals take 1D3 Hours to complete and require rare Spell Components. Spells of Level 5 and Above can be cast a max of once per day.

Scrolls

A Magic Scroll allows 1 extra spell written on it to be cast for free, whether the Mage knows the Spell or not. The Scroll is then used up. Note: Mages can cast spells they don't know if they read them from a Book. See the Spell Failure Rules if they Attempt this. Spells the Mage does not know can be transcribed to his spell book from Scrolls, Tomes, for this purpose.

Multi-classing

The Multiclassing option costs 2 SA Slots. It may be taken at level 1. You get the Saving Throw Bonuses of Both Classes and You can now pick SA from the Lists of Either Class. Humans can have a Max of 2 Classes. Elves can have a max of 3 Classes.

Multi-Class Characters gain 1D6 Hit Points per Level. Multi-Class Characters get only 2 Spells per Day and 1 more for every level above total, even if they are both Priest and Mage. A Priest/Mage gets to add both Intelligence and Wisdom bonuses to Spells per day.

Fate Tokens

Each player starts with 1 Fate Token. Humans start with 1 extra Token. They can be spent to re-roll a target roll or change a roll by + or - 1. The DM can reward more for good Role-playing. As Compensation for not having Saving Throw Bonuses, Humans always start every gaming Session with at least 1 Token.

If the opposing Monsters have the Ambush or Surprise Tag they have a Stealth Bonus of +4.

Initiative

Fumbles And Spell Failure

There is no good way to incorporate these into Attack Rolls or Save Rolls. Every time a Character Attacks or Casts a spell the DM first rolls 1D20. On a roll of 1 the character Rolls on the Fumble or Spell Failure Table.

The DM of course does this at his discretion. A Character Afflicted with a Clumsy Curse will Fumble on a roll of 1-4. A Mage casting a spell he doesn't know, by reading from a Book, will invite Failure on a roll of 1-3 plus his targets get +2 Save and he uses up an extra Spell per Day.

just have 2 Groups, the PC's and the Monsters. On the players just have them go around the table clockwise.

Attacking And Defending

If the Attacker has a Higher Total Attack Bonus (AB) then the Defense Bonus (DB of the Defender then the Attacker has the Advantage. If the Defender's total is equal to or Higher than that of the Attacker, The Attacker is said to be at a Disadvantage. An Attacker with Advantage Rolls 1D20. An Attacker with Disadvantage Rolls 1D12.

A roll of 10 or higher is a Hit. A roll of 20 is a critical hit and does Double Damage. Monsters get Attack and Defense Bonuses per their Description.

Not negative (penalty) AB would be the same as a positive DB.

Subdual

Characters may attack to Subdue instead of to Kill. If so the target is incapacitated (Knocked-out, restrained) instead of being killed when its Hit Points are reduced to Zero.

Auto-kill

If a target is Incapacitated (restrained, unconscious, paralyzed, asleep) it can be killed automatically.

Saving Throws

To Save Roll D20. Add Any Save Bonuses. Any modified roll of 15 or higher is a Save.

Save Modifiers

Dwarves get +4 vs Poison, Charm, Cold, Acid, Smells, Crushing Traps

Elves get +4 vs Disease, Paralyzation, Sleep, Age, Fairy Magic

Halflings get +4 vs Death, Madness, Missiles, Drain, Blade Traps

Fighters get +4 vs Fear, Petrification, Breath, Gaze, Blindness, Swallow

Priests get +4 vs Control, Curses, Confusion, Polymorph, Fire

Rogues get +4 vs Falls, Blasts, Illusions, Capture Traps

Mages get +4 vs Spells, Fire, Rods, Staves, Wands, Scrying

Monsters get +1 to Save vs Anything per 2 Hit Dice up to a max of +10

Using Skills

All Characters may attempt Skills and Loes (Disguise, Find Trap, etc.) Unless you actually own that Skill as a SA you get -5 to the Roll. The DM can add more penalties or bonuses based on the difficulty of the action. An incredibly difficult action may get a further -5 penalty.

Skills Vs Saving Throws

Occasionally it may seem unclear whether a Skill or a Saving Throw is in order. In general, Skills involve premeditated actions, while Saving Throws are purely reactionary. For example: Jumping across an uncovered pit would be a Skill (Jump Skill) whereas falling down a covered pit would be a Saving Throw (Save vs Fall). Some Traps may require Multiple Saves, for Example: A Poison Dart Trap would first be a Save vs Blades. If that failed the Character would then need to Save vs Poison. More Examples: Climbing out of the Pit may require a Climbing Skill Check. Pulling oneself up after catching the edge of a pit might require either a Mighty Deeds or Climbing Skill Check. Instead of killing a Character off, the DM can put them in a difficult situation requiring additional Skill Checks.

Dm Preparation

Don't Overprep. Just go for a simple Dungeon Crawl. All you need is a Tavern/Inn, Smithy, Church, Trader, and a Dungeon. The Dungeon should have 10 Levels. Each Level has 20 +1D20 Rooms.

At the start of your campaign just flesh out the first level. The Big Bad. Decide who the Boss is residing on the Tenth Level. Is it a Sorcerer, Evil High Priest, Dragon, Demon. Just pick one.

The Tavern is a source of Rumors, Fresh Heroes, Retainers, and Side Quests. All manner of goods can be bought or sold at the Shops. At the Church Characters can be healed, cured, and Resurrected for a Price.

There is a 25% any resurrection will end in failure and the Character can never be brought back again (His Soul has been claimed by a higher Power).

Player Preparation

As seen in the Player Guide Above, it should only take a few minutes To make up a Character. For the game to have real impact and Drama, Characters will die. Traps and Monsters are Deadly. They can kill without Warning in Seconds. Stupidity is rarely forgiven. Check for Traps, Scout Ahead, Be Prepared, Use Sound Tactics, Have Retainers, Don't Charge Ahead, Retreat if need be, Have a wide selection of Spells, Listen for Rumors, Maps, and Clues, Avoid unnecessary Combats. Don't run out of Torches, Bring Rope, String, and 10 Foot Poles. Stock up on Holy Water, Potions, and Scrolls. Use Caltrops to deter Pursuit. Listen at Doors. Prepare Ambushes. Set Watches. Play like your Life depends upon it because it does. Losing a Character means starting over with a lower level one. You are Not out of the game but you may hurt the long term Progress of the Quest. Of course a truly Heroic Death is one that you can be rightfully be Proud of.

Experience And Leveling Up

Realistically, How many game sessions do you think you will get out of your Group? Two? Five? Twenty? As DM you should aim for players to reach Ninth or Tenth Level by that time so they can fight the Final Foe. Ideally You might aim for and get one Dungeon Level finished per session and have The players increase by one level at the end of each session. If you think the Players are only good for 2 Sessions you might want to make it just a 4 Level Dungeon. If they are good for 20+, then you might want to do 2 Campaigns.

Character Death

The Player will need a replacement Character right away. Have the player take over a NPC Traveling with the party. This could be a Hired Mercenary or a Freed Captive. Or have the player roll up a new Character real quick and make him one level lower than the rest of the Party (or the same level if he died a Heroic Death). He is found wandering the Dungeon alone, having lost the rest of his companions, or has just escaped Captivity by a Dungeon Denizen. In case of a Total Party Kill start over in the Tavern with New Characters. Many Strive for greatness but only a Lucky few Succeed. Separation: Sometimes a Character is not killed but rather is Separated from the Party. Do not Short-Change that player his Play time. Reunite them quickly or add enough Characters so that the players are Running 2 complete parties in Shifts.

Inspiration

Get in touch with your inner 14 year old. When designing things and just before play the DM should spend some time Looking at RPG art from the 1970's. Look at your old D&D books and Modules. Print Some. Make Mini-Posters for your Gaming Area.

Spend a few minutes reading random passages from Books off your shelf of Fantasy Novels: Tolkien, Conan, Elric, Amber, Xanth, Grendel, Redwall, etc. Music: Have some Tavern music and some Dungeon type Music for actual play. While Designing use the Sound-track from the Conan the Barbarian Movie.

You are a fan of the genre. Once you get in the Mood your enthusiasm will Be on high and that will in turn increase the Enthusiasm of your Players.

Combat Advice

The Player who says "I just want to kill some stuff". Is Combat getting you down? Too many Steps? Is it Overlong? Is there too much Bookkeeping? Too many Calculations? Remember, there is a lot more to D&D than just Combat. There is Loot and Magic Items and Exploring and Mapping.

There are NPC's to talk to, befriend, recruit, help, and steal from. There are Rumors to be discerned and Quests to be Received. There are Damsels in Distress and Captives to be Rescued.

There are Portals to be Closed and Evil Rituals to be Stopped. There is Logistics: Rations, Torches, Arrows, Spells, Wounds, Gold, and Equipment to be carried and kept track of. There are Tricks and Traps, and Riddles and Puzzles to be solved.

The easiest way to handle the Combat problem is to think about Combat as if it were a Puzzle or a Riddle. Often these have an easy Solution. If the Solution presents itself the Combat is ended immediately. Go ahead, put the Giant to Sleep. Charm that Black Knight. Turn that Dragon Into a Bunny Rabbit. Holy Word that Vampire. Immolate that Mummy. Petrify that Hydra. Just because it's big and bad doesn't mean you have To fight it for 20 Turns. The resourceful Heroes can kill, incapacitate, or Control a Foe on turn one. And the Dungeon will return the favor. A Poison Trap will kill your point man and a Water trap will kill the whole Party, unless you have a Poison Antidote Potion and a Water Breathing Spell.

That Medusa will turn you all to stone turn after turn unless you have a Stone to Flesh Spell. Take that Ice Elemental out with your Flaming Sword. Burn the Troll to Cinders. Shoot the Cyclops in the eye with an arrow. Combat is all about having the Right Tools. If you have the right Spell or Weapon or Tactic or Relic you win and you win quickly. Now you may worry That the Players are killing Monsters too quickly. The Solution. . . Add more Monsters, Bigger ones, Larger, Mixed Groups. What could be more Heroic Than that? Combat is just a mini-game within a larger Meta Game of Resource Management involving: Survival, Leveling Up, Gaining Powers and Allies, and Defeating The Final Foe (by learning his one Weakness. . . The Demon Sword).

The Impalements, Eviscerations, Beheadings, Melting Faces, Brain Splattering, and Streams of Blood. However, Don't do Voices unless you are extremely confident and 200% committed.

Spell Selection

Some Characters may complain about the limited spell selection. Simply put, these are the spells that are readily available to them in their day and age. Others exist, but they are rare. they can be found in far away places or in the Spell Books found entombed in ancient Ruins. New Spells can also be invented, which can take years. Finding a new Spell can bring great Fame to the Mage who does so. Many Spell like effects are only available in the form of Potions, Relics, and Creature Abilities or through lengthy Rituals.

Make Every Move Count

Sure they made the saving throw, but How? Did they shake it off? Was it a Narrow escape? Did they find Cover? Duck or Dodge? Slide or Sidestep? Jump or Swing? Was it Force of Will? Or Superhuman Endurance? Sure the Attack didn't Hit, but maybe you drove them Back or Distracted them while the Mage readied a Spell. You Failed Skill Check: What are the Repercussions? Even if A Character does something minor the DM can describe the results at a Level of Detail the Players will find interesting.

Treasure

Fighting Monsters with no Treasure is often a waste of time. Dragons have their Hoards. Men and Humanoids are greedy and will carry as much as possible. Monsters, Slimes and Beasts will have random Things scattered in their lair among the bones of their victims. Birds Like Shiny Things. Animated Monsters may be composed of precious Stones and metals. The pelts of Beasts can be sold. The Blood, Bones, and Organs of many Monsters can be sold to Magic Shops for their value as Spell Components. Dragon Meat is a Delicacy in many places. The Undead often still carry their Relics or may have their old possessions nearby. Tombs haunted by spirits may be filled with Treasure. Demons and Devils frequently adorn themselves with Jewelry and arm themselves with Magic Weapons. Defeated Djinn can be used to wish for Wealth.

Friendly NPC's may give players gold or Relics to help them on their Quest. Players want Loot. Give it to them if they earn it. They especially want Magic Items. The party should be able to acquire 1D4 or more relics per Session. If you need some ideas for a Relic, roll on the Relic Table.

Durable Goods

Introduction

Economics Game. Players buy raw materials, manufacture products, and then sell them.

Raw Materials Deck

The decks consist of 80 cards or chits The deck contains 20 each of the following raw materials: Wood Plastic Metal Fabric

Manufactured Goods Deck

Also called Durable Goods. Use chits or cards to represent the following manufactured goods: -Houses -Furniture -Cars -Appliances -Clothing

Objective

Be the first player to accumulate $500.

Turn Sequence

1. Raw Materials Phase
2. Production Phase
3. Selling Phase

Durable Good	Metal	Wood	Plastic	Fabric
House	1	2	0	0
Furniture	0	2	0	1
Car	2	0	1	0

A player may manufacture as many durable goods as he has material available. A player may make only one type of durable good per turn. Use chits or cards to represent durable goods.

Selling Phase

The Maximum Market value of the first unit of a good sold is $50 If only one player is selling he automatically gets the maximum value If more than one player is selling they must bid to sell at a lower price.

Setup

Each player starts with $50 and no raw materials or products.

Raw Materials Phase

Scarce raw materials become available. Draw 12 Raw material cards and place them in 4 piles according to the four types of materials. Players make a separate bid for each pile.

Bids are written down in secret on a scrap piece of paper. A player cannot bid more money than he owns. If he does, none of his bids count. All bids are revealed simultaneously.

The player who bid the most for a pile gets to keep the pile, and must pay his bid price. Players who lost a bid do not have to pay. Players may trade or purchase raw materials or goods from each other at any time

Production Phase

One unit of a durable good may be manufactured using the indicated amount of raw materials:

Durable Good	Metal	Wood	Plastic	Fabric
Appliances	1	0	2	0
Clothing	0	0	1	2

The player that quotes the lowest price makes the sale. The Maximum Market value of the second unit of a good sold is $40 The Maximum Market value of the third unit of a good sold is $30 The Maximum Market value of the fourth and greater unit of a good sold is $20 Use paper and pencil to record profits.

At the end of the game, the player with the most Victory Tokens wins. The game ends at the end of the turn when one of the following happens:

1. All 18 Veins have been Mined
2. All 18 Lairs have been Cleared
3. All 24 Rooms have been Built
4. All 18 Earth Tiles have been Claimed
5. Any one player goes over 100 VT

The Board

Use a large Chess Board.

Player Clan Markers

Each player has a set of Clan Markers of a Unique Color.

Victory Tokens

Players share a common set of Victory Tokens (VT). These should have denominations of 1, 5, and 10. VT may also be referred to as Victory Points (VP).

1. Dwarf Lord
2. Clan Elder

4. Master Engineer
5. Dwarf General
6. Master Craftsman

The player with the Dwarf Lord always goes first in each phase and play proceeds in Leader Order.

The Clan Elder Leader Card

The player who picks the Clan Elder Leader card in Leader Phase immediately places one of his Clan Markers onto the Hold.

Each Tile is able to fit on one square on the Map board.

4. Trade Phase
5. Event Phase
6. Dig Phase

You must also pay 1 Gold for each Action Tile you play plus 2 extra Gold to the Vault if the target space was not adjacent to the Hold or a space you control (that is, next to an opponent controlled space only) Place one of your Clan Markers onto the Vein to show that it is now a functioning Mine under your control. When a Vein is Dug, it is also referred to as building a Mine.

Immediately gain VT equal to the value of the Earth or Vein Tile. You may dig a max of 1 Tile per turn. Event and Room Tiles may be used as Action Tiles of Dig = 1.

Faq

Q> Suggest that for ease of play that the Work Tiles be card-sized rather than square-tile-sized, and have additional "Room Tiles" that aren't otherwise used unless and until the Build Phase; you discard the "Room Card" and place the "Room Tile" on the board. A> Sounds perfectly OK to me.

Q 1) The rules for "Dig Phase" and "Fight Phase" first say that you can only dig/fight a Tile adjacent to the Hold or a space you already control. But then later in each paragraph it says it costs an extra 2 Gold to dig/fight a Tile that's not adjacent. A> You pay the gold only if the target tile is adjacent to a space controlled by another player but not you. The target space has to be adjacent to the expanding Dwarf Stronghold.

Q> 2) The effects of Room tiles are continuous? They operate each turn? A> All are continuous except the Record Hall.

Q> 3) Each player does each Phase before everybody goes to the next Phase in a Turn? A> Yes. In order as determined by the Dwarf Lord Leader.

Q> 4) Scoring Rules refer to "The player with the most Trophies. . ." What are Trophies? A> When you clear a Lair, you remove the Lair Tile from the board and keep it as a Trophy.

FAQ cont. > There seems to be some inconsistent usage of the term "Work Tiles" > (the deck of tiles that players draw from) and "Action Tiles" (a > specific type of Work Tile):

—No doubt, I had to differentiate Action tiles from Room Tiles, both of which are in the Work Tile set.

> Errata: Clan Chieftain Card: > Is he the "Clan Chieftain" or the "Clan Leader"? This description

—I originally called him the Clan Leader, but then they were all "Leaders" so I changed it to Chieftain.

> Clarification: does this mean that each player completes ALL of the > actions he desires for a given phase, then the next player does > likewise, or does each player complete ONE action for a given phase, then the next player, and so on, making SEVERAL trips around the table before moving to the next phase? I suspect the former, but it is not completely clear....

—ALL actions. I think this makes the Dwarf Lord more important.

> Question on Gameplay #1: > The Event Phase - the 2nd VT bought in the turn costs 3 gold: is this the 2nd bought by ANY player, or EACH player? The former makes going first more valuable, but can make the 6-8 player game play MUCH > differently than a 2-3 player game since the VT would get expensive > more quickly.

—ANY player. Again I think this makes the Dwarf Lord more important (and I think he should be important).

> Question on Gameplay #2: > The Arcane Laws Tile switches placement of any 6 Clan Markers on Board. Is this swapping three pairs of tokens (like the Judge Leader card allows, but done three times), or can they be scrambled (pick up up to six tokens, and place them back on the same Tiles, but not > necessarily with the same ownership)?

—Scramble!!!

Dynasties & Kingdoms

Introduction

Board Game/ Strategic War Game for 2-6+ players. Five Dynasties and Ten Kingdoms Period of Chinese History circa 907-960 CE.

Victory

The first player to have 100+ Victory Tokens wins.

The Map

The map has 23 Provinces.

Control Of Provinces

To own (control, Possess) a Province, you must have at least 1 Army Token in it. A province can contain a maximum of 10 Army or Rebel Tokens.

Barbarian Provinces

The following Provinces are considered to be Barbarian Provinces. Annam, Da Chang He, Tufan, Uighurs, or Khitans Barbarian Provinces can never build Cities (Treat as a gain 1 Army Result on the Province Table)

Army Tokens

Each player has a set of Army Tokens of a unique color. Tokens must fit within the Province spaces on the map.

Rebel Tokens

Players share a common set of Rebel tokens. These represent Armies not controlled by any of the players.

City Tokens

Players share a common set of City tokens. A Province can have a maximum of 1 City Token in it.

City Table

1D6	Result:
1	Gain 1 VT
2	Gain 2 VT
3	Gain 3 VT

Province Phase

For each of your Provinces roll once on the Province Table. Roll two differently colored six sided dice. Have one color always be the first number and the other the second.

Victory Tokens

Players share a common set of Victory Tokens (VT).

Dice

The game uses six sided dice.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. Use a standard 52 card deck.

Setup

Players roll high on 1D6 to determine turn order. Each player starts with 4 Army Tokens and 1 City Token. Each player, in turn, picks 1 Province to be their Homeland.

Players cannot pick Barbarian Provinces to be Homelands. Players cannot have Homelands in adjacent Provinces. Players place their Armies and City in their starting Homeland Province.

Each Barbarian Province starts the game with 3 Rebel Armies.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. City Phase
2. Province Phase
3. Expansion Phase
4. Scoring Phase

City Phase

For each of your Cities roll once on the City Table. Armies gained start in the same province as the city.

1D6	Result:
4	Gain 1 Army
5	Gain 2 Armies
6	Gain 3 Armies

Armies and Rebels gained start in that province. A Death result means all armies in that province are destroyed A Blocked result means no armies may move into or out of that province until the start of your next turn. A Build result means that Province gets a City.

If it already has a city, roll once on the City Table.

A Destruction result means that Province loses a city if it has one. If the result is Rebels, they must be fought immediately as in Expansion Phase. If the Rebels win, the Rebel Tokens remain in the Province.

Expansion Phase

You may move each of your armies one space into an adjacent Province. You may not move the last remaining army in a province out. If a Province is empty, you immediately gain control of it by moving an Army into it.

If the province contains enemy Armies or Rebels, there will be a battle. If they are rebels, pick any opposing player to control them for the battle. The battle is resolved by playing a single hand of Poker with a regular deck of cards.

Each player is dealt 1+X cards.

X the number of Armies (or Rebels) the player has. The first card is face up, the others are kept hidden in that players hand. A player can draw a maximum of 7 cards. Players may then discard none, some, or all of their hand cards and draw replacements.

The player with the winning hand wins the Battle. The winner keeps all of his Armies. The loser discards all of his Armies.

If the loser was the defender, and the Province contained a city, the city is destroyed on a roll of 1-3 on 1D6.

Scoring Phase

Gain 1 Victory Token for each Province you control. If any province contains 10 or more armies discard the excess.

READY AIM FIRE - Custom Variant
By "Ian Milnes" and "Alexander Herklotz"

Introduction

Two player Card game depicting Napoleonic era warfare.

The Decks

There are 3 decks: The Battalion decks cards are chosen from an army list. Note that both opponents choose the same timeframe. Minimum number of cards is 25, maximum 50.

Note that there is a budget for every card. The difference of budgets of the opposing decks may not exceed 10% (The player with the higher budget has to drop some cards to be in range of the allowed budget).

Stack:	Start Max	Card Limit
Centre	3	6

Place Battalion cards up to the starting maximum card limit face down in each stack. Line Infantry and Artillery may be placed in Centre stacks. Cavalry, Light Infantry and Horse Artillery may be placed in any stacks.

Heavy cavalry may not be placed in any stack at the start of the game. Shuffle the appropriate Commander Deck, deal yourself 6 cards, and add them to your Reserve deck. Shuffle your Reserve Deck, and deal yourself a hand of 5 cards.

Once both players have completed above, turn cards in your stacks face up. They will remain face up for the first turn only. After the first turn, all cards are played face down, representing the "Fog of War".

Victory Conditions

The first player to be routed from 3 of his 5 forward positions loses.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 6 phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Terrain Phase
3. Reinforce Phase
4. Attack Phase
5. Morale Phase
6. Discard and Redraw Phase

Multinational armies are allowed, as long as a nation is not in both decks.

Units of different nationalities may not stack together. Generals of other nations may command allied units. The Tactics deck.

The Commander Decks have also an army list. Choose up to 6 commanders. Note that they also have a budget, which is added to the overall budget of the battalion decks. The Tactics deck has 1 of each card in the list, and 2 of each Terrain card

Setup

Each player creates his Battalion deck. Each player forms a line of 5 stacks of cards, starting maximum as noted. The opposing lines face each other.

These stacks are called:

Right Centre	3	6
Right Flank	2	5

Draw Phase

Draw 2 cards from your Reserve Deck. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. The maximum hand size is 7. Cards in your hand over the maximum do not have to be discarded until the Discard/Redraw Phase.

Terrain Phase

You may play a Terrain card onto an appropriate stack. Terrain cards remain in effect for the entire game

Reinforce Phase

You may move any or all battalions from your hand to any of your stacks. All reinforcements from your hand go to the bottom of the stack they reinforce. Prior to the above, you may reorganise one stack, and move one card from a stack to an adjacent stack.

You may move any card in a stack (You are not limited to the top one)

Attack Phase

You may make up to as many attacks per turn, as the command rating of your army commander. You may chose to fire attack or melee attack. The respective values are used. Your battalions are the attackers.

Your opponent's battalions are the defenders.

To attack, flip the top card of one of your stacks face up. Your opponent flips the card in his line opposite to it over. Both players roll two ten-sided dice. These are called the Attack rolls.

Add combat modifier (fire or melee) to die roll and compare the difference between the 2 rolls. Apply the result as follows: (Attacker to Defender)

Difference:	Result:
+11 or greater	Defender eliminated, morale check for other battalions in stack
+6	Defender Routs
+3	Defender Shaken
0	Both Battalion cards take immediate morale check.
Battalion Shaken if test failed
-3	Attacker Shaken
-6	Attacker Routs
-11 or worse	Attacker eliminated, morale check for other battalions in stack

In fire attacks, attacker takes no negative effects, if defenders fire value = 0.

Notes

Card eliminated - remove card from play
Card Routs - place card in discard pile
Card Shaken - turn card through 900
Card now fights with -3 modifier.

Support

One battalion in the same stack as the attacker/defender can provide support to the battling card. Add +3 to the respective die roll. If the supported card is eliminated, the supporter routs. If the supported card is routed, the supporter is shaken. A Shaken card cannot offer support and fights with -3.

Infantry Vs Cavalry

Infantry cannot melee-attack cavalry. Both cards are placed at the bottom of their stacks, and the attack counts against the number of attacks that turn. When infantry fire-attacks cavalry, the cavalry can avoid the attack by rolling equal or less than their training value. If they pass, they ride away (move to an adjacent stack). If they fail, they are blown. Alternatively Cavalry can try to melee-attack the infantry by rolling equal or less than their moral value. If they pass, its a melee with the cavalry as attacker.

If they fail, they are shaken and fire-fight with the negative modifier.

Forming Square

When cavalry attack infantry, before the combat is resolved, the infantry must attempt to form square. This is accomplished by the infantry rolling equal or less than their training value with 2D6 (e.g. for a French line infantry card to form square, it must roll a 7 or less.). If the infantry form square, they fight the combat at +6. If they fail to form square, the cavalry fight the combat at +6. The cavalry have a chance to abort the attack if the infantry form square by rolling less than their training value with 2D6 (e.g.

for a French Hussar Regiment to abort an attack on a square, it must roll a 7 or less).

If this roll is achieved, they can "ride around" the square and not attack it. This counts against the number of attacks that can be made that turn. If the cavalry fail this roll, they must attack the square.

Cavalry

Cavalry are considered Blown following an attack, or after defense against opposing Cavalry. Place a Blown marker on the card. The Blown status remains until removed by a successful Training Check. The first opportunity for a Training Check to remove Blown status is the Morale Phase in your next turn, i.e. not your current turn. Blown cavalry may not move, attack or support, when attacked they fight with -5.

Artillery

When Artillery attacks, the opposing fire value =0. Artillery cannot be eliminated, routed, or shaken when Fire-ATTACKING Infantry and Cavalry, ie, ignore all -ve combat results. Arty can not melee-attack.

Arty can not attack, when just moved.

Horse Artillery

As artillery EXCEPT they can attack the turn they moved.

Notes

Destroyed battalions are removed from play. Surviving battalions are placed face down on the bottom of their stack. Tactics cards that modify the Attack roll are played before the roll is made.

Tactics cards are discarded immediately when played (to the discard pile).

Flank Attacks

If you destroy all the cards in one of your opponents stacks, the battalions in your stack facing the empty stack get to flank attack the enemy stacks adjacent to the empty stack. Battalions making Flank attacks are +4 to their Attack roll, but may not attack the enemy reserve stack. Cavalry regiments making Flank attacks are +7 to their Attack roll (melee-attacks only) and may attack any enemy stack.

Artillery cards do not gain the bonus, although they may Flank Attack.

(Simultaneous) Every time you destroy an opposing battalion all other units in the stack must take a morale check by rolling 1D10. To pass a moral check, the player must roll the units moral value or less. Any card that routs is placed in the Discard Pile. Any card that routs as a consequence of a failed moral check results in a further +1 to the moral check of any remaining cards in the stack who have yet to test. This modifier is cumulative.

Morale checks are done in stack order, ie top card first, then next down, etc, etc. If a Guard unit (GI, GLI, GC or GLC) is eliminated, any adjacent stack (in addition to the normal moral check for the elimination of a unit), must take a morale check. If the Guard are routed, the stack from which they routed must take a morale check. Shaken cards can be "revived" by a successful morale check (turn them back through 900). All shaken cards can test in this phase.

If a Shaken card is to be "revived" in the presence of a Commander card, the commander adds his command rating to the moral value of the unit. A General can add this rating only once per turn.

Discard And Redraw Phase

One card in the players hand can be discarded. The Players hand is then either made back up to 7 cards by drawing from the deck, or reduced to 7 by discarding cards.

Divisional Generals

Each general has a command rating for moral tests. The general may add this bonus only once per turn. If the general is the only card in a stack, he is eliminated automatically if attacked.

Army Commander

The Army Commander is placed behind the front stacks. His rating determines the number of attacks per turn. The Army Commander can take over a stack if a Divisional General is killed. He is then subject to all the rules pertaining to Divisional Generals.

The Army Commander moves onto a stack in the reinforcement phase. This move does not count against the number of reinforcements the player may make. If the Army Commander is killed, the entire army takes a morale check against their moral -1. Any cards in the front line that fail, are eliminated (they quit the battlefield) rather than go to the reserve stack.

Any further morale checks for the remainder of the battle are checked against the card morale -1.

The Deck

Players share a Common Deck Each card has multiple uses:

- 1. Primary Action

2. X Value
3. Expedition Option
4. Muster Option

Terminology

Unit Colonist, Soldier, or City (Not Exploration markers).

Occupation = Having a Unit in a Region. Known Region = Any Region you occupy or have an Exploration Marker in Control = Being the only player occupying the said region.

Exploration Markers

If you have an Exploration Marker (EM) in a Region and then you later move a unit into that region you may remove the EM. If your last Unit in a Region is removed place an EM there to show you still know of it.

Losing Units

If you are forced to lose Units and you have none instead lose 2 VP for each such unit.

Set Up

Each player picks a nationality and gets their set of pieces. Shuffle the deck. Each player starts with a hand of 3 cards.

All players start with an Exploration marker in the Caribbean.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn is divided into 4 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Score Phase
3. Action Phase
4. End Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 3 cards from the top of the deck. If the deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Score Phase

Gain 1 VP for each territory you control Gain 1 VP for each city you have on the Map. Gain 2 Colonists or 1 Soldier piece in your Home Country.

Action Phase

You may conduct as many actions as you have cards to play. Most actions require the playing (discarding) of a pair of Cards: One card for the desired action and a second card for its X value. Some Actions do not require an X value and so don't use up a second card.

You get 1 Optional Free Action on your turn during this phase. A Free Action does not use up a card. There are 3 possible types of Free Actions to pick from:

1. Free Transport
2. Free Build
3. Free Export

These function as described below in the Primary Actions Explanations List.

End Phase

Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

Trade

Players may at any time trade cards with each other from their hands.

Explanations List Of All Primary Actions On Cards

1. Expedition (Exploration) Option = Place one of your Exploration Markers in a Region that currently does not contain one. If you are the first player to explore a Region you may play an X value card to gain X VP.
2. Transport = Move X Colonists or Soldiers from your Homeland to a Known Region OR from one region you occupy to another that is known to you.
3. Build = Convert 10 Colonists in a Region into a City.
4. Export = Gain X VP. You must designate a region you are exporting from that you occupy. You may only export once per turn from that region. X is -1 for every other player occupying the region. Some regions (see Map or Table) have a natural +1 or -1 modifier to Exports.
5. Immigrants = Gain X+2 Colonists in your Homeland.
6. Regulars = Gain X Soldiers in your Homeland.
7. Militia = Convert X of your Colonists in one region into Soldiers
8. Privateers = Play on opponents turn when he is doing an Export (Extra or Free): Steal the VP he would have gained. You must play an X of equal or greater value.
9. Hardships = Target opponents Region loses half of its Colonists and soldiers rounding up.
10. Raid = Remove 1 enemy Soldier or 2 Colonists from a region you occupy or a region adjacent to one you occupy with Soldiers.
11. War = Attack the Enemy in a Region you occupy or one that is adjacent. Gather up all soldier pieces of his and yours in the region(s) in a cup and draw one out at random: The player drawn wins the War! All opposing soldiers in the cup are lost. If the Attacker wins, all opposing Colonists in the target space are removed and any opposing cities there are converted to the winners color. If the attack was into an adjacent region and the attacker won he may redistribute his soldiers between the 2 regions. The defender always gets 1 extra Bonus Soldier in the Cup and 1 more Bonus Soldier for each City he has in the attacked Region. Bonus soldiers "disappear" at the end of the resolution of the war action if the defender wins.

12. Black Slaves = Gain X Colonists in a Region of your choice. Lose X VP. Gain a Slaver Token if you do not already have one.
13. Indian Allies = Gain 1 Soldier in a Region you occupy that has an Indian Token.
14. Indian Raids = Opponent loses 1 Colonist in region he occupies with an Indian Token.
15. Conquest = Remove an Indian Token from a region you occupy. Lose X Soldiers from the region. Gain 2X VP. X = to the Resistance value of the Indian Token. Gain a Conquest Token if you do not already have one.
16. Indian Trade = Gain 2 VP if you occupy a region with an Indian Token.
17. Indian Revolt = Opponent loses 1 Colonist in a region without an Indian Token.
18. Missionaries = Gain 1 Colonist in any Region you occupy.
19. Discovery = Gain X+1 VP.
20. Slave Rebellion = Target Player with Slaver Token loses 1 Colonist in any Region he occupies.
21. Indian War = Opponent loses 1 Soldier in region he occupies with an Indian Token.
22. Plantation Exports = Player with Slaver Token gains X VP.
23. Encomienda Exports = Player with Conquest Token gains X VP.
24. Naval Escort = Play to Negate a Privateer or Sea Hazard Card.
25. Treaty = Negate a War or Raid
26. Sea Hazard = Play on opponents turn to negate a Transport or Export or Expedition or Discovery Action (This is nasty: all cards used in the targeted action are lost, as well as all units being transported)
27. Salvage = Gain 1 VP. Shuffle the deck and draw 1 card. (Gain 2VP if you occupy Florida)

Early Kings Of England

Introduction

Wargame for 2+ players. England circa 800 AD - 1000 AD. (After the Romans & Before the Normans)

Victory

Conquer the most Territories by turn 10.

The Map

Draw an Outline of Britain. Divide it into about 20 Territories.

Kingdoms

Each player picks one Tribe:

Tribe:	King:	Start:
Anglo-Saxons	Alfred the Great	South & Central
Vikings	Cnut the Great	East
Welsh	Rhodri Mawr the Great	West
Scots	Cinead MacAlpine	Northeast
Picts	Drust IX	Northwest

Tokens

Each player has a set of Tokens of a unique color to represent his armies.

The Deck

There are 5 types of cards in the deck: -Warrior -Weapon -Armor -Fort -Siege Each card has a Force value.

Setup

The Vikings & Picts place 3 Tokens in one Territory. The other groups place 4 Tokens in one Territory.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 3 Phases: Recruit Phase Move Phase Battle Phase

Stacks

Tokens may Stack. A Stack is referred to as an army.

Recruit Phase

Place a Token in each Territory you occupy (control) with your armies. You cannot have more Tokens than 4 times the number of Territories you control. Excess Tokens are disbanded.

Move Phase

Each of your Tokens may move once to an adjacent territory.

Battle Phase

A Battle occurs in every Territory occupied by Tokens from 2 different players. Each Battle is resolved in turn. Each player draws 2 cards for each Token he has in the battle.

A player may then discard half his cards & draw replacements. Players reveal their hands. Only the defender can play Fort cards.

Only the attacker can play Siege cards. Weapon cards cannot be played in excess of Warrior cards. Armor cards cannot be played in excess of Warrior cards.

Cards that cannot be played are discarded. Each player adds up the total Force of his remaining cards. The Higher Total wins.

Vikings (norsemen)

Long Ships: The Vikings used Long ships to raid far off locations. In Move phase, you may move Tokens in Coastal Territories to any Other coastal territory. Berserkers: In a Battle, you may discard (max) one of your Tokens for +3 Force.

Scots

Warrior & Weapon cards played by the Clansmen get +1 Force.

Maneuver Phase

Play (discard) a Move card to move one of your Ships. The move card has a number. This is the number of spaces the Ship moves.

Moves can be diagonal or orthogonal. "Knight" type Move cards produce an attack with a range like a knight in chess. Instead of moving just one Ship in any direction, you have the option of moving one or more Ships forward the indicated number of spaces using a single move card.

You cannot move through other units except for Tactical Warps & Subspace Subs.

Fire Phase

Play (discard) an Attack card to have a Ship attack. The attack card has a number. This is the range of the attack.

Attacks can be diagonal or orthogonal. "Knight" type attack cards produce an attack with a range like a knight in chess. You cannot attack through other ships except for fighter & SMITE card attacks.

Every attack does 1 point of damage. Wave Motion Guns, Desslok cannons, and Magna Flame Cannons do 2 points of damage. Use Chits or coins to record damage.

A ship reduced to 0 Hits is destroyed and removed from the board. Your opponent may play (discard) Defense cards to negate your attack.

Economic Warfare

Introduction

Card and Board game for 2-4+ players. Representation of Economic competition between Modern Nations. Destabilize your opponent's economies while protecting your own.

Game End

The Game ends when any player has either zero or 20+ Inflation Tokens. Zero represents a Great Depression. 20+ represents Severe Hyperinflation.

The game also ends when you go completely through the deck once.

Winning

When the game ends, the player closest to having exactly 10 Tokens is the winner.

Inflation Tokens

Players share a common set of Inflation Tokens. Each player starts with 10 Tokens. The rest are kept aside in the Bank.

National Advantages

Each player at the beginning of the game picks 1 nation as their identity:

Nation:	Advantage:
USA:	Global Powerhouse: When rolling the dice at the beginning of your turn, you may Reroll one of your dice rolls.
China:	Command Economy: When they land on a Policy card they may play it twice.
Russia:	Mafia State: When they land on an opponent's Pawn they may take or give 2 Tokens instead of just 1.
Eurozone:	Austerity Experts: When they land on an Event card, they may discard 1 Token.
Japan:	Innovative Industrialists: When they land on an Action card they may gain 1 Token.
India:	Rising Star: If they land on a Policy card, they may after applying it, go again.

Pawns

Each player has a pawn of a unique color to indicate their location on the Board.

The Board

The Board is a circular track divided up into 12 spaces. Each space must be big enough to hold 1 card and several pawns.

The Dice

Two six sided dice are needed to play.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck is divided up into Event, Policy, and Action cards. Event Cards (almost) affect a random player.

Policy Cards target yourself. Action Cards target other players. Cards almost always cause some player to lose or gain Inflation Tokens.

Setup

Players pick their Nations and Pawns. Each player starts with 10 Inflation Tokens. Shuffle the deck.

Place all the Pawns together in 1 Space. Place a random card face up in each of the other 11 spaces. Players roll high on the die to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Play proceeds clockwise. On your turn roll the die twice.

Market Forces: With one die result gain that many Tokens -3. If the Sum is negative, lose that many Tokens. With the other die result, move your pawn that many spaces in either direction along the track. World Event: If you land on an Event, it affects a random player.

(Roll 1D6 and count off starting with the player to your left) Policy Decision: If you land on a Policy, it affects you. Aggressive Action: If you land on an Action, it affects an opponent of your choice. Financial Warfare: If you land on an opponent's pawn you may either give Them 1 of your Tokens, or take 1 Token from them.

If a card has no possible target, nothing happens. Discard any Card you landed on. Place a new random card from the deck onto any empty space.

Check for end game conditions.

Ecros

Introduction

Chess Variant. Abstract. 2-Player. 20 x 20 Board. Unique pieces. 40 men to a side. Multiple victory conditions.

The Board

A 20 X 20 square grid is used.

Verbage

Men = Pieces = Units = Figure

Board = Map = Playing Field

Space = Square

Capture = Kill = Eliminate = Destroy

Null Jumpers = subset of men who move by jumping.

Slip Jumpers = subset of Men who move by jumping, like knights.

Sliders = subset of men who move variously like rooks, bishops, and queens.

Nexials = Pair of men who serve the same function as kings in chess.

Victory

There are 4 ways to win:

1. Capture both of your opponents Nexials.
2. Occupy all 4 corners.
3. Occupy all 4 center spaces.
4. Reduce opponent to 9 or less men.

Setup

Your men are placed on your back two rows. Nexials and sliders are placed in any desired configuration on your Backmost row. The Jumpers are then used to fill in the remaining spaces also In any desired configuration. White sets up first, then Black.

Turn Sequence

White gets first move. Players alternate moves, moving 1 man per turn.

Capturing

Capturing occurs just like in regular chess, when you move one of your men into A space occupied by an opponent's figure.

Reversal Rule

A piece may never reverse a move it made. For example: You move a piece forward 2 spaces. You may not when moving it again the next time (which could Be several turns later) move It back 2 spaces to the space it previously occupied.

Piece Descriptions

There are 2 sets of 40 pieces. One white, and one black. Most pieces are unique. Out of the 40 men you start with only 3 Have doubles (The 3 sliders). So there are 36 unique types of units.

Nexials

Each player has 2 Nexials. If both are captured, you lose. Nexside = This man moves 1 space orthogonally.

Nextant = This man moves 1 space diagonally.

Castling

Once per game, as a move, you may destroy any one of your pieces (on your side of the board) to move one of your Nexials to the space the destroyed unit had occupied.

Sliders

These do not jump. They slide across the board. Your own pieces are Obstacles, while enemy pieces can be captured.

Diagos Odd = There are 2 of this Unit. It moves diagonally like a Bishop in Chess. It must end its move after moving an odd number of spaces.

Diagos Even = There are 2 of this Unit. It moves diagonally like a Bishop in Chess. It must end its move after moving an even number of spaces.

Orthogos Odd = There are 2 of this Unit. It moves orthogonally like a Rook in Chess. It must end its move after moving an odd number of spaces.

Orthogos Even = There are 2 of this Unit. It moves orthogonally like a Rook in Chess. It must end its move after moving an even number of spaces.

Ultangent Odd = There is just 1 of this Unit. It moves like a Queen in Chess. It must end its move after moving an odd number of spaces.

Ultangent Even = There is just 1 of this Unit. It moves like a Queen in Chess. It must end its move after moving an even number of spaces.

Odd And Even Move Limits

Sliders are described as being odd or even. An Odd unit must end its turn (Capture or not) after moving an Odd number of spaces. It may never under any circumstances move an Even number of spaces. So for example it could move 1, 3, 5, 7, etc. spaces but never end its Move 2, 4, 6, etc. spaces away from where it started.

Null Jumpers

There is one copy of each of these pieces. These units jump over other pieces when moving. Note that these units can move orthogonally or diagonally.

Null One = Moves 1 space in any direction. (This unit is the exception in that It doesn't actually jump. Its like a King in regular chess).

Null Two = Jumps 2 spaces.

Null Three = Jumps 3 spaces.

Null Four = Jumps 4 spaces.

Null Five = Jumps 5 spaces.

Null Six = Jumps 6 spaces.

Null Seven = Jumps 7 spaces.

Null Eight = Jumps 8 spaces.

Slip Jumpers

These units jump over other pieces when moving. There is one copy of each of these pieces. Note that these units move like Knights in chess: They move orthogonally a Certain number of spaces (2-8) and then over (90 degrees) another number of Spaces (1-3).

Primero Two = Moves 2 spaces and then over 1 (exactly like a Knight in chess).

Primero Three = Moves 3 spaces and then over 1.

Primero Four = Moves 4 spaces and then over 1.

Primero Five = Moves 5 spaces and then over 1.

Primero Six = Moves 6 spaces and then over 1.

Primero Seven = Moves 7 spaces and then over 1.

Primero Eight = Moves 8 spaces and then over 1.

Segundo Three = Moves 3 spaces and then over 2.

Segundo Four = Moves 4 spaces and then over 2.

Segundo Five = Moves 5 spaces and then over 2.

Segundo Six = Moves 6 spaces and then over 2.

Segundo Seven = Moves 7 spaces and then over 2.

Segundo Eight = Moves 8 spaces and then over 2.

Tercio Four = Moves 4 spaces and then over 3.

Tercio Five = Moves 5 spaces and then over 3.

Tercio Six = Moves 6 spaces and then over 3.

Tercio Seven = Moves 7 spaces and then over 3.

Tercio Eight = Moves 8 spaces and then over 3.

Construction Of Pieces

I recommend counters with the names of the pieces written out.

Designers Notes

Introduction

Card game simulating 3000 years of rule by the Pharaohs of ancient Egypt.

Card List

#	Name	Point Value

7	The Gods	7
7	Ankhs	Wild

number of cards in the deck of that type.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns Draw Phase Control Phase Dynasty Phase End Phase

Draw Phase

All players draw enough cards to fill their hands to 7 cards.

Control Phase

Simultaneously, each player reveals one meld, if they have one. A meld is 2 or more cards of the same type. Ankh cards are wild.

Only one meld is revealed (of the players choice), even if the player has more melds. A player may decide not to reveal a meld, even if they have one or more melds. The meld with the most cards wins control of Egypt.

If two or more melds have the same number of cards, then the cards with the highest point value wins. If point values are tied, then no one wins. If no one reveals a meld or no one wins then the last player to control Egypt wins. If the game is just beginning and no one has controlled Egypt yet, then the turn ends. First example: John plays 2 Hieroglyph cards (value = 0) and Randy plays 2 God cards (value = 7). Randy wins.

Second example: John plays 3 Hieroglyph cards and Randy plays 2 God cards. John wins.

Dynasty Phase

The controller of Egypt draws one random card from any players hand. The current controller of Egypt may play one or more melds this phase. Each meld played earns that player tribute points equal to the point value of all cards played.

For example: The controller plays 4 chariot cards (value 4) and 3 pharaoh cards (value 5). He gets 16 (4 X 4) tribute points for the chariots and 15 (3 X 5) points for the pharaohs. There are 2 special melds that can be played in Dynasty phase: Pyramid Builders combo: 1 card each: Pharaoh, Slaves, Pyramid (12 points) Priests combo: 1 card each: Temple, Hieroglyph, God (10 points)

End Phase

All melds played this turn go to the discard. Players may discard up to 3 cards. Players must discard down to 5 cards.

End Of Game

The game ends after 10 turns. Each turn represents 300 years. If the deck runs out before the 10th turn, shuffle the cards and keep playing.

Victory

The player with the most accumulated tribute points at the end of the game is the winner.

Designing The Cards

There are 63 cards in the deck. Seven of each of nine types. All cards have the same backs. Each card must have on its front, its name and numerical value.

Each card can have unique illustrations and writings. For example: Research hieroglyphs and use a different one for each hieroglyph card. Some gods from Egyptian mythology:

- Ra the sun god
- Anubis, guardian of the dead
- Bast the cat goddess

- Horus the avenger
- Isis the goddess of fertility
- Osiris the god of nature
- Thoth the god of knowledge
- Ptah the creator of the universe
- Set the god of evil
- Some Pharaohs from the history book:
- King Menes (United upper and lower Egypt)

- Zoser (King of the third Egyptian dynasty)
- Cheops (King of the fourth Egyptian dynasty)
- Amosis (Liberated Egypt from the Hyksos)
- Amenhotep, Thutmose (& Hatshepsut), Ikhnaton
- Tutankhamen, Seti, Ramses, Ptolemy, Cleopatra

Eighty Years War

Introduction

Card game for 2 players. Simulation of the Dutch (Netherlands) Revolt 1568-1648.

Victory

The game ends after 15 turns. If the Dutch have 7 Provinces, and the Spanish have 10 Provinces, it is a Historical Tie. If the Dutch player has 8+ Provinces it is a Dutch Victory.

If the Spanish Player has 11+ Provinces it is a Spanish Victory.

Province Tokens

Use 17 Tokens to represent the 17 Provinces.

Stages

The game has 3 stages: Stage I (early) Stage II (Middle) Stage III (Late) Each stage has 5 Turns. Certain cards can only be played in specific Stages.

Deck & Cards

Players share a common deck. All cards have a numeric value which according to the card can be used for Political Melds, Military Melds, or Either. Some cards can be used by only the Dutch or Spanish, or Both.

Some cards can only be used in certain Stages. Some cards are described as Leaders. Some cards are described as Events.

When an Event card is played in a Meld and it is able to contribute its Value to the Meld, it is considered to have "gone off" and is removed from play.

Setup

The Dutch Player receives 7 Province Tokens (PT). The Spanish Player receives 10 PT. Remove the stage II and III cards from the deck.

At the beginning of stage II shuffle the stage II cards into the deck. At the beginning of stage III shuffle the stage III cards into the deck.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Logistics Phase
2. Strategy Phase
3. Action Phase
4. End Phase

Logistics Phase

The Dutch player fills his hand to 7 Cards. The Spanish player fills his hand to 8 Cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

If you draw a card that cannot be used because it is the wrong Stage, you May immediately discard it face up and draw a replacement.

Strategy Phase

Each player may discard up to 4 cards and draw replacements.

Action Phase

Each player must make 2 Melds. There is a Military Meld and a Political Meld. All the cards in your hand must be used in the Melds.

Each Meld must contain at least 1 card. The other player may not see the size of your Melds. Both players reveal their Melds simultaneously.

When revealing Melds, keep useable cards face up and Unusable cards face down. Players add up the total numeric value for each of their Melds. Some cards will be unusable (zero value) because they only Work for the other player.

A Meld can only have 1 Leader. Additional Leaders are Unusable. You may only use 1 Event card per turn. Extra Events become Unusable. If both players are within 2 points on a Meld, it is a tie and no one wins.

If one player is 3+ points higher than the other, he wins the Meld and Takes a Province Token away from his opponent. If one player is 15+ points higher than the other, he wins the Meld and Takes 2 Province Tokens away from his opponent.

End Phase

All Cards in play are discarded. Keep track of Stage and Turn.

1 Pawn may occupy 1 space on the board at a time.

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

Setup

Shuffle the deck. Each player picks a color and takes the corresponding Pawn and Counters. All players draw 2 cards from the deck.

Players roll high on the dice to see who goes first. All players place their pawns on the number 1 Revolution space on the board before the Columbia Country spaces.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Move Phase
3. Action Phase
4. Independence Phase
5. End Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 Card and place it in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Move Phase

Roll 1 die and move forward that many spaces OR discard a card from your hand and move forward a number of spaces equal to its Force Value. If you land on a Revolution Space you may do one of three actions:

1. Roll the Die and move again
2. Move to any other Revolution Space on the Board
3. Draw 1 Card and place it in your hand
4. Play a Counter onto any Country Space you have liberated

Action Phase

— If you land on a Country Space that has no card on it, you may play a Liberation card to that space. Tuck it partially under the Board directly next to the space. Place 1 of your Counters on the Space if you placed a card there. If you have a card under a space you are said to have Liberated it.

You may chose not to play a Liberation card if you don't want to or cannot. If a Country already has 2 cards of the same type, you cannot play a third. For example: Columbia can only have 2 Troop cards tucked under its spaces. A Max of 1 Simon Bolivar card may be used per Country.

— If you land on a Country Space that you have already Liberated (You have a card and one or more counters there already) you may do one of the following:

1. Place an additional counter on the Space
2. Exchange the tucked card with one from your hand
2. Draw 1 card and discard 1 card (It may be the same card)

— If you land on a Country space liberated by another player, you can either do nothing or play 1 or more Royalist cards with a combined Force value equal to or greater than the number of Counters your opponent has on the space. If you do so, discard all the counters on the space and the card tucked under it. Remove the Royalist cards from the game.

— If you land on a Country Space that is Independent skip over it and go to the next space and resume your move.

Independence Phase

If you played a Liberation card under a Country space this turn and all the other spaces for that country have already been liberated (by you or others) the Country is now said to have gained its Independence. Immediately score Victory Tokens (VT) for the country.

- You gain 2 Victory Tokens for playing the final card to make the country go Independent.
- The player with the highest combined total of Counters and Card Force values gets 5 VT.
- The player with the second highest total of Counters and Card Force values gets 3 VT.
- All other players with at least 1 card and counter in the Country get 1 VT each. If tied for first, tied players get 4 VT each. If tied for second, tied players get 2 VT each. Independent Countries are out of play. Pawns cannot land on them, they simply move past them.

End Phase

Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

Elder Things & Outer Gods

Introduction

Card game for 2-6 players. Each player takes control of one of the six major races.

Preface

During the 2 billion year time period before the evolution of man, many different alien species, races, and entities have made Earth their home. Of these, there are six groups who stand out as being the most numerous and most powerful. These groups of colonizers include:

- 1. The Elder Things
- 2. Cthulhu and his Spawn
- 3. The Flying Polyps
- 4. The Great Race of Yith
- 5. Mi-go, the Fungi from Yuggoth (Pluto)
- 6. The Serpent People

All of these races fought each other for dominance on the planet. Often they would summon beings from other places, times, and dimensions to help them fight their Wars.

Object

Destroy all of your opponent's cities.

Counters

Each player gets a set of counters of a unique color. A counter set includes 3 types of units:

Recruitment Table

1D8	Gain:
1-3	1 Population Counter
4-5	2 Population Counters
6	3 Population Counters

1D8	Gain:
7	1 Relic
8	1 City

Aggression Phase

The active player rolls once on the Conflict Table.

Conflict Table

1D6	Action:
1-2	Isolation (Peace): Your turn ends.
3-4	War of Survival: Attack a random player this turn.
5-6	War of Submission: Attack a player of your choice this turn.

Power Phase

The Active player (attacker) and the defender fill their hands to 5 cards.

- 1. Cities
- 2. Populations
- 3. Relics

Set-up

Each player starts with 5 cities and 20 Populations.

Notes

Mi-Go cities are mountain-top mining colonies. The cities of the Flying Polyps were composed of giant windowless black basalt towers.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 phases:

- 1. Recruit Phase
- 2. Aggression Phase
- 3. Power Phase
- 4. Sacrifice Phase
- 5. Allies Phase
- 6. War Phase
- 7. Destruction Phase

Recruit Phase

The active player rolls once on the Recruitment Table.

Sacrifice Phase

The attacker and defender commit as many population counters and relics as they want to the upcoming battle. A player cannot commit more populations and relics than he currently has. Committed populations are referred to as armies.

Allies Phase

Other players (Not the attacker or defender) may add one or more of their own Population counters to an army of their choice.

War Phase

For each population committed, roll once on that race's Battle Table. A Battle Table roll will result in either a Force value, or the option to use a spell. For each relic played one additional spell may be used.

To use a Spell, play a spell card to the table from your hand. Every Spell card has a force value. Each side of the conflict adds up their Total Force Value received from Battle Rolls and Spells.

Destruction Phase

The side with the highest Total Force Value wins the War. The loser has one city destroyed. All populations, spells, and relics used in the battle by all players are destroyed and discarded.

Elemental Chess

Introduction

Chess Variant. 2 player game. Earth, Air, Water, Fire Theme.

The Board

Use a standard 8 x 8 chessboard.

The Pieces

Each player has a set of 24 pieces. A set contains:
2 Air Rooks 2 Air Bishops 2 Air Knights 2 Water Rooks
2 Water Bishops 2 Water Knights 2 Fire Rooks 2 Fire
Bishops 2 Fire Knights 2 Earth Rooks 2 Earth Bishops
2 Earth Knights A piece will have to somehow denote which of the 4 elements it belongs to in addition to what type it is and to which player it belongs.

Setup

Players place a dividing screen along the middle of the board. A player does not see how his opponent sets up his pieces. Players set up their 24 pieces in any way on their back 3 rows.

When both players are finished setting up, the screen is removed. Determine turn order by house rules.

The Rules

Players take turns. Just as in normal chess, you must move or capture with one of your pieces every turn. Air pieces can only capture Water & Fire pieces.

Water pieces can only capture Fire & Earth pieces. Fire pieces can only capture Earth & Air pieces. Earth pieces can only capture Air & Water pieces.

Victory

You win if you capture all your opponent's pieces of one element. For example: you capture all 6 of his fire pieces.

Emperor Of China

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Simulation of several thousand years of Chinese Imperial Dynasties.

Victory

The player with the most Dynasty points when the game ends wins.

Game End

The game ends when the 10th Dynasty has ended.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. There are 5 main card Types: Stability Cards Change Cards Military Cards Dynasty Cards Barbarian Cards

Dynasty Points

Use Tokens to keep track of Dynasty Points.

Emperors & Rebels

Use colored markers to distinguish Emperors and Rebels. Each player must display a marker to show whether he is Currently an Emperor or a Rebel.

Setup

All Players are considered to be Rebels at the start of the game.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 6 Phases:

1. Fate Phase
2. Destiny Phase
3. Challenge Phase
4. Resolution Phase
5. Dynasty Phase
6. End Phase

Fate Phase

Players fill their hands to 10 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Destiny Phase

Each player may discard up to 5 cards and draw replacements.

Challenge Phase

Players reveal scoring cards from their Hands. An Emperor Player may score with Stability and Military cards. Rebel players may score with Change and Military cards.

A Rebel player must also play exactly 1 Dynasty or 1 Barbarian Card or his total score becomes zero. Each scoring card has a point value. The player with the highest total Score wins the hand.

If an Emperor has at least 3 different types of Stability cards, he gets Score +3 If a Rebel has at least 3 different types of Change cards, he gets Score +3 If a player has at least 3 different types of Military cards, he gets Score +3 (For example a player with Infantry, Strategy, and Troops gets +3) Remember, a rebel cannot play more (or less) than 1 Dynasty or Barbarian card.

Resolution Phase

Whoever wins the hand becomes the new Emperor and all Other players become Rebels. If multiple players tie for first place, they all become Emperors! (This represents divisions into multiple Kingdoms) If a Rebel player wins (not ties) a hand using a Barbarian card, all Players lose and become Rebels. All scored cards are discarded EXCEPT for the Dynasty (not Barbarian) cards of the winner(s).

Winners keep their Dynasty cards face up in front of them. (But not in their hand). These are referred to as the "Current Dynasties". If you won as a Barbarian, draw an extra card next turn in Fate Phase.

Dynasty Phase

The Emperor gets 2 Dynasty Points (DP). If there are multiple Emperors, each gets only 1 DP. Some cards allow the Emperor to score extra DP.

End Phase

Each player must discard down to a max hand of 3 cards.

Special Card Types

Despot cards: These are a type of Stability card. They have high scores, but if used, and you (win the hand) remain Emperor, all Rebel players may draw an extra Card next turn in Fate Phase.

Current Dynasties

Current dynasties often give/derive bonuses to/from other cards. An Emperor player who loses a hand and becomes a Rebel must Discard his current dynasty card. Note that Dynasty (& Barbarian) cards have a point value that is used when played by a Rebel but not when the Dynasty is current.

For Example: A Rebel plays a Sung Dynasty card and gets to add 4 to his score. He wins the hand and becomes the Emperor of the Sung Dynasty. On later turns as an Emperor, he does not get the 4 points, but he does get the Infantry bonus on the Sung Dynasty card.

Empires

by Emmanuel Delva (C)2011.

Needed Materials

- Some counters sets, each set with one different colour per player, and in two different sizes. The biggest ones will be used to show the locations of cities, while the smallest ones will represent the people of each player. To ease things up, they will be called "cities" for the big ones and "counters" for the others. About 30-50 counters and 10-15 cities per player is plenty.
- Any map where provinces will have been drawn. Say about 20 provinces per player. Each province should be wide enough so as to allow one city and a 10-12 counters to be put within. There can only be one city per province.
- A single 54 cards deck. 52 cards with two jokers that each can replace any single other card.

Winning The Game:

In order to win the game a player must own half the province of the map plus one.

Suit	Adv	Description
♥	Fertility	(incredible health and ability to withstand hardship, clans, big families...)
♦	Diplomacy	(merchants, navigation, explorer, money...)
♦	Warfare	(martial arts, sieges engineering, tactics, military prowess...)
♣	Sophistication	(morals, religion, philosophy, enlightenment, spiritual power...)

Back Into Game:

In case of elimination, a player can be allowed to enter the game again as a « foreign invader ». He will start again with one city, anywhere in the outer ring of provinces, provided that he is at least three spaces away from other players' territories. The player will receive one city, and six counters.

Conception Notes:

The game is designed to be quick, easy to learn and fast to play. A game will usually range from half a hour to two hours, maybe three if several players are involved. Luck is foremost, but tactical insight and strategic thinking will play their part.

Phase By Phase Description Of The Game

1 : Cards Drawing Phase

Each player draws 3 cards. One more is drawn for each city the player currently owns.

Game Start:

Each player receives one city of his colour that he is allowed to put anywhere as long as it is at least five provinces away from the nearby provinces controlled by another player.

The player is then given ten counters of his colour to deploy in his city or the nearby provinces. In both cases, the youngest player is given the first pick of where to deploy his city and then his counters.

The Player Nation Special Attribute:

Each player can choose one special attribute for his side. This will allow the player to need one card less in the chosen suit. For example someone needing two different ♣ cards in order to get an "Exodus" action will be able to use this action with only one ♣ and one ♥ if he has the « Sophistication » edge. There are four different advantages, one per suit :

2 : Diplomacy Phase

The players are afforded 5 minutes for exchanging, selling or buying cards, making promises, settling everlasting oaths, or betraying them ...

3 : Order Of Play Determination Phase

The players will act in the reverse order of the amount of provinces they currently own. The player with the most will play first and so will be disadvantage. In case of a draw, the player with the most cities will act first, then the player with the most counters.

4 : Cards Phase

In the aforementioned order, each player will be allowed to make up to two actions. The player will need to have the needed cards. They are "spent" and discarded in the drawing deck. The player can choose not to play at all, and in this case he draws one more card.

5 : Counters Phase

In the aforementioned order, each player will be allowed to move each and every of his counters by ONE province. If counters are in the same province as someone else's counters, then a fight MAY follow. The attacker chooses how many enemy counters he wants to destroy (up to his own number of counters). Then the attacker himself loses a number of counters :

- Equal if the province has a city of the enemy counters' colour,
- Inferior by one if this is not the case and so the enemy counters have nowhere to run to.

6 : Default Phase

The players can have a maximum hand equal to the number of cities that they do own. Any excess must be discarded.

Cards Combinations

COMBINATION	COMBO NAME	INGAME EFFECTS
1 ♥ card	MIGRATION :	Win a counter in any empty adjacent province.
1 ♦ card	MERCHANT :	Move one own counters anywhere.
1 ♠ card	COMBAT :	Destroy one adjacent enemy counter.
1 ♣ card	APOSTLE :	Move one adjacent enemy counter by one province.
2 ♥ cards	ABUNDANCE :	Win three counters in an already owned province.
2 ♦ cards	EXPLORATION :	Move three own counters anywhere.
2 ♠ cards	WAR :	Destroy three adjacent enemy counter.
2 ♣ cards	EXODUS :	Move three adjacent enemy counters by one province.

	-	in the same province as one of your own counters.
3 Blacks and 1 Red	CRUSADE :	Completely destroy an adjacent province. Everything
	-	there is removed : cities and ALL counters.
1 of each 4 suits	FOUNDATION :	Put one of your city in a province that already has one of your counters in and no cities yet.

paid to keep each single card.

Game Options

War Tresury:

It can be interesting to introduce the role of money into the game : the nerves of war! To do so, the easiest way is to replace the automatic drawing of cards by an income system where money is earned and spent. In order to play this option, it may be necessary to get a rather large amount of pawns or counters, or it can be agreed just to keep the amount written on paper. At game start, each player is given 10 coins, and only 6 if the player enters game again after a previous elimination. Then, on the card drawing phase, each player will only get three cards without modifiers.

After that, still in the same phase, players will collect their incomes. Its amount is : One coin per city the player owns, One coin per province where there are only his counters in, And of course, a city owned in a province with no counters except his owns brings two coins to a player.

Then at the beginning of the cards action phase, in the determined orders, the players will be given the opportunity to buy cards. The price is two coins each. Tables turns can succeed as long as someone has money to spend. Once the cards play has started, it is no more possible to buy cards. But in the case that a player owns more cards than he is allowed too and wants to keep them, he can at a cost of one extra coin

Supplies Reserves:

This option necessitates the use of dices. With it the players will be able to store supplies. They will be able to use them both to have more than two actions in the cards phase, and to make extra moves in a new breakthrough phase that will follow the counters phase. To build a supply warehouse, you need a dice, resources and time. Note that it is possible to build as many warehouses as wanted but only on cities. And if the city is destroyed or conquered, the aggressor while receive no benefits except the satisfaction of depriving an enemy from resources. First, a player must call his desire to build a warehouse aloud. He will need to discard one card and one coin. Once done, the dice is displayed on the city with its 1 face up.

Then each following year, the player will be allowed to sacrifice one or two cards (each counting as an action). And in the counters phase the player is allowed to sacrifice one coin. For each of these sacrifice, one unit will be added to the dice and the according face displayed. When it will reach 6, the warehouse is complete and active. There is already a possibility that does not need the warehouse to be active to be used. It is the money reserve value of a warehouse : at any moment, it is possible to decrease the dice by any value and to receive the according money in exchange. But for the two following possibilities, the player needs the warehouse to be active (the dice must display the 6 face up)..

First, one player can decide to do more than two actions in the cards phase. So the player with a warehouse is almost certain to be able to play his whole hands while players are usually limited to two cards action. But there is a price for that : one coin must be paid for each extra card action after the normal

two. Second, this option introduce a new cards actions phase that will happen after the counters phase. This new phase is called « Breakthrough Phase ». The players will still act within in the determined order in this new phase, but they can decide not too if they want. Anyway all actions on this phase will have a very high cost of two coins per action.

7. NUCLEAR EXCHANGE- Occurs between enemy units in the same system. Attack Dice from Nuclear arsenals are rolled simultaneously by both sides.

8. BATTLE- First strike attacks are resolved first & then all other attacks. This is repeated until one or both sides are eliminated. If all units are killed the defender remains in control of the planet.
9. NOBLE ACTIONS- See List
10. PLANET CONTROL- Take control of any planet you have armies on.

Stacking

Any number of units may occupy the same hex. Battles occur when enemy units occupy the same hex.

Noble Actions List

A Noble that did not move or fight this turn may take a 'Noble' action. Noble actions are successful on a roll of 1 on 1D6. Some Allies can do Noble Actions.

Nobles (& allies) do not have to be in the same system as their target.

- Diplomacy: Take control of target World that has no enemy armies on it.
- Assassination: Target noble killed. A player may only make one assassination attempt per turn.
- Intrigue: Take control of target ally. If the ally provided armies or ships, you gain control of these. Only one intrigue attempt per turn.
- Sabotage: Destroy target army, jumpship, or arsenal.
- Govern: Income of world + 1D6-1D6; Automatic success, minimum +1
- Strategic Planning: Automatic success. +1 or -1 to Initiative roll next turn.

The Map

Use a 10 x 10 hex grid. Homeworlds will be located in the corners. Distribute the other 20 worlds by using the 1D10 to determine the coordinates. Only one world per hex. For additional 'terrain' distribute Nebulas, blackholes, and supernovas. Jumpships cannot travel through these obstacles. Other terrain can include Imperial jump stations and Star systems with no planets. These spaces can be jumped to but they cannot be controlled and they provide no resources. Another possibility are Stargates that allow instant travel between distant regions of the map.

Chits

Use 'chits' or counters to represent all units: allies, armies, jumpships, etc. Each player should have a set of blank 'control' marker chits of a unique color. Put control markers on worlds and unit stacks to indicate ownership.

Ally chits are placed next to the owning player, not on the map.

Set Up

Each player begins with:

- 1 Homeworld
- 3 Nobles
- 3 House Troops
- 3D6 Solats
- Any 2 Armies unique to that homeworld
- 1 Nuclear Arsenal
- 2 Jumpships
- X Random Allies: 8 in a 2 player game, 5 with 3 players, 4 in a 4 player.

Victory Conditions

Control every planet on the map.

Variants

Larger maps, Specific scenarios, Jumpships move 4, Higher upkeep costs...

Enchanted Checkers

Introduction

Board game for 2 Players. Checkers Variant. Each pawn has a unique move or power.

Rules Notes

It is assumed the players already know how to set-up and play checkers. If you need a refresher click here Pawns can only occupy the dark spaces. All Pawns always move or jump going forward unless they have a Power that lets them do otherwise.

Glossary

The terms pieces, pawns, men, and units are interchangeable. Pawns can be in 2 forms: Checkers or Miniatures. Checkers are the little plastic red or black discs we all know.

Miniatures are small sculpted lead (or pewter or plastic) figures (figs).

Miniatures

This game is meant to be played with miniatures. Since each pawn has its own unique special ability (Power) this works as Memory tool to help players remember which pawn has which power.

Making A Set

You will need 24 figs: 12 for each side. Figs will need to be painted (red & black) to differentiate the sides or The figs of one side must look different from the opposing side: For example: Trolls vs Fairies or Dwarves vs Goblins (Or Dragons vs Knights or Klingons vs Federation, etc.) Each figure must be assigned one of the Powers on the Powers list. Players will have to make a record to keep track of the Power distributions.

Power Assignments can be:

1. Random (Use dice or cards as randomizers)

.	01	02	03	04	05	06	07	08
.	09	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
.	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24
.	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32

Movement Terminology

When a pawn makes a "Move" or "takes its Turn" this can be a jump, traverse, shift, switch, push, a move that is not a traverse, or even stranger possibilities. Traversing and Jumping are here defined as the normal (regular) moves in Checkers. Traversing is

2. Players take turns picking Powers and assigning them to their pawns.
3. Pre-picked by the player who owns the set(s).

Setup

Use a board separating the board in half so Players can set up their forces in secret. Flip a coin to see who goes first.

Victory & Draws

Victory can be achieved by several methods:

1. Capture all opposing pawns.
2. Opponent on his turn is unable to make any move.
3. You have more pawns in play than opponent and no one has captured in 7 turns.

If both players are down to 1 pawn it is a draw. If players have equal numbers of pawns and no one has captured in 10 turns it is a draw.

Forced Capture Rule

Just like in regular checkers, if you can capture an opposing pawn you must do it.

Reaching The Backrow

If one of your pawns reaches your opponents back row, immediately place that Pawn on any open space on your side of the board. Note that this is very different from regular checkers where a checker that Reaches the back row becomes a king.

Checker Board Map

Below is a numbered map of a checker board to be used with the Rules Examples in the Powers List. In the examples given your back row is 57-64.

.	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40
.	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48
.	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56
.	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64

moving a pawn into an unoccupied adjacent space.

Jumping is jumping over one or more enemy pawns to capture them. Shifting is moving into an empty space on a specified row. Switching is exchanging the locations of 2 pawns.

Capture Terminology

The following terms, phrases are all interchangeable: Captured, killed, eliminated, removed from play, removed from the board.

Charge Power

The pawn on its turn may traverse once and then jump.

Phase Power

The pawn may move like a Knight (in Chess) twice on its turn. The pawn must land in an empty space and does not capture anything. (It must move twice to re-emerge on a dark space) Example Move: 51 -> 45 -> 35 Example Move: 51 -> 45 -> 30 Movements must be forward going.

Lateral Power

The pawn may move to any empty space on the same row it occupies. Foe Example: Pawn on 51 can go to 49, 53, or 55. The pawn then must immediately take a regular move (Traverse or jump).

Teleport Power

The pawn may move forward (not the same row or rows behind it) to any empty space on the board except for the opponents back row. This is not considered a jump (no enemy pawns are captured)

Example Move: Enemy pawns on 44 and 37. Space 30 is empty Pawn on 51 pushes against pawn on 44: Pawn on 37 pushed into 30, Pawn on 44 pushed into 37, Pawn on 51 moves into 44.

General Power

As its move, all friendly pawns adjacent to the General may move. Note: At least two such pawns must move.

Rook Power

This pawn may move forward only like a Rook in Chess, however, he must end his move on a dark square and he cannot capture by doing this. Note: This pawn may not move through other pawns.

Bishop Power

This pawn may move forward only like a Bishop in Chess, however, he must end his move on a dark square and he cannot capture by doing this. Note: This pawn may not move through other pawns.

Orthogonal Power

This pawn may make orthogonal (horizontal and vertical) jumps. (Note: Each of these jumps are 4 spaces long!) Example move: space 19 is open. Enemy pawn on 35. Pawn on 51 jumps over (and captures 35) and lands on 19.

Continuing the example: Pawn on 19 then jumps over Enemy pawn on 21 and lands on space 23. Orthogonal jumps backwards are allowed. Notes: This cannot be combined with regular Jumps.

Shooter Power

After making a jump or series of jumps this pawn is returned to The square it started the turn on.

After traversing forward one space any adjacent friendly pawn may Immediately make a regular traverse or jump.

Doppelganger Power

Nullifier Power

No Adjacent enemy pawn may use its special power

Phalanx Power

Conversion Power

Any pawn captured by this piece remains on the board under your Control as a Convert Pawn. Convert Pawns reverse their direction. Convert Pawns lose their Special Powers.

Stopgap Power

If a friendly pawn is captured you may immediately move this pawn To the space where it was captured.

Lurker Power

After this pawn jumps, move again immediately with one of your other pawns.

Sample Army: Good Fairies

#	Unit Name:	Power:
1	Oberon (Leader)	General

4	Sylph	Ethereal
5	Elf Archer	Shooter
6	Gnome Trickster	Juxtapose

Bestower Power

If this pawn is captured you may immediately teleport any of your other pawns to any other empty space on the board.

Kingmaker Power

Every time this pawn reaches your opponents back row, choose one of your other pawns to gain the movement abilities of a King (as in regular Checkers). There can only be one such King at time.

Game Variants

What does a game variant need most? More variants of course!

Leader Variant

Make one or more pawns on each side a Leader. If you capture (eliminate) all the opposing Leaders you win. This variant creates an additional victory condition.

Super Unit Variant

Give some pawns 2 or more Powers!

Bigger Board Variant

Play with a bigger board, so you can have more pawns and bigger battles.

New Powers Variant

Make up your own powers or lists of powers.

Oversize Counters

If you don't have any minatures an alternative could be oversize counters (they still fit in the square) that would include the following info on their face: Unit name, Artwork, Power, Color (red/black)

Army Lists

Army Lists and specially matched pairs of opposing Army Lists would be welcome. Two samples are given below:

#	Unit Name:	Power:
7	Dwarf	Push
8	Pixie	Deception
9	Sylvan Mage	Wizard
10	Sprite	Scout
11	Dryad	Teleport
12	Nymph	Siren

Sample Army: Bad Fairies

#	Unit Name:	Power:
1	Troll King (Leader)	Charge
2	Goblin	Nullifier
3	Kobold	Stopgap
4	Changeling	Doppelganger
5	Red Cap	Lurker
6	Boggart	Poison

#	Unit Name:	Power:
7	Duergar	Bishop
8	Imp	Phase
9	Quaist	Activation
10	Hag	Conversion
11	Mephit	Slayer
12	Spiderbear	Mega Jump

Game Designers Notes

I have a short list of powers that were too strong to make the list. If you need to know what they are send me a line. One of the keypoints of Checkers is that the pieces must keep moving forward so you can force your opponent to make mistakes.

In the early/mid-game if the pieces are not moving forward, the Game grinds quickly to an impasse (draw).

Faq

Hmm. Interesting. But there are questions: Q - When and how to use a powers? Do I move pawn and use its power, or if I use a power, the pawn does not move? A - Most of the powers are in place (substitution) of a regular move. So for instance the Scout could do a regular move (traverse or Jump) or use its special power to traverse forwards twice. Some powers are not movement variants and just go off when a certain condition is met, for example the Poison pawn who kills his capturer.

Q - How do pawns move, as in regular checkers only forward? A - A few powers allow lateral or backwards moves but this is usually pretty limited, For the most part, for checkers to work as a game the pawns have to be moving forwards.

Enclave

Introduction

Players lead post-holocaust armies in a battle for survival.

Map

Grid 6 X 6 for a total of 36 Territories. Use large spaces that several stacks of chits can fit in. Territory identity is unknown until revealed by exploration.

Chits

Units, terrain, equipment, events, and control markers are represented by counters or chits. There are five piles of chits: Event Pile Territory Pile Recruit Pile Equipment Pile Territory Marker Pile

Record Sheets

Keep track of food, fuel, medicinals, and ammo produced, stored, & used.

Object

Occupy opponents Enclave.

Setup

Players control Enclaves located in opposite corners of the map. Each player starts with a reserve of 3D6 Food. Each player starts with: 3 Paramilitary units (Attack =2, Move=1, Guns and 1D6 Ammo).

Roll high to determine which player goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players alternate turns Event Phase Recruit Phase Search Phase Move Phase Claim Phase Attack Phase Recovery Phase Production Phase Upkeep Phase

Event Phase

Roll 2D6. These are the X and Y coordinates on the map. Draw one Event chit. Units in that space are affected by the event chit.

Put event chit back in pile.

EVENT CHITS	NOTES

Notes: * All opponents die after combat on 1-3 on D6 from disease. Hazard Attacks are non combat attacks against units. Sources are usually environmental: Radiation, weather, disease, etc. Roll 1D6 per attack level. Unit destroyed on any roll of 1-2

Recruit Phase

Roll 1D6 for every recruit roll you get. On a roll of 1 draw a recruit chit. Place the recruited unit in a territory you control that can recruit.

Search Phase

Search an unsearched territory

Move Phase

Move your units. Units marked with an F symbol use up one Fuel to move. Any number of friendly units may be stacked together.

Units may be moved into but not through spaces occupied by enemy units. Units entering an unclaimed space must stop.

Claim Phase

Units entering an unexplored space may draw a territory chit to reveal its identity. Units entering an unexplored or unguarded enemy space take control of it. Use markers to indicate territorial control.

Attack Phase

Enemy units that occupy the same territory fight. Each side rolls 1D6 for each level of Attack. Units with guns may use up one ammo per attack to get two extra attack rolls.

The defending side gets +1 Attack roll if they are in their Enclave or a fortified location. The side with the most rolls of 1 inflicts one casualty of opponents choice. The side with the most rolls of 2 inflicts one casualty of same players choice.

The side with the most rolls of 6 receives one less casualty of same players choice. Players keep rolling until one side is killed off or the attacker retreats. The attacker may retreat back to the space he came from.

Recovery Phase

If a stack has lost some but not all of its units this turn roll 1D6 for each unit lost On a roll of 1 the unit is returned to play A medicinal unit may be expended to give the unit a 1-3 chance of recovering Do not roll for units that have deserted

Production Phase

Territories produce food and fuel. Food and fuel may be saved from turn to turn. Enclaves may produce 1 Fuel (Ethanol) instead of 2 Food up to 3 Fuel per turn.

Upkeep Phase

Each unit must be fed 1 Food or the unit will disband on a roll of 1-3 on D6. Units farthest from the Enclave will be the first to be lost.

Guns

Guns & Ammo may immediately be assigned to any unit. Once the ammo is out the guns are useless.

Vehicles

The vehicle may immediately be assigned to any unit that does not already have an F designation. The unit's move rating becomes 2F.

Designers Notes

Guns do not give a great combat advantage. It is assumed the units have a variety of substitute ranged weapons such as crossbows, blowguns, spring loaded dart guns, air pressure needle guns, fire bombs, flame throwers, and homemade muskets. Also tactics, the element of surprise, are very important.

Commentary

by Michael Andre-Driussi <mantis@siriusfiction.com>
Construction Notes:

Instead of using a grid and chits for the board, I used 2.5 inch tiles (paper mounted on heavy cardboard—1/8 inch thick stuff used for boxes). 6 x 6 comes out to be chessboard size, but fits nicely in a smaller box.

For the Recruit units I used paper mounted on cardboard (back of a notepad grade).

Guns/ammo markers are small dice. It would be best if they were small sixers.

Plastic coins (from play money set) for vehicles.

Even though elements remind me of "A Boy and His Dog" (Movie Theatre), "Mad Max" movies (Road Warrior,

1D6	EQUIPMENT
6	Recruit one unit

Gyrocopter with Pilot), "Morrow Project" (Sewer Monogolds on cover of Different Worlds magazine issue on that game) and "American Flagg" (Go gangs), among other more generic post-apocalyptic items, the images I used for the booklet are taken from that granddaddy of them all, "Things to Come" (1936).

Play notes:

We've played it once so far (two player) and it went well.

We assume that units cannot move diagonally.

The only question we ponder is about the effects of Events upon Claimed Territories without Recruit units present: we wonder if it might cause loss of the Control Marker in some cases (those having a combat attack rating).

As it stands it seems like Events only affect units, so if no unit is there (or adjacent, in some large area events), then nothing bad happens. It makes sense and keeps things simple, which is very important.

OTOH the argument could be made that if you aren't going to protect "Doc" from the Underground Dwellers, Dead Walkers, cannibals, giant cockroaches, giant rats, and the plague zombies, then he's not going to be a part of your Reconstruction Federation and make Medicinals for you every turn. Likewise these critters would disrupt things at the brothel, the various farms, and the movie theatre (well, maybe not= the movie theatre!).

We wonder that implied supply lines might be cut if the connecting territories lose their control markers. So an encirclement might force a food crisis for units cut off from a "friendly road" connecting them to their enclave.

End Of Apartheid

Introduction

Card game for 2 players. Theme based on the History of South Africa. One player is the White Nationalists; the other is the African National Congress.

Victory

Players continue playing hands until the ANC wins 3 games total which represents the Point at which the remaining Apartheid laws are repealed (1991).

The Decks

There are 2 Decks: The White Nationalists Deck and the African National Congress Deck. Cards have values from 1 to 6. Each deck has 4 Suites.

Turn Sequence

If a deck has run out, shuffle its discard and draw from it. Each player draws the top 8 cards of his deck to make his hand. Players may discard up to 4 cards and draw replacements.

A player may keep up to 2 cards of each Suite. Discard excess cards. Players add up the ranks of their remaining cards. Highest total wins the Hand.

Ender's Game Third Formic War Skirmish

Introduction

Card and Board Game based on the Ender's War Book. Two player game.

Disclaimer

Ender's War is a copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

The Board

Use a Chessboard. 8 x 8 grid.

Units

Both the Humans and the Formics have 2 types of Units: Starships and Fighters. Use flat counters to represent units.

Background

IF International Fleet. Human Forces.

Buggers = Common slang name for Formics. Formics = Insect Race with Interstellar Telepathy. Ansible = Human device that allows FTL Communication.

MDD Molecular Detachment Device: Human Weapon capable of Destroying multiple enemies or even a whole planet in a single shot. Shields = Device that protects against Nuclear attacks. Fortification = Formic Asteroid Base used as giant exploding mine.

The Decks

Both sides have their own unique deck.

Setup

Setup is scenario dependent.

Early War Basic Scenario Setup

The Humans have 2 Starships and 8 Fighter Squads. The Buggers have 8 Starships and 32 Fighter Swarms. Fleets start in opposite corners.

Each starship is stacked with 4 Fighter units. Humans go first.

Stacking

There are no stacking limits. Enemy units may also share the same space. Enemy units in the same space are considered to be at range 1 for attack purposes. Ignore facing for attacks in the same space.

Terrain Types

Empty Space - No special effects. Planet - Units may stack in the same space. Blocks LOS. Asteroids - Units may stack in the same space. Blocks LOS.

Adjacency & Direction

All Moves can be orthogonal or diagonal. Units joined by a side or a corner are considered to be adjacent.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 2 Phases:

1. Strategy Phase
2. Action Phase

Strategy Phase

Draw X cards and put them in your hand. For Humans X = 6 For Formics X = 3 If a deck runs out, shuffle its discard and draw from it.

Action Phase

Use Cards to make your Units move and attack. Numbers on Attack cards indicate the exact range of the attack. Numbers on Move cards indicate the exact distance the Unit Moves.

Defense cards are used in response to an attack to negate it.

Formation Movement

If 2 or more units occupy the same space then a single move card can be used to move them all. However, they must all be moved together to the same destination.

Move & Attack Limits

A Fighter can move twice but attack only once in a turn. A Starship can move only once, but may attack twice in a turn. Some cards allow these limits to be exceeded.

Cruisers

In the Human Fleets, some Fighter Squadrons are replaced by Cruisers. A Cruiser is much larger than a single fighter but is still carried inside a Starship. Cruisers can use any card useable by a Starship.

Cruisers get up to 2 Moves and 2 Attacks per turn.

Attacks & Damage

When an Attack by a Human Unit hits, all enemy Units in the space are hit. Any Bugger unit Hit is destroyed unless a defense card is played. When a Bugger Attack hits, only one unit is hit (Buggers Choice).

A Human Unit that is hit takes 1 Point of Damage. Use Damage Counters (DC) to keep track of Damage. SS or FS with 4 or more DC are destroyed.

Cruisers are destroyed by 3 DC. If a Human Unit attacks a Bugger unit stacked in the same space with it there is a 50% chance (flip a coin) the Human unit will be caught in its own MDD and be destroyed.

Scenarios

Buggers will always outnumber the Humans. Larger boards can be used. Old (50 years) IF Starships can hold only 3 Fighter squads (not 4).

Old units max attack range = 4. Very Old units max attack range is 3. Very Old (70 years) IF Starships can hold only 2 squads.

Very Old IF Starships can only make 1 attack per turn. Very Old IF Fighters can only make 1 move per turn. By the middle of the War the Buggers can draw 4 cards in Strategy Phase.

By the late War, the Buggers can draw 5 cards in Strategy Phase.

Energy Future

Introduction

Bidding Card game for 2+ players. Renewable Energy Development theme.

Victory

The player with the most Victory Tokens (VT) at the end of the game wins. The game ends when all 35 Energy cards have been claimed.

The Board

The board is a track of 35 spaces numbered 1 to 35. It is called the Power Track.

Victory Tokens

Players share a common set of Victory Tokens (VT).

Control Markers

Each player has a set of Control Markers (CM) of a unique color.

Setup

Shuffle the decks. Randomly deal all 35 Energy cards from the Energy deck to the Power Track, face-up, 1 card per space. Each player is dealt 3 random cards from the Progress Deck.

The greenest player goes first.

The Decks

There are 2 decks: The Energy Deck The Progress Deck

Turn Sequence

There are 35 turns, 1 turn for each space on the power track in numerical order. Each turn has 5 Phases:

1. Progress Phase
2. Implementation Phase
3. Smart Grid Phase
4. Recognition Phase
5. End Phase

Progress Phase

Each player is dealt 2 Progress Cards.

Implementation Phase

Starting with the player to the left of the player who won the last Auction (or the greenest player if it is the first turn) and continuing clockwise, each player may bid 1 or more Progress cards for the current (next in line on the Power Track) unclaimed Energy card. The first player must bid (He may not pass). Players must reveal the Progress cards they are Bidding.

Each Progress card has a value from 2-7. Except for the first Bid in an Auction, each bid must be higher than the previous total Bid. A player may choose to pass.

The highest remaining Total Bid wins the target Energy Card. The winning player puts 1 of his control Markers on the card he just won. That player must discard the Progress cards he Bid. The other players keep theirs.

Smart Grid Phase

This Phase only occurs every Fifth Turn: Turn 5, Turn 10, Turn 15, Turn 20, Turn 25, Turn 30, Turn 35 Players secretly bid 1 or more Progress cards. These cards are revealed simultaneously. The player with the highest Total Bid gets 2 VT.

If there is a tie, all tied players get 1 VT. All players Discard all Bid cards.

Recognition Phase

This Phase only occurs every Seventh Turn: Turn 7, Turn 14, Turn 21, Turn 28, Turn 35 Score for each of the 7 Energy types: Each Player that produces Solar Energy gets 1 VT. The Player that controls the most Solar Energy cards gets 1 extra VT. The Player that produces the most Solar Energy gets 1 extra VT.

(To get a production total add up the values of all the Solar Energy cards that the player controls. An Energy cards value is equal to its numerical place on the Power Track) After Solar energy, award points for Wind energy, Hydro, and so on.

End Phase

Max hand size is 5 cards. Excess cards must be discarded.

The Energy Deck

The deck has 5 copies each of the following 7 card types:

1. Solar Energy
2. Wind Energy
3. Hydro Energy

4. Geothermal Energy
5. Clean Fossil Fuels
6. Bio-Fuels
7. Safe Nuclear

Notes: In cases where you start with extra cards in play, flip over cards from the resource deck until you get enough cards of the indicated type.

Setup

Shuffle the decks. Each player gets 1 Race card. Each player gets 1 Homeworld card.

Each player draws 2 Resource cards. Each player draws 5 Action cards. Players roll 1D10 to see who goes first.

Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 10 Phases: Production Phase Trade Phase Research Phase Build Phase Exploration Phase Action Phase Event Phase Attack Phase Battle Phase End Phase

Production Phase

Draw 3 cards from the top of the Resource deck.

Trade Phase

Players may trade cards in hand and in play.

Research Phase

You may put 1 Technology Card into play. This goes face up in front of you.

Build Phase

You may put 1 Fleet Card into play. This goes face up in front of you.

Exploration Phase

You may put 1 Planet Card into play. This goes face up in front of you.

Action Phase

All players fill their Action card hands to their max. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Event Phase

You may play 1 Event card. Discard the Event after it is played.

Attack Phase

You may attack Opponents Planets with your fleets. You may attack multiple Opponents. You may attack any Planet including Homeworlds.

You may attack with some, none, or all of your fleets. All Fleets have a Speed Rating. There are 3 Types of Fleets: Light, Main, and Heavy.

Heavy Fleets have a base speed = 1. Main Fleets have a base speed = 2. Light Fleets have a base speed = 3.

Certain Race, Planet, Homeworld, and Tech cards will increase these values. If you are attacking, all other players are considered to be defenders, and must assign their ships to defend their own planets. All Fleets with a speed = 1 must be assigned first.

This is called the first Round of Assignments (ROS). The Attacker must assign his speed 1 Fleets before the Defenders assign their fleets. Any Speed 1 ships not assigned in the first ROS miss their opportunity to attack or defend.

Any Speed 1 ships that have their speed increased by Tactics cards may be reassigned if their new rating ROS has not already been completed and passed on. After all speed 1 assignments are made, speed 2 assignments are made (Second ROS), then speed 3 (Third ROS), and so on. Tactics Cards may be played at any time during this phase to increase the Speed of target Fleets.

Battle Phase

Resolve each planetary Conflict in turn. Players may play Battle Cards to increase the Force of Target Fleets or to produce other effects. If a Planet is attacked and has no defending Fleets, the owner may play Defender cards but not Combat Cards.

The side with the highest Fleet total Force is the winner. One Fleet of the losing side is destroyed (Owners Choice) and discarded and the other Fleets retreat. If the winner was the Attacker, he gains control of the target Planet if the attackers Fleet Total was greater than the Defenders Fleet Total plus the Defense Rating of the Planet.

End Phase

Discard your Resource & Action hands down to their max hand sizes. Resource cards discarded in this phase are placed on the bottom of the Resource Deck while Action cards go into the Action card discard pile.

End Of Game Scoring

Each player calculates his final Score. Players score Victory Points (VP) for the following: * The Going Out Bonus: The first player to make 10 Melds gets 5 VP (this ends the game). * Greatness Bonuses: You gain 3 or 4 VP for each Greatness Bonus you make.

* If you play all the cards for a Greatness Bonus in 1 single meld, this is called an Exemplary Bonus and earns an additional +2 VP. * If you have the most (ties don't count) levels in a single advance (Such as Dance) you gain 1 VP.

Greatness Bonuses

There are 12 Greatness Bonuses. To get a Greatness Bonus in End scoring you must have at least 1 level in each of the Advances listed for that particular Greatness Bonus.

Faq

question - "All Ages are "equal," can be played on any turn? -You don't have to "live through" more primitive Ages to get to later ones? -Each time you make a meld, you must put down exactly the number of Advances equal to the Level of the Age you're playing? -All Advances are "equal" in that each is worth 1 "level" no matter when played? -"Level" of an Age has nothing to do with "level" of Advancements you've achieved?

answer -The "primitiveness" of an age does not affect gameplay. In that respect ages are "equal". -They don't have to be played in any particular "historical" order, or have any particular level. Example of play: I'm making my first Meld of the game: I have the "Age of Empire" card.

It has a level = 2, so I must play exactly 2 Advance cards with it to complete the meld, lets say I traded for music and dance. Now, a few turns later I am ready to make my second meld. "Age of Empire" was a "Positive Aspect" Age card, so now I must use a "Negative Aspect" Age card: I have an "Age of Corruption" card so I use it. It requires I play 3 Advances: I play Theatre, Astronomy, and Mythology along with it to complete the meld. Note that I also completed the "Great Performers Bonus" Combo because I have advances in it's 3 requirements: Dance, Music, and Theatre.

Solo Rules

These solo rules are based on an essentially romantic view of the eskimo and hopefully compliment the multi player "Eskimo" card and board game by Lloyd Krassner.

Why solo??? - No one to play with, thats why.

Time Frame

The solo rules are 1 year in the life of your eskimo. One year is 16 steps of the season track (see below)

Real World To Game Mechanics

The upper world (realworld) is bad luck, accident, misadventure and occasionally good luck. To survive you need to manage your resources, your personal strengths, acquire skills and deal with misfortune.

The other world is taboo, transgression, animal guides and recovering your balance in your world.

You need both to survive. You will need to travel in both worlds and maintain balance.

The Fate Deck Shuffle pack and draw 16 face down and place at the centre. They are the "Fate" cards. One fate card is played each turn

This world

1 D6 #	Attribute
1	Hunting
2	Tool
3	Social

Taboos - underworld things that affect your attributes If taboo card is drawn roll 1 D6. Place a taboo card on one of your attributes.

The Seasons

The seasons are represented by the outer circular track. The season track has two functions to represent the four regular seasons - Winter, spring, Summer, Autumn and represent the effect of yearly movement of the sun. These factors will affect the hunting and movement.

For Example: You will not be able to use a sled in summer or kayak in winter

- Find driftwood
- Polar bear attack
- Accident serious (1 sector move)
- Accident minor
- Taboo (placed on one of your attributes)
- Clan/Family member sick
- Illness
- Kayak damaged
- Kayak destroyed
- Sled damaged
- Sled destroyed
- Food spoils
- Blizzard (for roll/2 rounded down = moves)
- Spirit Attack
- Spirit Guide
- Shaman Experience: Stays with you unless you get all attributes tabooed
- Amulet / Talsiman:
- Shamans blessing: Must be in an inhabited area to use
- Totemic blessing: Must be in the wildeness to use

Your Eskimos Attributes

Attributes are skills - upperworld and lowerworld - that help you survive.

1 D6 #	Attribute
4	Shaman
5	Luck
6	Totem

Preparing The Seasons Track

The season track has two parts

- Sea track
- seasons track

The seasons track is cut from the template. Notice that the ice spaces on the original game track are replaced by sea spaces. Carefully cut the sea spaces from the environment track. The "Sea spaces are on the Season track and will change as the "year" progresses.

The Underworld - Remove Taboo And Recover Attributes

You must enter the underworld to

- remove taboos

- recover attributes and
 - defend against sprit attack
- To enter the underworld you need to have
- a shaman card and
 - access to your totem

Spirit Attack

If you loose a sprit attack you attract another taboo.
If an attribute has an existing taboo the new taboo must be it must be on another attribute.

Euro Risk

Introduction

This rule set describes a Diceless Variant for the game of Risk.

Disclaimer

Risk is a copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

When the game ends, the player with the most Victory Tokens wins.

Game End

The game ends when all 6 Continents have been scored.

Old Board & Bits

The regular Risk map and pieces are used. The dice are not used. Except in setup. The card set should have 44 cards.

42 cards each depict one territory and one troop type. Two cards are wild cards depicting all 3 troop types.

New Bits

Players share a set of Tokens called Victory Tokens.

Setup

Each player gets 1 set of troops of a unique color. Each player is dealt 4 cards (Discard Wild cards and redraw) Players reveal their hands and place 1 Figure on each of the 5 territories listed on their cards. The cards are then discarded. Players roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 Phases:

1. Reinforcement Phase
2. Deployment Phase
3. Capture Phase

Reinforcement Phase

Draw 3 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Deployment Phase

You get 3 actions on your turn. There are 4 Types of actions:

- Revolt Action
- Strategic Action
- Annexation Action
- Victory Action You may do up to 3 Attack, Annexation, or Victory Actions. You may do up to one Strategic Action.

Revolt Action

Discard a card and take control of the indicated region. You must also discard 2 more cards with the same unit type. Show control by placing one of your figures on the region.

If an opponent had a figure there, remove it.

Strategic Action

Discard 3 cards all showing the same unit type. Take control of any Region on the Board that is Adjacent to a region you already control.

Annexation Action

Discard a card that shows a region you already control. Take control of any 1 Region that is adjacent to it.

Victory Action

Discard a card that shows a region you already control. Gain 1 Victory Token.

Capture Phase

Discard down to 4 cards. If you take control of the last unoccupied Region of a Continent, gain 2 Victory Tokens (VT); This also Triggers a Scoring Round. A continent can only be completed once, so there will be a max of Six scoring rounds. After the last scoring round, the game ends.

Scoring Rounds

Determine who controls the most regions in each of the 6 Continents: The player who controls the most regions in a continent gains X VT. X is determined by the continent: (N Amer = 5, S Amer = 2, Africa = 3, Asia = 7, Europe = 5, Australia = 2) (If tied for most, tied players get X VT each).

If you control all the regions in a Continent, get 1 extra VT.

If you control at least 1 region in a continent, gain 1 VT.

Note: It is possible to complete a continent in setup. If this happens, a scoring round is not triggered, and there will be one less scoring round during the game.

Note: If 2 Continents are completed in the same turn, there will be only one Scoring Round.

Alternate Rules

Reduced Scoring Rounds: Score only after the 2nd, 4th, and 6th Continents. Delayed Scoring: Score only after the 4th, 5th, and 6th Continents. Least Scoring: Score only after all 6 Continents are completed.

Warp Empires Ruleset

Introduction

Generic ruleset for a series of empire building/conquest games.

Map

The map depicts an irregular, interlocked set of territories.

Control Markers

Use chits to represent control markers.

Units

Use chits to represent units. Units include Leaders & non-leader units.

Deck

Players share an action deck. In some games, each player will have their own action deck. The action deck cards allow you to move your units.

Setup

Most Leader units will be in play. Others will be mixed into the unit chit pile. Each player will start with several non-leader units in play.

Starting points of units will be determined by the scenario.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 phases: Draw Phase Move Phase Battle Phase Revenue Phase Recruit Phase Upkeep Phase Control Phase

Draw Phase

First discard any cards you don't want. Each player draws 5 action cards. Max hand size = 7. Discard excess cards.

If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Move Phase

Use Action cards to move stacks or units in stacks. A Fast unit can move 1-3 spaces. A Medium speed unit can move 1-2 spaces.

A Slow unit can move 1 space. Units can move into but not through opposing stacks. Fortifications cannot move (Move = 0).

Your opponent can only look at the top unit of your stacks

Battle Phase

When two opposing stacks occupy the same territory there will be a battle. Each unit has a force value. Add up the total Force values for each side.

Players may play action cards to increase their force value. If one stack has a Leader and the other does not, the stack with the leader gets an additional 5 Force. The side with the highest force value wins.

The losing stack must retreat one space. The losing stack loses half of its units. The winner picks the first unit lost, the loser picks the remainder. Fortification units in the losing stack are destroyed automatically.

The winning stack loses units with a force equal to at least half the force total lost by the losing stack. The winner decides which units are lost. Destroyed units are returned to their chit pile. Captured leaders are set aside and not returned to the chit pile.

After a battle both sides replenish their hands to 7 cards.

Revenue Phase

Gain revenue points for every revenue generating territory you control.

Recruit Phase

Draw 5 random units from the unit chit pile. Purchase units. A unit's cost is equal to its Force value. If you purchased all the drawn units, draw another 1D6 random units.

Revenue may be saved from turn to turn. Discard unpurchased units back to your unit chit pile. Units start in any revenue generating territory you control.

Upkeep Phase

Number of Units that automatically receive upkeep = 5 x total Revenue. Discard excess units. Example: You generate 10 revenue points per turn...

You may have up to 50 units.

Control Phase

Place a control marker on every revenue generating territory occupied by one of your units. Only one control marker per space.

Unit Deck Abbreviations

- S Slow
- M Medium speed
- F Fast
- F Force
- F Fortification
- # Number of that unit in the chit pile.

Evolved

Introduction

It took 3.5 billion years to make this game.

Winning

The player with the most species at the end of the game wins.

Counter Sets

Each player has a set of counters of a unique color. Each counter set has 100+ counters. Each set has ten counters marked #1, another ten marked #2, and so on.

The Globe

The map is a 6 X 6 grid. It has 36 spaces. 9 spaces are "Land" spaces.

9 are "Open Water" spaces. 18 are "Island" spaces. The top row and bottom row are Arctic (Polar) The two middle rows are Tropical.

The intermediate rows are Temperate.

Species

Have an index card for each of your species. Every species has 5 attributes. Record on the card the values of the attributes.

Also, be sure to name your species. (Kingdom, Phylum, Class, Order, Family, Genus, Species)

Setup

Each player starts with one species with the following attributes:

Diet Herbivore

Terrain = Water Climate = Hot Adapted

Size Tiny

Speed = Slow This will be each players "#1" species (use #1 counters). Each player starts with 3 population counters. Place counters in 3 adjacent spaces not containing opponent's populations.

Turn Sequence

The turn is divided into 6 phases: Geologic Time Phase Random Events Phase Mass Extinctions Phase Reproduction Phase Speciation Phase Migrations Phase

Geologic Time Phase

The game ends after 16 turns. Move a time marker one space (Era, Period, Epoch) on the following track:

1. Archean (Start)
2. Proterozoic
3. Paleozoic
4. Cambrian
5. Ordovician
6. Silurian
7. Devonian
8. Carboniferous
9. Permian
10. Mesozoic
11. Triassic
12. Jurassic
13. Cretaceous
14. Cenozoic
15. Tertiary
16. Quaternary (End)

Random Events

Players share a common deck. Each player fills hand to 7 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Mass Extinctions

Extinction cards may not be played until the Ordovician Period Players take turns playing Extinction cards. The player with the (most) fastest species goes first. If there is a tie, the smartest player goes first and play proceeds clockwise.

To play the cards Predation, Competition, and Parasitism you must have a Species with the indicated attributes in the same space as an opponent's Species with the indicated attributes. For example: You play Predation: Pick one of your Carnivore Species and pick any one species of a smaller size. In all spaces that contain populations of both, the prey populations are removed from play.

Reproduction

A space may contain an absolute maximum of 3 species (Total of all players). In each space that you have species, pick one of those species to reproduce. Add one Population Counter of the appropriate type to the space.

Speciation

Play (discard) an evolve card to have one of your populations evolve. Replace one population counter with a counter that has an unused number. Roll once on the Evolution table.

The Roll determines which attribute of the population changes. The Attribute goes up or down one level. Roll 1D6: on 1-3 go up. On 4-6 go down.

If you are at one end of the scale you automatically move towards the other end. The population becomes a new species. Write up a new index record card for it.

A population may only evolve once per turn.

Migrations

For each of your species, you may pick up to X number of populations to move to an adjacent space. X is determined by the Species Speed Attribute. You may move a species into a space that already has 3 species in it.

If a space has too many species, a random species in that space is destroyed.

Faqs

What about amphibious creatures that appeared towards the end ? I stayed away from all mention of specific groups: Dinosaurs, reptiles, amphibians, insects, mammals, aves, crustaceans, arthropods, cnidaria, porifera, memmatodes, planaria, etc. The problem is that each group only evolved once, and from distinct ancestors that also only evolved once: This would leave most players out of the loop: For example: the person who got the amphibians would be the only one who could evolve into higher vertebrates.

Can carnivores exist by themselves in a space i.e. with no other species present? You state that only 3 species can exist in a space. Does that include only herbivores or carnivores as well? Why not have also carnivores live in a space each of which will "feed" off a species? That would mean that if 3 species are in a space, another 3 carnivore species could live there as well, or even more carnivores as they would feed on the smaller carnivores etc. Actually I always just assumed every space actually held hundreds of thousands of species in all their multitudes. The limitations are just on those few species the players control.

Also a related question to max # of species per space is, what happens if there are 3 species in but another one wants to move in from outside? Can't it make the move? Can it move in but someone of the inhabitants dies if it doesn't move off etc? This requires some playtesting to see what would be the most "fun" solution. For now, lets say that they can move, and if a space has too many species, a random species in that space is destroyed.

Could you clarify which species is allowed to move where, ie can a land species move from land to island or vice versa? Island spaces are fair game to "Land" and "Water" species.

How about species reproduction speed - life cycle etc? That is a function of the existing Speed & Size attributes.

Why Victory only to the player with biggest no. of species? Why not include total # of species counters on board, total # of spaces occupied by player or even VP bonus for solely occupying spaces of climatic zones, etc? That is all very doable. However, total number of population counters favors small species.

How about a few extra cards to include gaia transformation, i.e. card stating that an island space becomes open water and some other open water space becomes island or something of the sort? I had thought of that, but it would require tiles for land and Island spaces. Then there is the problem of species already in a space getting pushed out.

Introduction

Warp Quest is an abstract game system that depicts goal driven scenarios.

Each player controls a collection of Units who are attempting to be the first to reach an objective and bring it back to the start.

The units could be a party of adventuring archeologists hoping to recover a lost artifact, a squadron of bombers attempting to hit a military target and return home, a band of samurai seeking to vanquish marauding bandits or a company of mixed creatures seeking to destroy a piece of evil ornamental jewelry that has the nasty habit of trying to control the minds of all free creatures.

The scenarios that use the Warp Quest engine will hold the details.

Dice & Pieces

- Six and ten sided dice are needed.
- Each player has a pawn to represent his or her group of Units (adventuring party, fleet, etc.) on the board.
- Use a small trinket to represent the Objective.
- There is only one Objective.

The Board

- The board is a single winding path of connected spaces with a Start Space and an End Space. The path should be 30 Spaces long.
- The First Space represents the start.
- Spaces 2-15 represents travel through the first scenario module.
- Spaces 16-29 represents travel through the second scenario module.
- The End Space is the final destination where the Objective is found.

The Decks

- There are 2 decks for each scenario:
- The Module 1 Deck and the Module 2 Deck.
- Each deck has one of each card in its card list.
- There may also be an Aid deck.

The Units

- Each player controls a group of units called a Party. The scenarios will detail the make up of the units in the party, their attributes (Skills, Traits) and starting dispositions.

Turn Sequence

- Players take turns.

- Each turn consists of 3 phases: 1. Move Phase 2. Draw Phase 3. Challenge Phase

Move Phase

- Roll 1D6. Move your pawn that number of spaces towards the end space.
- You automatically stop when you enter the end space.
- If you are the first to land on the end space your party acquires the Objective.
- Once a party has acquired the Objective then all other players may move their parties in either direction on the path.
- The party with the Objective must move towards the start space.
- The first pawn with the Objective to reach the start space wins the game.

Draw Phase

- If you land on an empty space in spaces 2-15 draw a card from the Module 1 deck.
- If you land on an empty space in spaces 16-29 draw a card from the Module 2 deck.
- If you land on an opponent's party do not draw a card.
- If a deck ever runs out, shuffle its discard and draw from it.
- Cards are of 2 types: Challenge cards & Aid cards.
- Place Aid cards in your hand.
- Challenge cards are encounters your party faces immediately in Challenge Phase.

Challenge Phase

Each challenge card lists one or more skills. Your party will have to make a skill check vs each skill listed. (The same skill may be listed twice or more, requiring that many skill checks) A Skill check consists of a Skill roll and Challenge Roll: Roll 1D10. This is the Skill roll.

Add the skill bonuses of your party members to the roll. You may discard Aid cards for further bonuses to the skill roll. Next roll 1D10. This is the Challenge roll.

Some Challenges have a DM (Difficulty Modifier). Add the DM to the Challenge Roll. If the challenge roll is less than or equal to the skill roll you win the Skill check. If the challenge roll is greater than the skill roll you fail the Challenge.

If you win all the Skill Checks, you win the Challenge. The adventure card may say what happens if you win or lose the Challenge. If the card does not give directions, then roll on the following table: If you lose the challenge: Roll 1D6: (Challenge Loss Table)

D6	Result
1-4	Go back 1D6 spaces
5-6	Lose 1 Unit (Man, Ship, Hit Point, etc., depending on the Scenario)

If you Win the challenge gain 1 Experience Token. You may spend an Experience Token to let you reroll a Move Roll or a Skill Roll.

Moving Onto An Opponents Pawn

- If you land on an opponent’s pawn there will be a fight.

- The current player rolls on the Skill List Table to determine which skill will decide the confrontation.
- Both players make Skill Rolls. In case of a tie nothing happens.
- The loser rolls on the Challenge Loss Table.
- The winner takes the Artifact from the loser if the loser was in possession of the Artifact.

Exploration In The Age Of Sail

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Theme of Exploration during the 15th to 18th Centuries.

Victory

The player with the most discovery points at the end of the game is the winner.

End Of Game

The game ends when the Exploration deck has been gone through twice.

The Decks

There are 2 Decks:

1. The Expedition Deck
2. The Exploration Deck

Discovery Points

The Discovery cards themselves when claimed serve as a record of Discovery Points (DP). Discovery cards you claim are kept in your Victory pile. Use paper and pencil for end of game bonus scores and totaling.

The Expedition Deck

There are 4 types of cards in the Expedition Deck:

1. Explorer
2. Ship
3. Crew
4. Save

The Exploration Deck

There are 3 types of cards in the Exploration Deck:

1. Ocean
2. Hazard
3. Discovery

Expeditions

An Expedition consists of one Explorer, one Ship, and one Crew card. A player may have more than one expedition in play at a time. Each Expedition will have 3 Stats and 3 or 4 Traits.

Expedition Stats

Every Expedition starts with 2 points in 3 Stats:

1. Hull
2. Morale
3. Men

Stats can be raised or lowered through exploration. Use tokens or glass beads to keep track of the point level for each stat. If any stat ever goes to zero points, the expedition fails and all Three cards in the expedition are discarded.

Expedition Traits

Every card in an Expedition will have 1 or more Traits. Traits make an expedition immune to Hazards that test that trait. Ships will have either the trait of Sails or Stores or additional Hull Points.

Crews will have either the trait of Fight or Seaman-ship or additional Men Points. Explorers will have either the trait of Navigation or Leadership or additional Morale Points. Some Explorers will have an additional second trait.

Setup

Shuffle the decks. The most well-traveled player goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Outfit Phase
2. Expedition Phase
3. Exploration Phase
4. Ocean Phase

Outfit Phase

Draw 1 card from the Expedition Deck. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Expedition Phase

If you have one Explorer, one Ship, and one Crew card, you may Play them together to the table as an expedition. The three cards are placed face-up, partially stacked, in front of the owning player.

Exploration Phase

For each of your expeditions, flip over the top card of the Exploration deck. The possibilities are: A. Ocean card, B. Discovery card, C. Hazard card. A. If it is an Ocean card, stack it with the expedition.

B. If it is a Discovery card, compare the discovery level of the Discovery card with the Number of Ocean cards stacked with the Expedition:

1. If the number of Ocean cards is less than the level of the Discovery card, then Discard the Discovery card. The Expedition continues its Journey.

2. If the number of Ocean cards is Equal to or greater than the level of the Discovery Card, the expedition has successfully arrived: Keep the Discovery card in your Victory pile for Scoring at the end of the game. Discard one random card from the Expedition, and place the other 2 Expedition cards into your hand. C. If the flipped card is a Hazard card, check to see if the expedition has the trait that Matches the trait posed by the Hazard. If it does, the expedition is unaffected by the Hazard. If the expedition does not have the trait, it will suffer the loss of 1 point in the Indicated stat, or it will lose 1 Ocean card stacked with the Expedition as described by The Hazard card. In either case, discard the Hazard card. A Save card may be discarded from your hand to negate a Hazard if the Traits match.

If the Exploration deck runs out the first time, shuffle the discard and draw from it. If the Exploration deck runs out a second time, the game ends and final scoring occurs.

Ocean Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Age of Discovery

F-14 Tomcats

by Markus Salo (msalo71@yahoo.com)

Introduction

Solo Dice Game. Simulation of an American solo F-14 Bombing Mission in the Middle East circa 1987. Pretty much like Microprose F-15 II. No realism, I think no Tomcat would do a solo bombing mission.

Materials

Paper, pencil, 1-2 six sided dice, nobody to play with.

Mission

The mission consists 25 waypoints, first and last of which is home base. Draw the waypoints as circles connected with lines on a piece of paper. There are two targets in a mission, primary and secondary targets.

First target is 2d6 waypoints from the 1st waypoint, the second 2d6 waypoints from the first target. Roll on the target table to determine what the targets are.

Target Types

Roll to see what the target is:

1D6	Type:	Objective Points:	Objective Damage points
1	Truck Convoy	2	2
2	Temporary Bridge	2	2
3	Fuel Dump	2	2
4	Ammo Storage	2	2
5	HQ Bunker	3	3
6	Power Station	4	4

Contact

On every turn roll 1D6.

- On a roll of 1 on 1D6 the strike force encounters hostile forces. Roll 1D6 again:
- On a roll of 1-3 on 1D6 a SAM site is encountered.
- On a roll of 4-6 on 1D6 a flight of Mig-23's are encountered.

Sam Site

1D6 Missiles are launched at the Strike Force. For each Missile make a Counter Measure Roll of 1D6: On a roll of 4-6 the missile is spoofed and misses. Each Counter Measure Roll costs the player one Chaff and Flare.

When the player runs out of Chaff and Flare, no Counter Measure Rolls can be done. For each missile not spoofed, roll 1D6 Evade Roll: On 1-4 on d6 player evades the missile. If the missile hits the player, the player gets one damage point.

MIG-23 Flogger FLIGHT 1D6 Migs will attack the player. The player can intercept the Migs with missiles. If the player fires an AMRAAM, he rolls a Missile Roll on 1d6.

On 3-6 the AMRAAM hits one Mig and destroys it. If the player fires an Sidewinder, the missile hits one Mig on 4-6 on 1d6. If the player uses his guns, he hits the enemy with 5-6 on 1d6.

All the unintercepted Migs hit the players plane with one damage point.

Bombing Runs

Player can hit the target with Mavericks or Machine Cannon. Maverick hits the target with 4-6 on 1d6, the gun with 5-6. The player can make multiple passes over the target and can fire just one weapon per pass.

At every pass he has to roll a new Contact Roll (and face new enemies on 1 on 1d6) The Maverick causes 2 Damage points on the target if hits, the Cannon only one Damage point. To destroy a target, a different amount of damage points are needed. See target table (Objective Damage Points).

F-14	Armament	Type	Hit Roll d6	Ground Damage
10	Machine Cannon Bursts	A-A/A-G	5-6	1
2	AMRAAMS	A-A	3-6	–
2	Sidewinders	A-A	4-6	–
2	Mavericks	A-G	4-6	2
12	Chaff and Flares	–	–	Counter measure

A-A Air to Air
A-G Air to Ground

Damage To F-14

F-14 can take up to 7 damage points. When full, the player can try to bail out. The player is able to bail out and be rescued with 3-6 on 1d6.

Promotion Table

2nd Lt	starting rank
1st Lt	5 missions and 15 points
Captain	15 missions, 25 points
Major	20 missions, 45 points

Scoring

Keep a running tally of points and kills while you play. You get awarded medals and promotions accordingly. You start with no medals and at a rank of 2nd Lt.

2nd Lt	starting rank
Lt Col	30 missions, 80 points
Col	50 missions, 100 points

Medal Table

Purple Heart	successful bail out and rescue
Ace (not a medal)	5 kills
Air Man's Medal	15 kills
Distinguished Flying Medal	20 kills
Congressional Medal of Honour	35 kills

Two Player Variant

Two players can play simultaneously as a team. The player with higher rank is the leader, the other player the wing man. The leader attacks always first.

When attacked by missiles, the first missile attacks the leader, the second the wingman, the third the leader and so on. Same thing with the Migs.

Guild Bribes Phase

Pay X FB to gain X Guild Influence. Place X of your HC on the Guild Influence card. The player with the most Influence is said to have the Guilds Favor.

Players may trade cards, FB, Technologies, Scepters, Fleets, Worlds, Influence, etc. during this phase.

Imperial Vote Phase

A Vote is conducted to see which house becomes the new Regent. Players may vote for themselves or from the War deck. The side with more fleets draws 2 extra War cards.

Players may discard up to 5 cards and redraw. There are 4 types of War cards: A side may only use 2 cards of a given type. Each sides adds up the Force value of their War cards to get a Force Total.

Some technologies give bonuses to certain types of War cards. The Higher Force Total wins. Defender wins ties. The loser loses 1 Fleet The winner loses 1 Fleet on a roll of 4+ on 1D6.

If the Attacker won roll 1D6 (Conquest Table):

Symbiot Phase

Roll 1D6. On a roll of 1 the Symbiots attack a random planet. Roll 1D6 to see whom they attack:

D6	Result
4	House Li Halan
5	House Al Malik
6	Planet Stigmata

another player. Players vote with the Scepters they control.

Each Scepter is equal to 1 Vote. The player with the Churches Favor gets to use their 5 Scepters. The player with the Guilds Favor gets to use their 5 Scepters.

The player with the most Votes wins the Regency. If there is a tie, no player becomes Regent, and no Ministers are selected. (If Tied the Regent from the previous turn DOES NOT retain control: it reverts to neutral status) An Excommunicated house cannot vote or become regent or hold a Ministry position.

Ministry Assignment Phase

The Regent assigns the 3 Ministry positions to 3 of the other Houses. The ministries are:

- The Imperial Eye
- The Imperial Fleet
- The Stigmata Fleet

The Imperial Eye Ministry

The Minister gets a free roll on the Intrigue Table in Intrigue Phase.

The Imperial Fleet Ministry

The Minister gains 2 Fleets and all Starship Unit cards played by him in a battle using these Imperial Fleets get an extra +2. If destroyed, the Fleet is rebuilt at no cost at next Regency vote. This Fleet may be used to defend a planet or to attack a Rebel planet.

This Fleet may not be used to attack a House unless it is excommunicated.

The Stigmata Fleet Ministry

The Minister gains 2 Fleets and all Starship Unit cards played by him in a battle using these Stigmata Fleets get an extra +2. If destroyed, a Stigmata Fleet is rebuilt at no cost at the next Regency vote. If any player is attacked by the Symbiots, these fleets must defend.

If any Planets are under Symbiot control, these fleets must attack. These Fleets may not be used to attack a House. The Minister gains control of planet Stigmata.

Stigmata is the planet closest to Symbiot space. It is a Barren planet (income 2 FB) Defending Infantry Units and Mechanized Unit cards on Stigmata get an extra +2.

Regency

The Regent gets control of the planet Byzantium Secundus. This is a Megacity World. The Regent gets the income from this planet (10 FB).

It is protected by the Imperial Guard: When defending Byzantium II the Regent may draw 2 extra cards, and Defending Infantry Units and Mechanized Unit cards on Byzantium II get an extra +2.

Regency Coup

As Regent, you may declare yourself to be Emperor early. If you do so, you become a Rogue Regent. All Votes are suspended.

You lose all Influence. If you remain in possession of Byzantium II for 5 turns, you become the new Emperor.

Attacking Byzantium II

If you attack Byzantium II and conquer it, you automatically become a rogue regent. You may only attack Byzantium II if it is controlled by another player.

Rebel Planets

A Planet may become a Rebel Planet as a result of an Event. The Planet becomes neutral, under no players control, but still in play. The Planet is defended by 1 Rebel Fleet with no tech bonus.

The Rebel uses the War Deck and is played by any other player. On the first turn a Planet goes Rebel, only the player it previously belonged to may attack it. The first player to destroy the Rebel Fleet gains control of the Planet.

If your last remaining Planet goes Rebel, you automatically lose. Note: Byzantium II and Stigmata can never go Rebel.

Last Planet Defense Rule

If you are down to your last planet, it cannot be taken from you in Battle until you have lost your last remaining fleet. Note: You can lose your last house by it going Rebel or if Byzantium II is your last planet and you are voted out.

Some units in the War deck have a "Holy" designation. You can use these only if you have a higher Church Influence than your opponent.

Fairy Circle Ring

Introduction

It is Spring Equinox in the Sylvan woods. The little people, also referred to as Fairies, or Fey have gathered to celebrate. After feasting, storytelling, gossiping, and singing they gather around the Fairy circle ring to play a game they call the Dance of Eights.

The fairies dance in groups until they finally form a perfect circle of eight dancers. The winners get laurel leaves and an extra helping of Pixie dust on their elderberries.

The Deck

The deck contains 2 of each card described in the Card List. All of the cards represent Fey Dancers.

Setup

Each player is dealt 8 cards. The oldest player is the dealer. The deck (the remaining cards) are placed down up in the center of the play area.

One card from the top of the deck is flipped face up into the discard area. Cards in the discard area are not stacked on top of each other.

Turn Events

Players take turns. The youngest player goes first. On your turn you may draw a card from the deck and put it into your hand, or. . . You may take any one card from the discard area and put it into your hand. After gaining a card you must discard any one card from your hand into the discard area face up.

Winning

If a player has made a "Ring" of the 8 cards in his hand he or she wins. Show the hand to the other players. For a hand to be a ring it must satisfy the following requirements: Four of the dancers must be Male.

Four of the dancers must be Female. You must have an even number of Tiny dancers (0, 2, 4. . .). You must have an even number of Small dancers (0, 2, 4. . .).

You must have an even number of Big dancers (0, 2, 4. . .). (Example- you can have 2 or 4 tiny dancers, but not 3 or 5) You must have an even number of Mischievous dancers (0, 2, 4. . .). You must have an even number of Good dancers (0, 2, 4. . .).

You must have an even number of Evil dancers (0, 2, 4. . .). You must have dancers of at least two elements (Earth, Water, Sky, Forest). You cannot have an odd number of dancers of one element.

Fall Of The Aztecs

Introduction

Two player set piece strategic game. One player controls the Aztecs. The other player controls the Spaniards and their allies: The Totonac, Tlascalans, Texcocoans, and Cholula.

Victory Conditions

The Spaniards must capture the Aztec leader Cuahtemoc. The Aztecs must capture the Spanish leader Cortez.

The Map

Use a hex map. The map describes the Capitol city: Tenochtitlan. One side of the city is bordered by lake Texcoco.

Indicate housing, roads, plots, jungle, water, and temple hexes. Walls line the borders between hexes. The city is geometrically organized.

The city is surrounded by walls except the parts bordered by water. There are some internal walls.

Chits

Use counters or chits to represent units.

Setup

The Aztecs have 45 warrior units and one Cuahtemoc unit. The Spaniards have the following units: 5 Totonac units. 10 Tlascalan units.

5 Cholula units. 5 Texcocoan units. 15 Rogue Aztec units.

13 Brigantines (Boats). 5 Conquistador units and one Cortez unit. The Aztecs are inside the city. The Spanish are outside.

Every city must have at least 3 units in it. Each unit represents 10,000 indians or 100 Spaniards.

Turn Sequence

Event Phase Spanish Move Phase Spanish Attack Phase Spanish Rally Phase Aztec Move Phase Aztec Attack Phase Aztec Rally Phase Fire Phase

Event Phase

Roll twice on the Event Table.

Event Table

D6	EVENT
1-3	1 Aztec dies of disease/starvation
4-6	1 Spanish Ally dies of disease/starvation

A player picks which of his units succumbs.

Movement Phases

Units may not stack except for units riding brigantines. A unit gets 1D6 move points. Roll for each unit before it moves. A unit can get 2D6 move points but it cannot attack.

Roads and clear hexes cost 1 point to enter. Housing and plots costs 2 point to enter. Walls cost 2 points to pass.

Temples and jungles cost 3 points to enter. Only units on brigantines can move on water spaces. It costs brigantines 1 point to enter a water hex.

Units may pass through friendly units. Units may not enter or pass through spaces occupied by enemy units. Routed units cannot be moved toward enemy units.

If a routed unit is ever adjacent to an enemy unit, it must move away or be destroyed. Units cannot enter spaces with a fire counter.

Attack Phases

A unit can attack an adjacent enemy unit. Routing units cannot attack. An attacking unit rolls 1D6.

All rolls of 5-6 on 1D6 indicate the defending enemy unit is defeated. On a natural or modified roll of 1 the attacker is defeated. Conquistadors get +1 to their rolls.

Units attacking routed units get +1 to their rolls. Leader units and friendly units adjacent to leader units get +1 to their rolls. Spanish units attacking Aztec units behind city walls get -1 to their rolls.

Aztecs attacking Conquistadors or Cortez get -1 to their rolls. Units on Brigantines get -1 to their rolls. If a unit is defeated roll 1D6.

On a roll of 1-2 the unit is destroyed. On a roll of 3-6 the unit is routed. A routed unit must immediately move away from the attacking unit exactly 1D3 move points or be destroyed.

The Conquest

Fall Of The Weimar Republic

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Theme: Politics in Germany circa 1926-1933.

Victory

Have the most Political Support when the Game ends.

Game End

The game ends when the Anarchy Level is 10 or greater. Discarded Anarchy cards increase the Anarchy Level.

Main Political Parties

There are 4 main Political Parties:

1. Nazis (National Socialist Workers Party)
2. Spartakists (Communists)
3. Catholics (Center Party)
4. Socialists (SPD)

More parties are available if there are more than 4 players. Each Party is represented by a Political Party card, which provides X levels in Propaganda and a Special Ability.

Political Party Cards

Party:	Propaganda	Special Ability:
Nazis	7	Play an extra Organization card each turn
Spartakists	6	Draw an extra Card each turn
Socialists	5	You may always play a Legitimacy card
Catholics	4	Max hand size is 7 cards

The Deck

Not including Political Party cards. Players share a common deck.

Setup

Starting Anarchy Level = Zero. Each player picks one Political Party to control and takes possession of the corresponding Party Card. Each Party has a basic starting Political Support of Zero.

Shuffle the deck. Each player is dealt a random hand of 5 cards. The most German Player goes first.

Political Party Attributes

Each Political Party has 2 Attributes:

1. Propaganda Level
2. Political Support Level

Propaganda Level Attribute

Political Party cards and Organization cards increase a Party's Propaganda Level. Propaganda is needed to win control of Support Groups. Note that Propaganda levels are spent like money.

Your Propaganda Level regenerates fully each turn. Any levels of Propaganda you don't spend are not accumulated. Example: Lets say your Propaganda level is 17. On your turn, you use 10 Levels and 7 go unused. On your next turn you start all over again with 17 Levels of Propaganda.

Political Support Level Attribute

Political Support is accumulated by gaining control of Support Groups.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 8 Phases:

1. Resources Phase
2. Organization Phase
3. Discontent Phase
4. Recruit Phase
5. Steal Support Phase
6. Republic Phase
7. Reichstag Phase
8. Reorganization Phase

Resources Phase

Draw 1 card from the deck and put it in your hand. You may Spend 10 Propaganda Levels to draw 1 extra card. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Organization Phase

Put up to 1 Organization card from your hand into play. Each Organization card has a Propaganda Level.

Cards In Play Rule

Cards in play are kept face up on the table in front of and facing the player who put them there (the owner of the card). Cards in play remain in play from turn to turn until some other rule or card action causes them to be discarded or otherwise removed.

Discontent Phase

You may play (discard) up to 1 Violence or 1 Nationalism card in this Phase.

Recruit Phase

Gain control of up to 1 Support Card. To gain control of a Support card you must first play a Support card from your hand face-up to the Table. Next you must spend Propaganda Levels in excess of the Political Support Rating of the Card to gain possession of it.

The Propaganda Levels you spend are from 2 sources:

1. Your Party & Organization Cards (Which can be used over again every turn)
2. Propaganda Cards (One time use: Discard when played)

Note: You may play more than one Propaganda card. Support cards you control stay face-up in play and Provide continuous Levels of Political Support.

Steal Support Phase

Attempt to gain control of 1 Target Support Card controlled by another player. To do this you must play a Propaganda card that allows this. Next you must spend Propaganda Levels in excess of the: Political Support Rating of the Target Support Card plus The Propaganda Level of the Controlling opponent plus The value of any Propaganda cards the defender plays.

The Propaganda Levels you spend are from 2 sources:

1. Your Party & Organization Cards (Which can be used over again every turn)

2. Propaganda Cards (One time use: Discard when played)

Republic Phase

You may play (discard) up to 1 Government card in this Phase. Government cards describe reactionary efforts of the collapsing Government and Produce a variety of ill-effects on your political opponents.

Reichstag Phase

You may play up to 1 Legitimacy card in this Phase. To play a Legitimacy card, you must have either the most Support Cards in play, or have the highest Political Support Level worth of Support cards, or be tied for either. Like Support cards, Legitimacy cards stay face-up in play and Provide Levels of Political Support.

Reorganization Phase

Max hand size is 5 Cards. Discard down to Max hand Size. All cards are discarded Face-up.

If a player discards 1 or more Anarchy cards on his turn, raise the Anarchy Level by 1.

Special Cards

Some Special cards are played as a reaction to another card play. Otherwise, play them without limit in your Government Phase.

I plan to occasionally add a few cards to the list. I figure once there is about 100 cards that should actually be enough to play a game.

Fantasy Fight Club

Introduction

2 Player game. Combat between 2 opposing fantasy warbands. Game progresses in 2 stages: Recruit Stage Battle Stage

The Decks

There are 5 Decks: Warrior Deck Weapon Deck Armor Deck Spell Deck Fight Deck

Damage

Use tokens to keep track of hits, ammo, and spell effects. Six sided dice are needed.

Recruit Stage

Players create their Warband: Each player is dealt 10 Warriors. Each player is dealt half of the Weapon deck. Each player is dealt half of the Armor deck.

Lay out your warriors on the table in front of you face up in 2 rows. The Rows are the front row and the back row. There must be at least as many or more warriors in the first row as the second.

Assign weapon and armor cards to your warriors. Assigned equipment cards are placed face up partially under the warrior. A warrior can have one shield and one helmet.

A warrior can have a Full suit of armor or one or more Partial armor cards. A warrior can carry several weapons but can only use one per turn. Each unit that has spells draws that number of spell cards from the spell deck.

Spell cards are placed under the warrior face down. Warriors using 2 handed weapons may carry shields but do not benefit from them.

Battle Stage

The opposing warbands fight. Each turn has 3 phases: Draw Phase Tactics Phase Attack Phase

Draw Phase

Discard some or all unused Fight cards from last turn. Each player fills their hand to 7 cards from the Fight Deck. If the deck runs out shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Tactics Phase

Make sure the warriors in your front row equal or outnumber your back row. Warriors can freely be moved from one row to the other this phase. Designate which of his weapons each of your warriors is using this turn.

The weapon of choice is placed on top of his stack of equipment. Some spells are used in this phase.

Attack Phase

Warriors with ranged weapons attack first. Warriors with ranged weapons with higher range scores attack before ones with lower scores. Warriors with ranged weapons can attack from the front or back row.

Warriors may either attack warriors in the opponents front row or roll 1D6:

D6	Result
1-3	Attack target in front row
4-5	Hesitate: Do not attack
6	Attack target in back row

For each ranged attack roll 1D6. On a roll of 4-6 the attack hits. Add the attackers skill and subtract the targets dodge roll. Subtract 1 if the attacker is attacking from the back rating.

If the defender is hit but has a shield roll 1D6. If the roll is within the shields blocking range the attack is blocked. Thrown weapons do not have to be used in ranged attacks, they may be used for HTH instead.

Note that thrown weapons have limited ammo if they are used in ranged combat. Many Spells have ranges and so are played at the same time as ranged attacks. A spell is discarded after it is played. A spell-caster can only cast one spell per turn.

Next warriors in the front row with HTH (Hand-to-hand) weapons may attack targets in the opponents front row. Warriors that have the Backstab ability may roll 1D6:

D6	Result
1-4	Do not attack this turn
5-6	Attack a target in the opponents back row

Opposing Warriors pair up. The warrior with the highest speed rating picks his opponent first and so on until all Warriors in the front rows have picked, or have been picked. If one side has more warriors they may double up on enemy warriors. For each pairing roll 1D6:

D6	Result
1-3	The warrior with the greater speed attacks first
4-6	The warrior with the weapon with longer reach attacks first

For each HTH attack roll 1D6. On a roll of 4-6 the attack hits. Add the attackers skill and subtract the targets dodge rating and weapon parry value. If the defender is hit but has a shield roll 1D6.

If the roll is within the shields blocking range the attack is blocked. If an attack hits roll 1D6. Add the warriors damage bonuses and subtract the opponents armor bonuses.

If the result is positive, the target warrior loses that many hits. If a warrior is reduced to 0 or less hits it is killed.

Fantasy Fighters

Introduction

Card game of Fantasy combat.

The Deck

Use a regular deck of playing cards.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 Phases:

1. Encounter Phase
2. Maneuver Phase
3. Strike Phase

Encounter Phase

Both players fill their hands to 7 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Maneuver Phase

Players may discard up to 4 cards and draw replacements.

Strike Phase

The Active player may make an Attack. Attacks require a combination of 2 or more cards to be played. An Attack will do damage as described in the Fighters Description.

The Defender can make a defense combo to negate or lessen the damage. A Fighter can only make Attacks or Defenses listed in the Fighters description. All played cards are discarded.

Object

Reduce your opponent to zero or fewer Hit Points.

Fighters

Before fighting, each player must select a fighter. Some Fighters are better than others. This is reflected in their Gold cost.

All fighters have hit points and a list of Actions.

Fighter Actions

The description of an Action will include:

1. What combination of cards must be played to generate the Action (The Cost).
2. Whether the action is an Attack, Defense or Special (A/D/S).
3. How much damage the action inflicts or blocks, if any.
4. Special effects caused by the Action.
5. The Name of the Action.

Fantasy Fliers

Introduction

Miniatures rules for aerial skirmishes. All combatants (Fliers) include a mount with usually one rider.

Set Up

One player designs the scenario and provides all the miniatures. The Scenario should include two groups of adversarial fliers. The other player picks which of the two groups he wants to control.

Make 1-2 chits for each spell in the spell list. The scenario designer may designate specific spells in the scenario or distribute random spell chits to spell casters after groups are picked.

Designing Fliers

Pick a mount. Fill up the mount with riders and weapons. (Most mounts can carry 2-4 Size = 1 riders and weapons) For each rider pick a race and class.

Mount Stats

Maximum Speed- Top speed in inches per turn. The Flyer can never normally exceed this without magic or special items. Acceleration- The maximum amount in inches a flyer can increase his current speed per turn.

Deceleration- The maximum amount in inches a flyer can decrease his current speed per turn. This does not include momentum used up by turning, climbing, and diving. Turn Radius- The maximum amount in degrees a flyer can change his facing per inch moved.

Each time a flyer changes facing it uses up one inch of movement. For example a flyer with a current speed of 5 may fly forward 5 inches, or as one possibility fly 3 inches and make 2 turns. Turning radii are in increments of 15 degrees. Climb- The number of inches that must be traveled before the flyers altitude can be increased by one level.

Each time a flyer increases altitude one level, it uses up one inch of movement. Flyers that can hover have a climb value = 0. Dive- The number of inches that must be traveled before the flyers altitude can be voluntarily decreased by one level. Diving does not cost any inches to do.

Flyers that can hover have a dive value = 0. Mounts have 2 Flying Characteristics: Speed & Maneuverability. These determine the base values of the other stats such as Acceleration and Climb

Speed Stat

Speed	Level	Max	Accel	Decl	Climb	Dive	Dodge	Init
Extremely Slow	1	2	1	1	4	4	-1	-1
Very Slow	2	4	1	2	4	3	-	-
Slow	3	6	2	2	3	3	-	-
Average Speed	4	8	2	3	3	2	-	-
Fast	5	10	3	3	2	2	-	-
Very Fast	6	12	3	4	2	1	-	-
Extremely Fast	7	14	4	4	1	1	+1	+1
Extremely Fast-2	8	15	4	5	1	1	+1	+1
Extremely Fast-3	9	16	5	5	1	1/2	+1	+1

Maneuverability Stat

Maneuverability	Level	Turn	Dodge	Init
Very Poor	1	15	-1	-1
Poor	2	30	-	-
Average	3	45	-	-
Good	4	60	-	-

Hits- Damage the flyer can sustain before falling or dying. During battle, keep a running tab of Hits remaining. If reduced to 0 or less hits the mount is

Maneuverability	Level	Turn	Dodge	Init
Very Good	5	90	+1	+1
Very Good-2	6	105	+1	+1
Very Good-3	7	120	+1	+1
Very Good-4	8	135	+1	+1

killed/destroyed.

Capacity- Number of Riders or Large Weapons the Mount can carry. If this is exceeded reduce Maneuverability and speed stats by half (round down). Capacity may not be doubly exceeded.

If the mount is under capacity increase stats by one rank each.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 2 phases: Initiative Phase Main Phase

Initiative Phase

Determine move order. Each Flier rolls 1D10 and adds any Initiative modifiers. High roll moves and attacks first in Main phase.

Next highest roll moves and attacks second in Main phase, and so on. Reroll ties. Get +3 to roll if you are diving out of the sun.

Get +10 to roll for first turn surprise.

Main Phase

During Main Phase every flier gets to move and attack.

Rate Of Fire

Weapons with a ROF of 1 can be used once per turn. Weapons with a ROF of 2+ can be used up to that many times per turn. A ROF of $\frac{1}{2}$ can be fired once every other turn.

A ROF of 1/3 can fire once every third turn. For fractional ROF's it is assumed the rider is spending the time in between Shots actively reloading. If the rider is making other attacks the reloading time must be made up.

Moving

Keep track of each fliers current speed. Speed is measured in inches per turn. Keep track of each fliers current altitude.

Altitude is measured in inches above the table. Use counters to indicate altitude and speed. Maximum altitude is 3 feet above the table.

Keep track of the fliers forward facing. (the miniature has this function) See the Mount Stat section for rules on accelerating, turning, etc. Flyers may attempt to increase their value in any stat +1 at the risk of losing control. At the beginning of his move roll 1D8: On a roll of 1-3 the Flier loses control.

A flier out of control cannot attack during his move. Mounts that cannot hover have a minimum speed = 1. If forced speed = 0 for any reason, the mount stalls and falls.

Attacking

A flier may attack at any point during his move. Keep track of ammo used, spells used, and current Hit Point totals. To attack line of sight must not be blocked.

Flyers block line of sight. Attacks hit on a roll of 6-10 on 1D10. Add attackers bonuses to hit. Subtract defenders dodge bonuses.

If the attack hits roll 1D8: On a roll of 1-6 the attack hits the Mount. On a roll of 7-8 the attack hits the Rider. If there are multiple riders on a mount pick one at random.

Some mounts completely enclose their riders: subtract 1 from roll. If there is a hit, roll a number of 1D6 equal to the weapons damage stat. This is the number of Hit points the target loses.

Targets reduced to 0 hits are killed/destroyed. Subtract the targets armor stat from the damage inflicted. Some attacks do not do damage but have other effects.

Targets of Bombs must be under the attacker.

Every time a flyer is hit the rider will fall on a roll of 1 on 1D6. A hovering flyer is +1 Tohit and -1 Dodge.

Attacks From Below

Flyers cannot attack targets greater than 3 inches above them. Attacks at targets 1-3 inches above the attacker are at 3/4 listed range.

Attacks From Above

Weapon Ranges are reduced as follows if attacking a target at a lower altitude: Height above target Range is % of Listed 1-3 inches 1.00 4-6 inches 0.50 7-9 inches 0.25 9+ 0.00

Spell Attacks

Spell attacks must hit their target like any other attack. If they hit some spells then allow a 'Magic Save'. Roll 1D8: On a roll of 1-6 the spell takes effect. On a roll of 7-8 the spell does not take effect.

Add the defenders Magic resistance to the roll.

Weapon Firing Arcs

Mounted Weapons of size 1 have a firing arc of 90 degrees. Mounted Weapons of size 2 have a firing arc of 60 degrees. Mounted Weapons of size 3+ have a firing arc of 30 degrees.

Most mounted weapons will be positioned forward facing. Hand Weapons and spells attacks can be made in any direction. Attacks with a range of "Adjacent" means the figs must be touching.

Falling

Some attacks will result in the target mount or rider (or both) falling. Figures that fall will hit ground at the end of the turn. Roll 1D6: Rolls of 6+ will cause death. Add 1 per inch fallen. Subtract 1D6 if landing on "soft" ground or water.

Another flyer may, as its move, attempt to catch the faller. Roll 1D10: 1-5 do not catch flyer. 6-10 catch flyer. Add 1 if catching a rider. Subtract 3 if the target is petrified Add catchers Speed and Maneuverability stats. Subtract 9. Subtract 1 if above the faller. Add 3 if below.

Subtract 2 if the faller is heavier than the catcher. A Flyer carrying a Mount has its Speed and Maneuverability stats reduced to 1. Riders may be equipped with parachutes: They fall 2 inches the first turn, and float down 1 inch per turn thereafter.

Poison Attacks

If the attack hits roll 1D8: 1-2 No Effect 3-4 Roll again at the end of next turn. 5-6 Sick: Target is -2 to all rolls for the rest of the battle. 7 Paralyzed: Target cannot do anything for the rest of the battle: Will fall.

8 Death: Will fall. For stink bombs, disease, & flatulence the result is automatically: sick. If it hits the contents of the bag of scorpions gets 1 attack each turn for 1D6 turns.

Nonliving mounts are immune to poison. Arrows may be coated with poison.

Ram Attacks

Units may ram. Ramming attacks are +1 Tohit. If it's a miss the attacker moves past the target.

If it's a hit the defender takes damage = 1D6 + the current speed of the rammer. Blunt rams and Piercing rams also add the speed of the rammer. The attacker takes 1D6 damage.

Grab Attacks

The attacker grabs the target. The target cannot move (except to get closer to the attacker) or attack until it breaks free or is dropped. If the attacker moves the grabbed target moves with it.

To break free roll 1D6 at the end of the turn: 1-2 hold not broken. The grabber may move and do damage next turn. 3-4 hold not broken. The grabber may not move but may do damage next turn. 5-6 the target breaks free.

Each turn after the first the attacker may automatically inflict 1D6 hits of damage. A Flyer grabbing a Mount has its Speed and Maneuverability stats reduced to 1.

Petrification, Gaze, Freeze, Paralyze Attacks

If the attack hits the defender gets a Magic Save just like in the Spell attack section. If the defender fails its save, it is immobilized, and will fall. For gaze attacks the attacker and defender must be facing each other.

These attacks have no effect on nonliving targets.

Stun Attacks

If the attack hits roll 1D6: On a roll of 4 or higher the target loses its next attack.

Web & Net Attacks

If the attack hits the target is entangled. Roll 1D6: 1-2 the target cannot attack 3-4 Target flyer Speed and Maneuverability stats reduced by 1 each 5 Target flyer Speed and Maneuverability stats reduced to 1 6 Target falls The target may attempt to break free of the webs. Roll 1D6 at the end of the turn: 1-3 still entangled 4-6 the target breaks free. Web and net attacks include bolas, goo guns, and lassos.

Mesmerize Attacks

The attacker and defender must be facing each other. If the attack hits the defender gets a Magic Save just like in the Spell attack section. If the defender fails its save, it misses its next attack and must hover or fly at its slowest speed. Nonliving targets are unaffected.

Fear Attacks

The attacker and defender must be facing each other. If the attack hits the defender gets a Magic Save just like in the Spell attack section. If the defender fails its save, it misses its next attack and must fly away at top speed.

Nonliving targets are unaffected.

Smoke & Gas

This action produces a 1 inch diameter 'cloud' of smoke, gas, etc. If the to hit roll is missed place the cloud next to the target. A target is not required.

Smoke, Bubbles and ink jets block line of sight. If a flyer moves through gas or spores roll on the poison attack table. If a flyer moves through mines or bombs it will be hit on a roll of 1-3 on 1D6.

Gas Clouds, Ink jets, Bubbles and Parachute bombs fall 1 inch per turn. Smoke rises 1 inch per turn. Balloon mines do not move.

Fire & Acid Attacks

If hit by a fire or acid attack roll 1D8 at the end of the turn: 1-4 Fire extinguished, Acid neutralized. Do not roll again next turn. 5-6 Smoldering, burning: Take 1 hit point of damage: roll again next turn. 7-8 Burst into flames: Take 1D6 hit point of damage: roll again next turn.

Subtract 3 if doused with water. Subtract 1 if trying to extinguish fire without water. (Cannot attack) Catapult missiles and arrows may be set on fire.

Fantasy Heroes

Introduction

Card Game. Fantasy conquest made simple.

The Decks

There are 2 decks, the Territory deck, and the Battle deck. The Territory deck has 15 cards. There are 5 types of territories: Castles, Mountains, Towers, Forests, and Swamps.

The Territory deck has 3 cards of each. The Battle Deck has 60 cards. There are 4 types of Battle cards: Heroes, Minions, Artifacts, and Spells.

The Battle Deck has one of each of the cards listed in the Card Lists under these four headings.

Objective

Control all of the territory cards.

Setup

Each player gets 4 territory cards dealt randomly from the territory deck. After setup the territory deck is no longer used. All players draw a card from the battle deck. The player who draws the highest BV or AV score goes first. The next highest goes second, and so on. Redraw in case of ties.

Each player starts with 7 cards.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 2 phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Attack Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 3 cards. You may have a maximum of 7 cards in your hand. If you ever have more than 7 cards at the end of a phase, discard the excess cards.

Territory Card List

Name:	#
Castle	3
Mountain	3
Forest	3

Name:	#
Tower	3
Swamp	3

If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and continue play.

Attack Phase

If you have a hero in your hand you may attack. If you don't want to attack you may skip this phase. If you want to attack, pick one of your opponents territories to be the target of your attack.

Play one of your heroes face up on the table. You may also play one artifact card. You may also play one or more Minion cards whose territory matches that of the attacking hero.

For example: A barbarian may have a Giant as a minion, but not a vampire. You may also play one or two spell cards if allowed. Each hero has a spell level of 0, 1, or 2. This is the number of spells the hero may cast during the battle.

Add up the AV (Attack Value) of the Hero plus the BV (Battle Value) of all his minion, spell, and artifact cards. This is the "Total Attack Score." The Defender may play a Hero. The Defender may play one artifact card, only if he played a hero. The Defender may also give his hero spells according to the heroes spell level.

The Defender may play Minion cards that match his heroes territory and the territory that is being attacked. The Defender may play Minion cards that match his territory that is being attacked even if he does not play a hero. Attacker and Defender may continue playing cards until they both pass.

Add up the Defenders BVs and DV (Defense Value) to get a "Total Defense Score." Compare the total scores of the attacker and the defender. If the Attackers Score is higher, he gets to keep the territory card, and draws 2 cards. If the Defenders Score is equal or higher he keeps his territory card and draws 3 cards.

All cards played during the battle on both sides are discarded.

Fantasy Microcosm

Introduction

Card game for 2-4 players. Fantasy Theme. Tit-for-Tat Card-combo mechanisms.

Victory

Have the most points at the end of the game. If tied, just argue about it. . . forever.

The Deck

Players share a common deck of 60 cards.

Card Types

There are 5 card types:

- C Character
- H Holding
- G Group
- E Event
- T Thing

Card Subtypes

Spells = Some Events are identified in their notes as spells.

Card Descriptions

The top left corner states the card type. The top right corner is the card's point value. The upper half is an illustration.

In the middle is the card name. At the bottom is the card combo/ability notes.

Card Abilities

Cards have 1 of 2 types of abilities: When played: These activate as soon as the card is played. Combo: These cards are worth more points if you have the indicated cards in your Fief at the end of the game.

Setup

Shuffle the deck. Each player draws 2 cards. The oldest person goes first.

Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. On your turn, draw 1 card from the deck and play 1 card from your hand. When you play a card place it face up in front of you on the table.

If the card has a non-combo ability this gets used immediately. All the cards in front of you are known as your Fief.

Hand Size

At the beginning and end of your turn, you will normally have just 2 cards in your hand. However several cards have as their ability: Draw 1 Card. (Do this immediately when played) This effectively increases your hand size by 1 for the rest of the game until the End game when you will play all the remaining cards in your hand.

End Game

When the last card is drawn shuffle the discard and draw from it. When there is no deck or discard left, players continue taking turns, playing one card at a time from their hands until all cards are played.

Discard Pile

Cards only ever go into the discard pile when another card sends them there. These cards eventually return to play in the end game.

Steal Ability

When played take the indicated type card from your opponent's Fief and put in your Fief. Important note: When you steal a card, you don't get to use its "when played" ability. You do however still get to make combos with it.

Discard Ability

When played take the indicated type card from your opponent's Fief and put in the discard.

Slay Ability

Like the discard ability except it targets a specific card or two. If the targets are not present nothing happens. If they are present, they are discarded and the owner of the Slayer card gets 2 points (use counters) per target card discarded.

Basic Combo Cards

These give a bonus if you have both cards in your Fief. Place them adjacent so you don't miss any in end game scoring. Note that all Basic combos give the card stating the combo a final score of five.

Super Combo Cards

These are the ones that give you 1 extra point for every 2 cards you have of an indicated type. Round up for this. The Most points you can receive from one of these cards is 10.

Most Of Combo Cards

These require you to compare numbers of types of cards between you and your opponents. If you are tied for most, you get the bonus.

End Game Scoring

It is recommended you use tokens or markers to help tally for final scores. Final scores are based on all the cards in your Fief and the combos they make.

Fantasy Skirmish

Introduction

Board & card game for 2 players. Battle between two Fantasy Armies. Abstract skirmish level combat.

Each figure represents a single hero, monster, or unit.

Victory

You win if you kill all opposing units with Leadership Skill.

The Map

Use an 8x8 chessboard.

Figures

Use chits or miniatures to represent units.

Armies

Pick which type of army you want. Currently available choices include: Dwarves, Orcs, Goblins, Elves, Feudals. Future additional lists may include: Barbarians, Undead, Hobgoblins

Building Your Army

Each Figure has a cost value. A standard army will be worth 150 points. An Army must include a Leader.

A standard army must have 16 figs.

Setup

Each player places one unit on each square of his back two rows. Units may not stack.

The Cards

Players share a 90 card common deck.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 phases: Fate Phase Move Phase Attack Phase

Fate Phase

Draw 3 cards. Max hand size = 5 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Discard excess cards.

Move Phase

Play (discard) a Move card to move one of your units. The move card has a number. This is the number of spaces the unit moves.

Moves can be diagonal or orthogonal. Units cannot move through other units. "Knight" type move cards allow a unit to move like a knight in chess.

The Knight move cards can only be used by units with a Move stat of 3+. Instead of moving just one unit in any direction, you have the option of moving up to three units forward the indicated number of spaces using a single move card.

Attack Phase

Play (discard) an Attack card to have a unit attack. The attack card has a number. The unit must have a Strength value equal to or greater than the value of the Attack card in order to use it.

Attacks can be diagonal or orthogonal. The attack can be at a range equal to or less than the range stat of the attacking unit. Units with ranged attacks cannot attack over (through) other units.

Each attack does one point of damage. A unit reduced to zero Hits is killed and removed from the board. Your opponent may play Defense cards to negate your attack.

A unit that becomes immobilized cannot move, attack, defend or use SA's.

Special Abilities

Most units have one special ability (SA). Discard a SA card to have a unit use its special ability. Some SA's do not require a SA card to be discarded.

Spells

A unit as its special ability may know one or more spells. Before the game starts, pick which spells the unit knows. Spells must be picked from that races Spellbook list.

To cast a spell, just discard a SA card.

Card Set Available

Click Here

Resources & Permanents

Crop and Animal cards are called Resources. Crop, Animal, and Improvement Cards are Permanents. When put in play, they are placed face up in front of the Player that played (owns/controls) them.

They remain in play until a Setback card causes one of them to be discarded.

Events

Overheads, Markets, and Setback cards are Events. Markets cause all players to score points for specific Resource types in play. Setbacks cause a specific Resource card to be discarded (destroyed).

Overhead cards cause all players to lose Points for specific Resource types in play. Event cards are discarded when played.

Resource Limits

A Farm can have 5 Resource cards in Play. Each Improvement card in play allows an additional specific Resource card to be put in play.

Setup

Shuffle the deck. Each player starts with 10 Points. Each player is dealt 3 cards.

The youngest player goes first. Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 phases:

1. Farm Phase
2. Improvement Phase
3. Plant Phase
4. Setback Phase
5. Market Phase
6. Overhead Phase
7. End Phase

Farm Phase

Draw 1 card from the top of the deck & put it in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. A player may pay 3 Points to draw an extra card once in this Phase on his turn.

Improvement Phase

You may put one Improvement into play on your farm. It costs 2 Points to put an Improvement card into Play.

Plant Phase

You may put one Resource card into play on your Farm. It costs 1 Point to put a Resource card into Play.

Setback Phase

You may play 1 Setback card. Setbacks cause a specific Resource card of an opponent to be discarded.

Market Phase

You may play 1 Market card. Markets cause all players to score points for specific Resource types they have in play. For example: Lets say you have the Cow & Goat cards in play.

Bob has the Cattle card in play. Carl has no "Hoof" Animals in play You play a "Milk" card: You get 4 points. Bob gets 2 points & Carl gets none.

Overhead Phase

You may play 1 Overhead card. Overheads cause all players to lose points for specific Resource types they have in play.

End Phase

Discard down to 4 cards.

Farmers Of Ur

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Players each control a settlement in ancient Mesopotamia. Players are trying to be the first to develop their village into a full-fledged city.

This Honor belongs to the first player to build a Ziggurat.

Victory

The first player to accumulate 60 Tokens is the winner. If two players both go over 60 in the same turn, the player with The highest total number of Tokens wins.

Tokens

Tokens represent the manpower and materials needed to build the Ziggurats.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. There are 6 six main suites known as the Resource suites. The 6 Resource Suites:

1. Beer
2. Grain Crops
3. Fruits & Vegetables
4. Animals
5. Crafts & Materials
6. Knowledge

There are also three Minor suites:

1. Disasters
2. Prosperity
3. Structures

Setup

Each player is dealt a hand of 5 cards.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 5 phases:

1. Harvest Phase
2. Disaster Phase
3. Trade Phase
4. Build Phase
5. Burial Phase

Harvest Phase

Each player is dealt 2 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Disaster Phase

Simultaneously, each player may play 1 Disaster card from their hand onto the Player to their left. A player struck with a disaster must discard 3 random cards from their hand. Instead of discarding 3 random cards, some special Resource cards can be Discarded to mitigate a specific type of Disaster.

Some Structure cards make you immune to certain Disasters. If the person to your right does not play a Disaster card on you, you may play (discard) a prosperity card to draw 3 cards.

Trade Phase

Players may trade the cards in their hands with each other. Players may make any sort of deals they want. There are no forced trades.

Limit Trade phase to 5 Minutes.

Build Phase

Players may make Melds from their hands. Melds are made using Resource cards from your hand. Melds are similar to Poker hand combinations.

Different Melds will earn different amounts of Tokens:

Meld	Tokens
5 Card Flush (All cards same Suite)	5
5 Card Straight (5 cards in Numerical Order)	7
5 Card Straight Flush	15
3 of a Kind (Same Number)	3
4 of a Kind	6
5 of a Kind	9
6 of a Kind	12

If you do not play a Meld, you may pay 5 Tokens to put one Structure card into play. Structure cards are placed face up in front of you and their beneficial effects last for the remainder of the game.

Burial Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Excess cards are discarded.

Farscape The Cardgame

by Peter Cobcroft

Introduction

Multi-player Card game. Space Opera / Sci-Fi theme. Warp / Euchre type Format.

Disclaimer

Farscape is a copyrighted, trademarked, licensed property. This is merely a fan site. Warning - this game contains spoilers for the entire series.

Objective

To have the characters with the highest scores by the time the series ends. The character with the highest score is deemed to be the 'star' of the series.

The Decks

There is one common deck to draw from.

Card Types

Character cards. Event cards. Character Exit cards.

Play Change cards.

Setup

Each player receives 5 cards. The player in the blackest clothing goes first. Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

1. Draw a card
2. Play a card
3. Obey any special rules on a card

Game End

The game ends when the 'End of Season' card is played. Note - longer games can be played if four seasons are run. When the 'End of Season' card is played, reshuffle all cards and keep a running score.

Maximum Cards

A player may not have more than five cards in their hand at the beginning of their turn, unless the rules have changed.

Draw A Card

Unless the play rules have changed, a player only draws one card from the deck. If there are no cards left to draw from, reshuffle the discard pile and keep going.

Play A Card

Unless the play rules have changed, a player only plays one card from their hand. They may play it to the active area in front of them, or they may discard the card to the discard pile. Character cards are placed in front of the player whose turn it is. Event cards are placed on top of Character Cards and add to the score of the Character Card, they may also be played on other Event cards for a cumulative effect. Event cards can be played on other player's Characters. If doing so decreases MH or PH to zero, then the character and all events for that character are immediately discarded.

Character Exit Cards are placed on top of all the Events of a particular Character (either yours or someone else's). Rotate the pile sideways - no further cards can be played on it. Character Exit cards can be played on another player's Character if legal. Play Change cards can never be discarded from your hand, and when played they take effect immediately. Place Play Change cards next to the discard pile, they are in effect until another card supercedes them.

Characters

A character, when played, usually starts with 2 Mental Health (MH), 2 Physical Health (PH) and usually 1 in another characteristic (C, T, R, A). If either MH or PH is reduced to zero, the character is out of the game. Take the Character card, and any Event cards played on that character and put them in the discard pile. Event cards usually increase one of a character's four scores - comedy, tragedy, romance or action. It is the sum of these scores that gives a character's final score. An Event card can only be played on another Event card or an un-Exited Character. Character Exit cards are played on a character so that they form a complete character journey, only when a character has had an Exit card played on them do they count towards your score when the game ends. Some Exit cards reduce your scores in certain attributes if they are played. If it reduces an attribute below 1, then it can not be played on that Character.

(zak965@libero.it) version 0.1

FGS is a simple system to be used as a support for the skirmish miniature rules. The idea is quite simple: to provide a mechanism to make possible to move your figures without any ruler while keeping the special "feeling" of the 3-dimensional terrain. FGS is composed of two part: the Movement System and the Command System; both systems can be used independently: the Movement System can be easily introduced on every existing skirmish rule to allow an easy management of the figures on the 3- dimensional map. The Command System can be used to create non-deterministic sequences of play.

Movement System

Map

The map is composed of squares (sectors) - the dimension of each sector is free: it should be enough to accomodate some elements inside of it like trees, buildings and rocks. 15x15cm (6x6 inches) is a good candidate. The playing area is built with these sectors that will realize a simple coordinate system: your figure will be moved using the sector as movement unit. Typical sectors:

- empty (clear)
- big building area
- some small buildings
- rocks
- some trees
- rubbles Each element (tree, building) should be put on the sector so that you can be clearly distinguish from the other ones. Elements should be big enough to accomodate at least one unit or clearly too small to do it (these elements are only used to block the LOS: see the relative chapter for more details). Each sector has a base terrain (normally referred as "ground"): this terrain define the base cost for the movement. Each element will be defined in terms of movement cost (+/-MP to move on the terrain) and with the cover that it can provide (L=light/F=full). An element with cover F+ means that a unit can be completely hidden from this type of terrain. Counters/Figures Both figures and/or counter can be used (we will use the term figure from now on): on each sector a figure will be positionned so that it's clearly on a terrain element or on the basic ground. The basic placement rule is: to be considered "on" a specific terrain a figure must be at least for the 50% of his base "inside" the element. With this rule in mind it's quite clear that the figures can only be:

- outside (in the basic terrain of the sector)
- inside/behind a specific element (if half of the figure base is touching the element).

Movement Basics

Each terrain has a base cost, typically

Type	Cost
Clear:	1MP
Rough/Rubble:	2MP
Trees:	2M

You pay the basic cost:

- every time you move inside a sector (repositioning the figure)
- when you move from an element to the sector where the element is located.

To calculate the movement cost when moving from sector to sector: - you spend 2M when moving orthogonally - you spend 3M when moving diagonally
Entering/Moving in/Using a terrain element:

- +1MP if the element provide Light Cover.
- +2MP if the element provide Full Cover.

Each figure has a number of MP: a good candidate is

- standard figure: 4/5 MP
- slow figure: 3MP
- fast figure: 5/7 MP
- very fast figure 8+ MP

Using this numbers is quite easy to convert the MP of your skirmish rules to the FCS values

Movement Examples

Example1: a 5MP figure on a clear terrain sector can move North on the adiacent sector (2MP for the orthogonal move) and then take cover on a bulding providing Full cover (1MP for the base cost +2MP full cover terrain).

diagonally NE (3MP) and then move East (2MP).

Example2: a 6MP figure is on a building; it moves outside on the sector (1MP for the base cost) then move

Example3: a figure is right behind a structure (for LOS purposes). An enemy unit is now moved on an adjacent sector and gains a free LOS. The unit is moved on the same sector on a different position behind the same building: the movement cost is 1MP.

Los (line Of Sight)

When you move a figure you should position his base so that is clear if the figure is on the ground or is inside a specific element. A figure on the ground (outside) can be positionned everywhere in the sector: the specific position on a sector doesn't change the movement costs, but is important for the LOS (Line of Sight). The LOS is used to determine which units can use a direct fire weapon against a specific target: LOS take in account the elements on the sectors that can "hide" the figures (example: buildings). The basic rule is: a free LOS exists if at least the 50% of the target figure can be seen from the center of the spotting unit.

Range

Range can be calculated using the rulers (in the LOS determination process) or you can use a simpler approach:

- short range: same sector
- medium range: 1 sector of distance
- long range: 2-3 sectors of distance

Command System

The command system can be introduced on nearly every skirmish rule to create a nondeterministic sequence of play. The basic idea is simple: use a deck to determine your pool of command points and then spend this points to activate some of your units. The command is managed using a deck containing:

- Action cards (1-3pts) used to move your units
- Control cards (1-3pts) used to fire/rally your units
- Specials Action and Control cards are also referred as Command cards: Specials are played to modify a specific event (normally the fire process). The "hand" of each player is normally of 6 cards: these represent the overall command capability for the current turn; depending on the Leader quality (see below) the hand size could be different. You can play 2 Action and/or Control cards in your turn. The played cards determine the total AP (action points) and CP (Control points) for this turn. At the end of your adversary turn the hand is refilled. The AP and CP are spent to activate your units AP CP Command 1 - half move (no restriction) 1 - full move but the unit cannot take cover 1 1 full move (no restriction)

 2 - full move (no restriction) - 1 short range fire
 (not heavy weapons) - 1 emergency fire (not heavy weapons) - 1 reaction fire - 2 full fire (including heavy weapons) for any unit in phase - 1 full fire (including heavy weapons) for a unit - in Opportunity Fire mode 1 - remove pinned marker - 1 remove pinned marker - 2 rally - 1 put unit in Opportunity Fire mode

Unspent AP and/or CP are kept until the beginning of your next turn (used to trigger the opportunity/reaction fire). Emergency fire is a medium/long range fire with less control (efficiency) and is executed in your phase. Reaction fire is conducted against an enemy unit advancing in your sector (only) during your adversary turn. In both cases a negative modifier is applied to the defender fire. In contrast, a unit in Opportunity Fire mode can fire without any modifier at any range (no restrictions). Designer note: with this numbers it's easy to calculate that in the best case only 2-3 units will be able to be fully activated. When playing with 10+ units you probably need to adjust the number of playable cards.

A candidate standard deck composition is the following:

- 4x Action cards (3pt)
- 8x Action cards (2pt)
- 12x Action cards (1pt)
- 4x Control cards (3pt)
- 8x Control cards (2pt)
- 12x Control cards (1pt)
- 2x Precision (the target attacking unit gain a bonus on the "to hit" roll this turn)

- 2x Critical hit (the target attacking unit gain a bonus to the "damage roll" this turn)
 - 2x Defensive manœuvre (the target defending a bonus on the "to hit" roll this turn)
 - 2x Superficial Hit (the target defending unit gain a bonus to the "damage roll" this turn)
 - 2x Weapon Malfunction (the target enemy figure cannot fire this turn)
 - 2x Initiative (you can play an additional Command card in your turn)
 - 2x Incomplete Order (your adversary can play 1 less Command card this turn)
 - XX FOW cards (see the leader chapter)
- Other possible Special Cards ideas
- Coordination (2 units can fully move spending only 2MP)
 - Fire Group (2 units can fully fire spending only 2MP)
 - Run (a unit gain 2MP this turn) Unexpected Difficult terrain (a unit has -2MP this turn) LEADERS
 The specific leader capabilities are reproduced with three different mechanisms:
 - different hand size (+/- 1 card)
 - Fog of War (FOW) cards
 - different deck composition for the two players
 FOW cards are simply cards with no effect that you can play in your turn (no points are gained) or keep in your hand. Depending on the leader quality you can add a variable number of FOW cards to the relative deck
 - standard leader: 4 FOW cards
 - poor leader: 8 FOW cards (-1 hand size)
 - very good leader: 2 FOW cards and +1 hand size

Federation

Introduction

Star Trek Theme. Module for the Warp Empires: Basic Rules System And Campaigns Warp Empires system. You must use the Warp Empires system to play this game.

Dice

Six-sided dice are needed in this scenario.

Map

Over half the territories are empty space. Revenue generating spaces are planetary systems. Other territory types include: Supernovas: No entry possible. Nebulas: Ships must stop upon entering. Worm Holes: Allow instant transport to other Worm Holes.

Victory

You win if you control over 60% of the systems on the map.

Races

Each player picks a race: United Federation of Planets Klingon Empire Romulan Star Empire Ferengi Alliance Cardassian Union Borg Collective

Setup

Each player starts with a Homesystem with 10 random units.

1D6	Consequence:
1-3	The Exploring stack is destroyed.
4-5	The Exploring stack must retreat.
6	Roll again plus if there was a Minor Race Present, it is destroyed.

A system cannot be controlled by diplomacy or conquest if it has an unresolved Enigma. If the stack is destroyed the Enigma remains and must be faced again. If the Enigma is solved, it goes away forever.

Diplomacy Phase

Include a Diplomacy phase after Enigma phase. If the newly explored planet has a Minor Race roll 1D6. On a roll of 6 or better, the race willingly joins your

Units & Action Deck

Players share a common Action deck and unit chit pile.

Exploration Phase

Include an exploration phase after movement phase. When entering an unexplored system for the first time roll three six sided dice to determine The presence of Resources, Minor Races, and Enigmas.

1D6	Resources:	Revenue:
1-2	Poor	1
3-4	Moderate	2
5-6	Rich	3

1D6	Minor Race:	Revenue:
1-3	No Minor Race	-
4	Primitive Race	+1
5	Modern Race	+2
6	Advanced Race	+3

1D6	Enigmas:
1-4	No Enigma
5-6	Enigma

Enigma Phase

Include an Enigma phase after exploration phase. If the planet has an Enigma roll 1D6. Add +1 to the Enigma roll if the stack contains a Command ship or Science Vessel.

On a roll of 5 the Enigma is solved. On a roll of 1-4 the Enigma causes unintended consequences. Roll 1D6 to see what they are:

empire.

If you roll a 1-2 the race will never join your empire through diplomacy. The Federation and Ferengi players get +1 to the Diplomacy roll. The Federation cannot conquer newly discovered Minor races, they can only use diplomacy.

If a diplomacy attempt fails, you can try again next turn.

Revenue Phase

Each system generates revenue equal to its: Resource type + Minor Race Type. If the system has no minor race, you must first build a colony. Terraformed Systems generate +1 Income.

Homesystems generate 10 Revenue points per turn. Cardassians generate an extra point of revenue from Minor Races due to their oppressive rule of The subjugated race Borg generate an extra point of revenue from Minor Races due to their assimilation of manpower. Ferengi generate one less point of revenue from Minor Races because their control is based strictly on trade.

Recruit Phase

Units must start at your Homeworld, a Starbase, or a planet with a Shipyard. You may build colonies and shipyards and Terraform on systems other than your Homeworld at will. A system can have a maximum of 1 colony and 1 shipyard and 1 Terraform.

A Minor Race Planet cannot be Terraformed. A system must first have a colony to have a functioning shipyard or to Terraform. A Starbase may be built in a non-system space adjacent to a system you control.

Battle Rules

Opposing stacks in the same space do not have to attack each other if they both declare that they are on Diplomatic missions. If the Borg win a battle (engagement) they get to keep and control (assimilate) half the enemy casualties. Treat Leaders like other units with respect to casualties.

Players may attempt to conquer minor races. The Minor Race will generate 1D6 x 1D6 Force in its defense. When attacking a colony or Minor Race controlled by an enemy the defender will get +10 Force. (Garrisons, Planetary Defenses) When attacking a Homeworld controlled by an enemy the defender will get +20 Force.

Klingons get +5 Force when battling at a system. Units in Battle adjacent to a friendly Starbase get +5 Force.

Recommended Alternate Rules

Provided by Jim Stults <jamesbstults@yahoo.com> and friends (Thanks Guys!):

1. The manor has a battle value of 1.
2. Fate phase: Draw 3 cards and then discard 1.
3. Scutage: Maximum of 10 glory
4. Battle phase: An attacking player announces the land that they intend to attack.

If the battle is won, by the attacker, they gain control of that land. If the battle is won by the defender, the attacker chooses a land to cede to the defender. A player totals the value of all cards that they wish to commit to a particular combat (whether attack or defense). These cards are set aside in an overlapping stack.

They may not be used for another combat until it is that players turn again. They are assumed to be fighting on a particular front and unavailable to other fronts. A defending player may opt to retreat. By retreating, the defender surrenders the targeted land.

Dice are not rolled, and no battle cards are discarded.

5. Card Numbers. 8 each of Foot Soldiers and Farms. 4 of Thieves and Banditry.

Fiefs

Intro

Medieval Dukes contest for gold and lands.

Object

The player with the most gold at the end of the game wins.

Board

The board is a 3x3 grid. The Central square is the Palace. The 8 Surrounding squares are the lesser Fiefs.

Deck

Players use a common deck. The deck contains 78 cards.

Pieces

Use coins to represent Gold. Each player has a set of pieces of a unique color. Use colored cardboard counters (chits) for pieces.

There are 4 types of pieces in a set: Control markers, Bishops, Nobles, & Knights. A set should have 9+ of each piece type. Control markers are blank.

Bishops, Nobles, & Knights are called pawns Mark bishop counters with a "B" Mark noble counters with a "N" Mark knight counters with a "K"

Pawn Chart

UNIT(PAWN)	FORCE	NOTES
Bishops	1	Inquisitions +2
Nobles	1	Coups +2
Knights	1	Sieges +2

Setup

Each player starts in control of one corner Fief. Players put all of their pawns into their starting Fief. Each player starts with 3 Bishops, 4 Nobles, and 5 Knights.

Each player starts with 6 gold and a hand of 7 cards. Determine turn order alphabetically. The first player to go in a game must lose 4 gold & 1 card.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 6 phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Taxes Phase
3. Move Phase

4. Event Phase
5. Contest Phase
6. Recruit Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 card. You may pay 2 gold to draw an extra card. If the deck runs out the game ends.

Maximum hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Taxes Phase

Gain 3 gold. Gain an additional 1 gold for each Fief you control. Gain an additional 2 gold if you control the Palace.

Move Phase

You may move any 1 of your pawns to an adjacent space. Pawns may move orthogonally but not diagonally. You may move your pawns into Fiefs controlled or occupied by other players.

You may discard a move card from your hand to move a pawn of the type indicated on the card.

Event Phase

You may play an Excommunication card to cause any target opponents pawn to be removed from the game. You may play a plague card on a target square. All players with pawns on the square must remove 1 of those pawns from the game.

You may play a Peasant Revolt to cause a target control marker to be removed. Play a Crusade card to cause a target Knight to be removed from the board for 3 turns. The Knight returns to the palace in Event phase with 5 gold. The Pilgrimage card is a "crusade" card for Bishops.

The Envoy card is a "crusade" card for Nobles. All "Played" cards are discarded.

Contest Phase

Play a contest card to try to gain control of target Fief (or Palace). You must have a Pawn in the target Fief. There are 3 types of contest cards: Siege, Inquisition, and Coup cards.

If no one controls the Fief you gain control of it. Place a control marker on Fiefs you control. If another player controls the Fief there will be a contest.

Both players must determine their force total for the contest: A pawn is worth 1 Force point. A knight is an additional +2 in Siege contests. A bishop is an additional +2 in Inquisition contests.

A noble is an additional +2 in Coup contests. Certain cards can be discarded (Armies, Courtesans, and Heresy) to add additional Force. These are called ally cards. Players may increase force by +1 per gold paid. Players secretly write down how much gold they are bidding on scrap piece of paper. The gold bids & allies are revealed simultaneously.

The player with the most Force wins the contest. The current controller wins ties. The winner gains control of the Fief (or the Palace) The loser must retreat one his pawns into an adjacent space.

You may play as many contests as you have contest cards. You may initiate a contest of any type, for any square, once on your turn, without discarding a Contest card, for a price of 3 gold. Sieges cannot take place at the palace.

Recruit Phase

You may discard a "Gain" card to gain a pawn of the type indicated on the card. You may pay 3 gold to gain a pawn of any type. New pawns start in a Fief you control or the Palace.

Victory

The first player to win 3 hands in a row wins the game.

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

Setup

Determine who is good and who is evil.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Luck Phase
2. Search Phase
3. Action Phase
4. Run Phase

Luck Phase

Each player draws a hand of 8 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Search Phase

Players may discard up to 4 cards and draw replacements.

Action Phase

Players reveal their hands. The hand with the highest total point value wins. If there is a Tie, replay the hand.

Record who won the hand. If your hand has 2 or more cards of the same suite, each card gets +1 to it's Point Value.

Run Phase

Players discard their hands.

Fighting Front

Introduction

Board game for 2 players. WWII theme.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. Note that cards are used as pieces.

AAAAA	Players A's Back Row
AAAAA	Players A's Middle Row
AAAAA	Players A's Front Row
XXXXX	Players X's Front Row

Victory

Occupy 2+ spaces of your opponents back row.

Setup

Each player draws the top 20 cards from his deck. Players deploy these cards to the 15 spaces they control. A Single space may contain a maximum of: 1 Unit card, 1 Leader card, & 1 Location card.

Event cards can never be deployed, they remain in the players hand. Players take turns deploying 1 card at a time, Axis player first.

Dice

Ten sided dice are needed.

Ownership Markers

Use markers to denote which units are yours

Disruption Counters

Leader cards cannot be given disruption counters (DC's). A ground unit card or location card with DC's exceeding its Toughness is destroyed (discarded). A Unit always gets -1 to its rolls for each DC it has.

Air Units

Air units may only be placed in a space that has an Airfield Location card. A Space with an Airfield Location card may hold any number of Air Units & Leaders. If an Airfield is destroyed, all Air units at it are also destroyed.

If you do not have an Air Strip, you may still use Air Units as Fly Over Units A Fly Over Unit starts from off the board and is discarded at the end of the turn.

The Map

The Map (Board) is a 5 x 6 Grid. Each space must comfortably hold 1 card. Each player starts in control of half the board, a 5 x 3 section.

For example for player A & Player X

AAAAA	Players A's Back Row
XXXXX	Players X's Middle Row
XXXXX	Players X's Back Row

Season = Turn. Each year starts with Winter.

Victory

The player with the most Victory Points (VP) at the end of the game wins.

End Game Scoring

Gain 2 VP for each Colonist Token you have. Each Building is worth a base 5 VP. Some Buildings are worth additional VP.

The Decks

There are 6 Decks:

1. Leader Deck
2. Site Deck
3. Action Deck
4. Build Deck
5. Food Deck

Leader Deck

Each player starts with 1 Leader randomly drawn. During play when a Leader is lost, a new card is drawn to replace them. Leaders provide a benefit to their colony.

Each Colonist Token (CT) symbolizes 10 people.

Food Tokens

Each Food Token (FT) represents enough food to feed 1 CT for 1 Season (1 Turn). Unused Food Tokens can be saved from turn to turn.

Stock Token

The Stock Token (ST) represents whether you have Livestock or not. If you ever have a food shortage, it is assumed that all of the Livestock have been slaughtered and eaten; You loose your ST. This also represents stored food brought over from England.

Every time a Ship arrives, you regain your ST if you lost it.

Plant Tokens

These represent seeds planted in the spring to be harvested in Fall.

Land Purchase Tokens

These can be bought in Trade Phase.

Dice

6 sided dice are needed. (1D6) 10 sided dice are needed (1D10)

Optional Rules

Trade Option

The Colonies had very little contact in the beginning, however, to Increase player interaction in this game, Players may at any time freely trade cards from their hands, as well as CT and FT.

Simultaneous Turns Option

Players may take their turns together. If you choose to proceed together, each player goes in turn order (determined in setup) within each Phase.

Random Season Start Option

Instead of starting in Winter (Historical Coincidence) players each Start in a random Season.

Two Leader Option

Each colony has 2 Leaders.

First War Of Scottish Independence

Introduction

Card game for 2 players. Theme: War in Scotland circa 1296-1314

Victory

The player with the most Territories at the end of the game wins. If at any time one player controls all 20 Territories, that player automatically wins. The game drags on for 18 years unless there is an automatic win.

Territory Tokens

Each of these represents a piece of Feudal Scotland. Each player starts the game with 10.

Turns

Each turn is 1 year. Each year has 4 seasons. The Year ends after Winter and starts with Spring.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck contains 6 card types: Leaders, Nobles, Troops, Strategy, Event, Victory

Unit Cards

Leaders, Nobles, and Troops are Units.

Leader Cards

A player may have a max of one Leader card in Play at a time. Scottish Leader Cards represent Wallace or Bruce. English Leader cards represent Edward I or II, or an English General.

Setup

Each player starts with 10 Territory Tokens. One player takes the role of the Scots. The other player is the English.

Each player is dealt 5 cards.

Seasonal Turn Sequence

This applies only to the Spring, Summer, and Fall Seasons. Each Season is divided into 6 Phases: Logistics Phase Recruit Phase Event Phase Battle Phase Victory Phase End Phase

Logistics Phase

The Scottish Player draws 3 cards. The English Player draws 4 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Recruit Phase

Put Unit cards in your hand face-up onto the table in front of you. These remain in play until lost due to Events, Battle or Winter Rules. You may only have one Leader card in play.

If you control more Lowland Nobles draw 1 extra card. The Scots can have a max of 2 Cavalry and 2 Archers in play.

Event Phase

Players may play Event cards this Phase. Players take turns playing 1 Event at a time. Start with the English Player.

You must play an Event or skip the rest of the Phase.

Battle Phase

Players tally their Force Points: The Player with the most Leader Cards gets 1 Force Point. The Player with the most Nobles gets 1 Force Point. The Player with the most Troops gets 1 Force Point.

If tied in a category, neither player gets the Point. Starting with the Scottish Player, players take turns playing (discarding) one Strategy card at a time. Each Strategy card played is worth 1 Force Point.

If you have fewer territories and you control more Highland Nobles get 1 extra Force Point.

Victory Phase

The player with the highest Force Total from Battle Phase wins the Season. The Scottish player wins ties. The winner steals 1 Territory Token from his opponent.

The loser must discard 1 Unit card from Play. The winner may also play (discard) 1 or more Victory cards.

End Phase

You may discard a card you cannot play to draw a replacement card. Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards. Record the passage of time: Season and Year.

Winter Turn Sequence

Winter turns have 2 Phases: Quartering Phase Recruitment Phase

Quartering Phase

The English Player must discard his Leader card if he has one in play. The English player must discard all but 2 of his units. The Scottish player must discard all but 3 of his units.

The player with the most Territories may keep one additional unit in play. Players discard their hands. Shuffle the discard into the deck.

Recruitment Phase

The Scottish player draws 3 cards. The English player draws 4 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Battle Phase

Play (discard) an Attack card to have a unit attack. A unit must use an attack card that is the same as his weapon. For Example: Elves & Goblins can only use Bow & Arrow cards.

The attack card has a number. This is the range of the attack. Attacks are diagonal or orthogonal.

"Knight" type attack cards produce an attack with a range like a knight in chess. The enemy unit that is the target of the attack is automatically killed and removed from the map. Units cannot attack through other units.

Your opponent may play a defense card to negate your attack. Elf and Warg units can make two attacks per turn (using two attack cards)

Flash Cards

Introduction

Card game based on the TV show The Flash

Disclaimer

The Flash is a licensed copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

-At the end of the game the Player with the most Foe cards in his Victory pile wins. -If there is a tie players settle it with a Foot race. -The game ends when the last Foe card in the Foe Deck is captured

The Decks

There are 3 Decks:

1. The Flash Deck
2. The Foe Deck
3. The Mod Deck

The Flash Deck

These are called Flash Cards. Cards in the Flash deck have 2 numerical Traits:

1. Speed
2. Investigation

Speed is used to overcome the Threat Trait of Foe cards. Investigation is used to overcome the Plot Trait of Foe cards. Numerical values of these cards range from +1 to +7.

The Foe Deck

These are called Foe cards. Crime cards need to be overcome using Flash cards. Cards in the Foe deck have 2 numerical Traits:

1. Threat
2. Plot

The Mod Deck

These are called Mod or Modifier cards. Modifier cards are attached to Crime cards and increase their Trait values. Cards in the Mod deck have 2 numerical Traits:

1. Threat
2. Plot

Setup

Shuffle the Decks. Decks are face down. The Fastest running Player goes first.

Flip over the top 2 cards of the Foe Deck: Place them face up in the middle of the table.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Foe Phase
2. Flash Phase
3. Capture Phase
4. Final Phase

Foe Phase

-If there are less than 2 Foe cards face up in the Middle of the table, then flip over replacements. -Each Foe card gets 1 Mod card attached to it. If a Foe card does not have a Mod then card flip over A Mod card and place it slightly under the Foe card To show they are attached.

-A Foe card will only ever have 1 Mod card attached. -At the end of Foe Phase there should be 2 face-up Foe cards in the middle of the table with a Mod card Attached to each.

Flash Phase

The current player fills his hand to 7 cards. If the deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Capture Phase

-The current player plays Flash cards from his hand to Capture one of the Face-up Foe cards. -The Total Speed value of the Flash cards must exceed the total Threat value of the target Foe card and attached Mod card. -The Total Investigation value of the Flash cards must exceed the total Plot value of the target Foe card and attached Mod card.

-If both these conditions are satisfied, the player puts the Foe Card into his Victory pile. The Flash and Mod cards are discarded. -The current player may then also capture the second face-up Foe card, if he has the resources to do it.

Final Phase

The current player may discard any number of cards from his hand.

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 phases: Orders Phase Maneuver Phase Fire Phase

Orders Phase

Draw 3 cards. Max hand size = 5 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Discard excess cards.

Maneuver Phase

Play (discard) a Move card to move one of your Ships. The move card has a number. This is the number of spaces the Ship moves.

The Fleet Tables list what type of Move cards each unit can use. Moves can be diagonal or orthogonal. Instead of moving just one Ship in any direction, you have the option of moving one or more Ships forward the indicated number of spaces using a single move card.

Fire Phase

Play (discard) an Attack card to have a Ship attack. The attack card has a number. This is the range of the attack.

Attacks can be diagonal or orthogonal. "Knight" type attack cards produce an attack with a range like a knight in chess. Each attack does one point of damage.

Use Chits or coins to record damage. A ship reduced to 0 Hits is destroyed and removed from the board. Your opponent may play (discard) Defense cards to negate your attack.

Fortifications

These can substitute for ships in certain scenarios. A Planet occupies a single space. Up to 20 or more Planetary Defense units can be located on a planet.

PDU's attack like ships. Once all the PDU's on a planet are destroyed, 1 or more Boarding attacks will capture the planet.

Terrain

Nebula- Ships must stop upon entering. Fringe World - Requires 1 Boarding attack to capture. Core World- Requires 2 Boarding attacks to capture.

Hive World- Requires 3 Boarding attacks to capture. Black Hole- A Ship may enter this space, but if it does not move on its next turn, it is destroyed. Super Nova- No Ships may enter this space.

Asteroid Field- Ships must stop upon entering. Also Any Large ship entering this space takes 1 Hit of Damage. Star Gates- Go in One and come out any other.

Line Of Sight

Ships do not block LOS. Ships can shoot into a Terrain space, but not through it.

Fokker

Introduction

WWI Biplane dog fighting. Get in your Sopwith Camel and take out some Albatrosses. 1 plane per player.

Board

Use a Hex map. The map should depict a sky with clouds, or a WWI battlefield.

Pieces

Each player gets to fly one WWI era fighter plane. The model or figure or pawn must fit within 1 space of the map. Six sided dice are needed.

Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck has 52 custom cards.

Altitude

There are 6 steps of Altitude (1-6). Use a six sided die to record the altitude of your plane. The ground would be considered altitude = 0.

Ammo

A plane can shoot a maximum of 12 times. Use dice to record Ammo.

Setup

Planes start on opposite ends of the map facing towards the middle. Planes start at an altitude of 1D6. Your plane starts with a velocity = 3. Players start with 2 cards each.

Turn Sequence

During every round each player gets a turn. At the beginning of each round each player rolls high on 1D6 to determine turn order. Reroll ties. Keep the turn order constant in a 2 player game.

Each turn has 2 phases:

1. Draw Phase

2. Move Phase

2a. Shoot Segment 2b. Observer Shoots Segment

Draw Phase

Draw 2 cards from the common deck. Maximum hand size = 6. Discard excess cards.

If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and use it. You may discard 2 cards to draw 1 card once on your turn.

Move Phase

Your plane must move a number of spaces equal to its velocity. Velocity ranges from 0 to 6. Use a die to record your plane's velocity.

You may freely change your facing 1 arc (hex side or 60 degrees) anytime during your move. You may freely increase (Climb) or decrease (Dive) your altitude 1 step anytime during your move. You may freely increase or decrease your velocity by 1 anytime during your move.

You may discard a move card from your hand to gain extra movement anytime during your move. The number of Move cards you can play per turn is determined by plane type. A description of the movement allowed by each type of Move card: Left: change your facing 1 arc to the left.

You may decrease your altitude 1 step. Right: change your facing 1 arc to the right. You may decrease your altitude 1 step.

Hard Left: change your facing 1 arc to the left and velocity +1. You may decrease your altitude 1 step. Hard Right: change your facing 1 arc to the right and velocity +1.

You may decrease your altitude 1 step. Forward: Velocity +1 or -1. You may increase or decrease your altitude 1 step.

Slide Left: Move your plane into the space 1 arc to the left of forward. Do not change the plane's facing. You may decrease your altitude 1 step. Slide Right: Move your plane into the space 1 arc to the right of forward.

Do not change the plane's facing. You may decrease your altitude 1 step. Immelman (Loop): Move backwards 4 spaces. Do not change the plane's facing. You may increase or decrease your altitude 1 step.

You must have a velocity of 5+ to do a loop. If your ending velocity = 0 or 1, your opponent may play a Stall card on you. If you stall, you must play a recover card or you immediately drop 2 steps of altitude.

If this puts you at 0 or less steps you crash. All cards played are discarded. Two planes in the same hex at the same altitude crash.

Shoot Segment

This segment is part of your Move phase. You make take this segment at any point during your Move phase. You must discard a Shoot Card to attack.

If your opponent is 6 spaces directly in front of you he takes 1D6-5 hits. If your opponent is 5 spaces directly in front of you he takes 1D6-4 hits. If your opponent is 4 spaces directly in front of you he takes 1D6-3 hits.

If your opponent is 3 spaces directly in front of you he takes 1D6-2 hits. If your opponent is 2 spaces directly in front of you he takes 1D6-1 hits. If your opponent is 1 space directly in front of you he takes 1D6 hits.

The target must be at the same altitude or 1 step lower. A plane that takes 6 or more hits is shot down. The target player may discard a Recover card to evade the attack.

The attacker may also play a stall card on an opponent that was hit. Every time a plane is hit for 1 or more points of damage roll 1D6. On a roll of 1 on 1D6 roll on the Critical Hit Table.

Observer Shoots Segment

This segment is part of your Move phase. You make take this segment at any point during your Move phase. If your plane has an observer, play a Shoot card to let him attack.

The observer attacks into the 60 degree arc behind the plane. If your opponent is 3 spaces behind you he takes 1D6-4 hits. If your opponent is 2 spaces behind you he takes 1D6-3 hits.

If your opponent is 1 space directly behind you he takes 1D6-1 hits. The target must be at the same altitude or 1 step higher. A plane that takes 6 or more hits is shot down.

The target player may discard a Recover card to evade the attack. The attacker may also play a stall card on an opponent that was hit. Every time a plane is hit for 1 or more points of damage roll 1D6.

On a roll of 1 on 1D6 roll on the Critical Hit Table:

Critical Hit Table

1D6	Hit	Notes
1	Pilot Killed	Kill the observer first if there is one.
2	Engine Damaged	Max Speed -2.
3	Gas Tank Punctured	Plane must land in 2D6 turns.
4	Cables Severed	Maneuverability -1.
5	Controls Jammed	Hand Size -2.
6	Struts Damaged	Plane can no longer climb or loop.

Name	Side	Maneuverability	Observer
Sopwith Camel	Allies	2	No
Bristol F2b	Allies	1	Yes
Fokker D-V11	German	2	No
Albatros C-V	German	1	Yes

Maneuverability is the number of Movement cards a plane may use on its Move turn. Planes with observers have a max speed of 5. Planes without observers have a max speed of 6.

Aces

Ace pilots get +1 Maneuverability. Aces have 5+ kills.

Aerial Obstacles

These include Clouds & Balloons. Use counters to indicate these on the map. Indicate the altitude of Clouds and balloons.

Clouds

Clouds may occupy 1 or more hexes. Planes may move into or through clouds. Planes cannot shoot into or through clouds.

Balloons

Balloons occupy 1 hex. Planes may shoot down balloons. (1 hit destroys them) Planes that move into balloons crash.

Ground Attacks

Ground units are stationary. Use counters to indicate ground units on the map. Rifles have a range of 1 hex and 1 altitude step.

Machine guns have a range of 1 hex and 2 altitude steps. Flak guns have a range of 3 hexes and 6 altitude steps. If an enemy plane comes in range of one of your ground units, discard a shoot card to do damage in your shoot phase: Rifles do 1D6-5 damage.

A machine gun does 1D6-4 damage. A Flak gun does 1D6-2 damage.

Victory

Shoot down your opponents. Other scenario objectives may include: Shooting down balloons, spotting missions, aerial photography, strafing/bombing trenches, dropping propaganda leaflets, etc.

The following counter & card set was created by Janne Thörne: jan.thorne@mail.bip.net Janne has also made sets for Blitz, Cannonade & Midway.

Biplane Dogfight Game Rabbidgerbal

Formula Ace Racing Pods

By Emmanuel Delva, (C)2001 All rights reserved.

1/ Game Description

This game is a futuristic race of the WipeOut or Star Wars episode 1 kind. Players will need to get:

- Miniatures or counters for the ships,
- One six-sided dice per player. 1D in the rules means roll one such die. 2D equals the sum of two dices.
- Some small change or other markers will be used as beacons for the circuits.
- And players will need some roaster to keep track of the ships names, their pilots' levels, the damage they could be delivered, and (most important) the real amount of the previous turn move (their actual speed). The rules are designed to work in centimetres. For those amongst you not accustomed to this measures, simply use 2 centimetres equals one inch.

2/ Ships Available

Each kind of ship is described by several stats. They are : speed in cm, damage resistance ability in hit points and space available within the ship for further customisation.

Alpha	Speed = 24	Hit Points= 8	BAE + 4 Space available
Beta	Speed = 22	Hit Points= 9	BAE + 5 Space available
Lambda	Speed = 20	Hit Points= 10	BAE + 6 Space available
Tau	Speed = 18	Hit Points= 11	BAE + 7 Space available
Gamma	Speed = 16	Hit Points= 12	BAE + 8 Space available

* BAE : Basic Aeronautics Equipment : 2 oxygen boosters (highly explosive) and 2 maneuver fins.

3/ Competitions

A single championship is made of one or several circuits. Except if otherwise voted by all players, all circuit will have to be played three time, once for each category. Each race belongs to one special category and has special rules And only the third one allows the use of weapons. Categories are :

- TOTAL SPEED WAY a speed race where the initial risks bidding is essential,
- DRAGSTER SHOW an die-fast competition where wreckage are far from being uncommon,
- DESTRUCTION DERBY where the pilots are allowed weapons aboard.

4/ Players Teams

Each player owns one or more team. At the season start, all team have three pilots, three ships and 2500 Credits only. One more pilot may be recruited up to a maximum of four per team. But any pilots can only race in one category only for all the season. The team can buy as many more ships as the player wants as long as he's got money for it. All of the team's pilots can race on any one ship.

More Credits will be earned by winning, or at least finishing races. Credits will be spent to replace a broken piece of equipment, a battered ship or a dead pilot.

5/ Pilots

At the season start, all team have three pilots, but one more pilot may be recruited up to a maximum of four per team. Pilots are ranked according to their skills. At the beginning of the season, two are ranked as "Seasoned" and the third as an "Ace". Pilots under "Seasoned" are not allowed in F.A.R.P. championship. Each player can only race in one category only for all the season's length. If the team has no pilot for one category, the team will not take part in the races of this category until a replacement pilot is recruited.

Each pilot has two skills : PILOTING, et G-ENDURANCE. A skill test is successful if the dice result is equal or inferior to the skill level.

- A « Seasoned » pilot has 6 points to put as he sees fit on the two skills, with a maximum level of 4 each.
- An "Ace" has 8 points to put as he sees fit on the two skills, with a maximum level of 5 each.
- A pilot can improve his skill levels with experience provided in does not die in a race first... The DESTRUCTION DERBY category has special rules and adds a new skill which is : FIRING
- The «Seasoned» pilot has 9 points to put as he sees fit on the two skills, with a maximum level of 4 each.
- The "Ace" has 8 points to put as he sees fit on the two skills, with a maximum level of 5 each.

6/ Circuit Creation

A 30cm by 30 cm ground surface square is needed by ship. The circuit width is between 20 to 30 cm. The circuit limits are made of "solid energy" and are dangerous. Beacons placed between 25 to 50 cm one from another and successively put on the playing surface by each player are used to mark the circuit boundaries. They are disposed in a way that they delimit the right and left sides of the circuit. The two first ones are placed between 50 to 75 cm from the start line.

The two last ones are placed between 25 to 75 cm from the finish line. No beacons can be placed in a way that it would make the circuit cross itself. On the contrary there is no obligation to have the finish line touch the start line. Obstacles can be added by players in the middle of the circuit. They should be from 2 to 5 cm in diameter.

7/ Sequence Of Movements

The order in which the ships will move depends on the race category :

- TOTAL SPEED WAY : move the ships that are first before any other, then in descending order from first to last. In case of a draw, take the quickest ship first (check last turn movement done). As a result, it will be very difficult to pass a ship.
- DRAGSTER SHOW : move the ships that are last before any other, then in ascending order from first to last. In case of a draw, take the slowest ship first (check last turn movement done). Colliding ships during the many doublings will be devastating.
- DESTRUCTION DERBY : move the ships that got the best sum on the boosting dice roll(s) before any other, then in descending order from the highest boosting roll(s) sum to the lowest. In case of a draw, take the quickest ship first (check last turn movement done). Because there are weapons involved this category is very deadly

8/ Movements

All categories turns start with a table turn where everybody will choose to use their booster, and how many or not. There is only one table turn and everything said stays that way. Players can hide in front of them one small change coin per booster they effectively want to ignite this turn. Later on more powerful boosters will be available that will need a different colour of change coins to be hidden. On DESTRUCTION DERBY this booster name determines most of the turn sequence of movement. On TOTAL SPEED WAY and DRAGSTER SHOW the position and previous turn speed alone are used to determine the order of movements. In this case the booster used are just a bonus to speed rate.

In all cases it is important to remember this:

- Most of the time, ships will go at a cruise speed equals to their maximal speed except when closing with tight turns, or when tailing an opponent.

- MAXIMUM MOVEMENT = Basic ship speed + 1D for each booster used this turn.
- Because of inertia limits, there is a minimum movement that the ship must travel which depends on the speed the ship had on the previous turn (this is why the roaster is needed):
- MINIMUM MOVEMENT = half of the previous turn total move + bonus rolled from boosters.

In the case of trouble, or for the very few races, just use half the ship basic speed in cm. However in all cases, the whole move bonus rolled for the boosters MUST be used. This will obviously cause a lot of unwanted impacts.

9/ Turning

Ships turns by simply pivoting from 1 to 45°. The nose of the ship changes direction while the rest of the ship does not move. Pilots can do one such turn per working fin on their ship. So a basic ship has two turns. The only one condition on turning is that a ship needs to fly 5 cm straight BEFORE the turn. So a ship can fly 5 cm straight, fly 5 cm straight again and then do another turn. More turns are possible (still with the same 5 cm limitation) but for each such additional turn there is the added limitation that a Piloting skill roll must be done. If the skill roll is failed, the ship just go forward without turning at all...

10/ Blackout

To use one or more booster is not without risks. Each time that a pilot uses one of his, he will have to make a successful G-endurance skill roll. If the roll is failed then the pilot will not be able to do any turning or maneuvers of any kind. The ship will just go straight ahead at maximum speed...

11/ Dangerous Manauvers

There are three distinct cases :

- To pass an opponent, a pilot need to do a successful piloting skill roll. To ease things up, relative positions and distances are not taken into account : given the speed of the ships and their manoeuvrability, any lack of concentration may results in disaster. So if the skill roll is missed two dices will be rolled. The highest result will be taken as damage by the impacting ship (the one that was trying to pas the other), while the lowest result will be taken by the ship that was about to be doubled. The damage rolled will be taken from the ship's hit points.
- To pass a narrow spot needs a piloting skill roll too. A narrow passage is defined as any part of the circuit where the width is inferior to 20 cm. In the case that the skill roll is failed, the ship will take a basic 1D of damage to its hit points. To that, one point will be added for each 10 cm of movement or part of 10 cm of movement that the ship add to travel this turn (as an example a ship that rolled his boosters and ends up with a move of 21 cm, will take 1D +3 of damage). And as a final result the engine of the ship will shut down so the pilot will have to restart it from the next turn on.

- To impact on the limits of the circuit will do the same damage as above. It will also have the same secondary effect on the engine.

12/ How To Assess Damage

Each hit point of damage is taken from the amount of hit points left to the ship. And as long as the ship still has at least one hit points left, there is no problem. When the last hit point is lost, the pilot find himself in a high-speed-wrecked ship and any single hit can now turn it into a fireball. The pilot has the option to quit the race, after what the player will be able to buy back the hit points by repairs. If the ship is too severely battered, it can always be discarded entirely. But if the pilot keeps on racing, each time the ship is delivered one hit point of damage, one roll will be made on the following "Damage Table" (it means that if a ship takes a 3 hit points blow, three rolls will be made...). Remember that it is wise to quit a race where a good pilot with a good ship has no hit points left because as most single damage are at least 1D, his probability of dying outright is high.

Damage Table

#	Description
1	Lucky boy, nothing but a bad scratch this time.
2	1 Booster broken (repair = 500 Credits).
3	1 Fin broken (repair = 500 Credits).
4	1 Booster destroyed (replacement = 2000 Credits).
5	1 Fin destroyed (replacement = 2000 Credits).
6	Bad hit, reroll 1D on the following "Critical Damage Table".

Critical Damage Table

#	Description
1	Engine shut down. Must do a piloting skill roll from next turn on to restart it.
2	Pilot hit. Ends race.
3	Pilot wounded. Ends race. Unavailable next race if G-endurance roll successful. Die if not.
4	Pilot wounded. Ends race. Unavailable 2 next races if G-endurance roll successful. Die if not.
5	Pilot severely wounded. Unavailable all season if G-endurance roll successful. Die if not.
6	Ship explodes. Pilot killed. All ships 20 cm around take 1D of damage.

13/ Race Start

Each time the pilot will try to start or restart his engine he is given a choice. To take a lot of risks to make a rocket start with a probability that the engine will not start at all, or to make a low-risk, low speed start. Take note that it is impossible to turn or do any maneuver on the same turn that the ship starts his engine : so if trying to start in front of the circuit force fields boundaries go directly to the low speed start. The player secretly chooses his start option but turning a die on the appropriate face. The higher the number chosen, the higher the risk of having to do a successful skill roll in order not to smother the engine. The fact that there will be or not a skill roll to do is determined by the result of a "Control Roll" which is just a standard dice roll. On the contrary, the lower the number chosen, the smaller the move that will be made. One last information : as all pilots are accelerating like full psychos, the effective movement is what is shown on the following "Engine Start Table" with no changes to the value in cm because of ship models, category or booster involved.

Engine Start Table

#	Move	-
1	This turn move = 5 cm.	No control dice necessary.
2	This turn move = 10 cm.	If control roll is "6", do a successful piloting roll to move at all this turn.
3	This turn move = 15 cm.	If control roll is "5-6", do a successful piloting roll to move at all this turn.
4	This turn move = 20 cm.	If control roll is "4-6", do a successful piloting roll to move at all this turn.
5	This turn move = 25 cm.	If control roll is "3-6", do a successful piloting roll to move at all this turn.
6	This turn move = 30 cm.	If control roll is "2-6", do a successful piloting roll to move at all this turn.

- piloting roll to move at all this turn.

14/ Championship Season

As told before, each team has three pilots, three ships and 2500 Credits at a season start. This can be increased to a maximum of four pilots (in piloting shape or not, it means you cannot get rid of a pilot because he is wounded for all of the remaining season), as many ships as bought and as much credits as possibly earned. Each pilot gains experience AND money separately. It means you cannot use the money earned by one pilot in a race to improve the ship of another pilot of the same team before the next race. Each Pilot will always race in the same single category. The team as a whole scores points for each individual race result. So at the end of the season it will be that team that is the champion and not that pilot that will be this category winner.

As a final note, a team can only borrows money if it has no ship in flying order, and no pilot alive for a given category (while still not at the four pilot limit already). In this case the team must give back the money as soon as some Credits are earned.

15/ Gains For Races

Team general ranking:

1st 5 points, 2nd = 3 points, 3rd = 2 points, 4th or more but do finish the race = 1 point.

Prize for the pilot:

1st 1000 Credits per opponent at start, then 1000 Credits less for each follower. 0 Credit if does not finish the race.

16/ Upgrading Ships

Important note : all upgrades below (and the one listed for DESTRUCTION DERBY ships become a feature of a given ship and can in no way be retrieved, exchanged or sold.

New ship (previous one destroyed or not repairable)	= 1000 Credits
New pilot (ranked as "seasoned". Only if is only the 4th pilot of the team)	= 1000 Credits
Pilot advanced school (+1 in one skill rank)	= 3000 Credits
Repair 1 hit point of damage on a ship	= 50 Credits
Repair one Fin	= 500 Credits
Repair one Booster	= 500 Credits
+1 basic resistance in hit point (maximum = base x2)	= 200 Credits
+1 basic speed in cm (maximum = base x2)	= 1500 Credits
* +1 Booster (maximum = 4)	= 2000 Credits
+1 Fin (maximum = 4)	= 2000 Credits
* Auto Start Engine (yields two attempts each time to start the engine)	= 2500 Credits
* Zap o' Burn Booster (replace the 1D booster roll with an automatic « 6 » cm of bonus)	= 1000 Credits
* Ramming Edge (do +1 damage point in case of colliding, 6 maximum)	= 1000 Credits

* shows that this upgrade takes one point of space available.  this upgrade replace one already existing booster and takes one space available point. Use different coin colour to bid.

17/ Destruction Derby Upgrades

The DESTRUCTION DERBY category has the special feature to include the use of weapons. Each of these weapon or protection is a single use one and all those shown with a * take one space available point.

When bought, the following weapons must be mounted as front firing or rear firing. In both cases the firing zone is at 180° in the direction chosen. The moment of firing is free, except that it is forbidden to fire with a motionless ship against another motionless ship (in other words firing is legal only as long as it is the firer or the target turns to move). It is forbidden to pre-measure the distance between the firer and its target. The procedure is simple: one die is rolled and the attempt is successful if the result is equal or inferior to the fire skill of the pilot. The skill rank can be improved by one point with some weapons. The weapons have several characteristics: maximum range, any modifier to skill roll and damage scored.

-	-	-	-	-
* Rockets	Range 30 cm	Damage 1D	-	= 500 Credits
* Missile	Skill +1	Range 50 cm	Damage 1D	= 1000 Credits
Rays	Range 30 cm	Damage 2D	-	= 1500 Credits
* Plasma	Skill +1	Range 50 cm	Damage 2D	= 2000 Credits

The following weapons are dropped on the circuit and stay active until first activated by one ship passing through:

Mines (motionless)	Damage 1D	= 250 Credits
* Vortex (motionless)	Damage 2D	= 500 Credits

The following weapons stay active for one full turn and do take effects on everybody passing through them:

* Smoke (divide speed next turn by two because of disorientation)	= 250 Credits
* Electromagnetic web (stops everybody. Will have to start engine again)	= 500 Credits

The following upgrades have a probability to protect the ship from ONE attack from any one of the weapons listed in the three categories above:

* Decoys (cancel on a "6")	= 500 Credits
* Countermeasures (cancel on a "5-6")	= 1000 Credits
Repulsor (cancel on a "4-6")	= 2000 Credits

The following options need to be announced before the first turn of the race, just before everybody shows his initial engine start dice. Some players may just want to forbid these choices.

Sabotage of one opponent's ship	= 1000 Credits
(on a 1-3 roll on a dice, he makes one roll on the damage table)	-
Security (cancel one sabotage attempt for the whole team on a 1-4 on a roll)	= 500 Credits

And last, this option allows ONE weapon to fire at 360°.

All angles turret	= 500 Credits
-------------------	---------------

18/ Optional Rule # 1 : Slides

Slides are a movement that is made laterally as much as straight ahead.. Each slides "costs" one of the ship turns allowed this game-turn. It means that more can be done but with the needed piloting skill roll as usual. The movement ratio is 1 cm laterally for 3 cm straight ahead. But note that each cm of movement will have to be "paid" for with the ship's movement allowance this turn.

19/ Optional Rule # 2 : Aces High

It is possible to play races with earnings that are superior to the normal ones'. In these cases each player has the choice to add one "Special Feature" where he wants to on the circuit. Either he can pick any one on the list below, or when someone will be close enough, a roll will determine what kind of added difficulty is present. Each feature can only be present once on the circuit so maybe the players will have to roll again on the following "Special Feature Table" below. Each feature will add one point and 1000 Credits to all the gains of this race.

Special Feature Table

1. Laser turret. Hits on a 1-4. Fire on two different target each turn. Range 30 cm. Damage 1D.
2. Nerves jammer. Range 30 cm. Each pilot must make a G-endurance check or blackouts.
3. Plasma jammer. Range 30 cm. All engines shut down. Will have to be restarted next turn.
4. Booster debugger. Range 30 cm. All boosters of ships not activated yet add 1D speed. Check blackout.
5. Dust swarm. Pilots passing must make a piloting check or engine shuts down.
6. Mine fields. Everybody passing takes 1D damage.

Introduction

Abstract board & card strategy game for 2 players.

The Board

Use a 4x4 grid.

The Pieces

Each player has 4 men (pieces, pawns, tokens, etc.). One player is Red, the other is Black.

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

Victory

Victory is achieved by being the first to make 2 different Combos. A Combo is made by placing your 4 pieces into one of 4 arrangements:

1. Occupy all 4 corner spaces of the board (Corner Combo)
2. Occupy 4 spaces in a row diagonally (Diagonal Combo)
3. Occupy 4 spaces in a row orthogonally (Orthogonal Combo)
4. Occupy the 4 center spaces of the board. (Center Combo)

You must verbally declare a Combo on the turn you form it. After your first combo play continues from the same positions & with the same hands. Your second combo must be of a different type from the first.

Setup

Each player places his 4 men in the 4 spaces of one corner. Diagrammatically (R = Red, B = Black, E = Empty) it would appear thus:

.	R	R	E	E
.	E	E	B	B
.	E	E	B	B

Each player is dealt a hand of 3 cards from the deck. Cards are always placed face up in front of the player. Players can always see their own and each other's hand.

Red goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 2 phases:

1. Move Phase
2. Draw Phase

Move Phase

To move one of your men, discard one of your cards and Move the man according to the rules on that card. (To move you must play (discard) a card) You must move if it is at all possible. If it is impossible for you to move, your opponent automatically wins.

You may only play one card (make one move) in this phase. At the end of Move phase you must have 2 cards in your hand.

Draw Phase

Draw phase always comes after move phase. Draw the top card of the deck and put it in your hand face up. At the end of Draw phase you must have 3 cards in your hand.

The Common Deck

Card Name:	#	Notes:
Hop	4	Move orthogonally 1 space
Skip	4	Move diagonally 1 space
Jump	4	Jump over adjacent piece
Trade	4	Trade places with adjacent piece
Switch	4	Switch places with non-adjacent piece
Rook	2	Move piece like Rook in Chess
King	2	Move like a King in Chess
Horse	4	Move like a Knight in Chess

Card Name:	#	Notes:
Bishop	4	Move like a Bishop in Chess
Zip	2	Move to any empty corner space
Zap	2	Move to any empty non-corner space
Push	4	See Notes

Copies of that card in the deck.

Push Card

This one requires a little extra explanation: Move 1 piece into an adjacent space already occupied by another piece. The other piece is pushed into the next space over in line. Two pieces in a row can be pushed like this.

The furthest pushed piece must have somewhere to go, there must be an Empty space for it to be pushed into. It cannot be pushed off the board.

Foundation & Empire Wargame

War game by c gerard luft
(4 player and 1 player rules).
Foundation and empire based off of the foundation game (1973) a war game set in the 123rd century of the galactic empire (3rd century of the foundation era)

Set Up

This is a four player war game (solo game version is given below) set during Asimov's Foundation and Empire Novel. Each player controls a quadrant of the Milky Way Galaxy: (Listed from Terminus, going Spinward) THE FOUNDATION, THE IMPERIUM, THE UNION OF WORLDS (THE MULE) and TAZENDA.
You will need an 8x6 game board with 24 major systems located equally the four quadrants. You can print or copy and paste the provided game board (which is overlaid over an image of the Milky Way Galaxy)
You will also need 12 counters representing the three fleets of each quadrant.

Each player must place the one of each of his three fleets on a major system in his quadrant. Each of these systems is then occupied.

The Turn

ISSUE ORDERS: Movement and orders are simultaneous. So each player will need to write his orders at the beginning of the turn and then reveal them together with the other players.
MOVEMENT: Fleets only move 1 sector a turn. You must choose which fleets move and which fleets support. Due to Hyperspace, Fleets Supporting moving fleets need not be adjacent to those moving fleets (as opposed to the rule regarding fleets in the process of occupying a major system; see#3 and #4 below). The number of supporting fleets determine a moving fleet's POWER during that turn:

MOVING FLEETS	# SUPPORTING FLEETS	MOVING FLEETS' POWER

Only 1 fleet may occupy one sector. If a fleet wishes to move into a sector with an opposing fleet in it, then it may attack it. If the POWER of both fleets is equal, then it is a stand off, and the attacking fleet may not occupy that sector. If one fleet's POWER is greater than the other, then the loosing fleet must retreat to an open sector. If all sectors around it are occupied, then that fleet is destroyed (removed from the game).
OCCUPYING SECTORS WITH MAJOR SYSTEMS: If a system is not occupied a fleet may enter that sector. If it remains in that sector for 4 consecutive turns, it is effectively occupied by that force. That fleet must remain there to keep it occupied, but on that fourth turn, the player gains an extra fleet, which may be placed in any of the adjacent (orthogonally or diagonally) sectors which do not have a fleet in them. Both fleets are then freed up to proceed in conquering new systems. While that system is still occupied, if there is no fleet there to defend it, then an opposing fleet can enter it an occupy it for four consecutive turns, thus taking that system away from the original holder (If that happens, the extra fleet that the system produced is immediately disbanded (removed from the game).
CONQUERING SECTORS WITH MAJOR SYSTEMS: If a system is occupied by an enemy fleet then a fleet may combat it by moving to an open sector adjacent to it. If the two fleets' POWER is equal it is then a stand off. If one fleet's POWER is greater than the other, then the other fleet must retreat to an open adjacent sector. If no sectors around it are open then that fleet is destroyed (removed from the game). If the defender is retreated, then the attacker is moved into that sector. The occupying rule (four turns rule) from #3 applies for the newly occupying fleet. " ATTACKING FLEET'S POWER: as per the table in #2 " DEFENDING FLEET'S POWER: The Defending Fleet's power is 1 +1 for each of adjacent sector (orthogonally or diagonally) occupied by one of its own fleets.

Winning

When one player occupies 13 Sectors with major systems, then that player is the winner.

Foundation And Empire Solo Game Version

You are the FOUNDATION, and may set up your three fleets as mentioned above. Your goal is to occupy 13 Sectors with major systems.
The opponent is the IMPERIUM. The Galactic Empire occupies the other three quadrants, and starts with 9 fleets. To position the fleets, shuffle the nine fleet counters with 27 blank counters. Beginning at the top left of the game board, and moving across (as if reading a paragraph) place a counter, upside down, on each of the sectors of the 3 quadrants of the IMPERIUM. Position your fleets, and then turn the counters over to see where the enemy fleets are.

The IMPERIUM will keep all fleets in a major system for four turns, before moving that fleet and its new fleet.

IMPERIUM'S ACTION TABLE (Roll for every three fleets that are not in the process of occupying a system)

ROLL	1d6	# Fleets Moving	# Fleets Supporting Moving Fleet's Action
1-2	1	2	Move towards nearest FOUNDATION occupied system
3-4	2	1	Move to nearest IMPERIUM occupied system to support that fleet
5-6	3	0	Move towards nearest unoccupied systems

Setup

Shuffle the deck. Each player is dealt 6 cards. The scariest player goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 Phases: Draw Phase Inspiration Phase Location Phase Victim Phase Trap Phase Attack Phase Recovery Phase

Inspiration Phase

Play (discard) an inspiration card to draw 2 cards. Maximum one inspiration card play per turn.

Location Phase

Play one Location Card from your hand face up to the table. All previous Location cards in play are discarded. The player that most recently played a Location card gains the Initiative.

Attacks by a player with the Initiative do +1 damage.

Victim Phase

Your opponent may put 1 Victim card face up into play. Victims you play act as blockers for your monster.

Trap Phase

You may play (discard) a Trap card to cause your opponent to discard two random cards. Your opponent may play (discard) an Escape card to negate a Trap card.

Attack Phase

Play an Attack card to kill (discard) an opponent's victim card. You may make multiple attacks this phase (play multiple attack cards). If there are no opposing Victims remaining, you may target your opponent directly.

All Attacks do a base of 1 point of damage (some do more). Your opponent may play (discard) an Escape card to negate an Attack card. You can only use a Death Blow Attack directly against an opponent if the Damage done by the attack will reduce the player to zero or less Hit Points.

Recovery Phase

Your opponent may play (discard) heal cards to regain lost hit points. Each Heal card played gains back 2 lost Hit points. Maximum hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

History of the French Revolution.

Faq

In the Revolution Phase: (1) What is the purpose of the Tactical cards? Do you mean that you cannot play an Unrest card without playing a Tactical card too? A)Yes. You must play a Tactics card in order to have any of your Unrest cards count. (2) Can the current leader play only Oppression cards? A)Yes, he can only oppress, just as the others can only rebel. (3) If players play an equal number of Oppression or Unrest cards, does the current leader remain the leader for the next turn? A)Current Leader wins ties.

(4) As I read the rules, the Current Leader plays Oppression cards, then the other players play Tactical and Unrest cards. Is this go-around done once before moving on to the Reform Phase? A)Yes, just once. Each player may play 1 or more cards. In the Reform Phase: Leader plays Reform cards. Others play AntiRevolutionary cards to negate this. Do you only go around the table once in this phase? A)Yes just once. Each player may play 1 or more cards.

Freudian Slip

Introduction

Players immerse themselves in a mass psychosis directed by the cards and their own subconscious desires.

The Dreamers Deck

The deck will have to be constructed before play is possible. The deck contains 100+ cards. Each card has a single word printed on it.

Noun, Verb, and Adjective cards are all mixed together. A big comfortable couch is also recommended.

Setup

All players are dealt 7 cards. The player with the most psychological baggage goes first.

Dream Sequence

Players take turns. A player on his turn describes the details of an imaginary dream.

The player must incorporate the word on one of his cards into his monologue.

The card is discarded and a replacement card is drawn.

The player must stop after 2 minutes of talking and ends his turn unless the other participants wish him to continue.

The next player to his left starts her turn, and continues the dream where the previous player left off.

A player may only use one card during his turn.

As in real dreams, the dream does not have to make any sense. (except unconsciously)

Ending The Dream

When two players pass on their turns the dreamer awakens and the game is over.

Winning

There is no real winner, however players may vote to see who wins in any or all of the following categories:

- Biggest Freudian Slip Award
- Biggest Id Award
- Biggest Ego Award
- Biggest Superego Award
- Stuck in the Oral Phase Award
- Stuck in the Anal Phase Award
- Stuck in the Genital Phase Award
- Most Jungian Award
- Most Surreal Award

- Most Sublime Award The individual who gets the most awards is declared the most in need of Psychoanalysis.

Fusillade

Introduction

Two-player card game of Napoleonic Warfare.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck contains three types of cards: Unit, Tactics, and Strategy. The deck contains one of each of the cards described in the lists.

Troops

Each player starts with 100 points of troops. Use change to keep track of troop points.

Victory

Reduce your opponents troop total to zero.

Setup

Each player is dealt 7 cards. Flip a coin to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Deploy Phase
2. Attack Phase
3. Casualty Phase
4. Maneuver Phase

Deploy Phase

Draw 3 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Leader or Action Cards may be discarded to draw extra cards equal to the cards force.

A Light Infantry or a Cavalry unit card may be discarded to look at your opponent's hand. Artillery Unit and Tactics cards may be discarded to cause your opponent to discard one Random card on a one to one basis.

Attack Phase

You may choose to attack or not to attack. Your opponent may discard an "Enemy Blunder" Card to prevent you from attacking this turn. To attack play one Unit card face up on the table.

You may play more than one Unit card, but they must all be of the same type. For example: They must all be Light Infantry, or all Artillery, but not a mix of both. Your opponent may discard an Infantry Unit card to cause a Cavalry unit just played to be discarded.

Your opponent may discard a Light Infantry Unit card to cause an Artillery unit just played to be discarded. Your opponent may discard an Artillery Unit card to cause an Infantry unit just played to be discarded. Your opponent may discard a Cavalry Unit card to cause a Light Infantry unit just played to be discarded.

Your opponent may discard a Terrain card to cause any attacking unit just played to be discarded. If any attacking unit cards remain, you may also play:

1. Tactics cards if they match the unit type.
2. One Strategy card of each of the five types.

For Example: Play one Morale and one Action card, but not two Morale cards.

Casualty Phase

Add up the value of all the cards you played. Add two to your total for each card you played in excess of 5. This total is the number of casualties inflicted on your opponent.

Your opponent loses that many troop points. Your opponent may discard a Morale card to reduce casualties by half.

Maneuver Phase

If you did not attack this turn you may discard up to 2 cards and draw replacements. Maximum hand size is 10 cards. Discard excess cards.

Galactic Civilizations

Introduction

Board game for 2-4+ players. The galaxy is home to 8 major Alien Civilizations. Each player has 4 client races.

Help your client races fulfill their Ultimate Destinies.

The Map

Use a 10 x 10 grid. Each square is a "Sector".

Dice

Use Ten sided dice (D10).

Control Markers

Each race has a set of control markers of a unique color.

Race Types

#	Race Name:
1	Generalists
2	Cowards
3	Warriors
4	Cryptic Ones

The Decks

There are 2 decks: The Client Deck & the Galactic Deck. Both are common decks.

The Client Deck

The client deck has 2 cards for each of the 8 races. If there are 5+ players, let the deck have 4 cards for each race.

Set Up

Determine the starting locations of all the races: Roll 1D10 to get the X & Y coordinates. Place a control marker for that race into the indicated sector. Each player draws 4 client cards. Discard duplicates and redraw.

This determines which 4 races are a players client races during the game. Players may keep their Races secret until the last turn.

#	Race Name:
5	Travelers
6	Xenophobes
7	Pacifists
8	Slavers

Victory & Scoring

When the board is filled up (no empty spaces remain) roll 1D10 at the end of each following turn. On a roll of 9 or 10 the game ends.

Each race gets 1 point for each sector it controls.

Each race earns extra points for special race specific victory conditions.

If one of your races has the highest Psych level gain 10 VP.

If one of your races has the highest Tech level gain 10 VP.

If one of your races was eliminated lose 10 VP.

Player with highest total VP score wins.

Special Victory Conditions

- Generalists - If one of your client races is the Generalists get 20 VP's if the Generalists are Adjacent to all other races.
- Cowards - If one of your client races is the Cowards get 20 VP's if the Cowards are Adjacent to only your other client races and/or the cryptic ones.

- Warriors - If one of your client races is the Warriors gain 2 VP's instead of 1 for each sector the Warriors control.
- Cryptic Ones - If one of your client races is the Cryptic Ones get 20 VP's if they are Adjacent to only your non-client races and/or the cowards.
- Travelers - If one of your client races is the Travelers gain 20 VP's if they Control at least one sector on every row and column of the board.
- Xenophobes - If one of your client races is the Xenophobes gain 10 VP's for each race eliminated from the game.
- Pacifists - If one of your client races is the Pacifists get 20 VP's if all 8 races are still in play at the end of the game.
- Slavers - If one of your client races is the Slavers gain 5 VP's for each race that controls less territory than the Slavers.

Special Abilities & Limitations

- Generalists - Generalists can use Trade cards as any card type except Evolution, Expansion-2 or 3.

- Cowards - If a War starts against them, move each of their adjacent control markers to an adjacent empty sector if possible. (They flee en mass) Cowards may not initiate Wars. The Cowards can use War or Trade cards as Research or Treaty cards.
- Warriors - The Warriors get +2 to War Resolution Rolls. Warriors cannot use Treaty cards. Warriors may use Trade cards as War cards.
- Cryptic Ones - Cryptic ones start with +1 Levels in Psychic & Technology. Cryptic Ones can use a Trade card to cause 1 adjacent marker of an adj race to dissappear or cause one of their own markers (adj to another race) to dissappear.
- Travelers - Travelers use Trade cards as Expansion-2 cards OR to place a Marker on any empty space on the Board.
- Xenophobes - Xenophobes can use Trade cards as any card type except Treaty, Expansion-2 or 3 OR to move 1 of their markers to any empty adjacent space.
- Pacifists - The Pacifists may not initiate Wars. Pacifists may use War & Trade cards as Evolution or Treaty cards.
- Slavers - Slavers can use Trade cards as War or Expansion-1 cards. They get Technology +1 every time they win a war if their opponent had a higher Tech level. They get Psych +1 every time they win a war if their opponent had a higher Psych level.

Technology & Evolution

Each race starts the game with a technology & psychic levels = 1.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 phases:

1. Fate Phase
2. Expansion Phase
4. War Phase
5. Research Phase
6. Evolution Phase
7. End Phase

Fate Phase

Draw 3 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Roll once on the Target Race Table.

This is the Race you will control this turn!

Target Race Table

1D10	Race:	1D10	Race:
1	Generalists	6	Travellers
2	Cowards	7	Xenophobes
3	Cryptic Ones	8	Slavers
4	Warriors	9	Opponent to your left picks one
5	Pacifists	10	Pick one or reroll

Expansion Phase

Play expansion cards. Each expansion card has a number. This is the number of adjacent empty sectors the target race can expand into.

Add control markers of the chosen race to the target sectors. Control markers cannot stack. Only one race per sector.

War Phase

You may Play a War card to have the target race attack an adjacent race. Another player may play a treaty card to negate the War card! Both sides roll 1D10. This is the War Resolution Roll. Each race adds its Technology level to the roll.

The race with the higher Psych level may reroll the War roll once. The higher total wins. (nothing happens if there is a tie) The winner converts ALL enemy sectors adjacent to his own Sectors into his own color. (replace control markers)

Research Phase

You may Play a Research card on the target race. The Race gets Technology level +1

Evolution Phase

You may Play an Evolution card on the target race. The Race gets Psychic Level +1.

End Phase

Discard down to 5 cards.

All Filled Up

If the board is completely full, use expansion cards as War cards.

Adjacency

Sectors that share a side are adjacent. Sectors that share a diagonal are not adjacent.

Galactic Supremacy

Introduction

You guessed it. Rival space empires are at it again. A card game for 2 or more players.

#	Card Type:
10	Research
15	Fleets
10	Sectors

Number of that card type in the deck.

The game can be played with a single common deck, or with each player having their own individual deck. If playing with multiple decks, make sure all cards are returned to their proper owners at the end of the game. Each Sector contains 100's of colonized worlds. Each Fleet contains 1000's of ships.

Other Materials

A handfull of ten sided dice (D10's) Coins (to represent megacredits) One homeworld card for each player.

Object

Conquer the homeworlds of all of your opponents.

Setup

Each player starts with a Homeworld Sector in play. Each player draws 2 cards. Players begin at level one in all nine technologies.

Players roll 1D10 to determine turn order. High roll goes first.

Units

Sectors and fleets are collectively referred to as units.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn is divided into 7 phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Production Phase
3. Command Phase
4. Build Phase
5. Attack Phase
6. Move Phase
7. Research Phase

The Deck

The deck contains 50 cards:

#	Card Type:
10	Command
5	Leader

Draw Phase

Draw one card from the top of the deck You may draw an extra card for 5 credits. — Exploration: You may discard a Fleet card to draw a card. If the card drawn is a Sector card you may keep it, otherwise discard the drawn card — The Draft: You may discard a Sector card to draw a card.

If the card drawn is a Fleet card you may keep it, otherwise discard the drawn card. — Military Intelligence: You may discard a Research card to draw a card. If the card drawn is a Command card you may keep it, otherwise discard the drawn card.

— Military R&D: You may discard a Command card to draw a card. If the card drawn is a Research card you may keep it, otherwise discard the drawn card. Maximum hand size is 5. Discard excess cards.

If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard, and continue play.

Production Phase

Homeworld Sectors generate 5 Credits. Sectors generate 1 credit each. A leader attached to a Sector generates 2 extra credits.

For each level above the first a player has in all of the technologies of Terraforming, Industry, and Energy, all the worlds of that player generate one additional credit each. Hand size is increased by a similar amount. For example: a player has Terraforming = 3, Industry = 5, and Energy = 4.

The extra levels of Industry and Energy do not count. That player's worlds produce +2 credits per turn and that player has a max hand size = 7. Credits may be saved from turn to turn.

Command Phase

Unless otherwise specified, the special uses of command cards are enacted in this phase. Command cards are always discarded when used.

Build Phase

Pay 10 credits to put a Sector card into play from your hand. Pay 10 credits to put a Fleet card into play from your hand. The Fleet card must be attached to a Sector.

Pay 5 credits to put a Leader card into play from your hand. The Leader card must be attached to a unit.

Attack Phase

You may attack an opponents world with one or more of your fleets. If both players have the same level of Jump Speed Technology or if the attacker is faster, then the defender can only defend the attacked world with whatever fleets are currently there. If the defender has a higher level of Jump Speed Technology then the defender he can use some or all of his fleets to defend.

The defender may decide not to defend with a Fleet at an attacked Sector. Move the fleet to any other friendly Sector. Fleets and Sectors use one die in combat. Homeworld Sectors use 5 dice.

Players compare their respective levels in the following 5 technologies: Firepower, Range, Defenses, Information, and Sublight Speed. If one player has a higher level in a technology then that player is said to have a technological advantage. For each advantage, each of a players units gets one additional combat die.

Presence of a Leader gives the attached unit one additional combat die. Roll dice separately for each unit involved. These are referred to as combat rolls. Each unit simultaneously destroys one opposing unit with an equal or lower combat roll.

Sectors win tied combat rolls. All of the defenders Fleets must be destroyed before the Sector is destroyed. Repeat this process until only one side remains.

If the attacker wins he may put the colony card in his hand. If a players Homeworld Sector is destroyed, it goes out of play, and that player loses. Leaders are destroyed with their units.

Destroyed Fleets and Leaders are discarded. Units can combine their combat rolls to overcome the combat roll of an enemy unit. For example: 6 Fleets attack a Homeworld Sector. The homeworld rolls a 30. The Fleets collectively roll a 40. One of the six Fleets is destroyed, and the Homeworld is destroyed.

Move Phase

Attach your Fleets in play to any of your Sectors in play. Attach your Leaders in play to any of your units in play. A unit may only have 1 Leader attached.

Research Phase

Pay 10 credits to play a Research card. The card is discarded and the player rolls once on the Technology Table. The technology indicated by the roll is increased by one level for this player only.

Catchup: Pay 15 credits and play a research card to gain one level in a specific technology an opponent is superior to you in. Directed effort: Pay 20 credits and play a research card to gain one level in a specific technology of your choice.

Technology Table

1D10	Technology:
1	Jump Speed
2	Fire Power
3	Range
4	Defenses
5	Information

1D10	Technology:
6	Sublight Speed
7	Terraforming
8	Industry
9	Energy
10	Pick one of the above

Trade & Negotiations

Players may at any time trade cards or make deals.

Command Card Uses

Command cards are discarded when played. A command card can be played to produce any of the following effects:

- Misinformation: Opponent must discard one random card.
- Spy: Look at opponents hand.
- Strategic Planning: Look at the next 1D10 cards in the deck.
- Tactical Superiority: Target unit gets one extra combat die this combat phase.
- Surprise: Defender can only defend with fleets already present at Sector.

- Ambush: Defender may defend with some or all of his fleets.
- Peace Talks: Opponent may not attack you this turn.
- Exceed Quotas: Gain 1D10-2 megacredits.
- Steal Secrets: Steal 1 random card from opponent on a roll of 1-6 on 1D10.
- Counter Espionage: Negate any use of a command card on a roll of 1-8 on 1D10.
- Military Sabotage: Opponent must put target fleet back in his hand on 1-3 on 1D10.
- Industrial Sabotage: Opponent loses 1D10-2 megacredits.
- Assassination: Kill target Leader on a roll of 1-3 on 1D10.
- Strategic Initiative: Get a second attack Phase this turn.

Optional Advanced Setup Rule

Each player starts the game with 5 random technological advances.

Galax

Introduction

Tactical Space Ship Combat Mayhem. Advanced Battleships.

Map & Chits

Use a space hex grid which has all of the hexes numbered. Use chits to represent ships. Indicate the ships facing with an arrow. Each player should use chits of a different color.

Playable with miniatures.

Ship Descriptions

Cost Does not include cost of weapons

Move Number of spaces moved or hex facings turned

Hits Damage before ship is destroyed

Weapons = Number of Weapon Systems that can be mounted A Battlestation can repair 1 hit per turn to itself or to a friendly docked (in same space) ship. Docked ships cannot attack.

Weapon Systems

NAME	COST	TYPE	RANGE	DAMAGE
Laser	1	Energy	2/4/8	3/2/1D6
Rail Gun	1	Projectile	2/4/8	3/2/1D6
Missile Launcher	1	Missile	12	-
Missile	1/6	Missile	12	4D6
Nuclear Missile	1	Missile	12	Destroyed

A Missile Launcher can fire one missile per turn. Ranges of weapons used by fighters are half of those listed & fighters can only carry 6 missiles.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 phases:

1. Write orders phase
2. Reveal orders phase
3. Resolve actions phase

Shields

TYPE	NEGATES
Albedo Screen	Energy
Inertia Field	Projectile
Jammer	Missile

A shield negates one attack of the indicated type, and is then destroyed. Shields are included in the cost of the ship.

Write Orders Phase

Write separate orders for every ship you control. First write movement orders. Ships use movement points to move forward or to make a turn of one hex facing (60 degrees).

Example: Fighter #3 moves 1-R-1-L. This means move it forward 1, then 1 right turn, then forward 1, then 1 left turn. Also write attack orders.

Attacks are made from the last space entered. Indicate the weapon and the number of the space it is targeting. Weapons fire in all arcs.

Example: Destroyer #2 attack with laser to hex 00435 and nuclear missile to 01667. Also indicate special orders such as docking. Players should have two minutes plus one minute per ship to write orders.

Reveal Orders Phase

No orders or Incorrectly written orders result in the ship doing nothing.

Resolve Actions Phase

All actions are simultaneous. Move ships first then resolve attacks. Attacks into empty hexes hit nothing.

Attacks into hexes containing enemy units automatically hit a ship of the attackers choice. One Shield will absorb one attack of the appropriate type. Jammers negate missiles & nukes. Any attacks not absorbed by shields do damage.

Nukes always destroy their target. Missles always do 4D6 Hits of Damage. At range 0-2 Energy & Projectile weapons do 3D6 Damage. At range 3-4 Energy & Projectile weapons do 2D6 Damage.

At range 5-8 Energy & Projectile weapons do 1D6 Damage. Ships reduced to 0 or less hits are destroyed at the end of the turn.

Scenarios

Training Simulator: Each side starts with 2 Escorts. Skirmish: 30 points to a side. Fleet Action: 100 points to a side.

Zomulgustar Galax Rules Variants

Introduction

Careful analysis of Galax by a concerned galactic citizen. Try mixing and matching these and see what works for you... share and enjoy!

Proposed Change 1- Target Tracking Instead of declaring targets by hex, declare the ship you are firing on and the range you expect it to be at.

Theme Rationale

It's easy for tracking software to determine the apparent direction to a target, but more difficult for it to determine distance and speed (how much to lead).

Game Rationale

Drastically increases effectiveness of weaponry, also gives incentive for tactical positioning (if I go here, I can almost certainly hit that ship, but that's where he'll EXPECT me to be, so...) This also gets rid of the unusual idea that although we can't predict which hex the ship will end up in, we CAN precisely target individual ships in it.

Theme Problem

Why can't two+ friendlies exchange information to determine the range by triangulation? See idea 3 below. Game Problem- It's now possible for guaranteed hits on move-1 ships...do we need a fix for that? Perhaps so...if so, then...

Proposed Change 2a- Advanced Maneuvers Allow one sideslip (spend one move for the equivalent of R1L or L1R) per turn. Game Rationale- This eliminates the auto-hit on move-1 ships, and still slightly benefits faster ones.

Extensions

Allow the purchase of additional maneuver drives (most likely at the cost of weapons/ shield spaces as well as 'money'), each one of which allows one sideslip per turn. Obviously the first one isn't free if this is used (too nice to the big ships...)

Proposed Change 2b. "She kinna take much more..." Giving up the use of all shields or all weapons allows an additional MP, giving up both gives +2 (3?)MP. Theme Rationale: In desperate situations, power can be diverted to the engines from other systems.

Game Rationale

Gives players the opportunity to 'surprise' their opponents, and a good alternative to 2a (though there is little reason they could not be used together).

Proposed Change 3: Locked On Target For the cost of a weapon slot, a Targeting Computer is installed. Each targeting computer may select only a single enemy ship. When determining hits from a weapon, add up the number of targeting computers on OTHER ships which have selected the target, and allow shots this many hexes off by THIS ship to still hit the enemy. Game Rationale: Can work with either hex or range targeting, adds another layer of strategy to ship design. Theme Rationale: Makes sense, fun to watch everyone go after the low-manueverability escort with 2 targeting computers that's letting the battleship hit with everything.

Game 'Problem' (not that bad)- Fighters are no more maneuverable than capships, only faster. Cruisers can 'turn on dimes'.

Proposed Change 4- Overloaded Hulls In exchange For an additional weapon/shield slot, a ship may not make more than 1 consecutive turn within a single move order. Game Rationale: That extra weapon benefits the escort a lot more than the battleship (which would only be affected if the 'emergency maneuver' rule is in effect)

Proposed Change 5- Warp Dissipator A new weapon is available, single slot, cost 1(?), penetrates all shields. If it hits, reduces the targets MP for the next turn by 1. Game Rationale: Just as missiles seem meant to use against big capships (at least in the original), this is the one meant to slow down the little guys enough that they can be taken down easily. Probably best to use either the Targeting Computer

OR this rather than both (at least on a single side) Hmm.... Theme Rationale- "...phtthfft the aliens KThrteem to have *hiss*oped some kind of energy-draining weap*ctjghartkik*..." One side gets target-comps, the other gets dissipators...hmmm...need to fiddle with the costs, but..

Proposed Change 5- The Big Guns. No specifics without playtesting, but I think the game would be that much neater if there were directional-only weaponry. Presumably it would take up multiple slots and cost, and could only be fired directly forward after movement. Enhancements could include, in various mixes a. BIG damage/extended range b. hit all targets on this line c. shield piercing d. etc. etc.

Galaxian Trek Variant

Expanding Sphere Generators do damage to all ships in range. Boarding parties can only be used once.

Kzinti Ships

Kzinti can ram other ships in the same hex. Damage to both ships = XD6

Lyrans Ships

Lyrans ships have double the number of Shields. Lyran Fighter squads have one Shield.

I know, Yet another space combat game... and a fuge is a variation on a theme. This one is a catchy tune. If you really liked this one, try Sea Battles.

Gamma Chess

<body>

Premise:

This plays like a cross between chess and backgammon

Set Up:

Regular Chessboard and pieces plus two dice

1D6	Piece
1	Knight
2	Pawn
3	Rook

Example: If you roll 1 on one die and 4 on the other you must move one of your 8 pawns and one of your bishops. If you roll 1 and 2 you must move either two of your pawns or one of your pawns twice. If you roll a piece you no longer have, add one to your roll. If you have no queen go back to one.

Moves:

Pieces move as normal except that they can only go forward or sideways.

Object:

Move all your men off your opponents back row. (for a shorter game, just the king)

Play:

Players take turns.

Turns:

At the beginning of your turn roll the two dice and consult the table below. This determines which pieces you can move.

1D6	Piece
4	Bishop
5	King
6	Queen

Capturing:

A piece can only capture if it is moving forward. The captured piece is immediately put, by its owning player, in a square on its back row. If no spaces are available, place it on the next available row.

Moving Off:

If you move one of your pieces onto your opponents back row remove it from the game.

Gamma World

Introduction

Card Game based on the RPG Gamma World by TSR. GW is a trademarked property. This merely a fan site. You are a leader of a Gamma World Enclave.

Recruit and equip your followers. Send your followers to capture ruins that will aid your cause.

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

Victory

The game ends when all cards have been drawn from the deck. The player controlling the most location cards wins.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 2 Phases: Action Phase Healing Phase

Action Phase

A player gets a base 2 Action Points (APs) on his turn. An AP can be used to do one of the following:

1. Recruit one Follower.
2. Draw one card from the deck.
3. Play an Item card.
4. Attack a Location.

Some cards will provide additional APs.

Recruit A Follower

Use a token to represent the Follower. You may attach any number of Mutation cards to the token just played. If no cards are attached the follower is considered to be a Pure Strain Human (PSH).

If cards are attached, designate the follower as either a Mutant Human or Animal. The follower has a base Force = 1 and Hits = 2. Mutations increase Force and Hits totals.

You may have a maximum of 6 Followers in play at one time.

Weapon Card List

Draw One Card From The Deck

You may have a maximum of 5 cards in your hand. Discard excess cards.

Play An Item Card

Attach equipment, weapon, armor, steed, and vehicle cards to your followers. A Follower can only have one vehicle or steed and one armor at a time.

Attack A Location

Play a Location card. All of your followers attack. Any one of your opponents may play a Foe card.

Roll the indicated dice to determine the Starting Threat of the Foe. The Player rolls 1D6 for every point of force his followers have. Every roll of 1 reduces the Threat by one point.

Simultaneously roll 1D6 for every point of opposing threat. For every roll of 1 by the threat one of your followers loses 1 Hit. Roll 1D6 for each hit to see which of your followers takes the damage.

The Steed of a Follower takes damage first. Keep track of hits by putting damage counters on the followers and Threat card. Followers & Steeds reduced to 0 Hits are killed.

Repeat this process until the followers retreat or one side is killed off. If the Threat is eliminated the Followers gain control of the location. It becomes part of the players growing post-apocalyptic empire.

Note that Armor cards provide Hits. Armor reduced to 0 Hits is destroyed. Armor always loses hits before followers.

If the followers retreat or are destroyed discard the location and the threat.

Healing Phase

All your followers (not Armor) remove one damage counter each. Cards with the heal property allow you to remove an extra 1D6 counters.

Breakdown Rule

Roll 1D6 for every time a weapon, equipment, or vehicle is used. On a roll of 6+ that item is discarded (used up, broken, out of power, ammo). Grenades get +1 to this roll.

Garden Grow

Introduction

Players compete to see who can grow the best garden.

Victory

At the end of the game, the player who scores the highest in the most plant categories is the winner.

Game End

The game ends when at the end of a players turn, there are no cards left in the deck.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. There are 10 Categories (Suites): 8 are Plant Categories 1 is the Blight Category 1 is the Nurture Category Some Categories have 5 cards and some have 10.

Setup

Each player is dealt a hand of 4 cards. The player with the most flowers goes first. If tied, the player with the most roses goes first.
If still tied, flip a coin. Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:
1. Till Phase
2. Plant Phase
3. Loss Phase
4. End Phase

Till Phase

Draw 3 cards from the deck and put them in your hand. You may discard a nurture card to draw 2 extra cards.

Card List

Name:	Type	Letter
Flowers	P	A
Flowers	P	B
Flowers	P	C
Flowers	P	D
Flowers	P	E
Flowers	P	F

Plant Phase

Put 1 or more cards into play from just one Plant Category. These cards are placed (planted) face-up in front of you (in your garden). For example: You could put 3 trees into play, but not a tree and a vine.
You may discard a nurture card to plant cards from a second plant category.

Loss Phase

Your opponents may each play (discard) 1 Blight card to cause a plant card of Yours (that is in play) that they target to be discarded. For example: Ron discards a Blight card and tells you to discard one of your trees. You may discard a nurture card to negate a Blight card.

End Phase

Max hand size is 10 cards. Discard excess cards. You may discard a Blight card to cause a target player to discard a random card from his hand.
He may not negate this with a nurture card.

Notes On Final Scoring

Your score in a plant category is simply the number of cards in play you have in that category. It is possible for 2 or more players to be tied in a single category. If that happens, the player owning the card with the highest Letter (A is higher than B) wins the category.
If 2 or more players are tied in the number of categories won, then The player with the most letter A's wins (followed by B's and so on).

Gearhead Skirmish

Introduction

Board & Dice game for 2 players. 2 Armies of Wind-up toys duke it out.

Disclaimer

Based on an old Video game. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

Players get 1 point every time a toy goes off their opponent's Side of the board. The game ends when the counter pile is empty and there are No toys left on the board. (or no toy has been able to move in 5 turns) The player with the most points wins the game.

The Board

Use a chessboard (8 X 8 grid).

Dice

Six and 8 sided dice are needed.

Counters

Toys are represented by counters (Chits, markers). There are 12 different types of toys. Each counter has 2 items of information written on it:

1. Identification of what type of toy it is.
2. An Arrow showing which way the toy is facing.

The Counter Pile

Players share a common set of counters. Place all counters in a cup called the counter pile. The set contains 6 copies of each Toy (72 Toys) Note: The Small Fry Toy is separate from the main 12 Toys.

Counter Discard

Place Toys that are destroyed into this area.

Victory Piles

Keep the toy counters that go off your opponent's side of the Board in your own pile (as a way of keeping score)

Control

Remember toys have an arrow showing facing. You control all Toys facing your opponents side of the board.

Setup

Players roll 1D8. High roll goes first.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 3 phases: Draw Phase Placement Phase Action Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 random Counter from the counter pile (cup).

Placement Phase

Place the Toy (Counter) you just drew onto any empty Space on your last row (facing your opponent's side of board).

Action Phase

Each Toy you control moves once during your turn. The exception is toys you just gained control of this turn. See the rules for each individual Toy to see how it moves and what else it does.

There can only ever be one Toy per space. A Toy cannot move through other toys. If a toy "BUMPS" into another toy blocking its path, it must stop.

When a Toy moves diagonally it has a choice of moving to its left or right.

Flying Toys

Some toys can fly. They can jump (move over) other toys.

Toy List:

Big Al

Appearance: Bulldozer Move Roll:

1D6	Result:
1-2	Move straight ahead 1 Space
3-4	Move straight ahead 2 Spaces

1D8	Result:
1	Move straight ahead 1 Space
2	Move straight ahead 2 Spaces

2	Move straight ahead 2 Spaces
3	Move straight ahead 3 Spaces

Gerrymandering

Definition

Gerrymandering means changing district lines in order to benefit one political party.

Link

Gerrymandering has been published in the online Winter 2000 issue of the Academic Gaming Review

Introduction

Players take turns changing the district lines in order to win the election.

Equipment

Players will need: Six sided dice (1D6) Map: 10 X 10 Grid. Each square represents a city block. Chits: tiny cardboard counters. (Blocks & District Markers)

Map Setup

Randomly place 100 Block chits on the map, one chit per space.

Race Table

1D6	Race	Abbreviation
1	Black	Black
2	WASP	WASP
3	European	Euro

Blocks

Each block is described by a chit. Before playing the first game players will have to make 100 chits. Each block chit has 4 variable characteristics that describe it.

These include: Income, Party, Race, and Issue.

Income Table

1D6	Income	Abbreviation
1-2	High	H
3-4	Medium	M
5-6	Low	L

Party Table

1D6	Party	Abbreviation
1-3	Democratic	D
4-6	Republican	R

1D6	Race	Abbreviation
4	South American	SAmer
5	Caribbean	Carib
6	Oriental	Orient

Issues Table

1D6	Issue	Abbreviation
1	Taxes	Tax
2	Roads	Road
3	Healthcare	Heal

1D6	Issue	Abbreviation
4	Crime	Crime
5	Education	Edu
6	Environment	Envir

Making Block Chits

Each Block has exactly one randomly determined income, party, race, and issue. Use the abbreviations when writing on the chits: On the upper left hand corner of the chit write the income. On the upper right hand corner of the chit write the party.

In the middle of the chit write the race. On the bottom, write the issue.

Setup Candidate

Each player has a candidate that is running for office Each candidate has the following 8 profile characteristics:

1. Income: Determine on the Income Table
2. Party: Determine on the Party Table
3. Race: Determine on the Race Table
4. First Allied Race: Determine on the Race Table (must be different from #3 on this list)
5. Second Allied Race: Determine on the Race Table (must be different from #3 & #4)

6. Primary Issue: Determine on the Issue Table
7. Second Issue: Determine on the Issue Table (must be different from #6)
8. Third Issue: Determine on the Issue Table (must be different from #6 & #7)

Playing The Game

After setup the game has 4 phases:

1. District lines are drawn
2. District lines are redrawn
3. Census
4. Election

District Lines Are Drawn

Players take turns. Roll high on 1D6 to determine who goes first. In the first part the District lines are drawn. There are 50 District Markers (Blank Chits). They are all the same.

The first player places 1D6 markers on the map, one per block. The very first marker may be placed on any one of the 9 center squares. All other markers must be placed on a block adjacent to another marker.

Adjacent means side by side, not diagonal. The next player places 1D6 markers, then the next, and so on. This continues until all 50 markers are placed.

Everything under a marker is part of the voting district.

District Lines Are Redrawn

In the second part the District lines are redrawn. Turns continue from where they left off. The game will continue for another XD6 turns. X = number of players.

On a players turn he may move 1D6 markers. A marker cannot be moved if it is adjacent to 3 or more markers. A marker cannot be moved if this action separates the district into 2 or more isolated parts.

A removed marker can then be placed back on the map adjacent to any other marker. After this then a census is taken of the district

The Census

Take the 50 blocks in the district and count the number of each variable. For example: The district may have contained: 16 High income blocks, 19 middle income, and 15 low income; 27 Democrats and 23 Republicans; 9 Blacks, 8 WASPs, 6 Europeans, 10 South Americans, 8 Caribbean's, and 9 Orientals; 10 Taxes, 6 Education, 10 Roads, 9 Health care, 7 Crime, and 8 Environmentalists.

The Election

Calculate votes for the candidates:

1. For each matching Income block get 2 votes.

For example: A High income candidate would get 32 votes for 16 High income blocks in the district but no votes for middle and low income blocks.

2. For each matching Party block get 1 vote.
3. For each matching Race block get 3 votes.
4. For each matching First Allied Race block get 1 vote.
5. For each matching Second Allied Race block get 1 vote.
6. For each matching Primary Issue block get 3 votes.
7. For each matching Second Issue block get 2 votes.
8. For each matching Third Issue block get 1 vote.

Victory

The player with the most votes at the end of the game is the winner. And your next elected official.

Variations

For a smaller game play on an 8 X 8 map and use 32 District markers. Pick your candidates characteristics instead of generating them randomly.

Get Castro!

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. 1950-60's. Players represent various elements of the CIA trying to eliminate Castro.

Winning

Be the first player to Assassinate Castro. If Castro is not killed after the players have gone through the deck twice then Castro survives and all the players lose.

The Deck

Players share a Common Deck. There are 5 card Types:

- Method
- Conspiracy
- Location
- Save
- Event

Setup

Shuffle the Deck. The Deck is kept face down. Each player is dealt a hand of 5 cards.

The biggest Conspiracy Theorist goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 phases:

1. Fate Phase
2. Meld Phase
3. Foil Phase
4. Kill Phase
5. Exit Phase

Fate Phase

Draw 1 card from the deck and put it in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Discard a Propaganda card to draw 2 cards.

Discard a Spy card to look at your opponents hand and steal one card.

Meld Phase

If you have 2 or more of the same card in your hand you may make a Meld. Place the Meld cards face-up in front of you. For Example: 2 Rifle cards would be a Meld or 3 Mafiosi cards would be a Meld.

You can only have 1 Meld of Method type cards in play.

You can only have 1 Meld of Conspiracy type cards in play.

You can only have 1 Meld of Location type cards in play.

If you later gain another card of a Meld you have in play, you may add it to the Meld in this Phase.

Foil Phase

Any opponent may play (discard) a Save or Event card. A Save card causes the target indicated Meld to be discarded. An Event card causes any target Meld to be discarded.

An Event card once used is removed from play. Any opponent may play (discard) a card that matches one of your Melds. If they do so, they may put those meld cards into their hand.

Kill Phase

If you have 3 Melds in play (1 each for Method, Conspiracy, and Location) you may Roll 3 six-sided dice (This is called the Assassination Attempt). If all 3 rolls are different numbers, you have killed Castro and win the game. If 2 of the numbers match, you must discard 1 of your Melds of your choice.

If all 3 numbers match, you must discard all of your Melds.

Exit Phase

Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

For each level of reflexes, the gladiator will negate an opponents attack card on a roll of 1 on 1D6 whenever he is hit in combat.

Charisma

For each level of Charisma, the gladiator will generate an additional 1D6 gold revenue in earnings phase if he fought this turn.

First Blood Optional Rule

The very first time a gladiator is put in the ring roll 1D6:

1. Coward: He is automatically killed
- 2-5. No effect
6. Blood Lust: He immediately gains 1 Experience point.

Premade Starter Gladiators

Make up 40-50+ new gladiators. Write their attributes on cards. During auction phase, instead of rolling up new gladiators draw cards.

The benefit being you can reuse the cards from game to game.

Vow Of The Gladiator

"I submit to being burned, chained, beaten, and killed with an iron weapon."

The 3 Schools

Historically, There were 3 Big Gladiator Schools in Italy at about 10 A.D. under Augustus Caesar:

- The Great School, The Gallic, and the Dacian.
- Gladiators of the Great School get Skill +1
- Gladiators of the Gallic School get Prowess +1
- Gladiators of the Dacian School get Reflexes +1

Gladius

Introduction

Card game for two players. Common deck. Players are a pair of Roman Gladiators fighting to the death in the arena. One player is a type of gladiator called the Secutor.

The other player is a type of gladiator called the Retiarius.

Victory

Reduce your opponent to zero hit points. At this point, you have your opponent at your weapons tip, and you await the final judgment of the cheering crowd.

Hit Points

Each Gladiator starts with 10 hit points.

Secutor

legionary-style shield and sword. The secutor was called a "chaser," probably because he was frequently paired with the retiarius, who used running as one of his tactics.

Retiarius

Retiarius ("net-and-trident" fighter): used an arm protector (often topped with a high metal shoulder protector), large net, trident, small dagger, no helmet; the retiarius was the only type of gladiator whose head and face were uncovered. Since he wore practically no defensive armor, the retiarius was more mobile than most gladiators but was also more vulnerable to serious wounds.

Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck contains 56 cards.

Setup

Players start with a hand of 2 cards each.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. The Retiarius goes first. The turn has 4 phases:

1. Maneuver Phase
2. Attack Phase
3. Defense Phase
4. Hit Phase

Maneuver Phase

Draw 1 card from the deck. You may keep 5 cards in your hand. Discard excess cards.

Attack Phase

Play 1 attack card that your fighter can use, from your hand, face up, onto the table. You may not attack this turn if you used an Evade card to defend last turn.

Defense Phase

Your opponent may play a defense card, he can use, to counter your attack. Both cards are discarded. There are 2 types of Defense cards: Block and Evade.

Blocks cannot be used against Immobilization attacks.

Hit Phase

If your opponent does not play a defense card, your attack hits. There are 2 types of attack cards: Damage & Immobilize. A damage card reduces your opponents hit point total by the indicated amount.

An Immobilize card means your opponent must skip his next turn.

Murmillio Card List

Other Gladiator Types

The Thracian and Murmillio were often paired together. To play an alternate gladiator type, remove the 18 cards specific to one type and replace them with the 18 card set of the new type.

Thracian

Thracian: Wide-brimmed crested helmet with visor, high greaves on both legs, arm protector, very small shield, and short, curved sword (Spartacus).

Murmillio

Murmillio: Were armed in Gallic fashion with helmet, large sword, and shield and were so called from the name of the fish that served as the crest of their helmet.

Dimachaeri

Dimachaeri: "two-knife men" of the later empire, carried a short sword in each hand.

Samnites

Samnites: fought with the national weapons—a large oblong shield, a visor, a plumed helmet, and a short sword.

Gladius Miniatures Variant

by Patrick H. Lewis

Introduction

These rules were designed to be used in conjunction with the Gladius card game and its supplement Gladiator School by Lloyd Krassner. They provide a way of using miniature figures to show the relative distance between the fighters and give the game a little more color and realism with only a moderate increase in complexity. The only extra equipment need for this variant are miniatures representing the gladiators and a rectangular card (the Display) that is divided into three equal parts across its length. The divisions of the card should be big enough to hold two figures. The card I use for my 28mm figures is 4 1/2" long and 1 1/2" wide (12cm x 4cm). It is divided into 3 squares 1 1/2"x 1 1/2" (4cm x 4cm). In place of miniature figures, counters, coins, pawns, salt and pepper shakers or any other suitable markers may be used just as long as the players can distinguish one marker from the other.

How The Display Is Used

All of the rules of the original game are used, but with the following modifications:

At the start of the game the figures are placed at opposite ends of the card facing each other.

During the Maneuver Phase, after drawing and, if necessary, discarding a card, the player may announce that he is "closing" with his opponent, i.e. moving one space closer to him. If the space the gladiator wishes to move into is empty, he may play either an Attack card or a Defense card that he is capable of using, but if the space is occupied, he must play an Attack card and that card will be used in the following Attack Phase. A player may only make a "closing" move toward his opponent, not away from him. The selected card is placed face up on the table. A card that isn't going to be used in the Attack Phase is placed on the discard pile. A card that is going to be used in the Attack Phase remains in front of the player.

During the Attack Phase, those fighters armed with a sword or a dagger may only attack if their opponent is in the same space. The retiarius (who was the inspiration for this variant) may attack at a distance.

If a fighter "closes" with his opponent and enters the same space, he will inflict one less damage point than usual if he has a successful attack. A retiarius that "closes" to a space adjacent to his opponent may use the Trident Thrust attack card and attack from that position, but likewise suffers a one point reduction in damage. No attack can be reduced to less than one point of damage. Fighters that do not move on the Display inflict the full amount of damage points if they have a successful attack.

The Retiarius

The retiarius may use the Cast Net card when he is one or two spaces away from his opponent. (If the retiarius uses the Cast Net card in the same space as his opponent, players should visualize that he is swinging the net to trip or otherwise hinder his opponent.)

He may use the Trident Thrust card when he is one space away or in the same space as his opponent, however, if he is in the same space, the amount of damage is reduced to one damage point due to the difficulty of wielding the trident effectively at very close range. He may only use the Dagger card if he is in the same space.

The Withdraw card can be used by the retiarius in his opponent's Attack phase even if he is not attacked. The card is played and the retiarius may move one or two spaces. (If the retiarius is moved two spaces, simply place the figures at opposite ends of the card.) If his opponent has the Reflexes Attribute, check to see if the card is negated. If the card has been negated, the retiarius may not move and the card is discarded. (Players should visualize that even though an attack wasn't made, the opponent was able to react quickly enough to maintain the relative distance between the combatants.) If the card wasn't negated, the retiarius may move one or two spaces away, however, if he has taken 5 or more hits, he may move only one space.

The retiarius may also move one space away from his opponent if he was attacked and has successfully defended himself using a Leap or Dodge card, however, if he has taken 5 or more hits, he may not be moved.

Other Gladiators

The secutor, thracian, dimachaerus, murmillo, and samnite may use the Leap and Dodge cards in the same manner as the retiarius. (see above) In addition, the thracian may also use his Fleet Footed cards. The restriction on movement in regard to the number of hits applies as well.

Other Cards

All of the other attack cards that may be used by both players (exception: Sand in Eyes) can only be used if the fighters occupy the same space. The Sand in Eyes card may be used in the same space or one space away from an opponent.

Dear Lloyd

I'm still plugging along on the playtesting, and I haven't settled on the card selection for the Hoplomachus and the Provocator. The Provocator may be redundant, since he seems to me to be very much like a Murmillo or a Samnite. The Hoplomachus, on the other hand, seems to be a lot like a Thracian but armed with a spear, and would have rules regarding the use of the spear that would be similar to the trident. I'm having some second thoughts about the reduction in the Retiarius' damage points when he attacks with the Trident Thrust card in the same square as his opponent. I think that reducing it to 1 point may be a bit too severe. So far, it hasn't been a huge factor in the game, but I did want to give the Retiarius player some incentive for keeping his distance. (As if there weren't enough already?!) I think my rationale for the penalty is sound enough, though. I hate dithering about such things, so I'll let it stand as it is. I'd be interested in your thoughts about it. I hope to give the rules a good workout this weekend. I'll let you know if I have any major changes. It's funny though...I've had several games where the Retiarius is holding a mit full of cards that the Secutor needs and vice versa. Frustrating, but fun!

Global Warming

Introduction

Solo card game. Abstract simulation of Global Warming.

Winning & Losing

If the Heat Level ever gets to 10, Global Warming is not Controlled and Civilization as we know it is doomed. If at the End of the game the Heat Level is 9 or below, Humanity has averted complete disaster. The Game ends when there are no cards left in the Heat Deck.

Heat Tokens

Use Tokens (Counters, Chits) to keep track of the Heat Level.

The Deck

The Deck has 4 Suites: Pollution, Consequences, Political Will, & Solutions. There are 13 cards in each Suite. Cards are numbered between 1 & 13 in each Suite.

52 Card Deck

Because the Deck is similar to a regular deck (except that the names of the suites are different and that each card has a unique title) it can be used as a normal deck of cards.

Setup

Divide the deck up into 2 Mini-decks: The Heat deck has Pollution and Consequence Cards. The Cool deck has Politics and Solution Cards. Shuffle the Mini-decks and put them face down.

Turn Sequence

Draw 2 cards from the Heat Deck. If they are from different suites raise the Heat level by 1. If they are from the same suite raise the Heat level by 2.

If they are from the same suite with a combined score of 20+ raise the Heat level by 3. Draw 2 cards from the Cool Deck. You may discard 1 and draw a replacement.

If the Cool deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. If they are from the same suite the Heat level is unchanged. If they are from the 2 different suites, there are 2 possibilities:

1. If the Politics card is = or greater than the Solutions card reduce Heat Level by 2.
2. If the Politics card is less than the Solutions card, reduce the Heat level by 1.

The Map

The map is a 8 X 8 grid. Map spaces must be large enough to place a card onto. In one corner is the Joe Base.

In the opposite corner is the Cobra Base. The other 62 spaces are a random even mix of these 8 terrain types: Jungle Swamp Sea (Water) Desert Mountain Forest Urban Artic (Snow)

Setup

In setup one of a players teams starts in his base. The other 3 teams are adjacent to the players base. Each player starts with a hand of 8 cards.

Roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first.

The Cards

Each card represents a Soldier or a vehicle and driver. Each card has 3 Value Categories: Firepower (FP) Close Combat (CC) Tactics (TAC)

Each player Adds up the appropriate score for all their units. Friendly Artillery units within 2 spaces can add their Firepower score to a Firepower or Tactics type Fight if either team has a communications unit.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Planning Phase
2. Logistics Phase
3. Mission Phase
4. Combat Phase

Planning Phase

Draw 2 cards from your deck or Place a new Team Counter on your base if it is empty. A Team may have a maximum of 5 team Members. If your deck runs out shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Mission Phase

You may move all of your teams up to one space each or Move 2 of your teams 2 spaces each or Move 1 of your teams 3 spaces. A team cannot move through other teams. You may move your teams onto Enemy teams.

Armor (& Driver) Units can move face up on their own up to 2 spaces. Air (& Pilot) Units can move face up on their own up to 4 spaces. Armor & Air units moved seperately can join another Team.

Reveal an Intelligence Unit to look at the cards in an adjacent enemy team.

Combat Phase

If two opposing teams occupy the same space they will fight. Both players flip their cards face up. Next, roll 1D6 to determine the type of fight:

Roll:	Result:
1-2	All units use their Firepower Score in this Fight.
3-4	All units use their Close Combat Score in this Fight.
5-6	All units use their Tactics Score in this Fight.

Leader units give a +1 to each other unit in the Team.

If 3 or more of your units are from the same Service branch get +1 per unit. If you are the attacking (current) player and you have Recon units get +1D6.

If you are the defending player and you have Ambush units get +1D6.

For each unit has skill in the current terrain type get +1D6. A Team defending its base gets +1D6. If an Armor unit Faces an Anti-Armor unit the Armor unit gets -3.

If an Air unit Faces an Anti-Air unit the Air unit gets -3. The player who had the highest total wins the combat. The losing team counter and all of its units are discarded.

The winning team loses 1D6-3 random units (1D6-5 if the team has a Medic). Air Units are never casualties in Close Combat fights. Retreat them to a friendly team.

Goblin Commander Tactics

Introduction

Card game for 2 players. Based on the Video game of the same name.

Disclaimer

Goblin Commander is a copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

Destroy all of your opponent's units.

The Decks

Each Clan has a unique deck. Players share a common Magic deck and a common Tactics Deck The Magic & Tactics decks contain 2 copies of each card listed.

Hands

Each player has 3 hands: Clan, Tactics, & Magic

Definitions

- Units = This includes all cards in the Clan Decks
- Major Units = Leaders & Titans
- Ranged Units = Units with a base Range of 2+
- Flank Units = Non-Structure Units located on the ends of a Row
- Front Line Units = Non-Structure Units located in the Front Row

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 phases.

Draw Phase

Draw 3 cards from your Clan deck.

Deploy Phase

Put up to 3 Clan cards into play from your hand. You may freely rearrange your cards in play. Each player has 3 rows (ranks): Front, Middle, Rear.

Each rank is 5 cards (columns) long. You must keep 5 cards in your front row. If there are less than 5 cards in your front row, move a card forward from the Middle or Rear rows.

If you ever have less than 5 cards in play, put a Clan card from your hand into play or, if you have none, draw a card from your Clan deck and put it into play.

Magic Phase

Draw 1 magic card. If the deck runs out shuffle the discard & draw from it.

Tactics Phase

Draw 1 Tactics card. If the deck runs out shuffle the discard & draw from it.

Attack Phase

Each of your Clan cards may make 1 attack. Units with range = 1 can only attack if they are in the Front row and They attack an enemy unit located directly across from it in the Opponent's Front Row. Units with longer ranges can attack over their own rows into Enemy rows up to their range (in Rows).

Roll 1D6: if the roll is equal to or LESS than the Attack value of the Attacker, the target receives 1 Damage Counter. A Unit with Damage counters \geq than its Toughness is destroyed. Note: Structures cannot attack each other.

Goblin Quest

by Dave Stattler

Intro

Teams of Goblins run around, get into mischief, wreak havoc, and try to not get killed. Not unlike Space Scouts.

The Cards

Players draw from a common deck that includes: Mission, Threat, Mishap, and Aid cards.

Setup

You get 4 Goblins. Determine their skill picks, either by rolling on the chart or making your own choices. One Goblin is the Boss and gets 3 skills. The rest all get 2 picks apiece.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Action Phase
3. End Phase

Object

Be the first team to reach X Victory Points (50 is good). Missions are worth from 1 to 7 points, depending on difficulty. Threats are worth from 0 to 3 points.

Victory Points can be spent on giving your Goblins new skills (4 skills max). Replacing a regular Goblin that has been lost costs 4 VPs, plus 4 VPs for each skill pick. New Goblins get 2 skill picks, even if replacing the Boss.

Draw Phase

Draw 2 cards. If the deck runs out, the game ends, and whoever has the most Victory Points wins.

Failure Result Table

2d6	Result	Effect
2-3	Boss Lost	Your team's Boss is eliminated, and replaced by the Goblin with the most skill picks
4-6	Delayed	Miss Next Turn.
7-9	Goblin Lost	Randomly eliminate one of your team's Goblins (not the Boss).

Action Phase

You may decide whether to go on a Mission or hang out in the Warren. If you hang out in the Warren, you may replace any Goblins that you have been lost. Goblins cost 4 VPs to replace, plus 4 VPs for each skill pick (max 2 until he's gone on at least 1 mission). You may also spend VPs to give new skill picks to your current Goblins (5 VP per pick, max 4) or to draw one card. You can only do this once per turn. If you go on a Mission, play a Mission card from your hand.

Before you begin the Mission, any player (yourself included) may play a Threat on top of the Mission. Each player who wishes to do so plays one Threat at a time, starting with the player to your left and going around until every player has played all the Threats that they want. Once all the Threats have been played, they must be faced one at a time (in reverse order from how they were played). If your team has skills that match those on the Threat card, the Threat is overcome- add its Victory Points to your score and discard it. Otherwise, you fail the Threat. If all Threats are overcome, the team faces the Mission. If they have skills that match those on the Mission card, they complete the Mission successfully. Add its Victory points to your score and discard it. Otherwise, you fail the Mission.

During a Mission (and/or Threat) you may play Aid cards to give your crew extra skills. Your opponents may play Mishap cards to cause your crew to lose skills. Aid and Mishap cards affect the team for the rest of the turn, and are discarded during the End Phase. If the Mission or a Threat is failed, roll on the Failure Result Table and go to the End Phase. The Mission remains face up on the table, and any Threats that you failed to overcome are left on top of it. Any player may attempt to complete it during their turn.

End Phase

If you have more than 10 cards in your hand, discard down to 10.

Gods & Demons

Introduction

Card game for 2 players. Based on Hindu Mythology One player is the Good Blue Skinned Rama The other is the Evil 10-headed, 40-Armed Demon King Ravana

Victory

Kill the opposing Leader.

The Fate Decks

Each player has a unique Deck. There are 9 basic card types: Leader Heroes Troops Weapons Armor Modifiers Strikes Defenses Events Note: Strikes, Defenses & Events are discarded after being played. Units, Weapons, Armor, and Mods stay in play until destroyed.

Terminology

Leaders, Heroes, & Troops are collectively referred to as Units. A Unit may attach: 1 Close Weapon 1 Armor 1 Ranged Weapon Any number of Modifiers

Setup

Each player draws the top 7 cards of his deck. Each player starts with their Leader card in play.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases Destiny Phase Summon Phase Battle Phase Heal Phase

Destiny Phase

Draw 3 cards from your Fate Deck.

Summon Phase

Put Heroes & Troops into play. Attach Weapons, Armor, Mounts, and Modifiers.

Battle Phase

You (the Attacker) may attack with some, none, or all of your units. Your Opponent (the Defender) determines which of his units block which attackers. A maximum of 1 Unit may block 1 Attacker (form pairs).

Attacking & Defending Units do damage to each other equal to their Strength. Strike Cards can be played to increase the Damage done by a Unit. A Defense Card negates all the damage done by one unit to another unit.

Use Markers (counters/coins/chits) to indicate Damage. Units with a number of Damage markers that exceed their Defense level are destroyed. If 2 units do enough damage to destroy each other, the unit that does the most damage wins. The loser is killed. The winner keeps damage markers enough to kill him -1.

Any unblocked attacking units automatically attack the opponents Leader. The Damage done by a Leader to Units attacking that Leader is divided up amongst the Attackers by the controller of the attacked Leader.

Heal Phase

Troop units remove 1 Damage Marker each Heroes remove 2 Damage Markers each Leaders remove 3 Damage Markers each Cards that Heal are played in this phase Maximum hand size is 8 cards. Excess cards are discarded.

Gods Of Magic

Introduction

Card and Dice and Storytelling game for 2-6+ players. Each player takes the role of one of the Gods of Magic. The Gods create magical Realms and fill them with all manner of strangeness.

The God whose realms are the most complete and fantastical becomes The current Chief amongst them.

Victory

Be the first player to score 200 or more Victory Points. If 2 or more players score 200+ at the same time, the player With the higher score wins.

Victory Points

Each card has a Victory Point value. Keep track of points with pen and paper.

Dice

A Ten sided die is required. Yes, the Gods play dice with the universe!

The Deck

Players share a common Deck. There are 5 Suites. Each Suite has 40 cards.

Card Suites

- L Location
- A Action
- E Entities
- D Descriptors
- O Objects

Domains

A Domain is a player's part of the table where he keeps his Realms. Each player has his own Domain.

Magic Table

1D10	Result:
1	Creation
2	Transformation
3	Destruction

Realms

A realm is a group of cards that must include one location card. These cards are face up in a separate group within your domain. A realm may consist of a single location card.

If a realm ever does not have location due to dice play, it is referred to as A Realm of Imagination and it will not score points.

Complete Realms

A complete realm contains at least one card of each of the 5 Suites.

Setup

Shuffle the Deck. Each player is dealt a hand of 10 cards. Each player may play up to 3 cards to their Domain to make 1 or more Realms.

Players roll high on the die to see who goes first. Reroll ties.

Turn Sequence

- Players take turns. Each turn has 3 Phases:
1. Draw Phase
 2. Play Phase
 3. Dice Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 card and place it in your hand. Max hand size is 10 cards. Discard excess cards at the end of this phase.

Play Phase

Play one card from your hand to add to one of your Realms or to create a New realm. If creating a new Realm, the card played must be a Location card.

Dice Phase

Roll the die and consult the Magic Table.

1D10	Result:
6	Alteration
7	Recombination
8	Evocation

1D10	Result:
4	Inspiration
5	Transmigration

Creation

Just like getting a second Play Phase. Play one or two cards from your hand to your Realms or create a new Realm. If creating a new Realm, one of the cards played must be a Location card.

Transformation

Discard any one card in play in any Domain and replace it with another card From your hand of the same suite. This is usually done to replace a higher value Card with a lower value one.

Destruction

Cause any target card in play to be discarded. The owner of the card may immediately Draw a new card from the deck and put it in their hand.

Inspiration

Draw 2 cards and place them in your hand. If your hand has 2 or less cards draw 5 cards instead.

Transmigration

Cause any target card in play to be moved from its Realm to any other target Realm.

Alteration

You may play a Descriptor card. If you do, immediately score it and the Card it is attached to.

Recombination

You may rearrange the cards in your realms and your hands. You cannot create new realms by doing this and you must end with the same number Of cards in your hand as you started with.

Evocation

Draw 1 card and immediately play it.

Visitation

First Draw 1 card. Next, All Players immediately score their Domains: Realms score points equal to the total value of their cards. Complete Realms score as a normal realm but also earn an extra 10 Victory Points.

Location Cards

1D10	Result:
9	Visitation
10	Imagination

Realms of Imagination score zero points. Scoring is cumulative. After Scoring check to see if anyone has won.

Imagination

Pick any other die result from the Magic Table.

Notes On Realms

A realm can contain multiple cards of each Suite. For example a realm may have multiple Locations: A Bedroom at the top of a Tower, in a City, on a Hill, by the Ocean. . .

Descriptor

Descriptors are adjectives used to describe other cards. When played, a Descriptor is attached to (placed slightly under) another card. If the Attached card is destroyed, the Descriptor is destroyed too.

If the Attached card is moved, the descriptor is moved with it.

Story Telling

The Realms and what happens to them tell stories. In the spirit of the game Players are expected to say something about a Realm when they modify it, thus describing the whims and actions of the Gods of Magic. This is usually a statement listing all the cards within the realm and how they Interact with each other. This may include elements not listed on the cards themselves.

If any description fails to meet the playing groups standards, the play may be stopped By the other player and the offending player must make a different action.

Plurals And Exactitudes

The Entities are written in plural and the Locations and Objects are not. When describing a Realm feel free to change this. A mountain could become A Mountain Range. Gypsies and Elves could become a single Gypsy Elf. Likewise, specificity may be added: a Flower becomes a Rose, A tree becomes an Oak.

The Map

Use a Chessboard. Each space is known as a Territory. The corner spaces are Towers.
Randomly distribute the remaining 60 Terrain Tiles.

Setup

Each Player starts in control of 1 Tower. Each player gets dealt 6 Golem cards & 3 Event cards. Each player starts with 20 Mana saved up.
Randomly determine who goes first. Your Tower Contains your Wizard who does not move. A Wizard is small, soft, man-shaped, has 5 Hits, Force +7, and Armor +7.
The Wizard may freely stack with Golems in the Tower.

Dice, Chits, Counters, Tiles, Coins, & Cards

Tiles are used to make the Map. Each player has a set of numbered chits of a unique color. Numbered Chits are used to represent Golems.
Cards are used for 2 Decks: The Golem Deck & the Event Deck Coins represent Mana. Counters are stacked with units to record damage. Ten sided dice are needed to play.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 phases:
1. Power Phase
2. Craft Phase
3. Fate Phase
4. Spell Phase
5. Move Phase
6. Battle Phase
7. End Phase

Power Phase

Gain 4 Mana. Gain 1 extra Mana for each Monolith & each Tower space you occupy. Mana is used to make Golems, cast Spells, and draw extra cards.
Mana may be saved from turn to turn.

Craft Phase

You may build a Golem in this phase. Play 1 Material, 1 Size, and 1 Shape card. Calculate the Hits, Move, Force, & Armor of your Golem.

You must control certain spaces to use certain Material cards. If you do not control the appropriate materials space, you can still craft the Golem, but it costs double Mana. A Units cost to build, in Mana, is equal to its Force + Hits.

Represent the Golem with a numbered chit from your color set. Record the ID number & stats for the new Golem. Place the chit on or adjacent to your Tower.

Discard played cards.

Fate Phase

Draw 3 cards in any combination from the Event Deck &/or Golem Deck. Each player maintains 2 separate hands: an Event card hand & a Golem card hand. Max hand size is 7 cards (for each hand). Discard excess cards.

If a deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Pay 5 Mana to draw an extra card from either deck.

Spell Deck

All players may play Spell cards. All Spell cards cost 2 Mana each to play. Spell cards are discarded after being played.

Adjacency Rule

Units or spaces must share a common border to be adjacent. Diagonal spaces and units are not adjacent.

Control Of Spaces

For purpose of access to Materials needed to build Golems. One of your golems must occupy the space or The space must be empty, and you must have a golem adjacent to it.

Stacking Rule

In a single space you may stack up to 4 golems. No two Golems in a stack may have the same size, shape, or hardness. (2 Golems with the same trait will destroy each other) Units from opposing players cannot occupy the same space.

Move Phase

You may move some, none, or all of you units. Units can move up to 1 to 4 spaces depending on their shape Units cannot enter or move through Water spaces. Exception: Flying units may pass through water spaces.

Units cannot move through other units, except for flying units. The stacking limit must be strictly enforced. Some Spell cards will affect the Movement of units & Stacks.

Battle Phase

You may attack adjacent enemy stacks with your own stacks. Resolve conflicts between two opposing stacks, one at a time. A turn may have multiple battles between multiple stacks.

Battles are fought in Rounds. Player may play Battle cards at any time during the round. During each round, each Golem, in turn, in both opposing stacks gets to attack once.

Small units always attack before Medium size & Large units. Medium size units always attack before Large units. Start with the Active player (Player whose turn it is) Pick which of your golems is attacking, and what its target is.

Both players roll 1D10. The attacker adds the attacking golems Force modifier. The defender adds the target golems Armor modifier If the Attackers modified roll is equal or higher, the Target loses 1 hit.

A golem reduced to zero hits is destroyed & discarded. The other player then attacks and so on. This repeats until one side is completely eliminated.

Extra Attacks (From Battle Cards) are made, in turn, like regular attacks. Units in Towers get Armor +1.

End Phase

If you won a battle, you may put any of your Soft Golems that were killed in the battle back into play. (They Regenerate)

Setup

Place all the 'Quest' tokens in a pile in the center of the table. Each player draws 4 cards. To determine turn order each player cuts the deck.

The player who cut to the highest level card is goes first. Shuffle the deck.

Turn Sequence

Adventure Phase

The opponent to your left may play a 'Test' card of level 6 or less. You may play one or more 'Aid' cards. Roll 1D6 and add the value of the 'Aid' cards.

Introduction

Card and Board Game for 2-4+ players. Theme: The finances and status of the great country houses built in England and Scotland in the 18th and 19th centuries. Each player controls one noble who is making improvements to his estate.

Victory

Pawns

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

The Aristocrats

Name:	Special Ability:
Duke	Starts with Estate Size +2
Marquis	Starts with 2 Random Status Cards
Earl	Starts with 10 extra Coins

Decks

There are 2 Decks of cards: The Income Deck and the Status Deck. The top 4 cards of each deck are always kept face up. If any cards are purchased or discarded immediately draw a new one to replace it.

If a deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Coins

Each coin is worth 1000 Pounds.

The Income Deck

The income deck has six types of cards:

- A Agriculture
- M Mining

The Status Deck

The status deck has six types of cards:

- S Style
- O Collections
- X Accommodations
- F Features
- N Construction

Each card has a cost and a status value

Setup

Each player gets 20 Coins. Each player starts with an Estate Size = 10. Each player picks one of the Aristocrats.

Roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first. Shuffle the decks. Flip over the top 4 cards of each deck.

These are face-up and spread out and are available for purchase.

Name:	Special Ability:
Count	Starts with 2 Random Agriculture Cards
Merchant	Starts with 5 land and 4 Random Trade Cards

Estate Size

You cannot have more total Agriculture, Mines, and Industry Improvements than your Estate size. Beginning estate size is 10. Each point of Estate size is equivalent to 300 acres.

Turn Sequence

On your turn roll one die. You may go either forwards or backwards. If you land on a space that has one or more matching cards face up, you may buy them.

Place cards you own face up in front of you. OR If you land on a space that has an income type matching income cards you own you may Collect income from them equal to their total income value. Note: You cannot buy and collect income in the same turn.

If you land on the Country space you may discard all the face up income cards and go again. If you land on the London space you must pay 2 Coins then you may discard all The face up status cards and go again. If you land on the Land space you may pay 2D6 Coins to increase the size of your Estate by 1.

If you land on the Rent space gain 1D6 Coins.

Agriculture

When you land on the agriculture space you can both collect income and purchase any available agriculture improvement cards.

Credit

Credit cards do not cost anything to buy. They give an immediate one time windfall of coins and are then discarded. If two or more are available, you may only take one.

Trade

Trade is very profitable, but also risky. Every time you gain income from a Trade card roll 1D6: On a roll of 6 discard the card.

Industry

Industry requires large investments, but generates accordingly large incomes.

End Game Scoring

Note there are 6 Suites in the Status Deck. Add up the Status Points of all of your Status cards. A Set is one card from each suite.

Get an extra 30 Points for each complete Set you own.

Great Old Ones

Introduction

Card game based on the Cthulhu Mythos.

Disclaimer

Cthulhu is a licensed copyrighted property. This is merely a Fan Site.

Victory

Reduce your opponent to zero Sanity points.

Sanity Points

Each player starts with 10,000 Sanity Points.

Creatures

There are 3 types of creatures:

1. Humans (also Men or allies: Can carry Weapons)
2. Monsters (also Corrupt Humans and Living Dead and Avatars)
3. Major Powers (Great Old Ones, Outer Gods, and Elder Gods)

Note: Corrupt & LD Humans are treated like humans for summoning and carrying weapons, but otherwise treat them as Monsters. An Avatar is a lesser incarnation of a Major Power. Major Powers can never be used as Summoning Tribute.

Sanity Cost

Many cards have a Sanity cost to use them or to put them into play. This Cost is subtracted from the players remaining total sanity. Humans have no Sanity Cost.

The Cost to put a Monster or Major Power into play is half of its Force. The Cost to put an Item or Tome into play is its Force. The Cost to put a Location or Event into play is its Force.

The Cost to use a Spell is equal to its Force. The Cost to use an Item is equal to its Force. The Cost to use the special ability of a Tome is equal to its Force.

Note: When a Spell, Item, or Tome is used, flip it face down.

Flipped Cards Delay Tokens

Flipped cards can take no action. A card that receives Delay Tokens is Flipped and cannot unflip until all the tokens are removed.

Setup

The oldest player goes first. Each player is dealt 7 cards. Players cannot attack on their first turn.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 11 Phases: Day Phase Draw Phase Event Phase Travel Phase Find Phase Spell Phase Allies Phase Weapons Phase Horror Phase Threat Phase Night Phase

Day Phase

Unflip all flipped cards with no Delay tokens on them. If a card has delay tokens on it, remove 1 Delay token.

Draw Phase

Draw 1 card from your deck (or a common deck) If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Event Phase

You may play one Event card from your hand. Events are discarded as soon as they are played.

Travel Phase

You may play one Location card face up. (This replaces your previous Location card)

Find Phase

You may Play one Item or Tome face up.

Spell Phase

You may attach (Face down underneath) Spell cards to Tomes.

Allies Phase

You may Summon (Play) one Human card on your turn from your hand. The Human is placed Face up.

Weapons Phase

You may attach weapons to your humans. (And Monsters listed as CUW: Can use Weapons) A Human may have only one Weapon attached. To Attach the weapon the user must have a Force equal to or greater than the Force of the Weapon.

Horror Phase

You may Summon (Play) one Monster or Major Power card on your turn from your hand. The Monster or Major Power is placed Face up. Tribute Summons: Summoning a Creature with a Force of 800 or more requires One or more of your other creatures in play to be discarded (sacrificed) first.

The Sacrificed Creatures must have a total Force equal to at least half the Force of the creature being summoned.

Threat Phase

You may attack with none, some, or all of your creatures (attackers). If an attacker is unblocked, the target player loses Sanity equal to its Force. Your opponent may block with his humans and creatures (defenders).

When Creatures are paired up, the creature with the lowest Force is destroyed. Humans cannot attack, they can only defend. Invisible humans can attack.

Flipped Creatures (and those with delay tokens) cannot Attack or Defend. Invisible attackers cannot be blocked.

Night Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Deck Construction Limits

Players construct decks from cards on the card list. Except for Humans and Monsters, A Deck may have no more than 1 copy of any 1 card. (Limit 4 for Humans and Monsters) A Deck may only contain one Major Power card.

A Deck may only contain Avatars if they match the Major Power. A Deck must contain a minimum 4 Locations. Standard deck size is 40 to 60 cards.

Spells

Spells cannot be cast from your hand. Spells must be attached to Tomes. A Tome can attach a number of Spells equal to its Force/100.

Some Creatures and Items can Attach Spells. Spells can be used multiple times. Everytime you use a Spell, you lose Sanity equal to the Force of the Spell and Flip the Spell card. (Cards are unflipped in Start Phase) If a Tome is Flipped, the attached Spells can still be used.

Items

Items can be used multiple times. Everytime you use an Item, you lose Sanity equal to the Force of the Item and Flip the Item card. (Cards are unflipped in Start Phase)

Game Designers Notes

This game is quite similar to an already published card game from the late 90's called Mythos. Unfortunately, that fine game is out of print. This game is certainly in tribute to that one. Another published Cthulhu game is now out called Call of Cthulhu.

So why design a card game that is very like two existing card games? Well first, at Warpspawn, we like to tinker, and make Things just the way we like them. This you cannot do as easily with already made games. Second its way Cheaper to do it this way. Third, we're obsessed, a very Cthulhu-ish trait.

Next topic is how this game (GOO) differs from the Mythos CCG:

1. The Human Allies are all generic (No required Starting Locations)

2. The Story cards are removed (Decks in Mythos were built around these)
3. The Investigator cards are removed (They could be re-incorporated)
4. (Fiddly) Travel rules are removed (Gates not required to Summon Monsters)
5. The Locations are (mostly) generic
6. (Annoying) Phobia cards removed
7. Major Powers are now Creatures that can fight (Cool)
8. Languages removed (though knowing Atlantean and Glyphs was cool)
9. You can do more stuff on your turn (Don't have to worry about opponents passing)
10. Spell Types removed (Another complication)
11. For some of the above reasons, Deck Construction is now 500% easier

Next topic is how this game differs from the Call of Cthulhu CCG:

1. In COC the factions limit what you can bring out. No limits in GOO.

In COC you are limited to 4 Mythos factions, In GOO there are many major powers and their Minions you can play (Like Glaaki, or Mi-Go, or Serpent People, or Living Dead)

2. Victory and Casting costs are still a matter of Sanity Points in GOO.

In GOO like the old Mythos game, you are still a lone Investigator who has need of both Human Allies and Mythos Threats (You can play 1 of each per turn in GOO). In COC there is a Fiddly Resource system and Victory is by capturing Storycards. Very different game mechanics associated with these two types of setups.

3. In GOO Tomes hold Spells which can be reused.
4. GOO is of course do it yourself, make and modify your own cards.

Further Game Designers Notes

Why the high point values? I started this project as a cross between Cthulhu material and Yugioh mechanics. Eventually I dropped the Yugioh stuff except for the high number values and the Idea of the tribute summon.

Deck Construction Notes

The resource side of a deck should have a balance of getting extra cards and of being able to put extra cards into play. The other side of the deck should be a balance of attacking Threats, and defenses to deal with opponent's threats.

Great Powers

Red Nationalism

Blue Navies

Brown = Armies Yellow = Colonies Tokens can be replaced with counters, markers, chits, or cubes. Token Denominations of 1, 5, and 10 are recommended. Each player's traits are always available for everyone to see. This may require some other type of bookkeeping system to facilitate.

Move Move points per turn

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 phases: Recruit Phase Event Phase Move Phase Battle Phase

Recruit Phase

Draw 1 Unit Chit from the common pile. Keep your Chits in a pile. Units are recruited from specific Territories.

If you have a Unit in an appropriate Territory, you may put a Unit Chit from your pile into play on that territory or in an adjacent territory that is empty or occupied by a unit you control.

Adjacency Rule

Units or spaces must share a common border to be adjacent. Diagonal spaces and units are not adjacent.

Stacking Rule

You may stack up to 4 of your units in a single space. Summoned units do not count against this limit. Units from opposing players cannot occupy the same space.

Event Phase

Draw 1 Event card. Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

Event Deck

Event:	Notes:
Pandoras Box	All players draw 5 cards
Visit Oracle at Delphi	Look at next 7 cards in Deck
Blessing of Kronos	Player takes another turn after this one
Blessing of Zeus	All Men units get an extra attack this round
Blessing of Poseidon	All Abyss units get an extra attack this round
Blessing of Atlas	All Giant units get an extra attack this round
Blessing of Hermes	All units in stack get Move +2 this turn
Blessing of Nike	All Flying units get an extra attack this round
Blessing of Prometheus	Replace target unit with one in your pile
Blessing of Hera	All Monster units get an extra attack this round
Blessing of Pan	All Forest units get an extra attack this round

Blessing of Ares	All your units get Force +1 this Battle
Blessing of Athena	All Women units get an extra attack this round
Blessing of Artemis	All Army units get an extra attack this round
Blessing of Asclepius	All units in target stack are restored to full Hits

Move Phase

Each unit has a number of Move Points (MP). Water units can only move on Water spaces. Land units can only move on Land spaces.

Flying units may move through Water spaces. Flying units may not end their turn in a water space. Heroes and Army units may travel on water spaces if stacked with a Ship.

A Hero while stacked with a Pegasus gains Flying & Move = 4. The stacking limit must be strictly enforced. Non-flying units cannot enter or move through a space containing enemy units.

Battle Phase

You may attack adjacent enemy stacks with your own stacks. Resolve conflicts between two opposing stacks, one at a time. A turn may have multiple battles between multiple stacks.

Battles are fought in Rounds. During each round, each unit, in turn, in both opposing stacks gets to attack once. Start with the Active player (Player whose turn it is) Pick which of your units is attacking, then Roll 1D6.

If the roll is equal to or less than the attacking units Force, an enemy unit loses 1 hit. The defender decides which of his units is hit. A unit reduced to zero hits is destroyed.

The other player then attacks and so on. This repeats until one side is completely eliminated. Women units attacking a stack containing Men units get Force +1 Instead of having a unit attack, you may play an Event card.

Every time the Hydra loses 1 Hit it gets Force +1.

Event:	Notes:
Blessing of Tyche	Draw 2 cards

deck size.

Crew Quality

Crews can be poor, good, or elite.

1D10	Advantage:	Notes
1	Prongs	+1 to Ram bonus
2	Sails	+1 to Sail Roll
3	Reinforced Hull	+1 to defend vs Ram attacks
4	Reinforced Ram	+1 to Ram bonus
5	Hoplites	Crew +20
6	Hoplites	Crew +20

Missile Subtable

1D10	Advantage:
1	Archers
2	Greek Fire
3	Ballistae
4	Catapult
5	Onagers

1D10	Advantage:
6	Trebuchet
7	Harpax (Catapult Launched Grapnel)
8	Corvus (Swing Bridge)
9	Tower and Archers
10	Parablemata (Leather Screens)

Turn Sequence

A round is when every ship has moved. Players take turns moving their ships, one ship at a time. The player with the larger fleet moves first.

For example: Joe has ships A, B, C Andy has ships D, E, F, G, H, I Andy moves D, Joe moves A, Andy moves E, Joe moves B, followed by: F, C, G, H, I When a ship moves it has the following phases:

1. Fire Phase
2. Sail Phase
3. Row Phase
4. Missile Attacks
5. Ramming Attacks
6. Boarding Phase
7. Morale Phase

Ship Counters

All ships have a forward facing. Ships should be marked for easy identification.

D6	Result
1	Floundering: -1D6 Move points
2-3	Against the Wind: -1 Move Point this turn
4-7	No effect

Add 1 to your roll per Sails Advantage the ship has. Add 1 for an elite crew. Subtract 2 for a poor crew.

Subtract 2 if ship is on Fire. Subtract 4 if you rammed or were rammed last turn.

Row Phase

Only one ship per hex. Each ship has a base number of Move points. Subtract 3 if you rammed or were rammed last turn.

Add the modifier determined in Sail Phase. Ship speed is decreased equal to the percentage of rowers lost (Killed) rounding down. If you were at a complete stop last turn you can move a maximum of half speed.

A ship may go at ramming speed and get +2 Move points. A ship may only go at ramming speed if it will end up ramming. Grappled ships may not move.

Weapon	Range	ToHit	Dam	Fire	Minimum Range
Rowers	1	-1	1D10	-	1
Archers	2	+2	1D10	1	1
Greek Fire	1	0	2D10	1-4*	1
Ballistae	4	+1	1D6	1	1
Catapults	6	-1	2D10	1-2	2

Fire Phase

Ships on fire lose 1D10 crew per fire counter. Roll 1D6 for each fire counter:

D6	Result
1	The fire is put.
6	Put an additional fire counter on the ship.

If you are adjacent to a ship on fire, you will catch on fire on a roll of 5-6 on 1D6. Any ship with 6 or more fires is automatically destroyed.

Sail Phase

Roll 1D6 for the ship:

D6	Result
8-9	Catch the wind: +1 Move Point
10	+2 Move Points
11+	+3 Move Points

If you are grappled you may attempt to ungrapple: Roll 1D6. on a roll of 4-6 you may move. A ship may use some, none or all of its move points. A move point can be used to turn one hex face.

A move point can be used to move forward or backwards one space.

Missile Attacks

A ship may make Missile attacks at any point, or points during its move. Archers, Greek fire, Ballistae, and Catapults are all Missile attacks. An Advantage may only make one attack per turn.

Weapons hit on a roll of 6-10 on 1D10. Subtract 1 if the target has parablemata. Missile Advantages have enough ammo for 10 shots each.

Weapon	Range	ToHit	Dam	Fire	Minimum Range
Onagers	4	0	1D10	1	1
Trebuchet	10	-2	3D10	1-3	3
Tower Archers	3	+3	1D10	1	1

Note: Rowers throw javelins from a sitting position. This represents the combined attack of all rowers.

Fire The chance the enemy ship catches on fire on a roll of 1D6.

Put 1 Fire counter on the ship. Inflicts 1D3 Fire counters.

Dam Number of enemy crew killed if attack hits.

ToHit = Modifier to the "to hit" roll. Range = in Hexes

Ramming Attacks

If a ship moves forward 1 or more spaces in a row, and is facing an opposing ship in its forward adjacent hex, it may ram it. Roll on the Ramming table:

1D10	Damage Result
1-2	No effect
3-6	Oars sheared: Opposing ship has -1D6 Move points
7-8	Opposing ship sinks in 2D6 turns and has -1D6 Move points
9	Opposing ship sinks in 1D6 turns and has -1D6 Move points
10+	Opposing ship sinks (is immediately destroyed)

Subtract 5 if the rammer moved less than 3 spaces in a row to reach its target. If both ships are facing each other subtract 2. The attacking ship adds its Ram bonus to the roll.

The defending ship subtracts its Ram bonus from the roll. The defending ship subtracts its Hull advantage from the roll. A ship cannot move any more on the same turn after ramming.

Add 1 if you have a Corvus. Add 1 if you are the larger ship. Add 1 if you rammed the ship this turn.

Add 1 if the ships are rammed together. For each 10 crew you have (rounding up) roll 1D6. This is the number of enemy crew lost.

The opposing ship simultaneously rolls and inflicts casualties. A ship with no crew cannot move or attack. An empty ship may be captured by an adjacent ship.

The capturer may split its crew between the 2 boats.

Boarding Attacks

If an opposing ship is adjacent you may board it on a roll of 6-10 on 1D10. The ships are considered to be grappled. Add 1 if you have a Harpax.

Morale Phase

Roll on the following table.

1D10	Result
0	Rout or Surrender (or Abandon Ship) if enemy ship adjacent
1-2	Rout: Try to escape
3-10	Keep fighting

Add +2 if no crew have been killed yet this battle. -3 if sinking. -2 if half of crew are dead.

-1 if adjacent to enemy ship with larger crew. -1 if enemy has more Size points worth of ships. -2 if any friendly ships in 20 hexes are routing.

Legendary Captains & Crews

Each ship has 1 Captain. The basic Captain has 0-1 skill. Heroic Captains have 2 or more skills.

Elite crews will also have 1 or more skills. Nationality indicates skills exemplified by certain cultures.

1D6	Skill	Notes	Nationality
1	Melee	+1 to all rolls in Boarding Phase	Spartan
2	Sailing	+1 to Sailing roll	Phoenician
3	Rowing	+1 Move point	Egyptian
4	Rally	+2 to Morale roll	Roman
5	Ramming	+1 to Ram bonus	Athenian
6	Missiles	+1 to hit with all Missile attacks	Persian

Notes

This is a conversion of Agea.

The scenarios that use the Warp Quest engine will hold the details.

Introduction

Warp Quest is an abstract game system that depicts goal driven scenarios.

Each player controls a collection of Units who are attempting to be the first to reach an objective and bring it back to the start.

The units could be a party of adventuring archeologists hoping to recover a lost artifact, a squadron of bombers attempting to hit a military target and return home, a band of samurai seeking to vanquish marauding bandits or a company of mixed creatures seeking to destroy a piece of evil ornamental jewelry that has the nasty habit of trying to control the minds of all free creatures.

Dice & Pieces

- Six and ten sided dice are needed.
- Each player has a pawn to represent his or her group of Units (adventuring party, fleet, etc.) on the board.
- Use a small trinket to represent the Objective.
- There is only one Objective.

The Board

- The board is a single winding path of connected spaces with a Start Space and an End Space. The path should be 30 Spaces long.
- The First Space represents the start.

- Spaces 2-15 represents travel through the first scenario module.
- Spaces 16-29 represents travel through the second scenario module.
- The End Space is the final destination where the Objective is found.

The Decks

- There are 2 decks for each scenario:
- The Module 1 Deck and the Module 2 Deck.
- Each deck has one of each card in its card list.
- There may also be an Aid deck.

The Units

- Each player controls a group of units called a Party. The scenarios will detail the make up of the units in the party, their attributes (Skills, Traits) and starting dispositions.

Turn Sequence

- Players take turns.
- Each turn consists of 3 phases: 1. Move Phase 2. Draw Phase 3. Challenge Phase

Move Phase

- Roll 1D6. Move your pawn that number of spaces towards the end space.
- You automatically stop when you enter the end space.
- If you are the first to land on the end space your party acquires the Objective.
- Once a party has acquired the Objective then all other players may move their parties in either direction on the path.
- The party with the Objective must move towards the start space.

1D6	Result
1-4	Go back 1D6 spaces
5-6	Lose 1 Unit (Man, Ship, Hit Point, etc., depending on the Scenario)

If you Win the challenge gain 1 Experience Token. You may spend an Experience Token to let you reroll a Move Roll or a Skill Roll.

Moving Onto An Opponents Pawn

- If you land on an opponent's pawn there will be a fight.

- The first pawn with the Objective to reach the start space wins the game.

Draw Phase

- If you land on an empty space in spaces 2-15 draw a card from the Module 1 deck.
- If you land on an empty space in spaces 16-29 draw a card from the Module 2 deck.
- If you land on an opponent's party do not draw a card.
- If a deck ever runs out, shuffle its discard and draw from it.
- Cards are of 2 types: Challenge cards & Aid cards.
- Place Aid cards in your hand.
- Challenge cards are encounters your party faces immediately in Challenge Phase.

Challenge Phase

Each challenge card lists one or more skills. Your party will have to make a skill check vs each skill listed. (The same skill may be listed twice or more, requiring that many skill checks) A Skill check consists of a Skill roll and Challenge Roll: Roll 1D10. This is the Skill roll.

Add the skill bonuses of your party members to the roll. You may discard Aid cards for further bonuses to the skill roll. Next roll 1D10. This is the Challenge roll.

Some Challenges have a DM (Difficulty Modifier). Add the DM to the Challenge Roll. If the challenge roll is less than or equal to the skill roll you win the Skill check. If the challenge roll is greater than the skill roll you fail the Challenge.

If you win all the Skill Checks, you win the Challenge. The adventure card may say what happens if you win or lose the Challenge. If the card does not give directions, then roll on the following table: If you lose the challenge: Roll 1D6: (Challenge Loss Table)

- The current player rolls on the Skill List Table to determine which skill will decide the confrontation.
- Both players make Skill Rolls. In case of a tie nothing happens.
- The loser rolls on the Challenge Loss Table.
- The winner takes the Artifact from the loser if the loser was in possession of the Artifact.

Description Of Play

Each round players take turns picking Arrow cards from the Foundry Row. The then use these Arrow cards to capture Villain cards from the Starling Row. Used Arrow cards go into a players Hero deck.

When the Arrow deck is used up, players draw from their Hero Decks. The game ends when all Villain cards are captured, at which time Final Scoring commences.

Round Sequence

Each Round has 6 Phases:

1. Foundry Phase
2. Starling Phase
3. Hero Phase
4. Capture Phase
5. Bonus Phase
6. Recovery Phase

Foundry Phase

At the beginning of each Round flip over the top 3X cards from the Arrow Deck and place them face up in a Row (The Foundry Row). X is equal to the number of players, so if there are 4 players, there Will be 12 cards in the Foundry Row. If there are no card left in the Arrow Deck, players draw 3 cards from their Hero Decks.

If a players Hero Deck ever runs out, shuffle its discard and draw from it.

Starling Phase

At the beginning of each Round flip over the top 2X cards from the Villain Deck and place them face up in a Row (The Starling Row). X is equal to the number of players, so if there are 4 players, there Will be 8 cards in the Starling Row. When you flip over a Minor card (Power of 1 or 2) flip over another Card and stack the Minor card with it. The stack counts as a Single card on the Starling row, but has the combined Power of all of The cards in the stack. (The stack may contain several Minor cards Under the Major card (Power 3 or higher)).

Hero Phase

Starting with the player in possession of the arrow token, each player Picks one card from the Foundry and puts it into their hand. This continues until each player has picked 3 cards. If you pick a card that says Draw 1 immediately draw one card from the Arrow Deck and put it in your hand. If the drawn card also says Draw 1 Then draw again and so on.

If the Arrow Deck is used up draw 3 cards from your Hero Deck instead. If any are Draw 1 cards then draw additional cards from your Hero Deck. If your Hero Deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

At the End of the Phase the player in possession of the Arrow token gives It to the player on his left.

Capture Phase

Starting with the player in possession of the arrow token, each player Captures one or more cards (or stacks of cards) from the Starling Row and puts them into their Victory Pile. The total Power of the Pink cards you capture must be equal to or Exceeded by the total power of the Green cards you picked/drew this turn.

Bonus Phase

Put a Victory Token in your Victory Pile if you have played in Capture phase... 2 or more Skill cards 2 or more Money cards 2 characters with a Romantic relationship 2 characters with a Family relationship

Recovery Phase

Place all Green cards you played this turn into your Hero Deck Discard Pile. Any Villain card not captured remains in play.

Trouble

If you play a Green card with the Trouble Trait immediately draw a Pink card and put it in play (Keep drawing and stacking until you get a Major (Power 3+) card).

Team Up

If you play a Green card with the Trouble Trait draw a Pink card: You may use it as a Green card this turn. Shuffle it back into the Pink Deck at the end of the Turn.

End Game Scoring

Add up the value of all the cards and Tokens in your Victory Pile. Gain an extra 2 Victory Tokens for each Super Villain you captured.

The Project Deck

These are the projects the players are trying to complete. Each project lists a specific set of Resource cards that must be Played to complete the project.

Resource Deck

There are 9 types of Resource cards:

1. Innovation
2. Transportation
3. Energy
4. Water
5. Robotics
6. Conservation
7. Biological
8. Legislation
9. Human Behavior

The Resource deck has 10 copies of each card.

Political Will Tokens

Players share a set of Political Will Tokens (PW).

Setup & Maintenance

Shuffle the decks. Each player is dealt 3 random Project cards. Each player gets 10 PW Tokens.

The player with the smallest Carbon footprint goes first. Players keep their Project cards face up. The Top 12 cards of the Resource Deck are always kept face-up and Are spread out in order.

The Top 3 cards of the Project Deck are always kept face-up and Are spread out in order. Always replenish the face-up cards as soon as they are consumed. If a deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 Phases:

1. Political Will Phase
2. Resource Phase
3. Assignment Phase
4. Project Phase
5. Planning Phase

Political Will Phase

Each player gets 5 PW Tokens.

Resource Phase

Take the top 3 cards of the Resource Deck and place them in the Center of the table: These cards are called the "Lot". Players bid on the Lot starting with the current player. Each bid must be higher than the last.

Bidding Proceeds clockwise. The highest Bid wins (keeps) the entire Lot. The winner discards the PW Tokens he bid.

Other players keep their Bids.

Assignment Phase

The player that won the Lot must immediately assign the Resource cards to his Project cards. Resource cards are laid out next to their assigned Project card. Unused Resource cards are discarded.

Project Phase

A Project is completed if it has all the Required Resource Cards attached to it. If a player completes a project, he puts it in his City pile. Discard the attached Resource cards once the project is completed.

Each Project card has a Green Point value equal to the Number of resource cards required to complete it. Every time a player completes a Project, he gets to pick 1 new Project card from the top 3 cards of the Project deck.

Planning Phase

The current player may discard one of his projects (including all resources assigned to it) and replace it with a Face-up Project card from the deck.

Grenadier Tactics

Introduction

Card Game of Napoleonic Warfare.

Victory

Destroy all Opposing Units in Play.

The Decks

There are 2 Decks: The Army Deck & The Battle Deck.

The Army Deck

All cards are Units. At this Scale a Unit represents: An Infantry Company, Cavalry Platoon, or Artillery Battery. Each Unit has a Defense Rating

Defense Rating

A Measure of how much damage a Unit can take before it Breaks and Flees the Field.

Battle Deck

Card Types Include:

1. Attack Cards (Damage Card)
2. Opportunity Attack Cards (Damage Card)
3. Defense Cards
4. Event Cards
5. Leader Cards (Attaching Card)
6. Terrain Cards (Attaching Card)

Damage Cards

Attack Cards & Opportunity Attack Cards are together referred to as Damage Cards. Each Damage Card has a Damage Rating. This represents losses in men, morale, and cohesion of the target Unit.

There is a further distinction among Attack Cards. They can either be: Shoot Cards or Melee Cards.

Defense Cards

The Target Unit being attacked may play an appropriate Defense Card to Negate a Primary Attack.

Event Cards

Event Cards produce a wide variety of affects.

Attaching Cards

Units will have during the course of play, Battle cards attached to them. Place the Attached card face-up slightly underneath the Target Unit card. Terrain & Leader Cards provide Damage bonuses: Any attack made by the Unit does extra Damage.

Damage Markers

Use Counters, coins, chits, etc. for Damage Markers (DM).

Players

This is basically a two player game. There are 2 opposing Armies. However, if more want to play, players may join one side as an ally.

If there is an odd number of players, one player may play 2 Hands.

Setup

Each player is dealt 5 Random Units. Players put their units face up in front of them on the Table. The player with the most Light Infantry goes first.

If tied, the player with the most Cavalry goes first. If still tied, flip a coin. Each player is dealt a hand of 5 Random Battle Cards.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 6 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Reserve Phase
3. Attack Phase
4. Shoot Resolution Phase
5. Opportunity Phase
6. Melee Resolution Phase
7. End Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 Card from the Battle Deck & put it in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Reserve Phase

You may discard a Reserve card to draw a random Unit card from the Deck and put it into play on your side. (You may have more than 5 Unit cards) You may attach a Leader card to one of your Units. A Unit may have a Maximum of one Leader Attached. You may move Leaders to different Units.

You may attach a Terrain card to one of your non-Cavalry Units. A Unit may have a Maximum of one Terrain Card Attached. You may play a Rally card in this Phase to remove 4 Damage Markers from 1 Unit.

Attack Phase

You may play one Attack card. This is called the Primary Attack. Choose a Unit that is making the Attack.

The Attack Card must match the Type of Unit making the Attack. Choose an enemy Unit as the Target of the Attack. Note that Line Infantry may only make Primary Melee attacks vs Other Infantry and Artillery.

Note: A Unit making a Primary Melee (Not Shoot) Attack must first discard any Attached Terrain Cards.

Shoot Resolution Phase

Resolve Primary Attacks of the Shoot Type in this Phase. Discard the Attack card and place a number of Damage markers equal to Its Damage Rating onto the target Unit Card. If the Total Damage Markers on a Unit is greater than the Defense Rating of The Unit, The Unit is Defeated.

The Defeated Unit & any attached Leader is kept by the player that Defeated it in his Victory Pile for later Bragging rights. All other cards attached to the Defeated Unit are discarded. You may play a Rout card to automatically Defeat a Unit with 2 or More damage counters on it.

The Target Unit being attacked may play an appropriate Defense Card to Negate the Primary Attack. A Unit that Defeated another Unit may take and attach a Terrain card from The Defeated Unit. (It must first discard any Terrain card already attached)

Opportunity Phase

The Unit being attacked by a Melee attack may play an appropriate Opportunity Attack Card against the Attacking Unit. Resolve these Attacks just like Attack cards in Shoot Resolution Phase. The Opportunity Attack negates the Primary Attack only if the Unit making the Primary attack is destroyed.

Melee Resolution Phase

Resolve Primary attacks of the Melee Type in this Phase just like Attacks in the Shoot Resolution Phase

End Phase

Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

Units cannot move or attack through a building. Shallow Water or Marsh- Units cannot move through it. They must stop upon entering. Road- Units moving along a road get +1 to their Move.

The Men

Citizenry

The Citizenry desire a peaceful existence for their city.

1	Treviso
2	Novara
3	Pisa
4	Alessandria
5	Genoa

Influence Cubes

Each player except the Citizenry gets a set of Influence Cubes (IC) of a unique color. There is no maximum number of IC.

Victory Tokens

Players share a common set of Victory Tokens (VT). There is no maximum number of VT.

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

The Scoring Marker

The Scoring Marker moves around the Board like a Pawn. It should look different and be colored different from the player pawns.

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

The Board

The board is a circular track of 26 spaces. It is also referred to as the City Track. Each space represents a City in Northern Italy.

Each space should say the name of the city and have enough room for several IC and Pawns and the Scoring Marker. The Cities include:

1	Treviso
15	Cremona
16	Reggio
17	Vercelli
18	Modena

1	Treviso
6	Milan
7	Lucca
8	Lodi
9	Florence
10	Pavia
11	Siena
12	Piacenza
13	Ravenna
14	Arezzo

1	Treviso
19	Mantua
20	Bologna
21	Parma
22	Padua
23	Verona
24	Venice
25	Ferrara
26	Rimini

Setup

Players choose their Factions. Each of the Major Factions places 1 Influence Cube in each of the Cities. Each player starts with 5 VT.

Each player is dealt 3 cards from the deck. Players roll high on 1D6. Re-roll ties for highest. High roll is the Leader for Setup.

Play always proceeds clockwise with the Leader going first. Players (Leader First) pick which city they want their Pawn to start in. After all players have placed their pawns, the Leader places the Scoring Marker.

Round Sequence

Play proceeds in Rounds. Each Round has 3 Stages:

1. Initiative Stage
2. Player Turns Stage
3. Scoring Stage

Initiative Stage

First record Round Number (To know when the game ends). Players roll high on 1D6. Re-roll ties for highest. High roll is the Leader for the Current Round.

Player Turn Stage

In Initiative order each player gets a Turn (See Turn Sequence).

Scoring Stage

Roll X+1 Six sided dice.

X The number of Players.

Starting with the player to the left of the leader and going clockwise, Each player discards one die. The remaining die indicates how many spaces Forward (Clockwise) the Scoring Marker moves along the City Track. The city the Marker lands on is now scored. Imperialists and Papalists are State Level Opposing Factions Republicans and Signorialists are Local Level Opposing Factions First compare the number of IC the Papalists and Imperialists each have in that city.

If one side has more IC, it is said to have Dominance. The Dominant faction gets 1 VT. If one side has more IC by 4 or more, it is said to have Supremacy.

If one side has IC and the other side has none, the side with IC is also said to Have Supremacy. A Supreme Faction gets 2 VT. Next compare the Republican and Signorialist factions with each other in the same way as you did with the Imperialists and Papalists.

Finally, the Citizenry gets 1 VT for each faction that has Supremacy. In the rare case that neither opposing side has any IC, the Citizenry gets 2 VT.

Turn Sequence

Player turns occur within the Player turn stage of a Round. Each player gets a turn. Each turn has 3 Phases: Fortuna Phase Occasio Phase Fini Phase

Fortuna Phase

Draw 2 cards from the top of the deck and put them in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Occasio Phase

Roll 2 Dice. Move you pawn forward (Clockwise) a number of space equal to The value of either one of the dice or the sum of the 2 dice together. If you land on an Opponent, you may either trade cards with him or Steal 1 random card from his hand.

(If you landed on multiple opponents, pick one) You may then play (discard) one card from your hand or start a Battle. Most cards cause you to gain an IC in that city, or cause a target Opponent to lose one IC. Some cards produce a benefit/penalty for a specific Faction.

Most also allow some additional action or benefit. Note: The citizenry when playing a card that adds IC to an Undesignated Faction must choose which Faction they want to get the IC.

Battles

To start a Battle you must declare a target opponent and then play 1 or more Battle cards. Your opponent may then play a Battle card, and then you, and so on until you both pass. The player who played the most cards wins.

The loser loses all their IC in the city your pawn is in. In case of a tie both of you lose one IC in the city your pawn is in. (Note the Citizenry have no IC so they cannot be targeted as an Opponent) The Citizenry can discard 3 Battle cards to start a battle between 2 opposing factions (Imperialists and Papalists, or Republicans and Signorialists) The Faction with fewer IC is reduced to zero IC.

If both had equal IC, both are reduced to zero IC. Discard all Battle cards played.

Finis Phase

Your maximum hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Example #1 Card Play

Lets say you play the first card in the Card List: Strong Prince. Your Faction would get 1 IC in the City your pawn is in and The Signorialist Faction would also get 1 IC in the same city. (So if you were the Signorialists, you would get 2 IC in that city)

Example #2 Card Play

Lets say you play the second card in the Card List: Gain Upper Hand. Your Faction would get 1 IC in the City your pawn is in and An opposing faction of your choice would lose 1 IC.

Example #3 Card Play

Lets say you play the third card in the Card List: Quarrels. Your Faction would lose 1 IC in the City your pawn is in and An opposing faction of your choice would lose 2 IC.

Example #4 Card Play

Lets say you play the third card in the Card List: Exile. An opposing faction of your choice would lose 1 IC.

Guild Master

Introduction

Players take the role of founding fathers of a medieval town. The best builder earns the title of Guild Master.

The Cards

There are 116 cards listed. These will have to be manufactured by the players. Information on the card must include: The card name, resources it provides, and bonuses it receives.

Set Up

Shuffle the Deck thoroughly. Each player is dealt 5 cards. Determine player turn order by any convenient method.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. A turn consists of the following phases:

1. First Draw Phase
2. First Trade Phase
3. Discard Phase
4. Second Draw Phase
5. Second Trade Phase
6. Build Phase

Draw Phases

The current player may draw up to 5 cards. If you already have 5 or more cards in your hand you can't draw anymore cards.

Trade Phases

The current player may trade cards with other willing players. Trades cannot be forced. A player never has to show his cards or do a trade. Trades do not have to be equal. For example: Two for one.

Discard Phase

The current player may discard from zero to three cards into the discard pile.

Build Phase

The current player picks one resource category out of the 10 available. If the player has any cards of that resource in his hand he may 'build' them. 'Built' cards are placed face up in front of the player.

A player 'owns' all the location cards he builds. These cards count towards the players' victory calculation at the end of the game.

End Of Game

The game ends at the end of the turn the last card is drawn from the deck.

Victory Calculation

When the game ends each player adds up all the points they've accumulated in each of the 10 resource categories. Players may want to keep a running total during play. Each location put in play provides two resource points in one category or one resource point in two categories.

Example: TT = Two resource points in the Trade/Transportation resource category Many cards give a bonus resource point if you own another specific card. Example: You get an extra T for the Trade Route card if you also own the Cross Roads card. The player with the highest score in the most categories is the winner.

Game Designers Notes

You can of course add more cards, remove some, change others, etc. A few key changes would give the game a Roman flavor. Other 'flavors' could include: Western town, Space colony, Military base, Modern city, Renaissance city state, Oriental town, Arabian city, Industrial Era town, etc.

The resource categories may be changed as well to suit the milieu. The above card list is not strictly medieval. There are anachronisms, fantasy elements, and cross-cultural references. You may want to clean it up to make it historically accurate.

Inspiring Response

Hello! My name is Aaron Dalton, I am a High School English Teacher in Evanston, Wyoming. I am also an avid gamer, and stumbled across your site from the ed games newsletter. Wow! What a resource. I had an opportunity to create about 75% of the cards for your game "Guildmaster". We were able to play a modified version, each student allotted 3 cards, plus a few random students with 4 or 5. We played two rounds, and it went really well. Our "Guildmaster" had 16 points in one resource, but ended up owing many favors for cards given to her. I designed the cards with roads. As the students built their holdings, they had to match up the roads, and tape them to the chalkboard. The resulting city was very chaotic, and went along well with our non-fiction reading "The Labyrinthine City of Fez" by Anais Nin. It served as a take-off point for our discussion of the story.

Thank you very much! It is always fun to meet a fellow gamer, and to try something new. Please send any replies to redbaronaaron@yahoo.com.

Sincerely, Aaron Dalton

Increased Player Interaction Variant

by Marcelo Paschoalin (fermmoylle@ig.com.br) The changes on the original rules are on ALL CAPS. The major changes on the game are below. Everything else is the same as the original.

1. First Draw Phase
2. GUILDMASTER PHASE
3. First Trade Phase

Location Name	Resources	Bonus
Laundry	PP	Aqueduct +P
Jousting Pavilion	AM	Fairgrounds +A
Archery Range	AM	Fletcher +M
Arena	AM
Toymaker	AI
Beekeeper	FI

4. Discard Phase
5. Second Draw Phase
6. Second Trade Phase
7. Build Phase

Draw Phases

ALL PLAYERS may draw up to 5 cards. If you already have 5 or more cards in your hand you can't draw anymore cards.

Guildmaster Phase

Using his hand of cards, each player makes a hidden bid to achieve the title of Guildmaster. After all the players have decided on the amount of cards they will bid, they must tell to the other players the amount chosen. If there's a draw, the players not involved on the draw must choose by open vote who will be the Guildmaster. If there's no agreement on that, chance will dictate who will be the Guildmaster (coin toss, dice roll, lottery numbers...).

Trade Phases

ALL PLAYERS may trade cards with other willing players. THERE'S NO LIMIT ON Trades.

Trades cannot be forced. A player never has to show his cards or do a trade. Trades do not have to be equal. For example: Two for one.

Discard Phase

ALL PLAYERS may discard from zero to three cards into the discard pile.

Build Phase

THE GUILDMASTER picks one resource category out of the 10 available. If the PLAYERS HAVE any cards of that resource in his hand THEY may 'build' them. 'Built' cards are placed face up in front of the player.

A player 'owns' all the location cards he builds. These cards count towards the players' victory calculation at the end of the game.

Victory Calculation

When the game ends each player adds up all the points they've accumulated in each of the 10 resource categories. Players may want to keep a running total during play. Each location put in play provides two resource points in one category or one resource point in two categories.

Example: TT = Two resource points in the Trade/Transportation resource category. Many cards give a bonus resource point if you own another specific card. Example: You get an extra T for the Trade Route card if you also own the Cross Roads card. Each player gains points equal to the amount of resource points on his "worst" category, plus one point on each category he has more resource points than the other players.

If more than one player leads a category with the same amount of resource points as another player, both gain the bonus point.

Example: On the end of a game with 5 players, the resource points on the 10 categories (F, T, C, R, G, M, P, A, L, I) are below:

- Sue: 10, 4, 4, 4, 0, 3, 6, 3, 0, 12
- Tom: 5, 8, 2, 2, 2, 5, 6, 6, 6, 4
- Jeff: 6, 9, 4, 0, 5, 1, 5, 8, 1, 7
- Bill: 7, 10, 1, 2, 2, 4, 3, 4, 2, 9
- Jane: 5, 7, 2, 1, 2, 4, 1, 5, 5, 12
- Sue ends the game with 5 points (0 on the worst category; leads on F, C, R, P, I)
- Tom ends the game with 5 points (2 on the worst category; leads on M, P, L)
- Jeff ends the game with 3 points (0 on the worst category; leads on C, G, A)
- Bill ends the game with 2 points (1 on the worst category; leads on T)
- Jane ends the game with 2 points (1 on the worst category; leads on I)

Pieces

Use Miniatures. Dice required. Paper and pencil required.

Setup

One player designs the scenario. The other player picks which side he wants to control.

Turn Sequence

1. Initiative Phase
2. Movement Phase

SUIT	MOVE	-	SIZE
SIZE	POINTS	HITS	CLASS
2	8	10	Small
3	8	10	Small
4	7	10	Small
5	7	15	Medium
6	6	15	Medium

Notes: One move point can be used to move the suit forward one inch or for one turn of up to 60 degrees. Cost is equal to suit's size. Gundams cost is size*3, but their size and hits are doubled, while all other values remain unchanged.

Attacks

Ranged attacks hit on a roll of 6+ on 1D10. HTH attacks hit on a roll of 3+ on 1D10. If target is Small, -1 to hit, if Large, +1.

If suit moved this turn: -1 to hit with ranged weapons. The ranges listed are long range. Attacks at half this distance (rounded up) are +1 to hit.

Firing at point blank (quarter long range, rounded

Initiative Phase

If 6 or less mobile suits are fighting, roll 1D10 for each Mobile suit in Play. Add move points to the roll. Highest roll moves first, lowest roll moves last. All the rest are in between, based on their roll. If there are two or more suits with same initiative, roll their dice again. If more suits are involved, roll 1D10 for each side, and add slowest unit's move points. Suits are then moved starting with the side that rolled highest, and moving alternately until all Suits have had opportunity to move. In addition to this, you can make an activation roll for each Suit you wish to move. This is done by rolling a 1D6, and if the roll is equal to or less than Pilot's quality, you get to move the suit. Pilot's quality can go from 2 for Green to 5 for Elites. (6 is reserved for ZERO system users)

Movement Phase

Each suit can attack with each of its Weapons once per turn. Suit can attack at any point during its move phase. Unless punch/kick attack is made, in which case no other weapon may be used.

SUIT	MOVE	-	SIZE
7	6	20	Medium
8	5	20	Medium
9	5	25	Large
10	4	25	Large
11	4	30	Large
12	3	30	Large

down) are +2 to hit. If in HTH combat, add speed difference between attacking and defending suit. Plasma weapons & Flamethrowers are +1 to hit.

The Bomb is a self destruct mechanism. All suits within 1 inch take 4D10 Damage. Polearms attack all targets within range and in weapons attack arc. Any HTH weapon used against hand weapons has -4 to hit, against polearms only -2.

HTH weapons ignore all sorts of protection. All weapons attack into a 180 degree arc. The arc is determined by the suits weapon configuration.

Arcs include: (F)orward, (L)eft, (R)ight, and (B)ack. The arcs overlap. Only 1 class of weapon may attack into an arc during 1 turn.

Critical Damage Table

D10	System Damaged	Notes:
1	Leg Destroyed	Suit cannot move or change facing but can still attack
2	Pilot Shaken	Pilot takes 1D6 hits
3	Jets destroyed	No move bonus & Fall if flying. If none available treat as Leg hit.
4-5	Weapon	1 Random system destroyed
6	Reactor Core	Suit will explode as bomb if 1-3 rolled on 1D6. Roll after hit, and at the beginning of next turns.
7	Computers	Suit has -2 to hit on all attacks
8	System Shock	Suit can do nothing on its next move
9	Topple	Suit spends next turn getting up. No move or attack
10	Electrical Fire	Take 1D4 Damage at the beginning of every turn

Notes: Roll on the hit table for each 5 damage (rounded down) a hit inflicted after penetrating defences for ordinary suits. That is, 5-9 damage points penetrated give 1 roll, 10-14 gives 2 rolls, etc. Gundams roll on hit table once for each 10 points of damage that manage to get through. Pilots have 6 hits each.

A Flying suit that falls loses 2D6 X 10% of its full Hits.

Gunslinger Attributes

- Each gunslinger has 7 numerical attributes:
- Guts: Number of hits he can take before dying.
- Smarts: Maximum action card hand size.
- Cool: Number of action cards he can draw in Draw Phase
- Legs: Max number of spaces he can move in one turn.
- Arms: Ability in HTH combat (Allows use of certain cards)
- Eyes: Weapon Accuracy (Allows use of certain cards)
- Hands: Max number of attacks the gunslinger can make per turn.

Setup

Set up the board with terrain feature chits. Determine how many gunslingers each player will control. Each player places his gunslingers on squares of his back two rows.

Each Gunslinger starts with a full hand of cards.

The Action Card Deck

Gunslingers share a common deck of action cards. The Deck has 2 copies of each Move card and 1 copy of all other cards.

Turn Sequence

gunslingers take turns. Each turn has 3 phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Move Phase
3. Shoot Phase

Draw Phase

Draw a number of action cards equal to the gunslingers Cool attribute. Max hand size = Smarts Attribute. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Discard excess cards.

Move Phase

Play (discard) a Move card to move your gunslinger. The move card has a number. This is the number of spaces the man moves.

Moves can be diagonal or orthogonal. A man can only use one move card per turn. Men may not stack.

Shoot Phase

Play (discard) an Attack card to have the gunslinger attack. The attack card has a number. This is the MAXIMUM range of the attack.

Next roll 1D6. This is the Attack Roll. If the Attack roll is equal to or less than the Shooter's Eyes Trait the Attack hits. (At Range = 1 Shooters eyes are +1; At Range = 4+ eyes are -1) Attacks do one wound (Hit of damage) to the target.

Use Chits or coins to record damage. A man reduced to 0 Hits (Guts) is killed and removed from the board. Each hit reduces the value of all attributes by one.

Your opponent may play Defense cards to negate your attack.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. There are 6 basic types of cards:

There are 30 cards each for Weapon and Enemy card types.

Shield Points

Each player has 10 Shield Points (SP). If a player ever has less than Zero Shield Points, he immediately discards 3 cards and loses 5 Mission Points. He then immediately goes back up to 10 SP. 10 SP is the Max, you cannot go over this.

Setup

Each player starts with 100 Mission Points (MP). Each player is dealt 10 cards from the deck. One player is randomly determined to be Master Chief.

Introduction

Common deck Variant Rules for the HP Collectible Card Game.

Your Wizards

Choose one Wizard card to be your persona. It starts in play.

The Decks

There are 8 Common decks:

- Put all Wizard cards in a single deck.
- Put all Lesson cards in a single deck.
- Put all Adventure cards in a single deck.
- Put all Red (Transformation) Spell cards in a Red spell deck.
- Put all Blue (Charm) Spell cards in a Blue spell deck.
- Put all Green (Potions) Spell cards in a Green spell deck.
- Put all Yellow (Quidditch) Spell cards in a Yellow spell deck.
- Put all Brown Creature/Spell cards in a Brown spell deck.

Starting Lessons

Each player starts with five lesson cards in play, one for each color: Red, Blue, Green, Brown, and Yellow.

Play

On your turn, draw 1 card from the lesson deck & put it into play. Draw 5 Spell cards, one from each of the 5 Spell Decks. Spell cards are played as normal.

Max hand size is 7 cards: At the end of your turn discard down to 7.

Adventures

Each player starts the game with 1 randomly drawn Adventure in play. If this is solved, the player draws a new Adventure card at the beginning of his next turn.

Hits & Healing

Instead of losing by going through your deck, you get 20 Hit Points. If you are reduced to zero hit points you loose. When you are damaged, you loose Hit Points instead of losing cards from the top of your deck.

Healing cards make you regain lost Hits instead of shuffling cards back into your deck.

Other Abilities

Search your deck: Search an appropriate deck.

Card Modifications

Some Wizard powers go out-of-wack like the Lee Jordan Character. In this case, limit the Power use to once per game. Some Adventure cards adapt poorly to this scheme.

Your group will have to make house rules for each.

Deck Construction

For the Adventure and Spell decks, you may want to make a limit of one copy of each card. (10 or so copies for the Lesson Deck)

Setup

Each player places one Fighter on each square of his back two rows. You may stack 8 vehicles with any 8 of your fighters. A Fighter may only stack with 1 vehicle.

A vehicle may only stack with 1 fighter. Fighters may not stack with other fighters. Vehicles may not stack with other vehicles.

A Fighter and his vehicle move together as a unit.

The Cards

Players each have their own deck.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 phases:

1. Orders Phase
2. Move Phase
3. Battle Phase

Orders Phase

Draw 3 cards from your deck. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Max hand size = 5 cards.

Discard excess cards.

Move Phase

Play (discard) a Move card to move one of your units. Units cannot move through other units except for flyers. The move card has a number.

This is the number of spaces the unit moves. Moves are diagonal or orthogonal. Instead of moving just one unit in any direction, you have the option of moving one or more units forward the indicated number of spaces using a single move card.

A non-flying Fighter without a vehicle can move a maximum of 2 spaces. A Fighter with a non-flying vehicle can move a maximum of 3 spaces. A flying Fighter without a vehicle can move a maximum of 4 spaces.

A Fighter with a flying vehicle can move a maximum of 5 spaces.

Battle Phase

Play (discard) an Attack card to have a unit attack. The attack card has a number. This is the range of the attack.

Attacks are diagonal or orthogonal. The enemy unit that is the target of the attack takes one point of damage. A unit with a vehicle that is hit takes no damage but must discard the vehicle.

A Fighter reduced to 0 hit points is removed from the map. Units cannot attack through other units.

Special Ability Cards

Every Fighter and Vehicle has a Special Ability that can be activated when Its owner plays (discards) a Special Ability card.

Heart Patient

Introduction

Each player takes the role of a Heart patient.

Object

Be the patient to live the longest.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck contains 6 types of cards:

1. Medical Interventions
2. Lifestyle Modifications
3. Surgery
4. Pathological Events
5. Drug Therapies
6. Heart Attack Cards

All the types of cards are shuffled together into a single deck.

Setup

Each player rolls up a character or patient. For each patient roll for the 17 Risk Factors. Shuffle the deck.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. The player with the most real life risk factors goes first. On your turn draw one card from the deck.

If the deck runs out shuffle the discard and draw from it. If the draw is a Medical Interventions or Surgery card, put it into your hand to be used later. If the draw is a Lifestyles Modifications card play it immediately (face down to the table in front of you).

The effects of a Lifestyles Modification card lasts for the rest of the game. If the draw is a Pathological Events card play it immediately (face down to the table in front of you). The effects of a Pathological Events card lasts for the rest of the game.

If the draw is a Drug Therapy card put it in your hand or play it immediately (face down to the table in front of you). The effects of a played Drug Therapy card lasts for the rest of the game. If the draw is a Heart Attack Card see the Heart Attack Rolls Section.

Heart Attack Rolls Section

Heart attack cards indicate conditions that may precipitate a Heart Attack or MI (Myocardial Infarction) When a player draws a Heart Attack card he must make a Heart Attack Roll: Roll the ten sided die once (1D10). Add all modifiers. Some are positive (Bad), some are negative (Good). Modifiers come from: The patients original Risk Factors.

Drug Therapy, Pathological Events, and Lifestyle Modifications in play. Drug Therapy, Medical Interventions, and Surgery cards played from the players hand. Every Bad Risk factor adds +1 to your heart attack roll.

Every Very Bad Risk factor adds +2 to your heart attack roll. Every Very Very Bad Risk factor adds +3 to your heart attack roll. If your modified Heart Attack Roll is 10 or greater, then you die.

A player may discard drug therapy cards, and intervention cards to further modify the roll. A player may discard a Heart Attack card before the roll is made by discarding a Monitoring card. As soon as a player survives his first Heart Attack roll he is considered to have Coronary Heart Disease (CHD) The terms Coronary Heart Disease (CHD) and Ischemic Heart Disease (IHD) are synonymous.

If you survive you also gain the trait s/p MI. (Status Post MI, meaning you've had a heart attack) Players with s/p MI (CHD) get a +1 to all future heart attack rolls. The terms Heart Attack and Myocardial Infarction (MI) are synonymous.

DOC Drugs of Choice. If you have a DOC for a condition get -1 to your heart attack roll.

For Heart Attacks the DOCs are Diuretics & Beta Blockers. Medical Intervention Cards and Surgery Cards are discarded after being used.

Hearthstone Meta

Introduction

Card game based on the Meta of a Card game. Card game for 2+ players.

Disclaimer

Hearthstone is a copyrighted, licensed product. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

Each player plays 7 hands. A Hand is a match between 2 players. The player who wins the most hands wins the game.

The Common Deck

Players share a common deck. The Common Deck has 2 types of cards:

1. Deck Cards
2. Strategy Cards

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

Setup

Shuffle the Deck.

Turn Sequence

Two Random players will face each other in a Match. If a player is behind the others in number of Matches played, he will automatically be selected for the current Match. Each player draws 7 cards. Each player may Mulligan once.

To Mulligan, discard up to 4 cards and draw replacements. If a player has no Deck cards in his hand, he automatically loses the Match. The player with the most wins (or random if tied) plays the first card.

The first card a player plays must be a Deck card. Players take turns playing cards. Played cards are placed face up on the table visible to all.

Every time you play a Deck card (not a Strategy card), you must discard all the other cards you played previously this Match. Following a players first turn, he may play a card or pass. If he passes, he can play no more cards for the rest of the Match.

When both players have passed, each adds up the point value of all Of the cards he has played and adds 1 to get a Point Value Sum (PVS). Each player rolls a number of six sided dice equal to their PVS and adds the rolls together to get a Dice Total (DT). The player with the higher DT is the winner of the Match.

At the end of the Match all cards are discarded.

During a Battle a Character can use a max of 1 of each type of Aid card. Some Aid cards are Evil and Some are Good. Good Aid Cards can only be used by Heroes. Evil Aid cards can only be used by Villains.

Fate Decks

Each player gets his own Fate Deck. Keep your Fate cards face up in front of you. Each Fate Deck has 6 Cards:

1. Draw 1 Power Card & Then Move Loc-Nar 6 Points this Turn
2. Draw 2 Power Cards & Then Move Loc-Nar 5 Points this Turn
3. Draw 3 Power Cards & Then Move Loc-Nar 4 Points this Turn
4. Draw 4 Power Cards & Then Move Loc-Nar 3 Points this Turn
5. Draw 5 Power Cards & Then Move Loc-Nar 2 Points this Turn
6. Move 7 Points and all of your Characters get +2 BT this Turn

When a Fate Card is played place it face Down. When all your Face cards have placed face Down, flip them all back face-up.

The Loc-nar

Use a Pawn to represent the Loc-Nar. It moves from location to location allowing the current player to play recruit cards at its current location.

Control Markers

Each player gets a set of control markers (CM) of a unique color. Glass Stones or wood cubes work well for this. These are used to show control of Characters.

Control Markers are placed on Character Cards in play on the Map. When a Character first comes out place 1 CM on it. Each full turn a Character is in play he gets another CM placed on him.

Players at the end of each turn earn VT = the number of CM they have in play. The max number of CM a Character can have is 10. A Character in play controls the Location he is at or he is defending.

When you steal a Character (take control of a character) owned by another player remove all of his CM and place 1 of your own on the card.

Dice

Six sided dice (D6) are needed.

Setup

Each player gets a set of control markers. Each player is dealt a hand of 4 cards. The 15 Location Tiles are randomly assigned to the 15 Location Points on the Map.

The Loc-Nar Pawn starts on Nexus Earth. Players roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 Phases:

1. Fate Phase
2. Control Phase
3. Scoring Phase
4. Action Phase
5. End Phase

Fate Phase

Play one of your Fate Cards. When a Fate Card is played place it face Down. When all your Face cards have placed face Down, flip them all back face-up.

If the Fate card allows you to draw Power cards, do it now.

Control Phase

Place one Control Counter onto each Character you have on the Map. The max number of CM a Character can have is 10.

Scoring Phase

Gain 1 Victory Token for each Control Marker you have on the Map.

Action Phase

You may move the Loc-Nar a number points as allowed by the Fate card you played in Fate Phase. Every time you land on a point, including your starting point, you may play one or more Power Cards depending on what is at that point: I. — If it is an empty Location Point, you may play a Villain Card. Place the card next to the Location Tile.

Place a Control Counter on the Villain Card. II. — If it is a Location already occupied by an opponents Villain, you may play a Hero Card. Place the Hero Card Next to the Villain card and place a Control Counter on your Hero Card. The Hero and Villain will now have a Duel.

The owner of the Hero may play 1 or more Good Aid Cards. The owner of the Villain may play 1 or more Evil Aid Cards. Each player rolls 3 Dice plus 1 Die for each Aid Card they played.

If it is a tie, both Characters are discarded. The Location becomes empty. The Character with the lower Battle Total is discarded. The other Character remains in play in control of the Location.

III. — If it is a Location already occupied by an opponents Hero, you may play a Villain Card. Place the Villain Card Next to the Hero card and place a Control Counter on your Villain Card. The Hero and Villain will now have a Duel as described above. At the End of Action Phase there can never be more than 1 Character at a Location.

End Phase

Max hand size is 5. Discard excess cards.

Heist

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Players assemble teams of specialized Heist men and Compete to pull off the most and best Capers.

Victory

The player with the most Heist points at the end of the game wins. The game ends when all but 1 of the Job cards have been Captured and/or discarded. For a shorter game, players can remove random Job cards from the Job deck.

Dice

Six sided dice are needed. (Casino style preferably)

The Decks

There are 3 decks: The Job Deck The Security Deck The Heist Deck

The Job Deck

The Job deck contains the Job cards that are the ultimate goals of the Players to possess. Each Job card has a Security Number and a Heist Point value.

The Security Deck

These cards represent the obstacles that must be overcome in order To complete a Job.

Heist Deck

There are 7 types of cards in the Heist Deck:

1. Personnel
2. Complications
3. Cons
4. Crisis
5. Event
6. Reaction
7. Secondary Job

Personnel can be reused from Job to job and are pre-requisites to play Con cards. Con cards give added skill levels towards overcoming Security cards, Jobs, and Complications. Complications are events played on an opponent that make a Job harder to finish.

Crisis cards are complications that occur while a Job is being executed. Event cards (play in Event phase) often provide a Benefit to the player who plays them. Reaction cards are like Event cards, except that they are played at certain specific times (as indicated in the card text) and not in Event phase.

Secondary Jobs are attached to a target Job like complications.

Skills

Skills are needed to overcome Security and Complication cards. Skills are provided by Personnel and Con cards. The 6 Skills Include: Info Sleight Acrobat Engineering Tech Confidence

Setup

Each player draws 7 cards from the Heist Deck and puts them in their hand. For each player draw 1 Job card and place it face up in the middle of the table facing them. Each Job has a Security number listed on it. Draw that many Security cards and place them in a line face-up next to the Job card.

Players roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 phases:

1. Planning Phase
2. Recruit Phase
3. Contacts Phase
4. Event Phase
5. Complications Phase
6. Execution Phase
7. Job Phase

Planning Phase

Draw 1 card from the Heist deck and put it in your hand. If the deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Recruit Phase

Place Personnel cards from your hand face up onto the Table in front of you. You may have a maximum of 11 personnel cards in play. You may have only 1 Leader card in play.

Contacts Phase

Players may freely trade Personnel cards in play and Con cards in their hands.

Event Phase

You may play 1 Event card. These have a variety of Effects. Some of these cause extra Security cards to be drawn and added to a target Job.

Some cause a target Personnel to be affected in some way. Some affect a target players hand.

Complications Phase

You may play 1 Complications or Secondary Job card: Attach it to a Target Job. These are treated exactly like Security cards and are directly added to the Line of Security cards attached to a Job. Secondary Jobs provide additional Heist points; For this reason, you may wish to Attach them to your own Job.

Execution

Declare whether or not you are going to execute a Job. If not, skip this phase. It is important not to attempt an Execution until you are sure you have enough Personnel cards in play and Con cards in hand to meet all the skill requirements Needed to finish the Job plus all complications and crises.

Each Security card has one or more skills associated with it. A player must use a skill from his Personnel and con cards to overcome it. When overcome, the Security card is discarded. If a Con card was used, It is discarded. If a personnel card was used, place a "Spent" Token on the Personnel card: It can not be used again during this phase unless another Card action removes the Token.

Note: In order to use a Con card, you must have at least one personnel that Has that same skill (The personnel may be spent or unspent). At the beginning of the Job, randomly select one opposing player to be the Thwarter. After each Security card is overcome, roll 1D6.

On a roll of "6" the Thwarter may play 1 Crisis card. If you meet all Security, Complication, and Crisis challenges the Job is a Success: Keep the Job card and gain the indicated number Heist points. If you are unable to meet any Security, Complication, or Crisis challenge, the Job is a failure: Discard the Job card.

Succeed or fail, roll 1D6 for each of your personnel: On a roll of 6 discard them. Succeed or fail, discard all cards attached to the Job card, and all con and Reaction cards played.

Job Phase

If you made an execution last phase, you go through a period of lying low. Roll 1D6 to see how many turns you spend lying low. At the end of this time draw a new Job card (and Security cards).

If the Security Deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. During the lying low period you still draw cards and recruit personnel. Max hand size is 11 cards. Discard excess cards.

Remove Spent Tokens from your personnel.

Faq

Q> I must be missing something in the rules. It is possible to have 15 security obstacles to overcome, but you can't have that many cards in your hand. A> Each crewmember can also overcome 1 obstacle!!! (remember to place a spent token on them) so 12 (11 Max plus 1 draw) cards in hand + 9-11 crew should be enough to pull off any job.

Hell On Wheels

Introduction

Victory

The Player with the most Money at the end of the game wins.

Game End

The game ends when the Town Mini-deck has run out and there is no Town card to place in the Future Town Position.

Money

The smallest denomination of money is $1000 or 1K. Use Poker chips to keep track of Money.

Town Mini-deck Card List

Town	Type

Control Markers

Each player has a set of a unique color. These are placed on Establishment and Civilized Cards to show Ownership.

Town Card Mini-deck

There is a Mini-deck of 10 Town cards. Towns are of 3 Types: Spontaneous, Planned, and Existing. Spontaneous means the Hangers on build the town on their own from nothing.

Planned means the railroad company invests in building the town from nothing. Existing means the Town was already there and the RR is running through it. Spontaneous Towns have 1 extra level of Mayhem.

Existing Towns have 1 less level of Mayhem.

Town	Type
Grand Island	Planned
North Platte	Existing
Sidney	Spontaneous
Rawlins	Planned
Omaha	Existing

The Game Board

The Game board has 3 Positions: Past Town Present Town Future Town

Railroad Deck

Also called the RR Deck. This has 6 Types of Cards: Establishments, Civilized, Customers, Mayhem, Raids, Opportunist Establishment cards come in 3 Types: Saloons, Gambling Houses, Brothels

Setup

Shuffle the Decks. Each player starts with $20,000 (20K). Draw the top card of the Town Deck and place it in the Present Town Position.

Draw another card from the Town Deck and place it in the Future Town Position.

Supervisor Token

One player will be in possession of the Supervisor Token (ST). They are known as the Supervisor. This determines player turn order within Phases.

Depending on the Phase rules the Supervisor either goes first and play proceeds clockwise or the player to the Supervisors right goes first and play proceeds counterclockwise.

Turn Sequence

Each Turn has 10 Basic Phases:

1. Supervisor Phase
2. Railroad Phase
3. Civilized Phase
4. Taxes Phase
5. Establishment Phase
6. Customer Phase
7. Past Town Phase
8. Present Town Phase
9. Future Town Phase
10. End of The Line Phase

Opportunist Phases

Before and after every Phase in the Turn Sequence there is an Opportunist Phase. In Supervisor Order Players may play Raid or Opportunist cards one at a time during these Phases. Continue playing cards until all players pass. Raid Cards can be used to discard a target Mayhem card, or to discard a target Establishment card if the Town contains a number of Mayhem cards equal to or in excess of the number of players +1.

Supervisor Phase

Players Bid to see who is the Supervisor. Bids are simultaneous. Players open their Palms to reveal Money Chips. If tied players roll high on 1D6.

Only the winner pays the Bid Money. The Winner takes the Supervisor Token.

Railroad Phase

Each player draws 6 RR cards. If the RR Deck is empty shuffle the discard and draw from it. Players may pay to draw up to 3 additional RR Cards: 2K for the First Card. 4K for the Second. 6K for the Third.

Civilized Phase

In Reverse Order, players may play one or more Civilized cards onto: The town currently in the Past Town Position, or A planned Town in the Future Position, or onto any Existing Town regardless of position. Place the card onto the Position with a control Marker on it. A player may pass. If he passes, he can play (Build) nothing this Phase.

It costs 1K to play a Civilized Card. A Town can't have 2 Civilized Cards of the Same Type.

Taxes Phase

Do this for each of the 3 Positions: The player with the most Civilized cards in a Town is the Mayor. If tied, go in Supervisor Order to determine who the Mayor is. Each other player must pay the Mayor 5K for each Establishment they have in the town.

Establishment Phase

In Reverse Order, players may play one or more Establishment cards onto any Town or combination of Towns. Place the card onto the Position with a control Marker on it. A player may pass. If he passes, he can play (Build) nothing this Phase.

It costs 1K to play an Establishment Card.

Customers Phase

In Reverse Order, players may play one or more Customer and Mayhem cards onto any Town or combination of Towns. A player may pass. If he passes, he can play nothing this Phase.

Past Town Phase

The Past Town will generate Money for its Saloons:

$ $10K + 5K(X) + 5K(Y)$

X The number of Customer cards in the Town.

Y The number of Mayhem cards in the Town.

Each saloon present gets an even share of the Total Rounding Down. Example: The Town has 3 Customers and 3 Mayhem cards so

$ $40K = 10K + 5K(3) + 5K(3) = 10K + 15K + 15K$

The Town has 3 Saloons so each Saloon earns $13K = 40K/3$. Repeat this process for the Gambling Houses and then the Brothels.

Present Town Phase

The Present Town will generate Money for its Saloons:

$ $20K + 5K(X) + 5K(Y)$

X The number of Customer cards in the Town.

Y The number of Mayhem cards in the Town.

Each saloon present gets an even share of the Total Rounding Down. Repeat this process for the Gambling Houses and then the Brothels.

Future Town Phase

The Future Town will generate Money for its Saloons:

$ $10K + 5K(X) + 5K(Y)$

X The number of Customer cards in the Town.

Y The number of Mayhem cards in the Town.

Each saloon present gets an even share of the Total Rounding Down. Repeat this process for the Gambling Houses and then the Brothels.

End Of The Line Phase

Discard the Town Card and all attached cards in the Past Position. Move the Town Card and attached cards from the Present to the Past Position. Move the Town Card and attached cards from the Future to the Present Position.

Draw a new Town card from the Mini-Deck and place it in the Future Card Spot. Max hand size is 3 cards. Discard excess cards.

Game Setup

Distribute the 100 Terrain Tiles randomly to the Map. The Blank Map Board has 100 Spaces (It is 10 X 10). One Terrain Tile per Space.

All Tiles touching the edge of the Map are considered to be Coastal. Note: There are a few Tiles that are required to be Coastal. When drawn, Place them on a Coastal space, or even switch with another Tile if necessary. Shuffle each of the 5 Decks. Keep them separate.

Each player picks a Pawn of a different color. A Pawn represents a player's Party of Heroes and is used to indicate the Parties position on the Map. Players roll high on the 1D20 to determine Turn Order. Draw 1 Quest Card equal to the number of players. Set active Quest cards next to the Map and place a Quest Marker on the Quest's designated Terrain Tile.

Player Pawns must start in the City, Town, Castle, Village, Outpost or Hamlet. Each player Draws 6 Hero Cards. This is their Starting Party. Each player Draws a Hand of 5 Action Cards. This is their Starting Hand.

Party Size Limit

A party may contain up to 6 Heroes. Dismiss extra Heroes. Keep your Hero cards face up on the table in front of you. Party Size may be increased by certain card abilities.

In no case can Party size ever be greater than 8.

Relic Limits

Each Hero can have up to 2 Relics. Only one of those Relics may be a Staff or a Weapon. Discard excess Relics. Potions do not count against this limit. A party may have any number of Potions.

Relic Cards are kept stacked under the owning Heroes Card. If killed, a Heroes Relics may be redistributed to other Heroes, unless the Hero was separated in which case the Relics are lost too.

7	Relic	Gain 1 Relic (Draw 1 from top of Deck)
8	Gold	Gain 1 Gold Token

Hand Size Limit

Max Hand size is 5 Cards. Discard excess cards at the end of your turn. Hand size Limit may be increased by certain card abilities. In no case can Hand Size ever be greater than 10.

Quest Limits

The Map should always have a minimum number of Quests equal to the Number of Players. There may be a Max = the Number of Players +2. If there are excess Quests, discard extra Quests at random.

Deck Cycling

If a Deck ever runs out, shuffle the Discard and draw from it.

Turn Sequence

- Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:
1. Move Phase
 2. Quest Phase
 3. Terrain Phase
 4. End Phase

Move Phase

Move your Pawn 1 Space on the Map. Moves must be orthogonal not diagonal. If you hired a Guide last turn you may move 1 extra Space.

Some Heroes, Relics, and Actions allow you to move extra Spaces. If you bought passage on a Ship last turn you may move to any Coastal Space. More than one Pawn can occupy a Space at the same time.

Some Action Cards are used in this Phase. If so fill your Action Hand back to its Normal Hand Size.

Quest Phase

If your Party enters a Space occupied by a Quest, they must undertake that Quest. Each Quest has a number of encounters equal to the Quest Length (As stated on the Quest Card). For each Encounter roll 1D8 on the Encounter Table:

Minion Encounters

Lesser Minions always have a Fight Value of 5. Minor Minions always have a Fight Value of 10. Greater Minions always have a Fight Value of 15.

Some Card abilities allow you to Auto-Defeat (AD) certain types of Minions. If you do not have this ability you must fight the Minion: Roll 1D20. Add the Total Levels of all of your Heroes. Add all your applicable Fight Bonuses. Next Subtract the Fight Value of the Minion. If the total is 15 or more, you take no Casualties. If it is 14 or less, then 1D3 Random Heroes are killed.

Trap Encounters

If you are unable to Auto-Defeat (AD) a Trap, then 1D3 Random Heroes are killed.

Final Foe

After completing all Encounters in a Quest, you must face the Final Foe. The Foe is a Large Enemy with a Fight Value of 15, 20, 25, or 30. The Foe must also has 2 or 3 Lives and must be defeated that many times.

Otherwise resolve the Foe battle just as you would with any Minion. After Defeating the Final Foe receive the Quest Rewards which will Include a Combination of Gold, Heroes, and Relics.

Encounter Resolution

After each Encounter fill your Action Hand back to its Normal Hand Size.

Retreat Rule

At any time during a Quest the player may have his Party retreat. Go immediately to End Phase.

Heroes Of The Hinterlands

Introduction

Solo card game. Fantasy theme. Protect your town from raiders. Recruit Heroes and construct buildings. Clear out the monsters inhabiting all the surrounding territories.

Disclaimer

Loosely based on the PC game Hinterlands. Hinterlands is a copyrighted, licensed property. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

You win if you capture all the territories. Your ending Fame score is a measure of how well you've done. If your fame ever drops to zero or less, you automatically lose.

Dice

6 and 10 sided dice are needed.

Record Keeping

Use paper and pencil to keep track of the following running totals: Fame

.	9	-	9	-	9	-	9	-	9
.	6	-	6	-	6	-	6	-	9
.	3	-	3	-	3	-	6	-	9

Setup

Shuffle the decks. Randomly place one Land card in each of the 24 Territory spaces. Pick one Hero card from the Town deck to be the Town Leader. Your Town Leader has no upkeep requirements. Start with the Outpost card as the first Building in your town. Draw a hand of 6 cards from the Town deck. You start with 10 Fame.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 8 Phases:

1. Scout Phase
2. Visitors Phase
3. Build Phase
4. Recruit Phase
5. Raiders Phase
6. Conquest Phase
7. Equip Phase

- Food Support
- Gold Support
- Board Support
- Magic Support
- Holy Support
- Death Support
- Rogue Support
- Nature Support
- Town Defense

Decks

- There are 4 decks:
- Land Deck- The 24 territories outside the town
 - Town Deck- Buildings and Heroes and Shipments
 - Item Deck- Useful and Magical Items
 - Foe Deck- The Monsters occupying the territories

The Board

The Board is a 5 x 5 Grid. Each square is big enough to hold 1 stack of cards. The bottom left square is your town. Every other square is a territory. Each territory has a Danger rating according to the chart:

.	0	-	0	-	3	-	6	-	9
.	T	-	0	-	3	-	6	-	9

8. Logistics Phase

Scout Phase

If a territory is adjacent (sharing a side) to your town, or to a territory you control, and it does not already contain a Foe card, draw a Foe card and place it into that territory.

Visitors Phase

Draw 2 cards from the Town deck and put them in your hand. For each Visitors +1 bonus you have draw an extra card. If any deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Build Phase

You may put 1 Building into play from your hand. Or you may put 1 Shipping card into play from your hand. To pay the cost of Shipping, you must discard 6 cards from your hand.

If you build or ship this turn skip recruit phase.

Recruit Phase

You may put 1 Hero from your hand into play. To do this, you must be able to support the hero. Each hero requires: 1 Food 1 Board 1 Gold Support for each type of attribute the Hero has.

So for example, if your town is only producing 2 Gold, it can only support 2 Heroes. Ex. - If your Town provides Holy support but not Armor, you cannot recruit a Cleric.

Roll	Result:
1-2	One random Building is destroyed
3-4	One random Hero is killed
5-6	Looting: Lose 2 Fame Points and the Raiders leave

If the Raiders won fight another round. Continue fighting until they lose a round, or loot and leave. If the town was raided this turn, skip conquest phase. Discard the Foe card, and all destroyed buildings and killed Heroes.

Items from killed heroes, destroyed buildings go back to your hand.

Conquest Phase

You may attack a target Territory adjacent to your town or to a Territory you control. Decide first which of your Heroes are attacking, and with what items. A Maximum of 6 Heroes may attack.

Each Hero may use no more than 1 item. Add the Danger Rating of the territory to the Base strength of the Foe card there to get that Foes total strength. Add 2D10 to their total Strength to get their fighting strength. To get the Heroes fighting strength add 2D10 to the number of Heroes plus item bonuses.

Check the Weakness of the Foe. The Heroes gain 1 point for each level they have in that attribute. If the Heroes fighting total is higher, you gain control of the territory and you get 3 Fame points. If the Foes total is higher, One random Hero is killed and the Heroes

Roll 1D6. On a roll of 6, raiders attack. Draw 1 random card from the Foe Deck. Add 1D6 to their Base Strength to get their total strength.

Add 1D10 to their total Strength to get their fighting strength. To get the Town fighting strength add 1D10 to the number of Heroes plus town defense bonuses from buildings, plus item bonuses. Check the Weakness of the Foe. The Heroes gain 1 point for each level they have in that attribute.

If the Towns fighting total is higher, the Raiders are driven off and you get 1D6 Fame points. If the Raiders total is higher roll 1D6:

retreat and do not attack again this turn. Discard the Foe card only if the Foe is defeated.

Killed Heroes and attached items are discarded. Clearings are captured without a fight, but do not provide an Item reward in Equip phase.

Equip Phase

If you conquered a Territory this turn draw 1 card from the Item deck. Attach it to an appropriate Hero or building in play. If the Item is currently unusable, add it to your hand.

Logistics Phase

Discard 1 Random card from your hand. Max hand is 6 cards. Discard excess cards.

If you did not capture a territory this or last turn, lose 1 Fame point.

End Of Game Scoring

To your running total add the number of Heroes and Buildings you have plus bonuses from certain items and buildings.

Introduction

Warp Quest is an abstract game system that depicts goal driven scenarios.

Each player controls a collection of Units who are attempting to be the first to reach an objective and bring it back to the start.

The units could be a party of adventuring archeologists hoping to recover a lost artifact, a squadron of bombers attempting to hit a military target and return home, a band of samurai seeking to vanquish marauding bandits or a company of mixed creatures seeking to destroy a piece of evil ornamental jewelry that has the nasty habit of trying to control the minds of all free creatures.

The scenarios that use the Warp Quest engine will hold the details.

Dice & Pieces

- Six and ten sided dice are needed.
- Each player has a pawn to represent his or her group of Units (adventuring party, fleet, etc.) on the board.

- Use a small trinket to represent the Objective.
- There is only one Objective.

The Board

- The board is a single winding path of connected spaces with a Start Space and an End Space. The path should be 30 Spaces long.
- The First Space represents the start.
- Spaces 2-15 represents travel through the first scenario module.
- Spaces 16-29 represents travel through the second scenario module.
- The End Space is the final destination where the Objective is found.

The Decks

- There are 2 decks for each scenario:
- The Module 1 Deck and the Module 2 Deck.
- Each deck has one of each card in its card list.
- There may also be an Aid deck.

The Units

- Each player controls a group of units called a Party. The scenarios will detail the make up of the units in the party, their attributes (Skills, Traits) and starting dispositions.

Turn Sequence

- Players take turns.
- Each turn consists of 3 phases: 1. Move Phase 2. Draw Phase 3. Challenge Phase

Move Phase

- Roll 1D6. Move your pawn that number of spaces towards the end space.
- You automatically stop when you enter the end space.
- If you are the first to land on the end space your party acquires the Objective.

D6	Result
1-4	Go back 1D6 spaces
5-6	Lose 1 Unit (Man, Ship, Hit Point, etc., depending on the Scenario)

If you Win the challenge gain 1 Experience Token. You may spend an Experience Token to let you reroll a Move Roll or a Skill Roll.

Moving Onto An Opponents Pawn

- If you land on an opponent's pawn there will be a fight.

- Once a party has acquired the Objective then all other players may move their parties in either direction on the path.
- The party with the Objective must move towards the start space.
- The first pawn with the Objective to reach the start space wins the game.

Draw Phase

- If you land on an empty space in spaces 2-15 draw a card from the Module 1 deck.
- If you land on an empty space in spaces 16-29 draw a card from the Module 2 deck.
- If you land on an opponent's party do not draw a card.
- If a deck ever runs out, shuffle its discard and draw from it.
- Cards are of 2 types: Challenge cards & Aid cards.
- Place Aid cards in your hand.
- Challenge cards are encounters your party faces immediately in Challenge Phase.

Challenge Phase

Each challenge card lists one or more skills. Your party will have to make a skill check vs each skill listed. (The same skill may be listed twice or more, requiring that many skill checks) A Skill check consists of a Skill roll and Challenge Roll: Roll 1D10. This is the Skill roll.

Add the skill bonuses of your party members to the roll. You may discard Aid cards for further bonuses to the skill roll. Next roll 1D10. This is the Challenge roll.

Some Challenges have a DM (Difficulty Modifier). Add the DM to the Challenge Roll. If the challenge roll is less than or equal to the skill roll you win the Skill check. If the challenge roll is greater than the skill roll you fail the Challenge.

If you win all the Skill Checks, you win the Challenge. The adventure card may say what happens if you win or lose the Challenge. If the card does not give directions, then roll on the following table: If you lose the challenge: Roll 1D6: (Challenge Loss Table)

- The current player rolls on the Skill List Table to determine which skill will decide the confrontation.
- Both players make Skill Rolls. In case of a tie nothing happens.
- The loser rolls on the Challenge Loss Table.
- The winner takes the Artifact from the loser if the loser was in possession of the Artifact.

Ship Stats

Cost Cost in Build points for balancing scenarios and creating custom forces.

Speed = Maximum number of spaces the ship can move per turn. Armor = Based on Thickest Armor (usually amidships belt).

Hull Equivalent to displacement in tons (rounding up).

If Hull is reduced to 0 the ship is sunk.

HG Heavy Gun Batteries (Gun size in inches)

LG Light Gun Batteries (Gun size in inches)

General Notes

Number of guns is based on broadside maximum. Guns do not include Machine guns and AA guns. Depot ships sometimes have one or more light guns.

All Warships except Gun and Mine boats have Torpedoes (1 Attack/turn). U-boat speeds are for above/below surface. Shore batteries are located on land.

A Mine Field contains about 30 mines.

The Map

Use a hex Map. Scale: Each hex = 600 feet. 1 Nautical mile = 10 hexes.

The 2 basic terrain types are land and sea.

Dice

Six, ten, and twenty sided dice are needed.

Counters

One counter per ship. Indicate ship facing on counter.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns moving one ship at a time. The player with more ships goes first. A player may have any of his ships fire some or all of its guns at any time.

A Gun battery can only be fired once per turn. Record which guns have fired. When all players have moved once this is called a round.

One round is equal to 1 minute of game time.

Moving

Ships cannot stack (1 Submerged U-Boat and 1 Surface ship is allowable). A ship may move some, none, or all of its movement allowance. A ship can rotate 1 hex face for free before each move of 1 space forward.

A ship can rotate additional hex faces at a cost of 1 point per face. Ships may move in reverse during the turn at speed -1. U-Boat movement is hidden: write moves on a piece of paper.

A ship detects a U-Boat within 4 spaces on a roll of 5-6 on 1D6. (+2 if the U-Boat attacks)

Range Table

-2	Smoke Screen

+1	Veteran Crew
-1	Ship has been hit
-1	Ship at half speed or less
-2	Ship is sinking

If a Gun attack hits roll on the Gun Damage Table.
If a Torpedo attack hits roll on the Torpedo & Mine

A Heavy Gun has a maximum range of 15 spaces.
A Light Gun has a maximum range of 5 spaces.

Gunnery

A gun will hit on a roll of 17-20+ on 1D20. Modifiers to this roll:

Damage Table. A natural roll of 20 always hits.

Heavy Gun Table

Size	Damage	ROF
15"	+4	1
14"	+3	1
13"	+2	1
12"	+1	2

Size	Damage	ROF

7"	+1	6
6"	+0	7
5"	-1	8

Size	Damage	ROF
4"	-2	12
3"	-3	15

Damage = Modifier to roll on Gun Damage Table.
ROF Shots per turn: For playability every gun only shoots once per turn.

The higher ROF is already factored into the Damage modifier.

Gun Damage Table

1DX	Result:
0-1	No effect
2-5	Minor Damage: A Destroyer or smaller is 'damaged'
6-10	Reduce Hull score by 1 points
11-14	Reduce Hull score by 2 points
15-16	Reduce Hull score by 3 points

1DX	Result:
17	Reduce Hull score by 4 points
18	Reduce Hull score by 5 points
19	Reduce Hull score by 6 points
20+	Reduce Hull score by 2D6 points

Roll 1D20 for a Heavy Gun. Roll 1D10 for a Light Gun. Medium Range gets -2 Long Range gets -5 Subtract targets armor value from above roll.

Hit Location

Every time a ship takes damage roll 1D20:

1-4	Turret is destroyed: 2 HG or 2 LGs.
5-6	Funnel damaged: Speed reduced by 1 point permanently
7-8	Tower damaged: All attacks at -1
9-20	Hull damaged only

If a turret is destroyed there is a 1 in 6 chance the Magazine Blows (Lose 2D6 Hull points) A ship at 0 or less Hull points will sink in 1D3 turns. If crippled or at one-quarter hull points a ships' Speed is reduced by half.

Torpedo & Mine Damage Table

1D6	Result:
1	Reduce Hull score by 1 point
2	Speed reduced by half current total permanently
3	Speed reduced by 1 point permanently
4-5	Sink in 1D6 turns
6	Explode: Sink Immediately

Anti-submarine Warfare

Only Light Gun batteries can attack U-Boats. The U-Boat must be detected first. The U-Boat must be within 4 spaces.

Mines

Mine locations are secretly written down in setup or by the controller of Mine Layers during play. A ship moving into a mined hex will hit a mine on a roll of 6 on 1D6. A Destroyer or Gunboat may sweep a hex of mines before entering it.

Sweeping costs 4 Move Points.

Aeroplanes

These fly at a speed of about 50 hexes per minute. They can carry one bomb. To make a bomb attack they must be over the target.

The bomb hits on a roll of 17+ on 1D20. Roll 1D20 on the Gun Damage table. A warship can destroy an enemy plane within 2 hexes with AA fire on a roll of 17+ on 1D20.

Hippomania

Introduction

Card game for 4 players. Chariot Racing in the Roman Circus Maximus circa 50 AD. Each player controls one Chariot.

A game represents a single race.

Rules

4 Chariots in a race. Each Chariot has 4 Horses & 1 Charioteer. The race is 7 Laps around the central Spine (rail).

Victory

Control the lead Chariot at the end of 7 Laps. You automatically win if all the other Teams Crash (Wreck). The Winning Charioteer gets 1D6 X $1000 Sesterces.

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

Place Markers

Use 4 Markers to denote first to last place. During play, these Markers will keep changing hands as players Pull ahead or fall behind.

The Decks

Players share 2 common decks: The Team Deck
The Event Deck

The Team Deck

This deck contains 5 types of cards:

- Chariots
- Drivers
- Horses
- Hitch
- Rumors

Stats

Each Team has 6 Stats:

- Cut
- Turn
- Speed
- Block
- Cool
- Endurance

Factions

Each player picks a Faction: Red, Blue, White, or Green

Game Sequence

The game proceeds in 10 Turns in the following order:

Turn	Title
I	Team Selection
II	Stall Assignment
III	Starting Gate
IV-X	Laps 1-7

Team Selection

Each player is dealt 7 cards from the Team Deck. Each player may keep up to 1 Chariot, 1 Driver, 1 Hitch, 1 Rumor, and 4 Horses. If a player has fewer than what is allowed, he is considered to Have a generic version of the type with no Stat modifiers.

Team Cards give bonuses and sometimes penalties to your stats. After all players pick their Chariot, Driver, Hitch, and Horses, Rumors are played. In Order Red, White, Blue, Green, players assign rumors that target opponents.

Example: Red has the Rumor Sabotage. He targets the Green player to get the penalty.

Save Rolls

- To make a save roll vs a Stat, a player:
1. Rolls 1D6 & adds his Stat modifiers (Save Roll)
 2. An opponent rolls 1D6 (Difficulty Roll)
- If the Save roll is equal to or greater than the Difficulty roll, he makes the save, if less he fails.

Stall Assignments

Put 4 papers numbered 1-4 into a bowl Players pick papers to see which number Stall they start in.

Starting Gate

This is the most dangerous part of the Race. A player may decide to play it safe, or make a mad dash to the rail. Those who dash roll 1D6 and add their Speed Stat (Dash Roll).

- The player in Stall 1 gets +3 to the roll.
- The player in Stall 2 gets +2 to the roll.
- The player in Stall 3 gets +1 to the roll.

If any dashing players tie, they collide. Any player involved in a collision must save vs Cool or Wreck. The player with the highest Dash roll is in first place.

(and gets the first place marker) The player with the second highest Dash roll is in second place and so on. If more than one player decides to play it safe, they roll high on 1D6 to determine who gets the next highest place marker.

Wrecks

In a Wreck the Chariot is automatically destroyed. The Driver and each individual Horse must save vs Cool or be killed.

Wreckage

During the Laps, when a Chariot Wrecks the Team behind it must Save vs Turn or it Hits the Wreck. If the Team hits the Wreck, it must save vs Cool or Wreck itself. If the survivors of the original Wreck are hit from behind, they Must save vs Cool, or be Trampled to death.

Laps

Each Lap is divided into 5 Phases:

- Event Phase
- First Run Phase
- First Turn Phase
- Second Run Phase
- Second Turn Phase

Event Phase

Each player draws 2 Event cards. Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard & draw from it.

Run Phases

Players take turns. The player in last place goes first. Play proceeds clockwise around the table.

On his turn, a player may attempt to pass the Team ahead of him. The Player attempting to pass rolls 1D6 and adds his Speed Modifier. The Player ahead rolls 1D6 and adds his Block Modifier.

The Higher roll wins. If the leader wins, things stay as is. If the follower wins, the players trade place markers.

Team Deck Card List

Card Name:	Type	Notes
Passerinus	H	Cool +1 Speed +1 Turn +1
Tuscus	H	End +1 Cool +1

If they tie, the Chariots Hook (Wheels Lock). In a Hook, each Player rolls 1D6 (Hook Roll) and adds his Turn Modifier. The loser must save vs Cool or Wreck.

If the Hook rolls tie, both Teams must save vs Cool or Wreck.

Turn Phases

Players take turns. The player in last place goes first. Play proceeds counter-clockwise around the table.

On his turn, a player may attempt to pass the Team ahead of him. The Player attempting to pass rolls 1D6 and adds his Cut Modifier. The Player ahead rolls 1D6 and adds his Turn Modifier.

The Higher roll wins. If the leader wins, things stay as is. If the follower wins, the players trade place markers.

If they tie, the Chariots collide. In a Collision, each Player rolls 1D6 and adds his Turn Modifier. The loser must save vs Cool or Wreck.

If the Collision ties, both Teams must save vs Cool or Wreck.

Exhaustion & Endurance

- On Laps 4-5 all players get a -1 Exhaustion Modifier to all their rolls.
- On Laps 6-7 all players get a -2 Exhaustion Modifier to all their rolls. The Exhaustion Modifier is reduced by the Teams Endurance Bonus. Example: A Team with Endurance +1 suffers no exhaustion on Turns 4-5 and only -1 on turns 6-7. A Team with an Endurance Penalty has their Exhaustion Mod increased.

Event Cards

Event cards are used to modify a single roll and are discarded immediately after. Cards must be played before making rolls. In contesting rolls both players may pass on the opportunity to play a card or one or both may play a card or cards. Players may react to opponent's card plays by playing additional cards.

Hitchhiker's Quest For The Galaxy

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Hitch-Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy Theme.

Disclaimer

Hitch-Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy is a licensed, copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

The First player to complete the requirements on a Quest card in play wins the game.

The Decks

There are 2 Decks: The Quest Deck and the Common Deck.

Setup

Each player is dealt a hand of 7 cards. The most Depressed player goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Improbability Phase
2. Ultimate Phase
3. Normality Phase
4. Universe Phase

Improbability Phase

Draw 2 cards from the common deck. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Ultimate Phase

You may put one card into play. Cards put into play are placed face up on the table in front of the player who played it.

Normality Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Universe Phase

If it is not the most depressed players turn, skip this phase. Flip over the top card of the Quest Deck face up. It is now in play.

Quest Cards

There may be multiple Quest card in play at a time. If a player has cards in play that satisfy the requirements of any Quest card in play at the end of any phase, that player win the game. Keep the Quest cards in the middle of the table.

Special Abilities

Most cards have a Special Ability.

*Reveal Powers are cards that produce an effect when they are first put into play from a players hand (They become inert after this).

*Continuous Powers produce a constant effect as long as the card remain in play.

*Event Powers produce an effect that goes off at the beginning of each of your Normality Phases. Note: you may choose not to have an Event power go off.

*Discard Powers produce an effect if you voluntarily discard them from your hand.

*Sacrifice Powers produce an effect if you voluntarily discard the card from play. (Sacrifice and discard powers don't count against your limit of how many cards you can put in play on your turn. You can use these powers anytime)

*Alignment Powers: You may play one extra card of the indicated type in each of your Ultimate Phases. This is in addition to the one card you normally get to play. Example: You have Ford Perfect in play. You draw Heart of Gold and Trusty Towel. You get to play both cards... Heart because you always get to play one, and Towel because the Ford card lets you.

Stealing Cards

When you steal a card in play, it remains in play but comes under your control. Stealing a card in play does not allow you to reuse a Reveal power if it has one. Cards may also be stolen directly from a players hand.

Negating Powers

Some card effects will negate the special ability of other cards. The negated cards are not discarded.

Main Characters

5 Characters are described as Main Characters. There are 2 copies of each of these cards in the deck. Only 1 copy of a character can be in play at a time.

Any power that effects a Character can also effect Main Characters.

Hogwarts

Introduction

Card game for 2 or more players. Based on the Harry Potter Universe.

Disclaimer

"Harry Potter" is a licensed, copyrighted, trademarked property. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

The player with the most House points at the end of the game is the winner. The game ends when all Challenge cards have been overcome. For a shorter game cut the Challenge deck and use only part of it.

The Decks

There are 2 decks: the Common deck and the Challenge deck. Each deck contains one copy of each card on its respective card list.

Dice

A 10 sided die is needed.

Common Card Types

All common cards are either permanent or temporal. Temporal cards are discarded when played. Permanent cards stay in play from turn to turn.

Temporal cards include most Spells, Professors, Ghosts, Familiars, Events and Items. Permanent cards include Students and some others.

Challenge Card Types

Challenge cards will have one or more traits: Monster, Wizard, Stealth, Mystery, Voldemort, Quidditch

Setup

Each player begins with 3 cards in play: Harry, Hermione, and Ron. (From the Starting Character card list) The youngest player goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 6 phases:

1. Time Phase
2. Draw Phase
3. Recruit Phase
4. Magic Phase

5. Challenge Phase

6. Action Phase

Time Phase

Remove one wound or detention counter from any student card that has one. A student card with any wound or detention counters is considered to be inactive.

Draw Phase

Draw 2 cards from the Common deck. Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Recruit Phase

You may put any permanent type cards in your hand into play. Attach permanent items & familiars to specific students.

Magic Phase

Certain common cards are used/played in this phase.

Challenge Phase

Put the top card of the Challenge deck onto the middle of the table face-up. Skip this phase if there is already 3+ Challenge cards face up.

Action Phase

You may attempt to overcome any one Face-up Challenge card. To attempt, at least one of your main characters must be active. If there is Challenge worth zero House points available, you must choose it.

Roll 1D10. This is the Challenge roll. Add bonuses to the roll from any active cards you have in play. You may play (discard) Temporal cards for additional bonuses.

Your opponent may play certain Temporal cards to decrease your roll. If your roll is equal to or greater than the Difficulty level of the Challenge card, you overcome the challenge and get to put it in your Victory pile. If you fail, put 3 detention or 3 wound counters (the Challenge Card will say which) on one of your active student cards.

A student card with any wound or detention counters is considered to be inactive.

Holmes

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Sherlock Holmes Theme.

Victory

Be the first player to accumulate 5 Case Tokens.

Case Tokens

Players share a common set of Case Tokens.

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

The Board

The Board has 7 spots for cards, one spot for each suite. These are called the "Suite Spots".

Setup

Create 7 mini-decks, one for each suite. For each suite, randomly select one card; keep its identity hidden from all players, and place it in its corresponding Suite Spot on the board. Shuffle the remaining cards of the mini-decks together to form the common deck.

Special Ability Table

Card Type:	Ability:
Mystery	Draw 2 cards
Sherlock	Look at the next 5 cards in the deck
Help	Draw 1 card and target opponent discards 1 random card
Action	Opponent discards 2 cards from his hand of his choice
Method	Look at target opponent's hand
Clue	Steal 1 random card from opponents hand
Locale	Draw 3 cards. Keep 1 and discard the other 2

Sleuth Phase

You may solve a Case. To do this, you must play, all at once, seven cards, one of each of the seven card types. No two cards in the Case may have the same Rank number.

If you solve a case Gain a Case Token, and discard the Case Cards.

Deduction Phase

You may guess the rank of a specific card on the Board (one of the 7 Suites). Look at the card secretly. If you are wrong, discard your hand and you may not

Each player is dealt 5 cards. The player with the highest IQ goes first.

Deduction Notes

Players will want to have paper and pencil on hand to keep track of which cards of what Rank they have seen for each suite, to deduce the remaining cards in the Suite Spots.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 Phases: Investigate Phase Action Phase Sleuth Phase Deduction Phase Retire Phase

Investigate Phase

Draw 2 cards from the deck and put them in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. If you have 4 or less cards in your hand (before drawing) draw 1 extra card.

Action Phase

You may play (discard) one card from your hand to activate its special Ability at a later time attempt to "guess" that card. If you are right, show the card to all players and then put it in the discard. Gain 1 Case point for guessing correctly. (Now there is one less Suite card for players to guess). You may choose not to guess, if so, draw 1 card and discard any 1 card from your hand, OR you may, for 15 seconds look at the cards in the discard.

Retire Phase

Max hand is 9 cards. Discard excess cards. Important Note: The discard (and deck) is kept face down.

Holyquest

By C Gerard Luft

Introduction

This one player game was originally used as a solo adventure system for HOLYQUEST Fantasy RPG (which uses FUDGE). But it is simple enough for anyone to pick up and play as a solo card and dice game. You play a group of four adventurers fighting evil in dungeons and wilderness settings. This game was designed using four fudge dice for attack/ defense and skill resolutions. Below is a chart for using ordinary six sided dice:

Fudge Dice Conversion Table

1D6	1DF
1	-1
2	-1
3	0

1D6	1DF
4	0
6	+1

Example: If you roll 4DF with 4D6 and get 1 (-1), 5(+1), 4 (0) and 6 (+1) your roll result would be +1 (-1+0+1+1=+1)

The Noble Adventurers

You begin the game with one of each Character Card:

- knight power 4
- scout power 2,
- detect traps skill
- minister power 1 (may only defend)
- healing skill
- prophet power 0
- guided missile skill
- hide skill

Power

Power is the number that character adds to his attack or defense rolls in combat.

Skills

One skill may be used each turn. To succeed at a skill roll 4DF. On a 0 or +1 and better, the skill is successful.

Detect Traps Skill

If successful, the Scout detects a trap card played, and the party avoids it

Healing Skill

If successful, the injured character being healed is relieved of one hit

Guided Missile Skill

If successful, one target receives 1 Hit

Hide Skill

If Successful, the entire party goes unnoticed by opponents. When the Knight and Scout go to attack, they become visible, and can be attacked. But the Minister and Prophet remains unnoticed until they use a skill during that combat turn.

The Turn

Draw Phase

The player draws 4 cards from the MONSTER DECK. All 4 cards are brought into play.

Dungeon/ Wilderness Phase

If a Dungeon or Wilderness card is drawn it is played onto the table, and remains there until another dungeon or wilderness card is drawn in the following turns. If more than one dungeon or wilderness is drawn in the same turn, only the first card is played. The other cards are discarded.

Trap Phase

If any traps are drawn, make a Detect Traps Skill Roll for the Scout for each trap present. If a trap is detected, it is discarded. If it is not, then each player takes one hit, and that card is then discarded. (See Damage below).

Monster Combat Round Phase

All monsters drawn that turn must be combated at the same time. The good guys go first.

Attack And Defense:

The attacker rolls 4DF and adds their POWER to the roll. The defender then rolls 4DF and adds his POWER to the roll. If the attacker's modified roll is greater than the defender's modified roll, then he scores a Hit (see DAMAGE below). If the defenders are not yet defeated, they may now attack, repeating the process above.

Damage:

When a creature takes a hit, the card is SIDED (tilted 90 degrees). Until healed that character has a -1 to its power. If that character takes another hit, the card is then rotated upside down. Until healed, it has -2 to its Power. If it then takes a third hit, it is defeated (defeated adventurers are removed from the game, and defeated monsters are discarded). The MONSTER COMBAT ROUND repeats itself until one side is defeated. Once combat is concluded the turn begins again. If the MOSTER DECK runs out of cards, reshuffle.

You may move into a space occupied by a Horde.

Attack Phase

If your armies and a Horde occupy the same space, there will be a Battle: Roll 1D10 for each Army Token and each Hit Counter the Horde has. On a roll of 6+ an Army will kill 1 opposing Hit Counter of the Horde. Subtract the Monsters Defense Rating from your roll.

Hordes will kill an Army on a roll of X+ where X is the Hordes Attack Rating as Listed on the counter. If after all rolls are made, units from both sides remain, all survivors roll to attack again. Gain a Victory Token every time you destroy a Horde Stack.

Research Phase

Pick one Ability from the Research List. You may gain an extra Ability for the cost of 10 Resources. A player cannot have multiple copies of an ability.

Spawn Phase

A New Horde Appears on the Map: First- Draw 1 Horde Counter from the Horde Pool. Second- Roll for coordinates. Third- place the Horde counter there with the indicated number of Hit Counters stacked under it.

The Horde cannot be placed on a Space occupied by a Player unit or Horde. If it would, no Horde is placed. After turn 10 two Hordes appear on the map!

End Phase

Max Resource Chits you can hold is 7. Discard excess Chits.

Horde Segment

This takes place at the end of a Round. Each Horde will Move under the following rules: Check for each Horde in turn starting with the one with the fewest Hit Counters and so on. If there are ties roll high on 1D10 to resolve. Hordes will not move into spaces containing other Hordes.

A Horde will first try move into an adjacent space containing an undefended Settlement. Next the Horde will pick a Space containing a Settlement & Armies.

Next the Horde will pick a Space containing just Armies.

Next the Horde will pick a Space containing a Castle with no Armies.

Next the Horde will pick a Space containing a Castle & Armies.

If no Player Units are available, it will go for a space that is adjacent to as many player occupied spaces as possible. Hordes will move once, except for Monster Hordes who will move a second time if they don't immediately encounter a player unit.

Raid Segment

Played immediately after Horde Segment. This is Handled exactly like Attack Phase except that now Castles and Settlements are involved in the Battles. They function similar to Armies except that Settlements hit on a roll of 8+ and Castles hit on a roll of 7+. Hordes must attack Castles first, Armies second, and Settlements third.

Castles must be Hit twice before they are destroyed. Gain a Victory Token every time you destroy a Horde

Optional Rule – Players At War

Players may attack each other in their Attack Phases. You may move your Armies into spaces occupied by other Players units.

Optional Rule – Horde Master

One Player controls the Hordes instead of a Kingdom. He rolls for them and determines how they move in Horde Segment instead of following the programmed movement rules. When drawing a new Horde draw 3, pick 1 and discard the other 2.

Optional Extra Terrain Tiles

Aside from the basic 50 Tiles there is room for 50 more. This list includes 10 new types. Use 5 of each and distribute these randomly after the Basic Tiles have been placed.

Settlements built in these new types produce 1 Gold in Resource phase as per the regular rules.

Tile	Notes:
Friendly Village	First player to build a Settlement here gets 1 Free Army Natural Defensive Position – Player units here get Defense +1
Chasm	No Units or Hordes may enter or be in this Space
Barrens	Settlements here produce nothing
Trade Route	Settlements here produce 1 extra Gold in Resource Phase
Heath	No Special Rules
Ancient Ruins	First player to build a Settlement here gets 1 Free Ability
Desolate Moor	Any Horde that spawns here gets 1 extra Hit Counter
Desert	Any Army that enters this space must end its move here
Plains	Any Army or Horde that starts or moves into this space gets to move 1 extra space this round

Optional Wizard Tower Rule

Instead of building a Castle in a Space, you may build a Wizards Tower. This requires a new common Wizard Tower unit Counter. The Tower costs 5 Stone.

The Tower produces 1 extra Magic in Resource Phase. You cannot build Towers in Adjacent Spaces.

House Of Habsburg

Introduction

Card game for 3-6 players. Each player represents a branch of the Royal Habsburg Dynasty. Players try to make and steal the most and best Holdings.

Game End

The game ends when there are no cards left in the deck and no player has any cards left in their hand that they can or will play.

Victory

The player with the most Victory Tokens and Victory Points worth of Melded Holding cards they control at the end of the game wins.

Victory Points & Tokens

Each Melded Holding card is worth from 1 to 5 Victory Points. Each Victory Token is worth 1 VP. Use Coins to represent Victory Tokens.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck has 1 copy of each card in the card list. There are 5 types of Cards: Person Cards Holding Cards Claim Cards Succession Cards Disaster Cards

Setup

Each player is dealt 3 cards. The most inbred player goes first. Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

- Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:
1. Draw Phase
 2. Meld Phase
 3. Event Phase

Card List

Name	Type	Value
Holy Roman Empire	H	5
Austria	H	5
Spain	H	5
Hungary	H	5
Bohemia	H	4

4. End Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 card from the deck and put it in your hand.

Meld Phase

You may make 1 or more Melds. A Meld consists of exactly 3 cards from your hand: 1 Person Card, 1 Holding Card, and 1 Claim Card. Place the Meld face up in front of you.

If the top card of the discard pile is a Holding card, you may use that instead of a Holding card from your hand. Every time you make a Meld, gain 1 Victory Tokens equal to the value of the Person card.

Event Phase

You may play (discard) 1 Succession card or 1 Disaster card or 1 Claim card or 1 Person card. If you play a Succession, steal a target Meld with a Claim Value equal to or less than the value of the Succession card. If you play a Disaster, discard a target Meld with a Person card equal to or less than the value of the Disaster card.

If you play a Person card, draw 2 cards from the deck. If you play a Claim card, steal 1 random card from target players hand.

End Phase

Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

face down as you pick for the active side.

Hunt The Wumpus

A board game for 2-4 players

Components:

- Play Deck
- 49 terrain squares (10 Clear, 10 Forest, 10 Swamp, 10 Rocky, 5 Lair, 4 Camps of red, green, yellow and blue.)
- A playing piece for each Hunter in green, red, blue and yellow
- A playing Piece for the Wumpus
- 1D6

Set Up

The terrain pieces are set up in a 7x7 square, with one lair in the centre, a camp in each corner, and the remaining pieces set up randomly. The Wumpus is set up in the central Lair. Each player chooses one of the hunters and places them in the corresponding camp.

Roll 1d6 to determine who goes first in the hunt phase, play proceeding clockwise around the board. Decide which board edge is North Each player draws 5 cards

The aim of the game is to kill the Wumpus whilst trying to stop the other players from doing so

Rules

The game is divided into 3 phases:

- Wumpus Phase
- Hunt Phase
- Reconcile Phase

Wumpus Phase

Roll 1d6 and refer to the Wumpus Movement table:

#	Result
1	Move 1 space North
2	Move 1 space East
3	Move 1 space South
4	Move 1 space West
5	Wumpus does nothing this turn
6	Wumpus moves immediately to the nearest Lair space

If the Wumpus ends its move on the same space as a hunter, then that hunter is attacked. They must discard all cards in their hand and move immediately to their respective Camp. A hunter's hand size is reduced by 1 each time that they are attacked by the Wumpus. If their hand size reaches zero, they are out of the game. If all other players are removed from the game in this manner, then the remaining player wins. If more than one player is in the space The Wumpus moves to, then they all suffer the attack. A Wumpus cannot enter a Camp space nor can they leave the board. If the Wumpus is unable to move in a certain direction, then it moves in the next clockwise compass direction.

The Wumpus cannot move diagonally.

Hunt Phase

Each player performs their actions in turn order. Each Hunter may move 1 space per turn in any direction. Hunters may not leave the board. If a Hunter ends its turn on the same space as the Wumpus, they may try to kill it. They may play any number of attack cards from their hand. All other players, clockwise around the board, take turns to play any number of evade cards. Calculate the total values for attack and evade. Each hunter has a bonus when using a particular attack. Each type of evade card has a bonus in a particular terrain. All evade cards count double in a Lair space.

If the Evade total is higher, the Wumpus retreats to the nearest unoccupied lair, and the hunter suffers as if they were attacked by the Wumpus. If the Attack total was higher, then the Wumpus is killed and the killing player wins.

Reconcile Phase

Each player in turn order may discard 1 card from their hand and draw up to their full hand. Starting hand size is 5, minus 1 for each time they have been attacked by the Wumpus. If a hunter is on a Camp space, then they may discard and redraw their entire hand.

Hunters

- Ulf (Red): +1 to the value of Traps and Snares cards played by this hunter
- Bear Claw (Blue): +1 to the value of Bow cards played by this hunter

- Actaeon (Yellow): +1 to the value of Net cards played by this hunter

Huscarl

Introduction

Board & card game for 2 players. Battle between two Norse Tribes. Abstract skirmish level combat. Each figure represents a single man (unit).

Victory

You win if you kill the opposing Chieftain.

Tribe Table

#	Type	Hits
1	Chieftain	3
3	Huscarl	2
2	Berserker	2

Number of that type of man you start the game with.

Hits Number of Hits that type of unit has.

Setup

Each player places one unit on each square of his back two rows. Units may not stack.

The Cards

Players share a common deck. The deck contains 3 copies of each card in the Card list.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 phases:

1. Fate Phase
2. Move Phase
3. Fight Phase

Fate Phase

Draw 3 cards. Max hand size = 5 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Discard excess cards.

Move Phase

Play (discard) a Move card to move one of your men. The move card has a number. This is the number of spaces the man moves.

Moves can be diagonal or orthogonal. "Knight" type move cards allow a man to move like a knight in chess.

The Map

Use an 8x8 chessboard.

The Men

Use chits or miniatures to represent men. There are 5 types of men: Chieftains, Huscarls, Berserkers, Warriors, & Pathfinders.

#	Type	Hits
8	Warrior	1
2	Pathfinder	1

Instead of moving just one man in any direction, you have the option of moving one or more men forward the indicated number of spaces using a single move card.

The Pathfinder can be moved up twice per turn.

Fire Phase

Play (discard) an Attack card to have a man attack. The attack card has a number. This is the range of the attack.

Attacks can be diagonal or orthogonal. "Knight" type attack cards produce an attack with a range like a knight in chess. Berserkers may make 2 attacks per turn (using two different cards) Berserkers may not make Bow attacks.

Pathfinders may make 2 attacks per turn using Bows (two different bow cards) Pathfinders may not use Battle Axe cards. Attacks do one Hit of damage to the target. Battle Axes do 2 Hits damage.

Use Chits or coins to record damage. A man reduced to 0 Hits is killed and removed from the board. Your opponent may play Defense cards to negate your attack.

Berserkers & Pathfinders cannot use Shield or Armor cards.

Hyborian Gates Empires

Introduction

Board Game of Dimensional Conquest for 2-6 players. Based on the card game Hyborian Gates.

Victory

In a 2 player game the first player to control 4 Pyramids wins. With 2+ players the first player to control 3 Pyramids wins.

The Universe

There are 6 Dimensions: Atlantis, Hyboria, Asgard, Chaos, Gaea, Osiris The Dimensions are not directly connected. The only way to get from one dimension to another is by the use of Gates.

Atlantis

- Endless Oceans
- Stalwart Companions

Hyboria

- Mountainous Wastes
- Tough Heroes

Asgard

- Rifts of Space
- Incredible Vehicles

Chaos

- Dense Jungle
- Fierce Monsters

Gaea

- Enchanted Forest
- Strong Magic

Osiris

- Desolate Landscape
- Advanced Technologies

Units

Each Dimension has a set of unit counters (chits/markers). Each unit has a Force Rating. There are 4 types of units: Troopers, Companions, Monsters, and Vehicles.

Troopers

In battle, if your stack has a Trooper, and your opponent does not, you get a +6 bonus to your Force Total

Companions

For each Companion in your stack, your non-companion Units in the Stack get Force +1

Monsters

Monsters have a built in +2 Force bonus.

Vehicles

For every Vehicle in the Stack the Move Rate of the Stack is +1.

The Deck

Players share a common action deck. The deck contains 2 copies of each card in the list.

Dice

Six & Ten sided dice are needed.

Control Markers

Each player has a set of counters of a unique color & symbol. These are used to denote ownership of Stacks.

Stacks

You may only have 1 Stack in a Space. You may have a maximum of 6 units in a stack. The Units can have different dimensional origins.

Stacks have a basic movement rate = 2. You may only have 1 stack in a space. Place a Control Marker on the top of your stacks to show ownership.

The Map

Each dimension is represented by a separate 7 x 7 Grid Board. In the center square of each dimension is a Pyramid. The Terrain in each non-Pyramid space is determined Randomly during setup:

1D10	Terrain:
1-4	Clear
5-8	Blocked
9	City
10	Gate

Connections Table

1D6	Dimension:
1	Atlantis
2	Hyboria
3	Asgard

1D6	Dimension:
4	Chaos
5	Gaea
6	Osiris

Gate Names

Use Dimension Specific "Named" counters to denote Gates on the Map:

Use Counters to denote non-Clear terrains.

Automatic Map Generator!!!

Much thanks to Peter Cobcroft for this time saver.

Clear Terrain

Any unit may enter/occupy clear terrain

Blocked Terrain

No unit may enter or occupy blocked terrain. Use counters with Mountain symbols to denote Blocked terrain.

Cities

Any unit may enter/occupy a City If one of your units/stacks occupies a city, you control it. Use counters with a city skyline to denote Cities. Cities are named after the closest Gate.

Any City completely isolated by Blocked Terrain is a "Shang-Ri-La" City. Units can still get to it by Dimension Walking. A Stack defending a City gets Force +5.

Gates

Any unit may enter/occupy a Gate space. Gates connect to certain other Gates. During setup roll 3 times for each Gate on the Connections Table: The Gate is connected to these 3 dimensions.

(Or less if you rolled any doubles) 2 Gates are connected if they connect to each other's dimensions. (For example: A gate in Atlantis is connected to Asgard, Atlantis & Chaos, A gate in Chaos is connected to Atlantis & Gaea (Gaea was rolled twice) These 2 gates are connected & stacks may travel between them. A third Gate in Atlantis is connected to Osiris, Atlantis & Chaos. All 3 Gates Are connected. A fourth Gate in Atlantis is connected to Hyboria & Chaos. Stacks at this fourth gate can go to the Chaos gate but not the other 2 Atlantis gates.)

- Asgard Gates: Bor's Gate, Fregja's Gate, Garm's Gate, Hel's Gate, Loki's Gate, Odin's Gate, The Norn's Gate

- Atlantean Gates: Cleito's Gate, Doris' Gate, Nereus' Gate, Oceanus' Gate, Pontus' Gate, Scylla's Gate
- Chaos Gates: Annwn's Gate, Cerberus' Gate, Chimaera's Gate, Gorgons' Gate, Grendel's Gate, Kraken's Gate, Pazuzu's Gate, The Hydra's Gate, Typhon's Gate
- Gaeian Gates: Apollo's Gate, Cronus' Gate, Demeter's Gate, Europa's Gate, Hade's Gate, Hera's Gate, Hespera's Gate, Hestia's Gate, Io's Gate, Styx's Gate, Zagreus' Gate, Zeus' Gate
- Hyborian Gates: Brigit's Gate, Crom Cruach's Gate, Dagda's Gate, Lugh's Gate, The Firbolg's Gate
- Osiran Gates: Amunet's Gate, Anubis' Gate, Atum's Gate, Hathor's Gate, Horus' Gate, Niut's Gate, Ptah's Gate, Re's Gate, Sekmet's Gate, Shu's Gate, Thoth's Gate

Note: You may need more names.

Setup

Each player starts in control of any 1 City. Players must pick cities in different dimensions. A player starts with a Stack of 6 randomly drawn Units native to that dimension.

Each player starts with 5 Action cards.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 phases:

1. Recruit Phase
2. Power Surge Phase
3. Move Phase
4. Battle Phase
5. Vortex Phase

Recruit Phase

Each Dimension has its own Unit Counter pile. Draw 1 Unit Counter at every City you control. The Unit starts in the City or an adjacent space.

A city can only recruit units of the Dimension it is in. If the unit pile for a Dimension is empty, no more units From that Dimension may be recruited.

Power Surge Phase

Draw 3 cards from the Action Deck.

Move Phase

There are 2 types of movement: Moving in a dimension & moving between dimensions. A stack can move up to a number of spaces = 2 + # of vehicles in the stack. Units may move diagonally or orthogonally.

A Stack on a Gate space can use 1 move point to move to another Gate (same or different dimension) that it is connected to. See rule sections on Stacks & Gates.

Battle Phase

When 2 opposing stacks occupy the same space, there will be a battle. Add up the total Force of each side including cards played. The Stack with less Force is destroyed completely.

The Winning stack loses 1D6 units but not more units than were in the losing Stack.

Vortex Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess Cards. Max 1 Stack per space. Discard excess Stacks. Max stack size is 6 Units. Discard excess Units.

Hydaspes

Introduction

Warp Skirmish Format. Last Major Battle of Alexander the Great 326 BC. One player is Alexander. The other is King Porus of the Hindu Paurava Kingdom.

Victory

Destroy 50% of the Enemy force, or the Opposing Main Leader.

Stacking Rules

Units may stack. There is no Stacking Limits of Friendly Units. Alexander is part of a unit of Companion Cavalry. Porus is part of a unit of War Elephants.

Facing

Unit counters must include an arrow to determine facing. A unit may end a move facing in any direction (even diagonal) All units in a Stack must be facing the same way.

Dice

Six sided Dice are needed.

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

Units

Use stackable Counters/Chits to represent Units.

Setup

Determine who is Alexander and who is Porus. Set up the board as indicated. Each player is dealt 5 cards. Alexander goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 Phases: Tactics Phase Deception Phase Maneuver Phase Attack Phase End Phase

The Map

- Use a 12x7 Grid
- H Hills
 - R River
 - F Forest
 - C Clear
 - A The Greeks in Clear start stacked just North of the river Hydaspes.
 - P The Indians in Clear start stacked facing them on the South bank of the river.

-	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C
-	F	H	F	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	H

Tactics Phase

Draw X cards from the deck and put them in your hand. For Alexander X = 4 For Porus X = 3 If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Deception Phase

Alexander may play (discard) 1 Deception card in this Phase.

Maneuver Phase

You get 1 free Move of 1 Unit or Stack 1 space. You may play additional Move cards to move more of your Units. A single Unit can move only once per turn.

A Move card can be used to move a single unit or a single Stack. The value of the Move card determines the furthest distance the moving units may go. Some units will have a lower maximum allowable move limit. All Units taking part in a single move must stick together, they cannot break off or be left behind. However, stacks can be broken up or built back up. The opposing player may play a Negate card to negate a target move.

A Unit or Stack must stop upon entering the river unless it is a river crossing card in which case they start on one bank and move to the opposite bank all in one move without having to stop in the water. Units in the river cannot move upstream or downstream. They can only cross or retreat.

Units must stop upon entering Hills. Units that enter 1 or more Forest spaces have their Maximum Move Limit for the turn reduced by 1. Note that a move can be less than the value of the Move card and moves do not have to be in straight lines. Change in direction and Diagonal moves are allowed.

Discard all played cards.

Attack Phase

Play an Attack card to have a Unit attack an adjacent target enemy unit. The attacker and defender both roll 2D6 (Battle Rolls). The side with the bigger stack gets +1.

A stack with Elephants gets +1. A stack with a Leader gets +1. A stack with Greek Cavalry and/or Phalanxes gets +1.

If the Attacker attacks into the flank he gets +1. If the Attacker attacks into the rear he gets +2. Attacking a Stack in the River is at +3.

A Stack defending in Hills is at +1. Either player (before rolling) may play (discard) an Attack card to get +1. Higher roll wins. The loser discards 1 Unit.

If tied the combat immediately ends. Continue until the attacker breaks off or one side is eliminated. Each continuation is called a round.

The side that won the previous round gets +1. the player inflicting casualties determines which unit is killed. A Defense card played by the Defender will immediately end the combat.

Discard played cards.

End Phase

Maximum hand size is 5 for Porus and 7 for Alexander. Discard excess cards.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 6 phases:

1. Recruit Phase
2. Magic Phase
3. Blizzard Phase
4. Move Phase
5. Battle Phase
6. End Phase

Recruit Phase

Draw 1 Unit Chit from the common pile. Keep your Chits in a pile. Units are recruited from specific Territories.

If you have a Unit in an appropriate Territory, or adjacent to an empty appropriate territory, you may put a Unit Chit from your pile into play on that territory or in an adjacent territory that is empty or occupied by a unit you control.

Adjacency Rule

Units or spaces must share a common border to be adjacent. Diagonal spaces and units are not adjacent.

Stacking Rule

You may stack up to 4 of your units in a single space. Summoned units and Relics do not count against this limit.

Magic Phase

If you control any Witches or Sprites, draw 2 Spell cards. Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

Blizzard Phase

Remove tokens from board from last turn. Use Tokens to represent Blizzards. Roll 1D6 to see how many blizzards will be put on the map this turn.

Magic Spell Deck

Spell:	#	Notes:
Summon Ice Elemental	4	Add an Ice Elemental Unit to the Stack
Summon Ice Demon	2	Add an Ice Demon Unit to the Stack
Ice Shield	4	All enemy units get Force -1 this Battle
Snow Storm	4	Place or Remove a Blizzard Token on the Map*

Roll 2D8 to determine coordinates of each blizzard. Units cannot move into, out of, or through a blizzard. Units cannot attack into or out of a blizzard.

Move Phase

Each unit has a number of Move Points (MP). Different Terrain types have different Move costs to enter. For Flying units, the Move cost of all Terrains is one.

Flying units may not end their turn in a Sea or water space. Units with Mountain Walk pay only 1 MP to enter Mountains or Peaks. Ships can only move in Sea and Water spaces.

Non-Flying units cannot move on Sea or Water spaces. Heroes, witches, and armies may travel on sea & water spaces if stacked with a Ship. The stacking limit must be strictly enforced.

You cannot enter or move through a space containing enemy units.

Battle Phase

You may attack adjacent enemy stacks with your own stacks. Resolve conflict between two opposing stacks, one at a time. A turn may have multiple battles between multiple stacks.

Battles are fought in Rounds. During each round, each unit in turn in both opposing stacks gets to attack once. Start with the Active player (Player whose turn it is) Pick which of your units is attacking and Roll 1D6.

If the roll is equal to or less than the attacking units Force, one casualty is inflicted. If there is a casualty, the defender picks and discards one of his units from the battle. The other player then attacks and so on.

This repeats until one side is completely eliminated. A witch or sprite instead of attacking may cast a Spell.

End Phase

Remove Summoned and Charmed Units from play.

Spell:	#	Notes:
Freeze	4	Target Unit cannot attack this Battle
Ice Shards	4	Force 2 vs Attack all Enemy units this round
Blood Lust	4	All your units get Force +1 this Battle

Illuminati: New World Order Ccg

CCG by Steve Jackson Solitaire Rules

Introduction

For those who like the power structure building aspect of the INWO CCG.

The Deck

The deck should contain 1 of each of the Group cards. Plot cards are not used. (Hopefully you bought one of the 450 card factory sets.) No dice or counters are needed.

Setup

Pick any one Illuminati card. Play it to the table. Use a large table.

Victory

If your power structure ever contains 20+ cards you win. You have achieved world domination. Admire your handiwork.

Ignore the special abilities of the Illuminati.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 3 phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Build Phase

3. Reserve Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 card.

Build Phase

Add the card you just drew to your power structure. Attach according to the available control arrows. The group it is attached to must have at least 1 attribute or 1 alignment the same, or be the Illuminati.

You must attach a group if it is possible. The attachment is always automatic, no attack rolls are made. If it is not possible to attach the group, the group goes into your Reserve pile.

Power, Resistance, and special abilities are not used.

Reserve Phase

If possible attach card(s) in your reserve pile to your power structure. If you ever have 3 or more cards in your reserve pile at the end of the reserve phase you automatically lose.

Optional Rules

Make the capacity of the reserve pile 5 cards. Once per game you may switch a card in your power structure with one in your reserve pile.

Game where players compete to be the one who contributes the most to the numerous lines of Research needed to eventually achieve the goal of medical immortality.

Victory

At the end of the game, the player with the highest scores in the most Research lines wins. The game ends when there are no cards left in the deck.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The Deck has 3 main Card Types:

1. Resources
2. Techniques
3. Research

Every card has a point value from 1 to 4.

Resource Cards

These cards represent the things necessary to do the research Such as funding, scientists, and institutions.

Technique Cards

These cards represent both the progress of the research and The way it is designed. So for instance, it could be Basic Research that leads to a Breakthrough.

Research Cards

There are 7 Lines of Research. Each line of Research is represented by 4 Research cards.

Research Lines

To achieve immortality we need to make considerable progress in 7 separate lines of Research:

#. Research Line:	Abbreviation	Notes:
1. Cell Loss	Loss	Cell Death / Atrophy
2. Cell Senescence	Sen	Death Resistant Cells
3. Nuclear Mutations	Nuc	Epi-mutations
4. Mitochondrial Mutations	Mito	mtDNA
5. Protein Crosslinks	PCL	Collagen and Elastin
6. Intracellular Waste	Int	Junk inside cells
7. Extracellular Waste	Ext	Junk outside cells

Setup

Each player needs pen and paper. Shuffle the deck. Deal 6 cards to each player.

The oldest player goes first. Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. On a players turn, he draws 1 card and discards 1 card. If possible he makes a Meld.

A Meld consists of 5 cards: 1 Research card 1 or more Technique cards 1 or more Resource cards If you made a Meld, reveal it, score it, then discard your hand. To score it, add up the value of your Technique and Resource cards. Multiply the sum of your Technique cards times the sum of your Resource cards times the value of your Research card.

Record this Score and the line of research it was made in. After making a Meld, draw 6 new cards.

Immortals

Introduction

Each player recruits a group of immortals seeking to gain power over other such groups. Based on the Dungeons & Dragons RPG rule set "Wrath of the Immortals". These associations of Immortals are variously known as Groups, Cliques (informal), and Councils (formal).

Victory

Be the first player to control 100 power points worth of Immortals & Resource cards or Reduce all of your opponents to zero power.

Alignment

Each player at the start of the game picks an Alignment: Neutral, Lawful, or Chaotic Neutral players can recruit Immortals of any alignment. Lawful players can only recruit Lawful or neutral Immortals. A Lawful player may recruit one Lawful Immortal in recruit phase (as an event) without expending a plot counter. Chaotic players can only recruit Chaotic or neutral Immortals. An Chaotic player may recruit one Chaotic Immortal in recruit phase (as an event) without expending a plot counter.

Tokens & Dice Needed

Plot Tokens Neutralization Tokens Twenty Sided Die

Setup

Each player starts with a hand of 5 random cards. Players cut the deck and compare power values of

Level	Title	Base Power Points
1	Initiate	1
2	Temporal	2
3	Celestial	4

Resources

Represented by cards. These represent things that give the Immortal extra power such as: Followers, Worshipers, Priests, Pet Monsters, Adventurers, Artifacts, etc.

Power Cards

This type of card represents abilities of an Immortal or Resource that give a Boost to a sides power levels during a Foil Plot Attempt.

cards. High value goes first.

Each player starts with one Hierarch Immortal in play of their respective alignment.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The Deck has 4 types of cards mixed in:

- 1. Immortals
- 2. Plots
- 3. Powers
- 4. Resources

Immortals

Represented by cards. These are the 'Gods' each player controls. Each Immortal has 6 Characteristics:

- 1. Name
- 2. Alignment
- 3. Sphere
- 4. Form (Race)
- 5. Level/Title
- 6. Power Points

There are 3 Alignments: Neutral, Lawful, and Chaotic
There are 5 Spheres:

- 1. Matter (Earth, Polymaths, Monsters)
- 2. Energy (Fire, Paragons, Magic, Wizards, Elves)
- 3. Time (Water, Dynasts, Clerics, Druids, Paladins, Avengers, Dwarves)
- 4. Thought (Air, Epic Heroes, Fighters, Halflings, Mystics, Thieves)
- 5. Entropy (Void, Undead)

Forms are many and varied. There are 6 Levels:

Level	Title	Base Power Points
4	Empyreal	7
5	Eternal	10
6	Hierarch	16

Plot Cards

Not to be confused with Plot Tokens. These represent actions or events that may have a variety of results. These do require the expenditure of a Plot Token to play.

Plot cards are played in Destiny phase unless the card specifies otherwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 phases: Plot Phase Recruit Phase Fate Phase Destiny Phase

Plot Phase

Put a Plot Token on each of your Immortals that does not have one already. (An Immortal may never have more than one plot token at a time)

Fate Phase

Draw one card & put it in your hand. You may discard a Plot Token from one of your Immortals to draw an extra card. (this is called Plotting) Maximum hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Recruit Phase

You may discard a Plot Token from one of your Immortals to put an Immortal card or a Resource card into play. (This is called Recruiting) Immortals and Resource cards are played face up on the table in front of you. Resource cards are 'attached' to (placed partially under) the Immortal that used up the Plot Token to gain the resource. If you have no Immortals in play (Neutralized Immortals do not count) you may recruit an immortal from your hand for free.

Destiny Phase

You may discard a Plot Token from one of your Immortals to play a Plot card. (This is called a Stroke, or Striking)

Foil Plot Attempt

Whenever an opposing Immortal discards a plot token to perform an action, (Plotting, Recruiting, Striking) you may attempt to foil the action. To attempt a Foil, one of your Immortals must discard a Plot Token. Both players must then determine their own Power Total.

Power Total = 1D20 + the Power of the Immortal + the power of all Resources attached to that Immortal + The power of any Power cards played. (play Power cards before the dice roll is made) The side with the highest power total wins. (Reroll ties) If the Foiler wins, the action is negated and any card that was to be played is discarded. If the target of the foil wins, the action succeeds.

Board Game for 3-5 players. Theme: Imperial Expansion of European Powers circa 1600-1750.

Victory

The game ends after 10 Turns. The player with the most Victory Point (VP) Chips at the end of the game wins. If tied, the player who is Leader in the most Regions wins.

If still tied, let it remain a tie.

Components

Central Region Map Player Bidding Strips Influence Deck (Small cards) Development Deck (Medium Cards) Development Counters Power Counters Event Deck (Big Cards) Ten Sided Dice Six Sided Dice Instigator Token Player Influence Tokens Victory Point Chips

Central Region Map

The Region Board is divided into 10 Areas (Regions):

1. Europe
2. Africa
3. Orient
4. India
5. South East Asia
6. Middle East
7. North America
8. South America
9. Central America
10. Caribbean

Each Region must be big enough to contain Power and Development counters and stacks of Player Influence Tokens.

Player Bidding Strip

Each player gets a strip. Each strip is divided into 10 Regions corresponding to the 10 Areas on the Central region Board. Each Region must be big enough to conceal a stack of Influence cards.

Imperial Powers

Influence Deck

This is a 50 Card deck. Influence cards are used by players to assign influence points to various regions.

Development Deck

This is a 50 card deck. Development cards increase the value of various regions. Some cards are Power cards, most are Resource Cards.

Power cards allow the Regional Leader to draw extra Influence cards. Resource cards award from 1-4 Victory points to the Leader.

Development And Power Counters

These are shared in common by all players. They are placed on Regions on the Central Region map to represent Economic Development.

Event Deck

This is a deck of 10 cards. These are used to alter Influence Totals on specific regions.

Instigator Token

The player with the Instigator Token goes first in the current Phase.

Player Influence Tokens

Each player has a set of Tokens of a unique color. Tokens should have denominations of 1, 5, and 10.

Victory Point Chips

Players share a common set of VP Chips. Use denominations of 1, 5, and 10.

Setup

Each Region on the Map starts with 2 Resource Counters. Each player rolls 1D10. High Roll gets the Instigator Token.

Then going clockwise, each player picks 1 Imperial Power as their identity. Each player gets a set of Player Influence Tokens.

Name	Special Ability
Britain	Draw 1 Extra Influence Card in Draw Phase
France	May move an extra card in Tactics Phase
Spain	Earns 3 Extra VP in Score Phase for each Region he is Leader in
Dutch	Draws 1 extra Development card and keeps his Dev cards face down
Portuguese	Starts game with 20 extra VP and 2 extra Influence Cards

Turn Sequence

Each turn is divided into 8 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Bid Phase
3. Develop Phase
4. Tactics Phase
5. Reveal Phase
6. Score Phase
7. Event Phase
8. End Phase

Draw Phase

Each player is dealt 5 random cards from the Influence Deck. If a player is the Leader of a Region that has a Power counter, he draws one extra Influence card per power counter present. Each player also draws 2 Random cards from the Development Deck.

If a deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Influence cards are kept hidden in players hands. Development cards are kept face up so everyone may see.

Bid Phase

Each player assigns each of his Influence cards to different Regions. One Influence card can only be assigned to one Region, but it can be any of the 10 Regions. A player may assign multiple cards to a single Region.

A player may chose to assign a region zero cards. A player must assign all of his cards. Assigned cards are placed stacked under their assigned region on a players Bidding Strip.

Thus all assignments (Bids) are hidden (secret).

Develop Phase

Each player plays 1 Development card and discards his others. The indicated region gains Resource or Power Counters. Then discard played cards.

Tactics Phase

Each player may move 1 of their Influence cards to different region.

Reveal Phase

Player slide their Bidding strips forward to reveal what Influence cards they assigned to each region. Players then place an equal value of their Influence Tokens onto the corresponding areas of the Central Region Map. Then all players discard all Influence cards.

Score Phase

The player with the most Influence in a Region gets Victory Point Tokens equal to the number of Resource and Power Tokens in that Region. The player with the second most Influence in a Region gets Victory Point Tokens equal to half the number of Resource and Power Tokens in that Region rounding down. The player with the third most Influence in a Region gets 1 Victory Point Token.

Event Phase

Shuffle the Event deck. Starting with the Instigator and going clockwise, each player in turn draws the top card of the Event deck and assigns it to a Region that has not yet been assigned an Event card this turn. This continues until all Event cards have been assigned.

End Phase

The Instigator gives the Instigator Token to the player on his left.

Introduction

Board game for 4-8 players. Players control ancient civilizations.

Board & Pieces

A map of the Mediterranean is provided. The map is divided into spaces or territories. Blue lines connect territories separated by water.

Territories are grouped into larger units called regions. Players share a common set of Victory Tokens. Each player has a set of uniquely colored 'population' chits. (No limit) Some of a players chits should be marked with a "C" to indicate that they represent cities.

Cards

Play requires construction of a unique deck of cards. The backs of all cards are identical. The front of the card contains the name of the card.

See the card list for the 7 types of cards.

Setup

Randomly determine turn order. Each player picks a starting territory at least 5 spaces from all other players starting territories. A player places ten population chits in his starting territory.

Victory

The game ends when 1 or more players has 100 or more Victory Tokens. The player with the most Victory Tokens at the end of the game wins.

Turn Sequence

1. Draw Phase

Each action play requires a combination of cards to be played. A player may play more than one combo per turn if he has the cards. The cards in the Combo are discarded after the action is resolved.

Destroy Action: The destroy combo requires any combination of 5+ culture, war, and/or technology cards. Destroy X of an opponents chits (1 city counts as 5 chits) that are in the same territory as one of your chits, or in territories adjacent to a territory occupied by one or more of your chits.

Imperium Of Man

Introduction

Solo card and dice game. Theme: Galactic Scale WH40K. You are the Human Empire surrounded on all sides by terrible Foes.

Victory

You win if at the end of your turn, there are no enemy units in play. Your score is the number of turns it took to accomplish this. A lower score is better.

Defeat

If you are ever reduced to zero Empire Points you automatically lose.

Empire Points

Use tokens to represent Empire Points (EP). This is a measure of territory controlled by the Human Empire. You start the game with 20 EP.

You gain 1 EP per turn. Your total can be higher than 20. If you lose all your EP you lose the game.

Random Alien Foe Table

1D6	Foe:
1	Chaos
2	Eldar
3	Orks

Foes

There are 6 Alien Foes: Chaos, Eldar, Tyranids, Orks, Necrons, and Tau. There is also 1 Internal Foe: Rebel Worlds.

Foe Sector Cards

There is one Large Sector card for each of the 7 Foes. The card should have a picture of the Foe plus its name and special ability information. During play an enemies units are kept on its Sector card.

Foe Special Abilities List

Foe: Ability: Notes: Chaos: Corruption: When Chaos kills an Empire unit, Chaos gains 1D6 units* Eldar: Skilled: The Eldar get a +2 Modifier to all Battle Dice rolls. Orks: Numerous: Space Orks get a +2 Mod to Spawn rolls. Tyranids: Infiltration: Genestealers get Double Battle rolls.

Necrons: Tough: Battle rolls against them are at -2. Tau: Shooting: Tau are Ranged Specialists, they get First Strike. Rebels: Traitors: No Special Ability

* This is called the Corruption Roll

1D6	Foe:
4	Tyranids
5	Necrons
6	Tau

Enemy Units

There is a common pool (bank) of enemy units. Use counters or wooden cubes as Enemy Units. Each Enemy Unit has a Strength of 1.

If you want to get fancy, each foe can have his own color cubes.

Strength Ratings

A Units Strength is how many Battle Dice it rolls in combat plus how many hits it takes to kill that unit.

Dice

Lots and lots of six and ten sided dice are needed.

Empire Unit Cards

These represent Units of the Human Empire. There are six types. Each has a strength rating. There are 10 copies of each of the 6 card types in the Empire Unit Deck.

Empire Unit Deck Card List

Name:	Strength	Abbreviation	Notes
Planetary Defenses	1	PD	-
Imperial Guard Army	2	IGA	-

Name:	Strength	Abbreviation	Notes
Space Marine Chapter	3	SMC	-
Armored Core	4	AC	Heavy
Titan Legion	5	TL	Heavy
Battle Fleet	6	BF	Heavy

Damage Markers

These are placed on Empire Unit cards. If the number of markers on a card is equal to or greater than the modified Strength of the Unit, the Unit is destroyed (discarded).

Terminology

Foes Interchangeable with the term Enemies.

Units = Troops: Represented by Cubes for Foes and Cards for Humans. First Strike = This unit makes its battle rolls before opponents do. This could eliminate opposing units before they get to attack. If units with First strike oppose each other, their attacks will be simultaneous. Fronts = Empire Unit cards are individually assigned to specific Sector cards.

So for example there is a Tyranid Front, a Rebel Front, etc.

Empire Technology Deck

The empire starts out at a disadvantage, but if it can hold on it will gain enough technologies with which to overpower its Foes. These mostly give bonuses to certain Unit types. The Empire gains one Tech per turn.

The Tech Deck contains 1 copy of each card listed.

Setup

Shuffle the Decks. Place the 7 Foe Sector Cards out in the middle of the table. Draw 2 Tech Cards.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 10 Phases: 1 Spawn Phase 2 Event Phase 3 Tech Phase 4 Recruit Phase 5 Implement Phase 6 Reserve Phase 7 Deploy Phase 8 Battle Phase 9 Rebuild Phase 10 End Phase

Reserve Phase

You may move 1 Unit card from any 1 Front to any other Front.

Deploy Phase

Assign each of the Unit cards you drew this turn to a Front. Each Foe has their own front next to their Sector card. Each Unit goes to one Front of your choice.

A Front may have Multiple Unit cards stationed there.

Battle Phase

Resolve each of the 7 Fronts in any order you like. Each unit gets a number of Battle rolls equal to its modified strength. A Battle roll is 1D10. A modified roll of 6+ will cause a Hit.

All Foe Units have 1 Hit so 1 Hit will destroy 1 Foe Unit. Empire Unit Cards have Multiple Hits equal to their Modified Strength. Every time a Unit is hit place a Damage Marker (DM) on it.

A Unit with more DM than Hits is destroyed (discarded). DM cannot be spread out evenly; they must be assigned to just one unit at a time. If all the Defending Empire Unit cards at a Front are wiped out and there is still damage remaining, it will spill into the Imperium: For every such DM lose 1 Empire Point.

Attacks are simultaneous: All units get to make their attacks and apply their damage. The exception is Units with First Strike. First Strike units make their attacks first and apply the damage before the other side gets to respond. After making the Battle rolls it is possible the Front will be empty or still occupied by units from one or both sides.

Rebuild Phase

Remove 1 DM from one Unit on each Front. Gain 1 Empire Point.

End Phase

Keep track of Turn number. Max hand size is 5
Tech cards. Discard excess cards.

Cannot Attack Rule

If a Foe or Foes cannot Attack you this turn, you cannot attack them.

In Nomine

Introduction

Two player card game based on the RPG In Nomine. One player controls a choir of Angels. The other player controls a band of Demons.

Disclaimer

In Nomine is a licensed, copyrighted, trademarked property. This is merely a fan site.

The Decks

Each player has a unique deck. Each deck has 66 cards.

Victory

There are 3 ways to win:

1. Run your opponents deck out of cards.
2. Have in play a human with 7+ Prophecy tokens.
3. Have in play 1 Celestial of each of the 7 types available in your deck.

Bits & Pieces

2 types of Tokens (counters) are needed: Prophecy Tokens
Essence Tokens

Event Cards

Event cards are discarded as soon as they are played. Event cards are played at whatever time it is appropriate. Depending on the Event, this can be in any phase, or even during an opponents turn. Song Cards are a type of Event card.

To play a Song card, you must remove an Essence counter from one of your Celestials. Archangel Events & Demon Prince Events are types of Event Cards.

Setup

Each player draws 7 cards. The Demon player goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns.

- Each turn is divided into 5 phases:
- Essence Phase
- Fates Phase
- Recruit Phase
- Struggle Phase
- End Phase

Essence Phase

Dawn for Angels & Dusk for Demons. Place an Essence counter on each persona card that doesn't already have one. Definition: Persona cards = Humans & Celestials
Definition: Celestials = Angels & Demons
Place a Prophecy token on each human.

Fates Phase

Draw 1 card from your deck.

Recruit Phase

Put 1 persona card from your hand into play. A card in play is face up in front of you. Cards in play stay in play until they are destroyed (discarded).

Some cards may allow you to recruit more than one Persona per turn. Modifier cards may be played in this phase. A Modifier card is attached to an appropriate target persona.

(some attach to your opponents personas) The Modifier card stays in play with the Persona. Artifacts are a type of Modifier card.

Struggle Phase

You may use your Persona cards to attack your opponent. To have a persona attack, remove the essence counter from the card. (Personas without Essence counters cannot attack) Celestials have a base Force = 2.

Humans have a base Force = 1. If the attacking persona is unblocked, the target defending player must discard a number of cards from the top of his deck equal to the Force of the Persona. Certain Event cards can be played to increase the Force of the Persona.

The Defender may block the attacking persona with one of his own. To have a persona block, remove the essence counter from the card. (Personas without Essence counters cannot block) Compare the Forces of the Attacker & Blocker.

The persona with the smaller Force is destroyed (discarded). If it is a tie, both personas are destroyed. Instead of Attacking the opposing deck, you may target a Persona.

Others Personas may block the attack on the target Persona.

End Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Activation Powers

Certain Celestials have Activation powers. To activate a power (cause it to happen) you must remove an Essence counter from that Celestial.

Incal

Introduction

Card game for 2 players. Based on the Graphic Novel "The Incal" by Moebius.

Disclaimer

"The Incal" is a copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

The Decks

There are two decks. One player uses the Light side deck. The other uses the Dark side deck.

Each deck contains 1 copy of each card in the card list.

Victory

There are 2 ways to win: Run opponent out of cards, or Play the Win card in your deck.

Plot Points

Use tokens or coins to keep track of PP (plot points).

Setup

Each side starts with a hand of 7 cards. The light side starts with John Difool in play. The Dark side goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 phases.

- Fate Phase
- Plot Phase
- Action Phase
- Recruit Phase
- Event Phase
- Attack Phase
- End Phase

Fate Phase

Draw 1 card.

Plot Phase

Gain Plot points from cards that have this ability.

Action Phase

Cards that activate may use their special ability at this time.

Recruit Phase

Put unit cards into play from your hand. (Hero, Villain, Troop, Ship, Fortress, & Creature cards) These cards stay in play until destroyed. Political cards are also played, but they are not unit cards.

Modifier cards are also played. Modifier cards are attached to a unit of the appropriate type. Only one Necro unit can be in play at a time.

Note that many cards require you to have amassed a minimum number of Plot points before you can play them.

Event Phase

Play Event cards & up to 1 Location card. Your opponent may play event cards that negate the cards you play. For example: Escape cards are used to nullify certain event cards.

Event & Location cards are always discarded at the end of the turn. When forced to discard, you may discard from your deck or hand.

Attack Phase

Attack with your units that have a Force value. An unblocked unit causes the defender to discard a number of cards from his Deck equal to the force of the attacking unit. The defender may block with his unit cards.

Compare the Force of the attacker & blocker. The card with the lower Force is discarded. Discard both units if there is a Force tie.

Event cards that increase Force may be played during combat. Fortress units can only defend not attack.

End Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards. Discard any cards you don't want

3. Meld Phase
4. End Phase

Draw Phase

Fill your hand to 7 cards. If the deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

7. Thwarts = Draw 1 card. Opponent must discard 1 card.

Meld Phase

Indus Valley

Introduction

Card game for 2-7 players. Each player represents a city of the Bronze Age Indus Valley Civilization (IVC). Also known as the Harappan Culture.

Game End

The game ends after 10 turns. Each turn represents 200 years. The IVC flourished (present day Pakistan) 3300 - 1300 BCE.

Victory

At the end of the game each player looks at his 7 point categories. A players final score is equal to his score in his lowest scoring category. The player with the highest Final Score Wins.

Point Categories

Players accumulate points in 7 Point (Scoring) Categories:

1. Farming
2. Animals
3. Materials
4. Products
5. Trade
6. Building
7. Culture

Players use paper and pencil to keep track of their scores.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. Each card has the trait of one or more scoring categories.

Cities

Before play each player picks one of the following Cities as their own:

City:	Special Ability:
1. Harappa	Draw 1 extra card per turn in Draw phase
2. Mohenjo Daro	Hand size +2
3. Lothal	All Melds score +3 points
4. Dholavira	Draw 1 card every time you make a Meld
5. Ganweriwala	Starts game with 7 points in every Category
6. Kalibanga	May make melds of just 2 cards each
7. Rakhigarhi	Can use Culture cards as wild cards

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Trade Phase
3. Meld Phase
4. End Phase

Draw Phase

Each player draws 3 cards OR fills their hand to 7 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Trade Phase

Players may trade Cards and Points with each other. Trades do not have to be equal. Players should keep their point totals secret, however they can trade points. Players are of course on the honor system.

Limit this phase to 5 minutes.

Meld Phase

Each player may make 1 or more melds in this phase. A Meld must consist of 3 or more cards in the same Category. A Meld score points in that category equal to the Square of the number of cards in the meld. For example: A Meld of 5 Farming cards would earn 25 points in the Farming category score.

End Phase

Max hand size is 5. Discard excess cards.

Each Character has 3 Attributes: Favored Temperature Favored Atmosphere Favored Gravity Each Character also gets 3 rolls on the Special Ability Table. Use the determination tables to determine the attributes for each character Name each Character. Names and Attributes are to be marked directly on the Character Card.

The Board

There are 16 planets marked on the board. Draw lines from a planet to its 3-4 nearest neighbor planets. Mark the lines with evenly spaced dots.

The Planets

Before play starts you will have to determine planetary attributes. Each Planet has 4 Attributes: Temperature Atmosphere Gravity Terrain Use the determination tables to determine the 4 attributes for each planet. Name each planet.

Names and Attributes are to be marked directly on the board next to each planet.

Dice & Pawns

Each player gets a pawn of a different color. Six-sided dice are needed to play.

The Envelopes

There is a marked corresponding envelope for each planet.

Setup

Each player gets dealt one random character card. The identity of players' characters is not a secret. Next, players take turns choosing which Planets they want.

(These are called a players' starting planets) (Players roll high on 1D6 to determine who goes first. Reroll ties.) Each player gets to pick 4 planets. When you pick a planet you get the corresponding envelope. Deal out the Attribute Cards randomly to the players.

In a two-player game each player gets 24 Cards. In a three-player game each player gets 16 Cards. In a four-player game each player gets 12 Cards.

A Player may keep 6 Attribute cards in his hand. The remaining cards he must put into his envelopes. There is no limit on which or how many cards go into any particular envelope.

The identity of Attribute cards in hands & envelopes is kept hidden. Once all players finish filling their envelopes they are all put together to the side. One player will receive the Interstellar Pig as part of the Attribute card deal.

He may keep it in his hand or place it in an envelope. Next, players take the pawn of their character and place it on any of their Starting planets their Character can survive on. (If the Character cannot survive on any, you loose) Players roll high on 1D6 to determine who gets first turn. Reroll ties.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. On your turn choose a direction (Line) you want to move along. Roll 1D6 or 2D6 and move that many spaces.

(Characters are in Spaceships) You may automatically stop and land on any Planet you pass. (And are able to survive on) For movement purposes, treat Planets as Dots. If you land exactly on a Planet you may choose not to "land" on the surface and instead stay in "orbit".

A land on a Star, draw an Event card. If you are the only character on a Planet (and on its surface) you May open the Envelope and Look at the Attribute cards inside. You may put any of these cards into your hand, however, max Hand size is six cards, so you may have to leave some behind (in the envelope)

Combat

If you land on another characters pawn there will be combat. If both Characters are in Space, it will be a Space Battle. Each player rolls 3D6 and adds any bonus dice from Abilities and Attribute Cards.

(One-use attribute cards are discarded when used) High score wins. The Winner kills his opponent. If you are killed you are out of the game.

If tied, no one gets killed. If you kill an opponent you take all the attribute cards in his hand. (Excess cards in space are discarded.

(Note: all discards are placed face up.) (Note: The Interstellar Pig may never be put in the discard, at worst it floats in space and may be picked up by a passing ship) If both Characters are on the Surface of a planet, there will be Ground Combat which Is handled exactly like Space combat.

Gravity & Combat

A Character that Favors Heavy Gravity gets +1D6 in Ground Combat and -1D6 in Space Combat. A Character that Favors Light Gravity gets -1D6 in Ground Combat and +1D6 in Space Combat.

Survival

A Character cannot survive (Land) on a planet with a different Atmosphere or Temperature attribute than his own, unless he has the appropriate survival gear (Attribute card) in his hand (The card must be revealed). This also goes for Darkness, Radiation, and Difficult Topography. Note Gravity only effects combat not survival.

Interzone

Introduction

Card game for 2+ players. Based on the novel "Naked Lunch" by William S. Burroughs. Each player is a "junkie writer" living in the Interzone.

The Interzone is a fantasy underworld city of addiction, intrigue, drugs, Monsters, homosexuality, hedonism, control, humor, despair, and violence. Writers compete to be the first to finish their book. Game play: Writers convert Junk (drug) cards into pages (of their book).

Writers make contacts (Junkies, Doctors, Monsters, etc) that they can Use to attack (& defend themselves from) their opponents.

Disclaimer

"Naked Lunch" by William S. Burroughs is a copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

The first player to write 213 (or more) pages wins.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. Each player has 1 unique card to represent their writer. Writer cards are always kept separate from the common deck

Tokens

Token types required: Junk Tokens Withdrawal Tokens Page Tokens (each worth 5 pages)

Setup

Each player has 1 unique card to represent their writer. This card starts in play face up in front of the player. Your writer starts with 5 Junk tokens on him.

Each player is dealt a hand of 7 cards from the deck. The player with the longest history of drug abuse goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 6 Phases. Scrounge Phase Score Phase User Phase Action Phase Contacts Phase Writing Phase

Scrounge Phase

Draw 2 cards from the deck & put them in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard & draw from it.

Score Phase

Each drug card is worth a number of Junk points. Junk points are represented by tokens. Discard Junk cards to get Junk tokens.

Place the Junk tokens on any of your Junkies (Including your Writer) If you place Junk tokens on a Junkie with Withdrawal tokens, remove all of the Withdrawal tokens.

User Phase

Remove 1 Junk token from each of your Junkies. If a Junkie has no Junk tokens to remove, put a Withdrawal token on him. If a Junkie ever gets 4 Withdrawal tokens he is clean, discard him.

If your writer ever goes clean, you automatically lose the game.

Action Phase

Certain cards are called action cards. To play an action card you must satisfy its requirements and have an appropriate target. For Example: the card "Unnecessary Surgery" - to play it you must have a Doctor in play you control. The card will kill (discard) a target enemy contact.

Some action cards don't have any requirements or targets. Some action cards are used in other phases or in response to actions by your opponent. A "Control" action lets you take control of the target card.

Note that your writer can be attacked like any other contact. If your writer is ever killed or controlled, you automatically lose the game. Your writer is always the last to be attacked.

Your opponent must kill or capture one of your contacts if at all possible, before he can target your writer. Contacts with Withdrawal tokens cannot perform actions.

Contacts Phase

Put Contact cards in your hand into play (face up on the table) under your control.

Writing Phase

You may remove Junk tokens from your writer. Each token so removed is converted into 5 written pages. Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

the game. Deck construction: there has to be a balance between the number of Junkies and Drug tokens available (and accessible).

Introduction

Warp Quest is an abstract game system that depicts goal driven scenarios.

Each player controls a collection of Units who are attempting to be the first to reach an objective and bring it back to the start.

The units could be a party of adventuring archeologists hoping to recover a lost artifact, a squadron of bombers attempting to hit a military target and return home, a band of samurai seeking to vanquish marauding bandits or a company of mixed creatures seeking to destroy a piece of evil ornamental jewelry that has the nasty habit of trying to control the minds of all free creatures.

The scenarios that use the Warp Quest engine will hold the details.

Dice & Pieces

- Six and ten sided dice are needed.
- Each player has a pawn to represent his or her group of Units (adventuring party, fleet, etc.) on the board.
- Use a small trinket to represent the Objective.
- There is only one Objective.

The Board

- The board is a single winding path of connected spaces with a Start Space and an End Space. The path should be 30 Spaces long.
- The First Space represents the start.
- Spaces 2-15 represents travel through the first scenario module.
- Spaces 16-29 represents travel through the second scenario module.
- The End Space is the final destination where the Objective is found.

The Decks

- There are 2 decks for each scenario:
- The Module 1 Deck and the Module 2 Deck.
- Each deck has one of each card in its card list.
- There may also be an Aid deck.

The Units

- Each player controls a group of units called a Party. The scenarios will detail the make up of the units in the party, their attributes (Skills, Traits) and starting dispositions.

Turn Sequence

- Players take turns.
- Each turn consists of 3 phases: 1. Move Phase 2. Draw Phase 3. Challenge Phase

Move Phase

- Roll 1D6. Move your pawn that number of spaces towards the end space.
- You automatically stop when you enter the end space.
- If you are the first to land on the end space your party acquires the Objective.
- Once a party has acquired the Objective then all other players may move their parties in either direction on the path.
- The party with the Objective must move towards the start space.
- The first pawn with the Objective to reach the start space wins the game.

Draw Phase

- If you land on an empty space in spaces 2-15 draw a card from the Module 1 deck.

D6	Result
1-4	Go back 1D6 spaces
5-6	Lose 1 Unit (Man, Ship, Hit Point, etc., depending on the Scenario)

If you Win the challenge gain 1 Experience Token. You may spend an Experience Token to let you reroll a Move Roll or a Skill Roll.

Moving Onto An Opponents Pawn

- If you land on an opponent's pawn there will be a fight.

- If you land on an empty space in spaces 16-29 draw a card from the Module 2 deck.
- If you land on an opponent's party do not draw a card.
- If a deck ever runs out, shuffle its discard and draw from it.
- Cards are of 2 types: Challenge cards & Aid cards.
- Place Aid cards in your hand.
- Challenge cards are encounters your party faces immediately in Challenge Phase.

Challenge Phase

Each challenge card lists one or more skills. Your party will have to make a skill check vs each skill listed. (The same skill may be listed twice or more, requiring that many skill checks) A Skill check consists of a Skill roll and Challenge Roll: Roll 1D10. This is the Skill roll.

Add the skill bonuses of your party members to the roll. You may discard Aid cards for further bonuses to the skill roll. Next roll 1D10. This is the Challenge roll.

Some Challenges have a DM (Difficulty Modifier). Add the DM to the Challenge Roll. If the challenge roll is less than or equal to the skill roll you win the Skill check. If the challenge roll is greater than the skill roll you fail the Challenge.

If you win all the Skill Checks, you win the Challenge. The adventure card may say what happens if you win or lose the Challenge. If the card does not give directions, then roll on the following table: If you lose the challenge: Roll 1D6: (Challenge Loss Table)

- The current player rolls on the Skill List Table to determine which skill will decide the confrontation.
- Both players make Skill Rolls. In case of a tie nothing happens.
- The loser rolls on the Challenge Loss Table.
- The winner takes the Artifact from the loser if the loser was in possession of the Artifact.

Factions

There are 5 Factions:

1. US Backed Government (USBG or US)
2. Sunnis
3. Shiites (Shia)
4. Kurds
5. Insurgents

Each player picks 1 Faction to represent. The Sunnis, Shia, and Kurds are collectively known as the Ethnic Groups. The Ethnic Groups and the Insurgents are collectively called the Minorities.

Two Player Game

Insurgency Only Scenario: One player is the USBG. The other player is the Insurgents Special Card Use Rules: Remove all Ethnic cards from the deck.

Three Player Game

Civil War Only Scenario: Each player is one of the 3 Ethnic Groups. Special Card Use Rules: During a given turn, you can use US cards or Insurgent cards but not both.

Four Player Game

Isolated North Scenario: All factions except the Kurds. Special Card Use Rules: Remove the Kurd Specific cards from the deck.

Five Player Game

Full Scale Conflict Scenario: All Five Factions are represented.

The Conflicts

There are 2 main simultaneous parallel conflicts: The Insurgency and the Civil War. The Insurgency is between the US and the Insurgents. The Civil War is between the 3 Ethnic Factions.

Game Length

The game lasts 10 Turns (= 10 Hands). Each turn is equivalent to 1 year.

Victory

Separate Victories are determined for the Insurgency and the Civil War. Players score Victory Points (VP) at the End of each turn. Players keep a running total of their accumulated VP.

(Use coins to keep track of VP) The Ethnic group with the highest total VP at the End of the game wins the Civil War. The victor in the Insurgency is either the US or the Insurgent player, whichever has the highest VP total.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. Every card has a Force Value (FV). FV's are used to determine the winner of a Hand.

Certain cards can only be used by certain Factions. The deck contains 1 copy of each card in the card list.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 5 Phases:

- Situation Phase
- Commitment Phase
- Negotiations Phase
- Ground Phase
- Score Phase

Situation Phase

Each player is dealt a random hand of 10 cards. If the deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Commitment Phase

Players may discard up to 5 cards and draw replacements.

Negotiations Phase

Players may trade cards with each other and make and break secret deals. Players may want to put a time limit on this phase.

Ground Phase

Players reveal their hands. Each player adds up the total FV from all cards in his hand he can use.

Score Phase

The player with the highest total FV gets 5 Victory Points The second highest total FV gets 4 VP Third highest total FV gets 3 VP Fourth highest total FV gets 2 VP Lowest total VP gets 0 VP In case of a Tie, all tied get the indicated VP: For example both players tied for first place get 5 VP. All players tied for last place get 0 VP.

Game Designers Notes

The Negotiations Phase should be the core of this game. There is plenty of room for backstabbing and the like. The Deck has 100 cards.

Each Faction has exactly 45 cards in the deck it can use. I am considering giving cards special abilities. One easy variant is to alter the number of turns in a game.

Iron Bridge Gorge

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Based on the growth of Industry in the Severn Gorge in England at The beginning of the 1700's. The Birthplace of the Industrial Revolution.

Each player is an Ironmaster who controls a company in the region.

Victory

The player with the most Victory Points at the end of the game wins.

Game End

The game ends after 25 Rounds.

Rounds

Each player gets one turn during a Round. A Round is equivalent to 4 years.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. Each card represents a mine, workshop, patent, or infrastructure improvement. Cards are also referred to as resources.

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

Victory Points

Use Tokens to represent Victory Points (VP) As you earn them, you put them in your victory pile.

Event Table

Roll	Event:	Notes:
1	Nothing	Nothing noteworthy occurs this Round
2	Worker Shortage	All Revenues reduced by half this Round
3	Drought or Freeze	Water Power Reduced; Blast Furnace generates no Revenue
4	Charcoal Shortage	All Resources requiring Charcoal generate no Revenue
5	Flooding	All Mines generate no Revenue
6	Innovation	Roll on Innovation Table

Innovation Table

Money

Use coins to represent money.

The Bank

A pile of coins not owned by any player.

Setup

Each player starts with 10 coins.

Round Sequence

Each round is divided up into 7 steps:

1. Development Step
2. Event Step
3. Revenue Step
4. Initiative Step
5. Turn Step
6. Scoring Step
7. End Step

Development Step

Flip over the top $X + 1D6$ cards of the deck.

X the number of players.

These are placed lined up, where everyone can see them. These are called Opportunity cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Event Step

Roll 1D6 once on the Event Table. Events last the entire Round and affect all players. Innovations last the remainder of the game and affect all players.

Roll	Innovation:	Notes:
1-2	Steam Pumping Engines	Iron Mines +1 Revenue; Ignore Flooding Events
3-4	Reverberatory Furnace	Works requiring Charcoal can now use Coke instead
5-6	Long Wall Mining	Iron Mines +1 Revenue

If you reroll an Innovation already in existence, nothing happens.

5. Bank Phase
6. End Phase

Revenue Step

Each Resource produces a number of coins (from the Bank) equal to its Revenue value. If you do not own a Requirement of a resource, you must pay an opponent that controls That requirement 1 coin, or the Bank if no one owns it. Example: You own a Pig Iron Blast Furnace. It produces 4 coin.

It requires Charcoal Maker, an Iron Ore Mine, and a Limestone Quarry. You own a Charcoal Maker too, so you get to keep that coin. You don't, but both your opponents own Iron Ore Mines: You give one of them 1 coin.

No one owns a Limestone Quarry so you give the Bank 1 coin.

Initiative Step

Each player bids coins to see who goes first. Highest bid gets the first turn in the Turn Step. Other players get to go clockwise.

If tied, roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first. All Bid money is lost.

Turn Step

Each player gets a Turn in this Step. See the Turn Sequence Section.

Scoring Step

The player with the most Fuel Resources in play gets 2 VP The player with the most Iron Resources in play gets 2 VP The player with the most Transportation Resources in play gets 2 VP The player with the most Clay Resources in play gets 1 VP The player with the most Limestone Resources in play gets 1 VP

End Step

Discard all remaining Opportunity cards.

Turn Sequence

This describes a single players turn during Turn Step. Each player gets a turn. A turn has 6 phases:

1. Decision Phase
2. Expansion Phase
3. Trade Phase
4. Build Phase

Card List

Decision Phase

Take any one card from the Opportunity Row, and put it in your hand.

Expansion Phase

You may pay 10 coin to draw 1 card from the deck and put it in your hand You may do this multiple times.

Trade Phase

You may trade with your opponents. You may trade coins, cards in hand, resources in play, VP's, and non-binding promises. You may make multiple trades.

Build Phase

You may pay 5 coin to put a card into play face-up in front of you. Unskilled resources cost 3 coin. Skilled resources cost 7 coin.

The card is now a resource and will generate revenue and other benefits. You may do this multiple times. If you have a Land Lease resource in play other resources cost 1 less to play.

Bank Phase

If you have a Loan, you must pay the Bank 1 coin interest. You may take a loan from the Bank for 10 coin. (You may only have one such loan at a time) You may pay back your loan.

You may sell Cards and Resources to the Bank for 5 coins each.

End Phase

Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

Japanese Swords

Introduction

Board game of warfare in Feudal Japan.

The Cards

The deck contains 100+ cards as described in the card list. The backs of all cards are identical. The face should contain the name of the card and its Force value.

The Map

The map is a 10 X 10 grid. There are 7 terrain types:

TERRAIN	MOVE	DEFENSE	NOTES
Clear	1	0	Plains
Fortress	1	10	Ancestral Clan Home
Keep	1	5	Minor Castles
Difficult	2	0	Desert
Covered	2	3	Forest, Hills
Treacherous	2	-5	Rivers, swamps
Impassable	X	X	Water, Mountains

Move- This is the number of movement points required to enter the space. Defense- This is the Force modifier applied to a defending army occupying the space. When designing the map, place fortresses on opposite sides of the map.

There should be a number of fortresses equal to the number of players. Include examples of all the terrain types. There should be 2 or 3 Keeps per player, spread evenly around the map.

The Keeps start the game as neutral, undefended spaces. Players determine turn order by rock-paper-scissors.

Object

Capture the fortresses of your opponents. If a player loses his fortress he is out of the game, and all of his armies are removed from the board. Another way to win is to be the first to acquire 50 Honor points.

The Pieces

Each player has a set of counters or chits of a unique color. These pieces are marked with a 'C' or an 'A' or an 'H' or a 'G'. C-counters are control markers. They are placed on Keeps and Fortresses you control.

A-counters represent an entire army each. H-counters are Honor counters. G-counters represent gold.

Alternately, players may use painted miniatures to represent the army pieces.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn consists of the following six phases played in order:

1. Revenue Phase
2. Expense Phase
3. Draw Phase
4. Honor Phase
5. Travel Phase
6. Battle Phase

Fortresses, Keeps & Traits

For each Fortress roll 3 times on the Trait Table. For each Keep roll once on the Trait Table. Your clan gains the traits of every Keep & Fortress you control.

Combat bonuses apply to your armies during every battle.

Revenue Phase

Your Fortresses generate 3 gold in this phase. Your Keeps generate 1 gold in this phase. Fortresses and keeps are near settlements, ports, trade routes, farmland, and mines, from which they derive their income.

Certain traits of keeps & Fortresses will provide additional gold. Gold may be saved from turn to turn.

Setup

Each player starts the game controlling one fortress and two armies. One army is located in the fortress, the other is adjacent. Players start with 0 honor and gold.

Expense Phase

Pay 1 gold per army to supply your armies. Armies that are not supplied are immediately disbanded and are removed from play. You may raise a new army at a cost of 4 gold.

A new army starts in or next to its owners fortress.

Draw Phase

You may draw 1 card from the deck. You may repeatedly pay two gold to draw one extra card. If the deck runs out, reshuffle the discard pile and continue.

Honor Phase

You may pay two gold to gain one honor. Up to 2D6 times. This Honor award is derived from skilled and beautiful efforts in the arts, literature, dance, theatre, poetry, craftsmanship, tea ceremonies, courtly etiquette, and the like. Certain traits of keeps & Fortresses will generate additional Honor.

Travel Phase

Each of your armies may move. Each army has 2 movement points it may use per turn. See the terrain list for the number of movement points required to enter each type of terrain.

Only one army may occupy a space at a time. If you move your army into a fortress or a keep, you gain control of it. Place a control marker on keeps and fortresses you control.

Battle Phase

You may have your armies attack adjacent enemy armies. Only two armies are involved in each battle.

Each player in the battle draws 5 cards.

Each player sets aside 1 to 7 cards face down. Up to 5 of these cards may be peasant, soldier, or samurai cards. These cards are then revealed simultaneously.

Each player adds up the Force value of all of his revealed cards. Cards have force values ranging from 1 to 8+. The defender also gets a Force modifier from the type of terrain he occupies.

The side with the higher force total wins. The defender wins all ties. The losing player removes his army from the board.

All revealed cards are discarded and go to the discard pile. After each battle, the winner must discard down to 8 cards or less. The loser must discard down to 3 cards or less.

If the loser occupied a keep or fortress the winning army immediately moves in to occupy it. The winner gains 3 honor points. The loser loses 1 honor point.

Note that battles are either at a fortification siege, or are on open ground. The current active player is considered to be the attacker.

Trading

Players, at any time, may trade promises, gold, cards, armies, keeps, and honor.

Army Experience

Each time an army defeats another army it gets one experience point. In battle, an army gets a force bonus equal to its experience. Place counters marked with an 'E' under the army counter to keep track of experience.

Component Rules Variant

Written by Frederic Moll (fmoll@geocities.com) To avoid repetitions of games, the boardgame could be made with tiles (squared or hexagonal) representing all types of terrain.. And placement of tiles would be made by each player one tile at a time (cf the making of the board for "Kings and Things" game for an example)... After all tiles are laid down each player will put in sequence his fortress on one tile... then each player will place his first keep then his second keep... the restriction is that keep can only be placed adjacent to the fortress or one tile away... To allow more possibilities, have 4 or 6 more tiles than the total required ...

Jorune

Introduction

Board & card game for 2+ players. Takes place in the "Jorune" RPG universe. Each player controls a young human (Tauther) from the realm of Burdoth, wishing to become a Citizen (Drenn).

This requires a quest (Tothis). During the quest the Tauther will acquire marks on their Tablet (& Challisk) called Copra.

Disclaimer

Jorune is a licensed, copyrighted product. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

Be the first player to accumulate 20 Copra. A maximum of 10 Copra may be gained from Territories within the Realm of Burdoth. A maximum of 3 Copra may be gained from any Specific Territory.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. Card types include:

- Encounters
- Companions
- Events
- Aids

Setup

The oldest character goes first.

Turn Sequence

- Draw Phase
- Aid Phase
- Travel Phase
- Encounter Phase
- Adventure Phase
- Healing Phase

Draw Phase

Players take turns Draw 2 cards from the deck If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard & draw from it. Hand size is 10 cards. Discard excess cards.

Danger Table

Aid Phase

You may put Companion cards from your hand into play: Companions stay in play until they are killed. Weapon and Equipment (W/C) cards may also be played. W/C must be attached to your Tauther or a Companion.

A Character can only have 1 Weapon and 1 Armor attached. You can have a max of 4 Companions in play at one time.

Travel Phase

All Players start the game in Burdoth in the province of Ardis Players will need to consult the Map. A player may move from one province to an Adjacent province on a roll of 4-6+ on 1D6. (The Travel Roll) (A low roll indicates failure to find guides, mounts, ships, etc. or slow-going, bad weather, getting lost, etc.) Playing a Travel card modifies this roll. When heading to an Island (or back to the continent) you Must travel to the Sea first (The Sea counts as a "destination").

From the "Sea" you can go to any location on the Map that borders the sea. All Burdoth Provinces are considered to be adjacent to each other.

Encounter Phase

Your leftmost opponent may play an Encounter card on you. Encounter cards are of 2 types:

- Sentient Races
- Natural Perils A Natural Peril can be played in any Territory. A Sentient Race can only be played if it is listed in the Territories Adventure Table. Any Water encounter card can be played if at Sea. Roll 3D6 (The Fight Roll) Add the Force of your Companions, Weapons & Armor. Subtract the Force of the Encounter card. Event cards can modify the roll. Event cards are always discarded as soon as they are played If the result is 11+ the Encounter is defeated. If the result is 10 or less, one Companion is killed. If no Companions are left, the Tauther must roll on the Danger Table:

1D6	Result:
1-2	Tauther gets away but loses all attached cards
3-4	Tauther loses all cards and misses next 1D6 turns in captivity
5-6	Tauther Killed

The Player instead of fighting may attempt Diplomacy or Evasion. Roll on the Diplomacy or Evasion

Table. You cannot use diplomacy with Natural Perils.

Diplomacy Table

2D6	Result:
1-7	They Attack Anyway. The Encounter gets Force +2
8-9	You talk your way out of it somehow. They let you go.
10+	They like you and offer assistance: Draw 1 card which adventure you get, or play an Adventure card. Then Roll on the Master Adventure Table (The Adventure Roll) When rolling Subtract the Copra level of the adventure & Add the number of your Companions.

Adventure Phase

Every Territory has an Adventure Table. Roll on the Adventure table for the Territory you are in to find out

Victory

The player with the highest score at the end of the game wins.

Game End

The game ends when all players have lost all of their Life counters.

Life Counters

Each player starts with 3 Life counters.

Getting Killed

If you lose a life counter, you discard your hand and your turn ends immediately. You continue playing on your next turn. You start at an altitude of 1D6.

Deed:	Points Scored
Kill Enemy Knight Bounder	5
Kill Enemy Knight Hunter	10
Kill Enemy Knight Shadow Lord	15
Kill Opponent's Knight	10
Kill Pterodactyl	20
Claim Gladiator Wave Card	10
Surviving a Wave	5
Surviving a Wave without being Killed	20

Spawn Points

Cards from the Foe Deck come into play face-up at 4 spawn points. There can only be 4 Foe cards in play at a time. The Spawn points are numbered 1 to 4.

Wave:	X:
2	5
4	7

Player Knights

Both players are Knights. One player rides an Emu. One player rides an Ostrich.

Enemies And Opponents

Minor distinction: Player Knights are Opponents. Knights from the Foe Deck are Enemies. Knights from the Foe deck are also called Buzzard Knights.

The Decks

There are 2 common decks: The Foe Deck and the Player Deck.

Player Deck

There are 3 types of cards: Altitude cards: These immediately put you at the new indicated altitude. Modifier cards: These alter up or down your current altitude. Special cards: These have some other effect.

Dice

A Six Sided Die is needed.

Scoring

Each player scores points as Follows:

Waves

Every time you kill X Buzzard knights, a Wave ends. Immediately discard all Foe cards in play X is determined by the Wave Number.

Wave:	X:
6	9
7	10
8	11
9	12

Wave:	X:
5	8

You retain your current altitude from one Wave to the next.

Record Keeping

Use paper and pencil to keep track of: Wave Number Buzzard Knights killed in a Wave Scores

Reduced Record Keeping Variants

Play without the concept of Waves, or Have all waves be X = 4.

Altitude

All Foe cards have an Altitude rating. Altitudes can range from zero (lowest) to ten (highest).

Fall Tokens

This indicates your current altitude has dropped one level.

Lava Rule

If your altitude ever goes to zero or less, you fall into the Lava and lose 1 Life Counter.

Mortal Danger Dodge Rule

If you are about to be killed by an opponents knight in Joust phase, you may play a Modifier card to adjust your height in order to evade.

Setup

Roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first. Each player rolls 1D6 to see what altitude they start out at.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 6 Phases: Foe Phase Knight Phase Fly Phase Joust Phase Score Phase Enemy Phase End Phase

Discard Killed Foe cards. You may only kill one Foe or opponent in this phase.

Score Phase

Keep track of points scored in this phase.

Joust Simulator Play For Real!!! Wikipedia Joust History

Commentary

Am a little confused by the rules though. It isn't clear how/when you encounter the foes. Extrapolating from the arcade game, each player would start from opposite end of the "board" (which would be the four "spawn" points) and each turn each would encounter the next foe. For example, Player A moves left-to-right, and in the Joust Phase would encounter the left-most foe, while Player B encounters the right-most foe; they'd score (or not), get killed if that foe is 1 altitude higher (or not), each discard a card (or not), then the foes they'd encountered would be replaced if killed, the players would then each draw to 4 cards, play altitude/modify, Player A would encounter the second-to-left foe, while Player B would encounter the second-to-right foe. Presume the next turn they'd encounter each other? When a player had encountered all 4 foes in line (and the opposing player if there is one), his knight starts over at the side of the "board" he started from (or turns around), simulating continual flight across infinite spawn points until the Wave is over?

As a variation, have there be a "space" between spawning points in which the knights don't encounter a foe (no Joust Phase) that turn but can adjust altitude; upon which if it's a two player game the opponent can play one of his own player cards on a Foe to adjust the Foe's altitude. Alternately, or in addition, in a two-player game, in the Joust phase your opponent can adjust a Foe's altitude using his own player cards, and you can counter with additional cards from your hand - would have to be judicious about doing this since you'd not be able to count on the cards you had for your next encounter.

Origins Of The Jugger Age

In the year 4835 A.F. two Orc tribes, the Gurak Blood Spitters and the Hurga Snaggle Toothy joined forces to lay siege to the Meddian city of Findel. Reinforcements for Findel were at least two weeks away. The city was defended by only a stone wall and a small garrison. The orcs had excellent engineers in both camps. The war chiefs decided to attack using a combination of mining, sapping, artillery, and siege towers. Within days the walls were breached in several places and plans were made for the final assault. Things looked hopeless for the Meddians. The orc chiefs then began to argue over who should get to keep the city when the siege was over. Both tribes were nomadic and they originally agreed to help each other capture a city. Orcs often use trial by combat to resolve disputes. Champions were selected but Saggor, an engineer suggested they use siege towers instead. This proposal was met with great enthusiasm. Two siege towers were dragged away from the walls and brought to face each other. Within minutes both were reduced to large piles of firewood. A tie being unacceptable, both sides agreed to a rematch. Two days later each side revealed their new champions which were twice as large as the original siege towers. The Gurak construction was filled with battering rams.

The Hurgas model had a multitude of arms with spiked fists. The titans traded great shattering blows to the cheers of watching orcs and Meddians. Both hulks were smashed to pieces. The shamans made burnt offerings to the war gods and the chiefs agreed to yet another challenge. During the third day of construction an unexpected relief force from Bonheim arrived and drove the Orcs all the way back to Garu Gak. All over the continent everyone was talking about the battle between these so called juggernauts. During the following months the surviving Guracks marched on Findel with seven 'juggers' and crushed it flat. The Hurga launched a similar attack against the elves. These initial armies of juggers were defeated at great cost. By the end of the conflict known as the first jugger war all of the major races were building their own prototype war machines.

Excerpted from: "Modern Jugger Tactics" by Ulmon Ironshanks, Retired captain & dwarven loremaster.

Chronicles Of The Jugger Wars

The new orcish monstrosities have been churning up the forest. Many tree homes have been crushed under their giant wheels. It makes an elf look back fondly on the days when the orcs merely tried to burn the forest down. After all, its easy enough to summon a good size rainstorm. It took four mages but we were finally able to bring down one of the hulks. Lorith hit the control chamber with a fireball and the whole thing exploded. I myself have only enough strength left to cast another spell or two today. Korvis was the most weakened so we teleported him to the city state of Ibion to warn them. The rest of us will try to delay the cohort for as long as possible before they find a shallow place to ford the river. Dorah grabbed my arm. "I hear another one coming." The ground started to shake. I could hear trees splintering. I readied my runestaff. Over the top of the treeline I could make out a set of great sails. Lorith was first able to speak. "I don't believe it!" Before us was an Ibion sailing ship set on wheels. Aboard was Korvis grinning like a mad elf. "Ho wizards! Do you think this will make a fine surprise for our orc friends?!" "That was quick" said Lorith. Korvis's demeanor darkened a little. "The archmage is unconscious" he said. I felt a catch in my breath.

The effort to get the Ibion vessel here as quickly as possible meant that the archmage had risked a huge teleportation - at considerable personal cost. "So Ibion is defenseless? whispered Dorah. No-one replied. With the archmage recovering, with the orcs becoming bolder and with their unprecedented use of machines we all knew that within weeks the Ibion Council would fall. Korvis was suddenly backlit by a powerful explosion. Another orc machine burned with sinister green flame. I felt a sickening certainty that one of our own had been seriously injured in this small victory. Lorith and Dorah began climbing the rope ladder into the vessel. Korvis was watching me as I knew he would. Would I fail him again, as he believed I had the first time we had attempted to enter the orc lands?

Juggernaughts

Juggers or Jugs are giant war machines constructed with medieval technology. They are built out of wood and iron. Jugs require large crews to operate them. Historically, juggers are an evolution of the siege tower.

History Of Propulsion

The earliest juggers used men and horses to propel them. The various races of Lantasia quickly developed more sophisticated means of propulsion. The men of Meddia use wood burning engines. The Garu Gak orcs burn coal. The Shadudanese goblins use special mixtures of marsh gas produced by their alchemists as fuel. The Durngard dwarf engines use coal heated steam. The gnomes of Undell fuel their machines with alcohol. The desert men of Zuranti use a black oil they find under the sands. The elves of Eliwyn use a combination of sails and strong elemental magic. The Voorlock use the muscle power of chained demons to drive their fearsome constructs.

Juggerball

Introduction

Fantasy tactical rule system. Juggers or Jugs are giant war machines constructed with medieval technology.

Playing Pieces

Players will need a hex map, D6 and D10 dice, counters to represent juggernaughts.

The Map

Jugger is played on a hex map. The maps can represent playing fields, racing traps, mazes, or battlefields depending on the scenario. Each side of a hex is called an arc. A jugger faces out of its forward arc.

Counters

Players will have to make their own counters. Use bank cardboard chits. Opponents should have counters of different colors. The counter should have written on it an arrow indicating which way the jug is facing and a number or name identifying the jug.

Record Keeping

For each jug a player will have to keep track of its current velocity and hit total. Other things that need to be recorded include fire damage, loss of boarders, time between cauldron attacks, and wizard spells

Jugger Traits

Size Class

Size class, or SC, measures the size of a jug. Each point of SC gives the jug a base of 20 Hits and space for 1 piece of equipment. A 3 SC jug would have 60 Hits and room for 3 improvements.

Acceleration Rate

All jugs can accelerate at a base rate of 1 hex per turn. This can be improved by adding gears, sails, or magic.

Critical Damage Table

Deceleration Rate

Like Acceleration, All jugs can decelerate at a base rate of 1 hex per round. This can be improved by adding brakes, sails, legs, or magic.

Turn Rate

All jugs have a base turn rate of one 60 degree turn per round. This can be improved by adding steering equipment, legs, or magic.

Ramming

If a jug runs into another jug it is called a ram attack. The rammed jug takes damage from the ram.

Damage done by ramming to a side arc = $(D6 + \text{rammers SC}) \times (\text{Velocity of the rammer})$.

The D6 is called the Ram Roll. Both jugs will be reduced to 0 velocity but first the rammer will push the rammed jug = the remainder of its move - the targets SC.

Damage done by ramming the rear arc = $(D6 + \text{rammers SC}) \times (\text{Velocity of the rammer} - \text{Velocity of target})$. The rammed jug will be bounced forward 1D3 hexes. The rammers velocity will be reduced to the hexes it moved during the round to reach its target. Damage done by head on collisions: Treat as a side ram if the target doesn't have a ram. If both have rams then each takes damage as if hit by a side ram. Both jugs are reduced to 0 velocity unless one is destroyed, then the other drives through it at -1 velocity.

Collisions

If a jug hits an obstacle or a wall it will take damage as if hit by a side ram.

Terrain

Some hexes may contain forests, rubble, houses, or wreckage. These decrease velocity by 1 or more points every time they are entered.

Damage

Damage is recorded as lost hits. If a jugger is reduced to 0 hits it is destroyed. For every 20 points of damage a jug has lost roll on the:

1D6	Result
1	1 piece of equipment destroyed: attackers choice
2	1 piece of equipment destroyed: defenders choice
3-6	No effect

Turn Sequence

1- Initiative Phase 2- Movement Segments 3- End Phase

Initiative Phase

All players roll 1D10. Reroll all ties. The player with the highest roll has the highest initiative score. If it is a small battle each jugger may roll for initiative.

Movement Segments

The player with the highest initiative roll moves all of his juggers first. This is the first movement segment. The player with the next highest initiative moves his juggers second. This is the second movement segment. This continues until all players have moved all of their units. There are as many segments in a turn as there are players or sides. Players may declare attacks any time during their move or another players move.

Immediately stop movement and roll all attack rolls. When all players are done making attacks roll for damage, grab, fire, and topple effects for all attacks just made. The player may then continue moving the unit. Basically, a player should, during every hex that one of his units moves, count the number of mps the unit has used totally so far and ask if anyone wishes to make an attack. A weapon can only be used to attack once during a turn.

End Phase

This is basically a bookkeeping and rest phase. Start the round over at the initiative phase. If a goal was scored start the round over at the deployment phase.

The target can break the hold on a roll of 1-3 on D6 at the start of its Move Phase. The bigger jug can drag or push the smaller jug on following turns at a maximum velocity of 2 hexes per turn. Weapons that have grabbed on do damage every turn automatically.

Juggers At War

Juggers are the mainstay of all modern fantasy armies. Extra weapons not allowed in regulation juggerball are available during wartime. Some weapons are built and used by only certain races; these are listed in the exotic weapons table.

Oversize Weapons

A single weapon can take up more than one equipment space. Damage done by the weapon is multiplied by the size of the weapon. For example a size 3 trebuchet does 3 x 1D6 Damage. A size 4 Fire pump does 4 points of damage for 1D6 rounds.

Captains

Every Juggernaut has a captain to command it. All captains have at least 1 special ability. Captains with more than 1 special ability are known as legendary captains. A juggernaut does not need a captain to operate. Captain Special Abilities Table

1D10	Ability
1	Speed Demon: Jug gets +1 Acceleration
2	Cornering: Jug gets +1 Turn Rate
3	Balance: Jug avoids Topple on a roll of 1-3 on D6 and gets Decelerate+1
4	Tactics: Player gets +1 to initiative rolls
5	Artillerist: Jug gets +1 to hit with 1 missile attack per turn
6	Meleer: Jug gets +1 to hit with 1 close combat attack per turn
7	Evasion: Jug dodges 1 attack per turn on a roll of 1-2 on D6. If this is a ram attack move the jug 1 hex out of the way in any direction.
8	Damage Control: Put out 1 fire or reduce damage of 1 attack per turn by half on a roll of 1-3 on D6.
9	Mechanic: Repair 1D3 damage per round.
10	Luck: Player may reroll any 1 die roll affecting jug this turn.

Sample Legendary Captains

Morg Orgus Abilities: Speed, Meleer, Damage Control, Tactics, Evasion Morg is the chieftain of the Black Fang tribe in southern Garu Gak. His cunning and ferocity has resulted in the enslavement of many other tribes. His raids into elvish territory have all been successful. His tribe may soon be in position to capture HurGak.

Ballard Trevon Abilities: Balance, Luck, Artillerist, Tactics Ballard is a baron of the Meddian noble house of Trevon. This dashing fellow has earned himself a reputation as a duelist, a fornicator, and a field commander. He has led the Trevons to several victories against the orcs and the rival house of Eston.

Gavis Greybeard Abilities: Cornering, Mechanic, Evasion. Gavis is a veteran Battlemaster captain. He fought bravely during the Goblin wars. He is an honored guest in any clan hall.

Set Battles

Set battles are rules and suggestions for designing military engagements. Army Sizes: Each player gets X number of SC's to spend on an army per side. In a medium size battle each side gets 20 SC. A side may contain units from several different races.

Victory Conditions

The typical victory conditions of a set battle is the total destruction or rout of the enemy force. Other victory conditions might include: Occupying a strategic location on the map; Destroying a particular unit; Rescuing a unit; Breaking through enemy lines; Delaying the enemy; Escaping; Harassing or misleading the enemy.

Set Up

Usually, opposing armies will begin at opposite ends of a map. The set up can be changed to simulate ambushes, sieges, pursuits, encirclements, or other situations. The winner of the strategic roll may receive a sleight advantage in set up.

Leagues

Several players may wish to get together to form a league. Each player plays his army in set battles against all the other players at least once. League tournaments should include hierarchal rankings, titles, newsletters, referees, and prizes. Players may wish to resolve any rules ambiguities before serious competition begins.

Wizards

All races have wizards. However, only the elves and the voorlock have an abundant supply of them. Wizards will have 2D6 spells prepared for the battle. Roll on the spell table to see which ones.

Wizard Spell Table

Juggerball

Juggerball is a game played using Juggers and a very large ball. Playing fields vary according to the stadium. Almost all include some obstacles which cannot be moved through. A regulation juggerball team has 7 jugs on the field at a time. Regulation juggers are 3 SC. The winner is the first team to score 3 goals. Juggers starting locations are marked by X's on the map. Jugs cannot stop within 3 hexes of their own goal. After a goal the jugs automatically return to their starting locations and 1 jug may be replaced with a fresh undamaged jug. The game is similar to soccer.

Each team has a goal on its side of the field. The goal is a single hex.

The ball can only enter the hex through the 3 arcs facing the opponents goal.

The Bounce Table

D6	Direction of bounce:
1	180 degrees back the way it came
2	90 degrees to the right
3	90 degrees to the left

The Ball

The ball occupies one hex. When the ball is hit by a moving jug it will bounce in the direction hit a number of spaces equal to the velocity of the jug hitting it. When a moving ball hits an object it will bounce in a random direction, determined by the bounce table, to finish its move.

D6	Direction of bounce:
4	120 degrees to the right
5	120 degrees to the left
6	Caught: Dead stop

Pushing The Ball

If a jug that was at 0 velocity last turn moves toward an adjacent ball in front of the jugger this turn, the ball will be pushed and remain in the hex in front of the jug even when the jug turns. If the jug decelerates, the ball will not and will roll ahead 1D6 spaces.

Collisions

If a jug hits an obstacle or a wall it will take damage as if hit by a side ram. If a jug does a head on with a jug pushing the ball the ball will bounce out of a random side arc. Stone walls have 10D10 hits and can be destroyed.

Deployment Phase

This phase takes place at the start of battles and after goals. All players roll D10. Reroll all ties. The player with the lowest score sets his units up on the map first. The player with the next lowest score deploys his units next and so on. The scenario will specify areas where units can be placed. The term round is interchangeable with turn.

Equipment

Roll on the random improvement table for jugs on juggerball teams to see how they are equipped. Juggerball jugs are SC=3 so they can only have 3 improvements. Armor does not increase a jugs size class, only its number of hits. Legs, deflectors, and catchers can only get one improvement.

Random Improvement Table

D10	Improvement
1	Gears: Acceleration +1
2	Brakes: Deceleration +1
3	Steering: Turn Rate +1

D10	Improvement
4	Armor: Hits +20
5	Reinforced Ram: +1 to Ram roll
6	Legs: Deceleration +1 and Turn Rate +1.

The jug cannot ram but can kick in a forward arc for damage = 1D10 + the kickers SC. The maximum velocity of a legged jug is 5 hexes per turn. The jug can kick the ball an additional D6 spaces farther than it would normally go. The jug can kick the ball at a 30 degree angle. The jug can catch the ball in its facing hex and push it. 7-Deflector: The jug can bounce the ball at a 30 degree angle. Cannot be combined with legs. 8-Catcher: The jug can catch the ball in its facing hex and push it. Cannot be combined with legs.

9-10-Weapon: Roll on Standard weapon table.

Jump Wars

Introduction

Each player gets a set of counters of a unique color, plus one unique counter that designates their Homeworld.

Basic Technology List

Tech	Code
Initiative	I
Attack	A
Defense	D
Jump	J
Command	C
Logistics	L

The Map

Use a 10 X 10 Grid. (Square or Hex) The X and Y coordinates must be marked!

System Counters

There are 100 counters; one for each space on the map.

The Tech Deck

Players share a Common Deck. There are 2 types of Cards: Basic Technologies Special Technologies

Basic Technologies

There are 12 Basic Technologies. Each player starts with a level of 1 in each of the 12 Techs.

Tech	Code
Research	R
Manufacturing	M
Miniaturization	Z
Espionage	E
Trade	T
Diplomacy	Y

Special Technologies

Unlike Basic Techs, these do not have levels, either you have it or you don't.

- Ram Scoops = Gain 1 RT from every Nebula you occupy.
- Event Skimming = You may move through Black Hole Spaces.
- Nova Bombs = Instead of its normal attack, Sacrifice a Ship to have it do X damage to every Fleet (yours and enemies) in that space. X = your Attack Level.
- Cloaking = You get +2 Initiative on the first combat round in Fight Phase

- Space Raiding = If you have a Fleet adjacent to an opponents Cluster, that cluster generates 1 less RT.
- Assimilation = At end of a battle gain 1 Fleet for every 2 Fleets you destroy.
- Leadership = Once per turn you may increase the level of any 1 of your basic Techs by 1 for the duration of the Turn.
- Genesis = Gain 2 RT from every Star Field you occupy.
- Star Docks = You may build Fleets in any Star Field or Cluster you occupy.
- Time Jump = You may discard a card to Negate 1 order made by 1 target player this turn. You may do this a max of once per turn.

- Planet Jump = Your Homeworld has a Jump Level of 1. It can only be moved into adjacent Void Spaces.
- Progenitor Ruins = Discard this card in Draw Phase to draw 2 additional cards. You may use this card multiple times per game.
- Sabotage = Discard 1 Card from your hand to Discard 1 Target Fleet anywhere at the end of Build Phase.
- Positronic Brains = Once in Draw Phase you may pay 10 RT to draw 1 extra card.

Recording Tech

Players will need pen and paper to keep track of their levels in the Basic Techs as well as which Special Techs they have.

Setup

Each player picks a counter set. Players place their Homeworld counters onto the Map. A Homeworld occupies 1 space.

Players should space these as far apart from each other as possible. Next, randomly seed the remaining spaces with the System Counters. One System Counter per space.

(You may remove the Void Counters) The player who won the last game is the Start player. Each player starts with 5 Fleet Counters on their Homeworld.

Phase Order

Within a Phase, the Start player goes first and play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 8 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Trade Phase
3. Tech Phase
4. Mine Phase
5. Build Phase
6. Jump Phase
7. Fight Phase
8. Final Phase

Draw Phase

Each player draws 2 cards from the Tech Deck. Draw an extra card if you have the highest Research Level. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Trade Phase

Players may trade/gift Tech cards and Resource Tokens, as well as make promises and alliances. The player with the highest Trade level may steal a random card from any target opponents hand. The player with the Highest Diplomacy level may declare one target player as an ally. The Ally may not Jump Fleets onto the Diplomats currently occupied spaces.

Note: In all cases if 2 or more players tie for highest level then no one gets it.

Tech Phase

First: Each player discards one Tech Card from their Hand and increases their level in that tech by one. Alternatively, a player may discard one Special Tech Card from their Hand and gain that Special Ability. Second: Any player may discard 2 cards of the same type to increase their level in that tech by one. You cannot take a Special Tech if it would reduce the level of any of your Basic Techs to less than 1.

Mine Phase

Each player gains Resource Tokens (RT).

Gain 1 RT for each Star Field you occupy.

Gain 2 RT for each Cluster you occupy.

Gain 5 RT if you occupy your own Homeworld.

Gain 2 RT for each enemy Homeworld you occupy.

Gain 2 RT for every Tech card you discard.

Multiply the above Sum by your Manufacturing Level to get the total number of RT you gain. (For example: You occupy your Homeworld plus 3 Star Fields and you have a Manufacturing Level of 2. You would gain $2(5+3)$ RT = 16 RT)

Build Phase

Players may buy Fleets. A Fleet costs 4 plus your Attack and Defense Levels minus your Miniaturization Level. All Fleets start stacked on your Homeworld.

Jump Phase

All Movement is simultaneous. All players must write movement (Jump) orders. The orders are revealed at the same time.

An order moves 1 Fleet or a stack of fleets you control from one space to another space. You must include beginning and ending coordinates as well as the number of Fleets jumping in the Jump Order. A Fleet can only make one Jump per turn.

A player can only write a number of orders equal to 1+ his Command Level. A Fleet can only Jump a number of spaces equal to 1+ its Jump Level. The max number of Fleets in a stack that can jump together in one Jump is 5+ your Logistics level.

Jumps may be diagonal when using a square hex grid. You cannot Jump through or into a Black Hole. Orders that are nonsensical are negated.

The player with the highest Espionage level may cancel one of his orders and rewrite it after all other orders have been revealed. There are no stacking limits.

Fight Phase

If 2 or more opposing Fleets occupy the same space, there will be combat until only one side remains. The player with the highest Initiative assigns his damage first. If initiative levels are equal assignments will be simultaneous.

Damage is equal to the number of your Fleets present X your Attack Level. The attacker distributes the damage to enemy Fleets as he sees fit. A Fleet must be assigned damage equal to its Defense Level to destroy it.

If after all assignments have been made, fleets from 2 or more sides still remain, do an additional round of damage assignments. Damage is cumulative so after enough combat rounds, even Fleets with high Defense

Levels can be destroyed. Note a side is only considered to be the Defender if it already occupied the space in the previous turn.

When fighting at your own Homeworld your fleets get +2A and +2D.

Final Phase

Max hand size is 3 + your Research Level. All players discard excess cards.

Cutting Edge Tech Bonus Rule

At any time you may discard a Basic Tech card to increase your level in that Tech by 1 for the remainder of the Turn.

Jurassic Park Rescue

Introduction

Board Game for 2-4 + Players. Warp Quest Style Play. Based on the Jurassic Park Universe.

Disclaimer

Jurassic Park is a licensed, copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

Be the first Team to bring the kids Token back to the Visitor Center Without first being killed off.

The Board

The board is a map of the Island. Use a Chessboard, or make up a map. In one corner is the Visitor Center (Safe Start and End Zone).

In the opposite corner is the Kids Token. There will be 4 randomly placed Lakes. (Recommendation:

Place all 4 Lakes in the Middle 4 spaces) There will be 4 randomly placed Mountains.

There will be 4 randomly placed Valleys. Use Tiles to represent Lakes, Mountains, and Valleys.

The Kids Token

A player's Team will take possession of the Token when they Enter the same space as it.

Team Pawns

Each player has a pawn of a unique color to represent the Location of their Team on the map.

Dinosaur Figures

Six very small plastic Dinosaur Toys are needed. They must be able to fit nicely within the map Spaces. The six Figures represent the six results on the Random Dinosaur Table.

Random Dinosaur Table

1D6	Dinosaur:	Immunity:
1.	Velociraptor Pack	Run
2.	Lone Tyrannosaurus Rex	Block
3.	Spinosaur Pair	Hide

1D6	Dinosaur:	Immunity:
4.	Mini-Raptor Swarm	Shoot
5.	Pteradon Flight	Trap
6.	Herbivore Stampede	Distract

Dinosaur Immunities

Certain Escape Tactics will not work on certain types of Dinosaurs. These are noted on the Random Dinosaur Table. For instance, you cannot outrun the Velociraptors or block the T-Rex.

The Deck

Players share a Common Deck. The Deck has 7 types of cards: Hide, Run, Block, Trap, Shoot, Distract, and Special.

Teams

Each player starts with an 8 Member Team. Roll 8 times on the Team Table to get the composition of your team. Record your results and changes with paper and pencil.

During the game, you will lose and gain Team members.

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

Team Table

1D6	Team Member:	Notes:
4	Athlete	Run +1
5	Scientist	Hide +1
6	Tourist	Distract +1

Setup

Players each pick a Pawn and roll up their teams. Determine location of Lakes, Mountains, and Valleys on map. Determine Location of Visitor Center (VC).

Place the Kids Token opposite the VC. All Team Pawns begin at the VC. Place the 6 Dinosaur Figures randomly about the Map.

Do not place Dinosaurs adjacent to the VC. Shuffle the deck. Each player is dealt 5 random cards. Players roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases.

1. Equip Phase
2. Special Phase
3. Dinosaur Phase
4. Move Phase

Random Movement Table

1D6	Movement
1	Move 1 Space towards the nearest Team (Your choice if tied)
2	Move 2 Spaces towards the nearest Team (Your choice if tied)
3	Move 1 Space towards the Kids Token
4	Move 1 Space towards the VC
5	Move 1 Space (Your Choice)

Dinosaur Movement Restrictions

Movement must be orthogonal not diagonal. Only the Pteradons can enter Mountain spaces. Dinosaurs must stop upon entering Valleys.

Dinosaurs cannot enter Lakes. The Pteradon may fly over a Lake. Dinosaurs may not enter the VC.

Dinosaurs may not enter spaces occupied by other Dinosaurs. A Dinosaur may move into a space containing the Kid Token. If it does move the Kid Token to the nearest adjacent empty space.

When Dinosaurs And Teams Collide

If a Dinosaur enters the same space as a Team, the Team will be attacked. The Team must attempt to escape. An Escape attempt must use 1 Tactic. There are 6 Tactics to choose from: Shoot, Run, Hide, Trap, Block, and Distract.

The attacked player must choose 1 Tactic. Next, the player must make an Escape Roll using 2 Six-sided dice. Add up the total of the 2 Dice rolls.

Add to this the number of teammates with the matching tactic. Next, play (discard) up to 2 Tactics cards and add their bonuses. At least 1 of the Tactics

Equip Phase

Draw 1 Card from the deck and add it to your hand. If the deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Max hand size is 5 cards.

Special Phase

Special cards not meant to be used in other Phases may be Played (discarded) for their effects in this Phase.

Dinosaur Phase

Pick 1 Dinosaur by Random using the Random Dinosaur Table. Roll once on the Random Movement Table to determine how it moves.

cards played must match the chosen Tactic.

If the Total (Roll + Team bonuses + Card bonuses) is equal to or Greater than 12, then the Team escapes with no casualties. If the total is less, the Team loses a number of random Team members equal to the difference. If a team loses all its members, that player is out of the game.

After the Attack, the Team must retreat: Another player (Not the Team's owner) must move the Team's Pawn 1 space away. If you are attacked and you control the Kids Token roll 1D6: On a roll of 4+ you lose the Token. Place it in an empty space, 2 spaces away from your Team.

Move Phase

Move your Team Pawn 1 Space. Moves must be Orthogonal. You may play (discard) 1 special card to move the Team farther per The cards instructions. Normally teams cannot enter Mountains or Lakes.

Teams must stop upon entering Valleys. Teams cannot enter spaces occupied by Dinosaurs or other Teams. If you enter the space containing the Kids you take possession of it.

The Kids Token moves along with your Team Pawn.

A Mission is a hand of 7 cards that contains: 2 Primary Heroes 2 Minor Heroes 1 Villain 2 Complications Note: Your Mission cannot contain 2 copies of the same card. (for example: You can't have 2 Batman Cards) Note: You may substitute 1 Minor Hero with 1 Primary Hero.

The Board

The board is a Circular track of 24 Spaces:

Space	Name:	Notes:
1	Watchtower	Starting Space; Draw 1 Card or play 1 Hero

Pawns & Dice

A six sided die is needed. Each player gets a pawn of a different color.

Setup

Shuffle the Deck. Each player draws a hand of 3 cards. Players pawns start on the Watchtower.

Roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first. Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. First draw 1 card from the top of the deck and add it to your hand. On your turn roll 1 six sided die, and move your pawn that many spaces clockwise on the track.

If you land on an opponent's pawn, steal 1 card from his hand and add it to your own. If you land on a space that instructs you to play a card, place a card of the indicated Type on the table face up in front of you: These are your Mission cards. If you don't have the indicated card type, draw a card instead.

If you already have 2 cards of that type Out (or 1 of a Villain) do nothing. If the space instructs you to discard a card, target an opponent's mission card of that type. If there are none, target your own. If you have none, do nothing.

If the space instructs you to steal a card, move an opponent's mission card of that type Over to your mission cards unless you already have enough, in which case do nothing. Other board space results are self-explanatory.

Hero Tokens

You can spend these to change a move die roll by one.

Jutland

Introduction

WWI card game for 2 players. The indecisive battle of Jutland, May 31-Jun 1, 1916 (called Skagerrak by the Germans) involved more than 250 ships, and was the last great battle to be fought exclusively by surface ships.

The Deck

The common deck contains 52 cards. Both the British and German card lists are shuffled together. Cards must include the card name, fleet identification, and Force value.

Victory

Historically, both sides had reason to claim victory. The British lost 117,025 tons of ships. The Germans lost 61,180 tons of ships. The smaller German fleet proved superior in guns and armor.

However, the German fleet never set out to sea again to seek open battle. The player that sinks the greatest number of enemy big and small ships is the winner.

Turn Sequence

The game is played in 6 turns. Each turn is divided into 4 phases:

1. Sight Phase
2. Sail Phase
3. Strike Phase
4. Sink Phase

Sight Phase

Both players may discard some, none or all of their cards. Both players may draw replacement cards to fill their hands to 7 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Sail Phase

Both players may discard some, none or all of their cards. Both players may draw replacement cards to fill their hands to 7 cards.

Strike Phase

Both players simultaneously reveal the cards they are deploying this turn. Deployed cards are placed on the table face up. Players may deploy some, none, or all of their cards.

The turn number will determine which cards each player can deploy. The German player adds up the total force value of all the cards he deploys. The British player adds up the total force value of all the cards he deploys.

Players compare their force values. The higher force value wins. The British win ties.

All cards deployed are discarded into the discard pile.

Sink Phase

The turn number will determine the casualties suffered by each side. Record casualties. Big ships include Battleships and Battle Cruisers.

Small ships include Light Cruisers and Destroyers. Ship losses do not affect the composition of the deck, or players hands.

Turn 1: First Blood

Hipper, traveling north along the coast of Jutland, encounters Beatty, traveling south. The German player can only deploy Hipper or Fleet cards. The British player can only deploy Beatty cards.

The winner loses one small ship. The loser loses one big ship and 3 small ships. Historically, the Germans won this part of the battle.

Turn 2: Pursuit

Hipper is reinforced by Scheer. Beatty retreats to the north, pursued by the Germans. Only play the sight phase this turn.

Skip all the other phases.

Turn 3: Main Engagement

Beatty is reinforced by Jellicoe, traveling east. The British fleets cross the German van. The main engagement involves all 4 fleets.

The German player can deploy any German card. The British player can deploy any British card. The winner loses one big ship and two small ships.

The loser loses two big ships and 3 small ships. Historically, the British won this part of the battle.

Turn 4: Smoke

Under cover of smoke screens and destroyer torpedo attacks, the German Fleet moves southwest. The Germans are cut off from their ports. The German player can deploy any German card.

The British player can deploy any British card. The winner suffers no casualties. The loser loses 3 small ships.

Historically, the British won this part of the battle.

Turn 5: Darkness

The Germans force their way through the light forces at the rear of Jellicoe's line during a confused 4 hour night battle. The German player can deploy any German card. The British player can only deploy Jellicoe cards.

The winner loses one small ship. The loser loses one big ship and 4 small ships. Historically, the Germans won this part of the battle.

Turn 6: Escape

The Germans break through and head for home. Neither side can play Admirals or Battleships. The winner loses one small ship.

The loser loses 2 small ships. Historically, the Germans won this part of the battle.

Key Konquest!

Introduction

Fantasy board game for 2-6 players by Jason Newell.

Map & Cards

Click here for files.

The Story

Another boring day at the Heroes Guildhall. There's only so much pointless killing, looting and drinking one can do before it becomes boring. What's the solution? Find a reason to kill, loot and debauch! So you have decided to quest for the legendary Keys of Fate which will open the Door of Fate in the Tower of Fate (are we sensing a theme here?), which holds the wondrous Sceptre of... you guessed it, FATE! With this Sceptre you will be able to rule the kingdom, which will stave off the boredom for a while at least. Unfortunately, some of your "workmates" have had the same idea (talk about coincidence), so it is a race against each other to find the keys and rule your own destiny...

Muscle:	a measure of physical power
Whack:	ability and skill at arms
Magic:	mystical power
Guts:	strength of heart

Heroes, villains and some monsters also have Hits. These represent how much damage a they can take before they are killed.

Starting The Game

Each player is dealt 1 hero from the hero deck, the rest of the deck becomes the henchman deck. They then take the listed number of hit tokens, 1 gold token, and any listed equipment or spells from the respective decks. Each player then takes it in turn to place their hero on any of the Town spaces, 1 hero per space. Each player then draws 1 card from the quest deck, determining the dungeon they must reach to have their first quest. Then the game begins.

The Turn

The turn is divided into four segments:
Initiative Draw Quests Movement Encounter

or at least kill a few hours in the most violent ways possible.

Components

The map board (a hexmap of the continent) 2 six sided dice 20 card Hero Deck 28 card Spell Deck 25 card Artifact Deck 44 card Dungeon Deck 50 card Equipment Deck 15 card Villain Deck 12 card Quest Deck 114 card Adventure Deck 60 Hit tokens 60 Experience tokens 60 Gold tokens 20 tokens for each statistic. A playing piece for each player.

Winning

There are six magical keys in the artifact deck. In order to win the game, a player must find at least four out of the six keys and are on the Tower of Fate space at the beginning of the turn. If they achieve this, they have unlocked the power of the tower and win the game.

Statistics

All Heroes, monsters and villains have six statistics:

Muscle:	a measure of physical power
Sneak:	stealth and subterfuge
Luck:	plain fortune

Initiative

Each player rolls 1 dice and adds their Luck value. This determines in which order the players carry out their actions in the other two segments. It proceeds in descending order, rolling a dice to determine any ties.

Draw Quests

each player may draw a Quest card if they do not possess one.

Movement

In descending order, players move their pieces around the board. They roll 1 dice to determine the number of hex spaces they can move. they can move into any adjacent hex, and do not have to move their full allowance. Each space has a different move value, depending on what is in it:

SPACE	SYMBOL	VALUE
Plains	None	1
Forest	Trees	2
Mountains	Black mountains	2
Swamp	Weeds and marsh	2
Snow	White mountains	2

the value is the number of allowance points it takes to enter that space. If you don't have sufficient points remaining, you cannot enter the space. You may move into and/or through a space occupied by another player.

Encounter

This segment is divided into four phases: Territory, Questing, Battle, and Resolution. Each player resolves the encounter segment in initiative order.

Territory Phase

Unless a player choses to encounter another player in the same space, they must roll 1 dice on the specific territory table to see what they must do.

- 4-6 Nothing happens

Forest

Desert

Dungeon spaces are dealt with in the Questing phase. Towns are dealt with in the Resolution phase.

Once the roll has been made, apply the effects. Drawn monsters are dealt with in the battle phase, events are resolved immediately, and all other cards are dealt with in the Resolution phase.

Questing Phase

If a player ends their movement on the dungeon listed on their Quest card, they must, in this phase, draw a Dungeon card. They now count as Questing. A questing hero must, each turn in the Questing phase, draw a Dungeon card. If this card is a Confront Villain, they must fight them in the battle phase and, if successful, take an artifact card. Once this occurs, the hero is no longer questing, discard Quest card and hero may no longer draw dungeon cards until they reach the listed dungeon for their new quest. If they lose to the villain, the hero takes damage and is ejected from the dungeon, discard quest card. Cards are resolved as follows: Monsters and villains are fought in the battle phase, events and hazards are resolved immediately, all others are resolved in the resolution phase.

Hazards Compare the hero's relevant stat, plus any modifiers for equipment, spells or events to the listed requirement for the hazard. If the total is equal or greater, the hero passes without ill effect. If it is lower, apply the listed effects. Some Hazards have a special descriptor: Trap, Lock, or Passage. There are some cards and abilities that can affect such hazards if they have the corresponding descriptor.

Players only draw 1 dungeon card in this phase.

Battle Phase

A player fighting a monster, villain or other hero, conducts battle in this phase. Battle is fought in the following sequence: Roll for Stat Battle Rolls Resolve Fight

1	Muscle
2	Whack
3	Magic
4	Guts

Battle Rolls Roll a dice for the hero and the opponent. The Hero adds the roll to their relevant stat, plus any modifiers for equipment, spells or other effects. The opponent does the same.

A limit of three items can be used in a battle, only

Roll For Stat roll 1 dice to determine which stat will be used for the battle:

1	Muscle
5	Sneak
6	Luck

one of these can be a weapon, and only one can be armour. The highest score winning the battle.

Some monster and villains may receive additional modifiers

Modifier	Bonus
Terrain Bonus	If the monster has a listed terrain, they receive a +1 to their score when battling in that terrain.
Dweller	+1 to score if encountered in a dungeon
Deadly	Causes 2 Hits if victorious.
Tough	Monster has 2 hits
Spellcaster	May draw 1 spell card and apply its effects immediately if applicable.

Resolve Fight If a monster loses a fight, it is destroyed, and the hero gains the listed experience and 1 Gold token. Take that many experience tokens. A player may never have more than 10 such tokens. If a villain loses a fight, it loses 1 hit, and if this is enough to kill them, then the hero takes 5 experience and an Artifact card. If not, they must repeat the battle phase until the villain is dead. If a hero loses, they lose 1 hit and the battle is over.

If a hero defeats another hero, they may elect to take an item or gold from them instead of making them lose a Hit. In any event, once a battle is over, discard the monster or villain.

Resolution Phase

All cards that have not been resolved in this phase. Apply relevant effects. Heroes may, if they are on a Town space, visit the town. Here they may do one of the following:

Hire Henchman: they may draw 1 random henchman card at the cost of 5 Gold tokens Buy Spells: Hero may draw spell cards at a cost of 2 gold each. Heal: May heal hits at a cost of 1 gold each. Buy Equipment: Hero may buy any pieces of equipment in the equipment deck at the cost listed on the card.

Train: A hero may hand in 10 experience tokens to gain an increase in one of their stats. Take a relevant token as a reminder. A stat may not be increased more than three times.

Carousing: roll a dice

1: Beaten up. Lose 1 Hit
2: Drunken Stupor. Miss next turn
3: Fun Night Out. Enjoyable, but nothing happens.
4: Gamble. Roll again; 1-3 lose 1 gold, 4-6, gain 1 gold.
5: Yoink! Draw 1 Equipment card.
6: You're My Best Friend! Draw 1 henchman.

At the end of the last player's resolution phase, play returns to the Initiative segment, and if a player has 4 keys and is on the tower of fate, then the game is over and they win. Otherwise play continues as normal.

Henchmen

Henchmen are drawn from the remaining Hero Cards. They function like a hero, except their stats cannot be increased and they only have 1 hit. They may not carry any equipment of their own, but they increase a hero's carrying capacity by 1. A hero may substitute a henchman for themselves in battle, who may use any equipment the hero possesses, and may apply any modifiers listed on their hero card. Only 1 experience is gained from a henchman fight, regardless of the normal value, and henchmen may never fight villains. If they lose, then discard the henchman. If the hero is called upon to lose a Hit due to a territory roll or a hazard, they may elect to lose a henchman instead.

SWpells owned by a henchman may be used by the hero as normal, but they may not gain additional spells for the henchman (with the exception of the wizard, who may draw his spell as normal).

Equipment And Carrying Capacity

Equipment cards give heros the listed bonus(es) to the stat(s) on the card. They may combine any number of cards that they are carrying in this way. Heroes may only carry 6 items, and may only use 1 weapon and 1 armour card at a time, but any number of other cards.

Spells

A player may have spells only if their Magic score is sufficient for them to do so. You must have a Magic value of at least 3 to be able to have spells, and you may have a number of spell cards equal to half your magic value, rounding down. Spell cards list when a spell may be cast. Spells cast in battle stay in effect until the end of the battle. Spells are discarded after use.

Kill Gwen Stacy

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Gwen Stacy was Peter Parker's true love. In order to jack up the sales of their funny books Marvel decided it was a good idea to kill her off.

Sales did go up, as did fan outrage. Now heres a chance to redo comic book history but with a twist.

Note: This is not an original work; this is a reworking of the Warpspawn game "Kill Rasputin".

Disclaimer

Marvel Comics and its characters, as well as DC comics and it characters are a copyrighted, licensed property. This is merely a fan site.

Winning

Be the first player to kill Gwen.

The Deck

Players share a Common Deck. There are 5 card Types:

- Method
- Conspiracy
- Location
- Save
- Fate

Setup

Shuffle the Deck. The Deck is kept face down. Each player is dealt a hand of 5 cards.

The player who reads the most Spider-man comics goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 6 phases:

- Fate Phase
- Meld Phase
- Foil Phase
- Kill Phase
- Event Phase
- End Phase

Fate Phase

Draw 1 card from the deck and put it in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Meld Phase

If you have 2 or more of the same card in your hand you may make a Meld. Place the Meld cards face-up in front of you. For Example 2 Poison cards would be a Meld or 3 Palace cards would be a Meld.

You can only have 1 Meld of Method type cards in play. You can only have 1 Meld of Conspiracy type cards in play. You can only have 1 Meld of Location type cards in play.

If you later gain another card of a Meld you have in play, you may Add it to the Meld in this Phase.

Foil Phase

Other players may play Foil cards from their hands. A Foil card is a card that matches a card in one of your Melds. The Foil card and the matching Meld are discarded.

Any opponent may play (discard) a Save card. A Save card causes the target indicated Meld to be discarded. The Active player may play (discard) the Fate card to negate a Foil or Save card.

Kill Phase

If you have 3 Melds in play (1 each for Method, Conspiracy, and Location) you may Roll 3 six-sided dice (This is called the Assassination Attempt). If all 3 rolls are different numbers, you have killed Gwen Stacy and win the game. If 2 of the numbers match, you must discard 1 of your Melds of your choice.

If all 3 numbers match, you must discard all of your Melds.

Event Phase

Roll 1D6 if you did not play any cards in Meld Phase.

1D6	Result:	Notes:
1	Henchman captured	Look at target Opponent's hand (roll on superhero table!)
2	Clones	Trade Hands with Target Opponent

1D6	Result:	Notes:
5	Superhero attacks	Steal 1 Random card from Opponent's Hand (roll on superhero table!)

The character Gwen Stacy was killed, cloned, brought back, redone, retconned, retouched, rewrote, and generally misused by Marvel for several decades. To some of the fans, and I'm one, all they've managed to do was ruin something we liked very much and make comic books more like the Pulp Hero crime-fighters books they evolved from. Until the death of Gwen Stacy, the hero in the comics always rescued the damsel in distress. In one issue, 121, I think, he didn't. And comics were never the same again.

Kill Hitler

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. 1940-45. Players represent various elements of the German Resistance trying to assassinate Hitler.

Winning

Exact Building or Location the Fuhrer is currently in) Locale (Plot Card. City or Region the Fuhrer is currently in) Save (Events that Prevent an assassination) Action (Events with Special effects)

Dice

Six sided dice (D6) are needed.

Setup

Shuffle the Deck. The Deck is kept face down. Each player is dealt a hand of 5 cards. Roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 phases:

You may have a maximum of 1 of each type of Plot card in play.

Foil Phase

Any opponent may play (discard) 1 or more Save cards. A Save card causes the target indicated Plot card to be discarded. You may immediately play a Plot card from your hand to replace the card eliminated by the Save Card.

Kill Phase

If you have Complete Plot in play, roll 1 die for each of the 4 Plot cards. (This is called the Assassination Attempt). For each odd number you roll, discard 1 Plot card.

If all the rolls are even, the Attempt is a success, you have killed Hitler, and you win the game.

End Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Introduction

Board and Card game for 2-4+ players.

Game End

The game ends when players have gone through the deck 3 times. (2 times for a short game or 4 times for a long game) Alternatively, the Game ends when all the Land spaces on the Map are occupied.

Victory

When the game ends, the player with the most Tokens on the Board + Gold + Victory Points is the winner.

Gold

Use coins to represent Gold. Unowned coins are kept in a common pile. Each player has their own Stash of Gold Coins.

Tokens

Each player has a set of Clear Tokens of a unique color. Tokens are used to designate ownership of Counters.

Counters

Players share a common set of Counters. Counters represent Units on the Board such as Armies and Cities. Unowned Counters are kept in a common Bowl.

Each player has a set of counters that they have drawn but not played yet. This is called their Reserve.

Cards

Players share a Common Deck. Cards allow you to gain Gold, Draw and Play extra Counters, Move Counters, and Steal or Destroy enemy Counters. Each player maintains a hand of cards.

The Map

The Map is divided into spaces (irregular or regular squares or hexes). Each space contains 1 Terrain Type. There are 8 Terrain Types: Plains (Fields, Plateau) Yellow Forest (Woods, Jungle, Oasis) Green Mountains (Craggs, Peaks, Cliffs, Volcano) Grey Hills (Broken Lands) Brown Swamp (Marsh, Bog, Fen) Aquamarine Water (Sea, Rivers, Lakes) Blue Desert (Bad Lands) Orange Tundra (Frozen Wastes) White

Adjacency And Control Rules

Any 2 spaces that share a border are adjacent. If you have a Token on a Counter you own that Counter. A Counter may only have one Token on it.

Counters in adjacent spaces are adjacent. Whenever you place a Counter on the Board place one of your Tokens on top of it to indicate ownership. Counters may not Stack. Only 1 Counter per Space.

You Control (Own) any space Occupied with a Counter with One of your Tokens on it.

Placement Rules

Villages and Cities are collectively referred to as Settlements. Villages and Temples can be placed on all Terrains except Water. Cities can be placed on Plains and Hills.

Mines can be placed on Mountains, Deserts, and Hills. Castles can be placed on Mountains, Hills, Forests, and Plains. Armies, Caravans, and Priests are collectively referred to as Ground Units.

Ground Units cannot be played into or end their moves on Water Spaces. Ships must be played into Water Spaces and Remain in Water Spaces.

Setup

Put all the Counters in a Bowl. Have all the Gold available in a Pile. Shuffle the Deck.

Each player gets a set of Tokens of a unique color. Deal each player a hand of 5 cards. Players randomly determine who goes first.

Each player gets one Village Counter. Players take turns placing their Village Counters onto the Board (with one of your Tokens on it) You cannot place your starting Village within 3 spaces of an Opponent's village.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Turn order proceeds clockwise. Each Turn has 6 Phases:

1. Supply Phase
2. Draw Phase
3. Build Phase
4. Action Phase
5. Gold Phase
6. End Phase

Supply Phase

Draw 2 Counters from the Common Bowl. Add them to your Reserve.

Draw Phase

Draw 2 Cards from the top of the Deck. Add them to your Hand. If the Deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Keep track of how many times the Deck has run out for this Signals the Game End.

Build Phase

Play 1 Counter from your Reserve onto the Board. It must be placed in a Space adjacent to a Space you control. Place one of your Tokens onto the Counter you just placed.

Action Phase

You may play cards from your hand. These have a variety of effects depending on the exact card text. Place Played cards into a common Discard pile.

When a Card makes Gold, only you make Gold, not your Opponents. Destroyed Counters are placed back into the Bowl and the owning Player takes back his Token. When a card says to take Control of an opponent's counter, remove his Token and replace it with one of your own.

When moving a Unit, it may move to any adjacent space it can Normally occupy. When Moving Units they may not go out of contact with your other Counters. They must stay adjacent. When you Steal Gold (not make it) take it directly from the targeted Opponent's stash.

Gold Phase

You may use Gold for the following effects: Pay 2 Gold to draw one random Counter from the Pile. Pay 4 Gold to Put 1 Counter from your Reserve into Play. Pay 1 Gold to Discard 1 Counter from your Reserve and Draw another.

Pay 2 Gold to Draw 1 card from the Deck and add it to your Hand. Pay 3 Gold to gain 5 Victory Points

End Phase

Max Reserve Size is 5 Counters. Discard excess Counters. Max Hand Size is 5 Cards. Discard excess Cards.

Kings Men Backgammon

Introduction

Backgammon Variant. Wargaming Elements. Medieval Theme.

Victory

Destroy the opposing King.

The Board

Use a Regular Backgammon Board.

Dice

Six sided dice are used.

The Men

Pieces or Men are Unique. See the unit list. Use Miniatures or counters for Men.

Damage

Use counters to keep track of damage. Stack counters underneath a wounded unit.

Setup

Each player starts with 12 Men: 1 King, 2 Knights, and 9 other Men. You have 40 points to spend on the 9 other Men. Place 5 of your men on the last point of your Home Board.

Place 4 of your men on the second to last point of your Home Board. Place 3 of your men on the third to last point of your Home Board. Roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first.

Unit List

Unit Name	Cost	Hits	Attack	Special Ability:
King	*	5	2	None
Knight	(8)	4	3	Move Far
Archer	5	2	1	Shoot Twice
Powder Keg	3	1	5	Bomb
Crossbowman	5	2	2	Shoot
Yeoman	5	2	1	Shoot Far
Bowman	4	2	1	Shoot

Rules Of Play

(Rules that directly contradict regular Backgammon rules are in brackets) Players take turns. On your turn roll 2 dice. A player must use both numbers.

Units always move towards the opponent's home board by way of the outer boards as in Regular backgammon. (When a man reaches the end he does not bear off, instead he moves back into his own Home board (pieces continually circle the board)) (A Man can move using only one die roll not two (unless it has the 'Move Far' ability)) A Piece may land on a point containing one (or more) enemy units. (Units do not get sent to the Bar.) When a unit lands on a point with enemy units it does damage equal to its attack rating.

The defender distributes this damage to his units. Use counters to indicate damage. A unit with more damage counters than hits is destroyed (captured) A destroyed unit is removed from play.

Note that defenders do not inflict damage. A Unit may move if it shares a point with enemy units. If a double is rolled, roll again and use all rolls this turn.

Special Abilities

Some units will have special abilities: Move Far: the unit may combine 2 dice rolls into a single move (not 2 moves) Shoot: instead of moving the unit with the die-roll, the unit shoots a missile that distance. The missile does damage equal to the unit's Attack rating. Shooting is always in the same direction as the unit moves.

Units that shoot do no damage when moving, only when shooting. Shoot Far: combine 2 dice roll into a single shooting attack. Shoot Twice: The unit may shoot twice per turn using two dice.

Bomb: the unit destroys itself when it attacks. Shoot Fast: The Unit can move & shoot in the same turn.

Unit Name	Cost	Hits	Attack	Special Ability:
Slinger	3	1	1	Shoot
Footman	2	1	1	None
Shieldman	5	4	1	None
Swordsman	5	3	2	None
Guard	3	2	1	None
Axeman	6	3	3	None
Berserker	4	1	3	None
Spearman	4	2	2	None
Pikeman	5	2	3	None
Catapult	5	1	2	Shoot Far
Horseman	5	2	2	Move Far
Lancer	6	3	2	Move Far
Scout	3	1	1	Move Far
Horse Archer	4	1	1	Shoot Fast
Rogue	3	1	2	None

Notes

Other special abilities (& units) possible: Move twice, Move Backwards, Shoot Backwards, Defender does damage, Attacker distributes damage, etc. Magic using units & Spells possible.

Kings Of Hyboria

Introduction

Live and fight as a King of Hyboria!

The Map

Many Conan Novels have a Complete Map of Hyboria after the Table of contents. In this game each country is also referred to as a territory or region. You may want to divide large territories into two or more smaller regions.

Individual cities may also be counted as being their own region. Areas of Water may also be divided into lesser regions. Map of Hyboria

Unit Name	Move	Init.	Attack	Chits	Notes
Army	1	1	8	30
Elite	1	2	6	20
Hero	2	5	4	10
Wizard	2	4	4	10
Monster	2	3	5	5	Attack twice per Battle Phase
Ships	2	3	6	10
King	2	5	4	1
Fortifications	0	0	0	15

Move Maximum number of regions unit can move in Move Phase

Initiative = Determines order of attack Attack = Minimum number that must be rolled to destroy a unit in Battle Chits = Number of counters in a set. A player can recruit no more.

Set Up

Thumb wrestle to determine turn order. Each player starts with 1 King and 1 Army in any region on the Map. Place 1 neutral army on every unoccupied territory.

Neutral armies do not move. A Neutral army must be destroyed to gain control of a territory.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 Phases:

- Fate Phase
- Hero Phase
- Wizard Phase
- Recruit Phase
- Move Phase

Pieces

Use cardboard counters for pieces or as tokens. Each player needs a set of counters of a unique color. Each counter set must include the following 8 Unit Types: Army, Elite, Hero, Wizard, Monster, Ships, King, Fortification Generic (non-player specific) Counters are also needed to represent: Gold, Divinations, Storms, Curses, and Relics.

A set of Neutral Armies are needed.

Dice

Dice of several sizes are required.

Unit Types

There are only several unit types:

- Battle Phase
- Plunder Phase

Fate Phase

If a territory has Storm tokens on it, discard one. If a territory has Curse tokens on it, discard one.

Hero Phase

Each Hero rolls once on the Heroic Actions Table Max three rolls per region.

Wizard Phase

Each Wizard rolls once on the Wizard Magic Table. Max three rolls per region.

Recruit Phase

You control any region one of your units occupies and no enemy unit occupies. For each country you completely control, roll once on the corresponding Recruit Table. A Gold Token may be discarded to get an extra roll in a territory you control.

3 rolls max per region per turn. Regions with storm or curse tokens may not recruit.

Move Phase

There are no stacking limits. Your units may move into but not through spaces occupied by opponents. Units may not move into, out of or through a space with a storm token.

Only Ships may move in Water. Each Ship may carry one Army, Elite, Hero, or Wizard.

Battle Phase

If opposing units occupy the same region they will fight. A battle is divided into rounds. Rounds are further divided into Segments: Hero Battle Action Segment Wizard Battle Spell Segment Attack Segment

Hero Battle Action Segment

Each hero present may roll once on the Battle Action Table. The King for all purposes is considered a Hero.

Wizard Battle Spell Segment

Each Wizard present may roll once on the Battle Spell Table.

Attack Segment

Units from all sides may attack. The unit with the highest Initiative Rating may attack first and so on. Attacks by units with the same Initiative rating are simultaneous.

For each attack roll 1D10. If the roll is equal to or higher than the Attack Rating of the unit attacking, one casualty is inflicted. The defender chooses which of his units are destroyed.

Fortifications are lost first. After all surviving units have attacked, the round ends. One of the sides may chose to retreat to an adjacent territory they control or a new round starts.

Rounds continue until only one side occupies the region.

Plunder Phase

If the Defender is driven out or destroyed, the attacker gains 1 Gold. If your King is killed, one of your other Heroes becomes the new king. Except for the new King and the units stacked with it, all your other units are discarded, or if they are Armies, they become neutral.

Kings Of The Hittites

Introduction

Bidding Game for 3-6+ players. Theme: The Hittite Kingdom circa 1750 - 1180 BC.

Victory

The player with the most Victory Points (VP) at the end of the game wins. The Game ends at the end of the turn the 10th King card is played.

The Decks

Players share 2 common decks: The Power Deck
The Empire Deck

The Power Deck

These are the cards you bid with.

The Empire Deck

These are the cards you bid for.

Victory Points

Use Coins to keep track of Victory Points (VP).

The Kings Seal

This determines Bidding Order.

Setup

Each player is dealt 3 Power cards. Randomly give one player the Kings Seal. That player must discard 1 Power card.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 5 Phases:

1. Gold Phase
2. Flip Phase
3. Bid Phase
4. Event Phase
5. King Phase

Gold Phase

Each player draws 1 Power card. If the Power deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Flip Phase

Flip over the Top card of the Empire Deck. Place it face up in the Middle of the Table. It is now a Treasure card.

Bid Phase

If the Empire card flipped over was a War or a King card there will be a Bid. There will also be a Bid if there are no more cards left in the deck. Starting with the Player to the left of the player with the Kings Seal and going clockwise, players bid 1 or more Power Cards. Each total bid must be higher in total Gold value than the last, or the player must pass.

When all players have passed but one, that player wins the Bid. The Winner gets all the Face up Treasure cards on the Table. He moves them in front of himself. They are now his Permanent Cards.

The Winner must discard all Power cards he used to win the Bid. All other players keep their power cards. The winner of a King Bid takes possession of the Kings Seal.

If the highest Bid for a War is less than 15 Gold no one wins the Bid. The Hittites lose the War and the player with the Kings Seal loses 1 City. The Treasure cards remain in play. If no one bids on a King Bid all Treasure cards are discarded. If a King or War card did not come up, and there are at least 3 Treasure cards in play, any player may declare a Rebellion. A Rebellion starts a Bid. The Player who called for the Rebellion must begin the bidding with a minimum bid of 10 Gold.

Military cards are worth +2 Gold in War Bids. Politics cards are worth +2 Gold in King Bids. Get +2 to your War Bids for each Vassal you control.

Event Phase

Discard a Rebellion card. Target opponent must discard 1 Military card or 1 Vassal card. Discard a Raid card. Target player must discard 1 Military card or 1 Economics Card or 1 City card. Discard 2 Economics cards to gain Control of 1 discarded City card.

Discard 2 Religion cards to take a Culture Treasure card and move it to your Permanents. Discard 2 Diplomacy cards to take a Vassal Treasure card and move it to your Permanents. Discard a Plague card to make all other players discard 1 Economics card or 1 City card.

Discard a Famine card to cause all Treasure cards (not Permanents) to be discarded.

King Phase

Gain 1 Victory Point if you have the Kings Seal.

End Phase

Max hand size is 7 Power cards. Discard excess cards. Max hand size is increased by 1 for each city you control.

End Of Age Scoring

The game is divided into 3 Periods: Old Kingdom, Middle Kingdom, New Kingdom. The Old Kingdom ends when the 4th King card is played. The Middle Kingdom ends when the 7th King card is played. The New Kingdom ends when the 10th King card is played.

Score as follows at the end of each period: Each War card is worth 50 Victory Points. The player with the most Kings gets 25 VP. Each City is worth 20 VP. Each Vassal is worth 10 VP. The player with the most Vassals gets 20 VP. Your first Culture card is worth 5 VP. Your second Culture card is worth 10 VP. Your third Culture card is worth 15 VP. Your fourth and Culture card is worth 20 VP and so on. Each pair of Copper & Tin cards is worth 10 VP. At the beginning of Middle and New Kingdom all players discard all of their War, Copper & Tin cards.

Kit Carson

The KIT CARSON card game. Rev 10.23.04

Introduction

A strategic solo card game in the life & times of the legendary Kit Carson. A multi-player version of the game is described in appendix D.

Victory

I: Live long enough to own 25 beaver pelts.

II: or Play for high score (fewest turns to victory)

Pelts cached, traded, stolen, or lost do not count towards your victory total.

Components

- 1-standard deck of playing cards (frontier expansion deck), discard jokers
- 1-standard deck of playing cards (frontier adventure deck), keep 1 joker

#	Cat
1	Mountain-Men
2	Trappers, Prospectors, Soldiers
3	Guns, Powder, Ammo
4	Food & Water

Category 2 will be either all trappers, prospectors, or soldiers you can not mix them. Categories 1 through 6 have a maximum value of eight (8), excess points are discarded. When mountain-men drops below zero (0) you start over with a new character.

Turn Sheet

The turn sheet records weeks 1-52 and indicates the time of year.

Lives	Trappers	Horses	Mules	Guns	Food	Movement
-	5	5	-	5	5	-

War

Use the following chart to determine attack strength (number of dice to roll): Do not include injured horses or injured men when determining attack strength. If there are fewer horses than men then use the numbers in the chart below to prioritize who fights on horseback and who fights on-foot. Apply the multiplier to each man of each type:

- 1-roll of pennies (or tokens)
 - 6-nickles
 - 2-dimes
 - 1-pawn
 - 1-player sheet
 - 1-turn sheet
 - 2-standard 6-sided dice (preferably red & white)
- This game requires a large playing surface!

Player Sheets

The value of a box with no tokens is zero (0). Beaver pelts are recorded in the pelt box using assorted coins (dimes, nickels, pennies). Injured trappers, prospectors, soldiers, horses & mules are recorded with a 2nd token.

A 2nd token is often required to record distance travelled (distance=sum of both tokens) Otherwise all information on the player sheet is recorded using 1 token per category:

#	Cat
5	Horses
6	Mules (pack animals)
7,8	Distance Travelled

Setup

The frontier starts out with 1-row and 6-columns of expansion cards. Draw six (6) cards from the expansion deck and arrange them face-down as follows:

d d d d d d

Place your pawn above column one (1). Place a token on week 1 on the turn sheet. Record the following starting values on your player sheet:

#		HORSEBACK	ON-FOOT
1	SOLDIER	x3	x2
2	MOUNTAIN-MAN	x3	x3
3	TRAPPER	x2	x1
4	PROSPECTOR	x1	x1

Roll the attack dice, every one (1) rolled indicates your men killed one (1) enemy. Attacks are simultaneous... Roll the attack dice using one (1) die per enemy existing prior to your attack.

Every one (1) indicates that one of your horses or men was hit, roll a die for damage:

D6	Result
1	horse injured
2	mountain-man injured
3	trapper/pro prospector/soldier injured

If there are no men or horses left and you rolled a five (5), you are dead. Otherwise if you roll a category without a token reroll until you can apply damage. If the enemy had more men than you did and no one was killed add or advance a coin other than a penny to record +1 mountain men to maximum of eight (this extra mountain-man can not be used until after the battle is over).

If you wish to continue the fight: Reduce ammo by 1 (one) if you are not travelling with soldiers. Continue to fight, repeat the above steps.

Flee

If there are still enemies out there you can flee and move to the last expansion you occupied and draw another event card. Place coins on the top of the expansion card to represent the original number of enemies you encountered.

Recruit

Kit Carson's legend grows, mountain-men added during the battle are officially recorded.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns

1. Scout (Explore New Frontier)
2. Move (Blaze-Trail; Western Expansion)
3. Cache (Hide pelts)
4. Indians (Hostile Indian Territory)
5. Events (Soldiers, Trappers, Indians, Horse Thieves)
6. Trap (Beaver, Fox, Mink)
7. Hunt (Bison, Bear, Antelope, Elk, Deer)
8. Trade (Barter for food, mules, horses & guns)
9. Seasons (Advance the turn marker through spring, summer, fall, & winter)
1. SCOUT

Any card face-down and adjacent to the player's pawn is turned up. Draw two (2) expansion cards the 1st face-down, the 2nd face-up. Roll a red die for the 1st card and a white die for the 2nd card.

The value on each die determines the column number for each expansion card. Compare the # cards in the column rolled to the # of cards in the adjacent column(s). Place the new expansion card in the column rolled and adjacent to the last card in the column with the most cards (see Appendix A for an example).

2. MOVE

Each player starts each turn with 10 MOVES. Subtract 1 MOVE point for every injured trapper. Subtract 1 MOVE point for every trapper without a healthy horse.

D6	Result
4	horse killed
5	mountain-man killed
6	trapper/pro prospector/soldier killed

Expansion Card Movement Costs

The number of MOVES required to pass through an expansion card is equal to the value of the card itself (Aces=1, Face cards=10) multiplied by number(s) in the chart below: Use the highest compared value:

- If you own mules compare the FOOT column.
 - If you do not own horses compare the FOOT column.
 - If you own horses compare the HORSE column.
- LAND HORSES FOOT WINTER - DIAMONDS x1 x2 x2 (prairie) SPADES x1 x2 x1 (desert) CLUBS x5 x4 x2 (mountains) HEARTS x2 x3 x1 (rivers/lakes) If you are traveling with PROSPECTORS (supply wagons) multiply the result by 2. If it is WINTER multiply the result by the winter multiplier. If you have enough MOVES to pass through then you can advance to any adjacent card. If you advance to an adjacent card remove any tokens in the distance travelled box. You can continue moving from card to card as long as you have MOVES remaining. Otherwise use your player sheet to record how far you travelled into the expansion card.

Uncharted Territory (face-down)

If you move into an expansion card that is face-down you must use at least 1 MOVE, but you have the option of turning around and returning to the expansion card from which you just came. Although you will have to use the full number of MOVES again to pass back through that card.

Featured Expansion Cards (aces)

Aces in the expansion deck follow the rules above, but have additional characteristics: DIAMONDS Trading Post SPADES Taos (Kit's home town) CLUBS Fort Hall HEARTS Summer Rendezvous (just an ordinary card any other season)

Staying At Featured Expansion Card (aces)

If you are on an ace expansion card and did not move this turn you may:

Increase food by one (1) if it is below five (5).

Increase ammo by one (1) if it is below five (5). Recover from one (1) injury.

3. CACHE

You may hide (bury) your pelts for later retrieval. Pelts cached do not count toward your victory total, however, if you retrieve them they do. Place coins representing the number of pelts you wish to cache under the expansion card.

When you wish to retrieve your pelts roll: 1,2 Pelts are missing (stolen) 3-6 You find all your pelts intact.

4. INDIANS

If you move into hostile Indian territory (coins at the top of a land card): Roll 2 dice, if the total is less than or equal to the number of Indians then fight. See the

CARD	Descr
ACES	Hostile Indians
HEARTS	Friendly Indians
DIAMONDS	Horse Thieves
BLACK JACKS	Trappers (fur company)

Hostile Indians

Draw the next card in the deck. If it is an ace or face-card discard it and continue to draw until you get a number card. The number value on the card represents the number of Indians.

Fight (see WAR section).

Friendly Indians

See TRADE section.

#	Result
1	Horse thieves got away.
2,3	Retrieve your horses without incident (stealth).
4-6	Fight (see WAR section)

Trappers

Roll 1d6 this is the number of trappers encountered. You may join the new group and discard any trappers, prospectors or soldiers. Your current group of trappers (if you have any) may join the new group.

You may go out on your own.

Prospectors

Roll 1d6 this is the number of prospectors encountered. You may join the new group. You may go out on your own.

Soldiers

Roll 1d6 this is the number of soldiers encountered. You may join the new group. Your current group of soldiers (if you have any) may join the new group.

LAND	FALL/SPRING	SUMMER	WINTER	-
DIAMONDS	0	0	-2	(prairie)
SPADES	-4	-6	-4	(desert)
CLUBS	+1	+1	-3	(mountains)
HEARTS	+2	+2	-2	(rivers/lakes)

Roll the hunt dice, every one (1) indicates you found sufficient food & water this turn. Otherwise reduce your food/water by one (1).

If food/water is reduced below zero a trapper/pro prospector/soldier is injured.

If all trappers/prospectors/soldiers are already injured then a mountain man is injured.

If all of you men are already injured then a trapper/pro prospector/soldier is dead.

5. EVENT

Draw a card from the event deck, if you draw an ace or a face-card an event has occurred:

CARD	Descr
BLACK QUEENS	Prospectors (supply company)
BLACK KINGS	Soldiers (U.S. Army)
JOKER	Captain Shunan (French bully)

Horse Thieves

Roll 1d6 this is the number of horses stolen. Draw the next card in the deck. If it is an ace or face-card discard it and continue to draw until you get a number card.

The number value on the card represents the number of horse thieves. You may pursue the horse thieves:

You may go out on your own.

Captain Shunan

If you have mountain men one (1) becomes injured in fight with Captain Shunan. If you do not have mountain men one (1) of your trappers/prospectors/soldiers is injured. Increase your mountain man category by one (1).

Once used remove the Joker from play.

6. HUNT

If you are in Taos, at a fort, a trading trading post, meeting with friendly Indians or at the rendezvous in the summer you can skip the hunt phase. Otherwise the number of hunt dice equals the number of healthy men in your group. Modify the number of hunt dice using the chart below:

per/pro prospector/soldier is dead.

If all of your trappers/prospectors/soldiers are already dead then a mountain man is dead.

If all of your mountain men are already dead then Kit is dead, start with a new character.

7. TRAP

If you are on a HEART (river/lake) expansion card and did not move this turn you may trap. A beaver tail (a penny tails-up) at the bottom of a HEART expansion card indicates that the area has been trapped before. Beaver population=(card value)-(beaver tails) Number of available pelts=(beaver population)-(number of trappers in your group) Roll 1d6 for every trapper.

One (1) indicates success, add a beaver tail to the card and a pelt to your player sheet. You may carry 1 pelt per trapper, 2 pelts per horse, and 4 pelts per mule. Excess pelts are discarded.

8. TRADE

You may trade pelts for horses, mules, guns and/or food. The following table shows how many of each type of item you can get per pelt.

	GUNS	FOOD	HORSES	MULES
RENDEZVOUS	3	3	3	3 (only active in the summer)
TRADING POST	2	2	2	2
SUPPLY COMPANY	2	2	1	1
FORT	2	0	1	0
TAOS	1	1	0	1
INDIANS (friendly)	0	1	1	0

9. SEASONS

Advance the turn token 1 square.

Appendix A

Example of frontier expansion: Assume you start your turn with the following land map:

uuuddd

. u

. d

You roll 5 on the red die (add a card face-down under the last card in column 5):

uuuddd

. u

. d

. d

You roll 4 on the white die Since column 5 has more cards than column 4... the card is placed face-up in column 4 adjacent to the last card in column 5:

uuuddd

. u

. d

. ud

In these rules the word adjacent does not include diagonal.

Knaves & Knights

Introduction

Fantasy Chess where dice determine moves and cards determine capture.

Object

Destroy, Capture, or Control all of your opponents Pawns.

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

The Board

Use a standard 8 x 8 chessboard.

Pawns

Each Player begins play with a set of 16 Pawns. There are 8 types of pawns. A set has 2 of each type of pawn.

The 8 types of pawns include: Knave, Beauty, Royalty, Knight, Sorcerer, Monster, Army, and Castle. Use counters or figurines to represent pawns.

Setup

Place your pawns on your back 2 rows anyway you like. The two starting Castles must be placed in the corners. White goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases: Escape Phase Action Phase Draw Phase Move Phase

Escape Phase

Roll one six sided die for every one of your captured pawns. On a roll of 1 the pawn is freed and is no longer captured.

Card List

Card Name:	User:	Target & Effect:
Seduction	Beauty	Control Man
Betrayal	Beauty	Destroy Man

Action Phase

You may play cards during this phase. All cards played are discarded. Cards can only be used by the appropriate type of Pawn.

The target of a card must be orthogonally adjacent to the pawn using the card. Cards produce several types of effects: Destroy = The target is removed from play. Capture = The target cannot move or use cards.

Indicate capture by flipping over the pawn or laying it on its side, or marking it. Control = You take control of opponents pawn. Indicate new ownership by switching the pawn with one of yours of the same type.

Convert = One pawn type into another.

Spy Look at opponents hand.

Gain You gain an extra pawn of the indicated type. Place the new pawn next to the pawn that used the gain card. A new castle may not be placed next to another castle. Transport = Place the pawn using the card on any open space on the board.

Draw Phase

Draw 3 cards. Maximum hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Move Phase

Roll one six sided die. The result is the number of Move Points you get for this phase. You may move a pawn one space at a cost of one move point.

Moves may be orthogonal or diagonal. You may move a single pawn multiple times in this phase. You may move more than one pawn in this phase.

Move Points cannot be saved from turn to turn. Castles may not move.

Man Pawns

For purposes of card targeting some pawns are considered to be Man pawns: Knights, Knaves, Royalty, and Sorcerers.

Victory

Be the first to accumulate 100 Mission Points.

The Decks

There are 2 Common Decks: The Mission Deck & The Kids Deck. The Kids deck contains 4 Card Types: Basic Agents, Allies, Events, and Tech Cards.

Mission Cards

Each Mission card has a point value (PV). This PV is a measure of both how difficult the Mission is to accomplish and How much the Mission is worth in determining Victory.

Basic Agents

These are the 5 main Characters of the show, Numbuh 1 to Numbuh 5.

Setup

Each player is dealt 4 cards. Flip over the top card of the Mission Deck: This is the first Mission. The goofiest looking player goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:

- Draw Phase
- Action Phase
- Mission Phase
- Threat Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 2 cards from the Kids Deck & put them in your hand. Next Discard 1 card from your hand. If the Kids Deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Action Phase

You may play Event cards in this Phase.

Mission Phase

You may play cards from your hand to complete the current Mission. The cards played must have a total point value equal to or greater than the Point value of the Mission card. The cards played are referred to as the Mission Team.

A Mission Team can only have one copy of each of the 5 Basic Agents. (For example, the Team cannot have 2 copies of Numbuh 1) Note that a Team must contain at least one Basic Agent. Set the completed Mission aside in your Mission Accomplished Pile.

Discard all Mission Team cards at the end of the phase.

Threat Phase

If you completed a Mission this turn, flip the next card over in the Mission deck. This becomes the current Mission. If you completed a Mission this turn, draw a reward of 2 cards. Max hand size is 10 cards. Discard excess cards.

Skirmish Game based on the Star Frontiers Space Combat system Knight Hawks.

Disclaimer

Star Frontiers is a licensed, copyrighted product. This is merely a fan site.

Victory

Objectives are scenario dependent.

Factions

There are 2 main Factions:

1. UPF = United Planetary Federation (Alliance of 4 Races).

Ship List

Name:	Hits	SDP	Notes:
Fighter	1	1	Fighter
Assault Scout	2	2	Small
Frigate	3	3	Small
Destroyer	4	4	Medium
Light Cruiser	5	5	Medium
Heavy Cruiser	6	6	Large

SDP Scenario Design Points

Stacking Limits

There is no limit to the number of ships that may stack in the same space.

Formations

Some or all of your ships in a single space may be moved together using A single Move card.

Fighters

- Fighters have no star drives and require a base such as a Carrier or Space Station.
- All fighters have only one weapon system: Assault Rockets.
- To attack with assault rockets the fighter must be stacked with the Target enemy ship, then discard ANY attack card to make the attack.
- The fighter is then automatically returned to its base and cannot move or make another attack on its next turn.

2. Sathar Empire

Other Factions are Possible:

3. Mercenaries
4. Pirates
5. Home Defense Fleets

The Map

Use an 8 X 8 square grid (chess board)

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

Units

Use counters or miniatures to represent ships.

Name:	Hits	SDP	Notes:
Assault Carrier	7	5	Large
Battleship	8	8	Large
Dreadnaught	10	10	Huge
Space Station	12	7	Huge
Civilian Ships	1-6	0-2	Small - Large

- Assault rockets are considered to be of the explosive type.

Assault Scouts

Sathar do not have Assault Scouts. Small ships can make a max of 1 attack per turn. Assault scouts cannot use Cannon Attacks.

A favorite of explorers and adventurers.

Frigates

Small ships can make a max of 1 attack per turn. A favorite of Pirates.

Destroyers

Destroyers are a favorite of the Sathar. Medium ships can make a max of 2 attacks per turn.

Light Cruisers

Medium ships can make a max of 2 attacks per turn. Common in Home Defense Fleets.

Heavy Cruisers

Heavy cruisers are a favorite of the Sathar. Large Ships can make a max of 3 attacks per turn.

Battleships

Sathar do not have Battleships. Large Ships can make a max of 3 attacks per turn. Popular as Flag-ships for the UPF.

Assault Carriers

Assault Carriers can only make 1 attack per turn, and they Do not equip cannons. Each carrier can support up to 10 Fighters.

Dreadnaughts

Huge Ships can make a max of 4 attacks per turn. Very rare ship type.

Space Stations

This refers to military stations. Space stations do not move. Huge Ships can make a max of 4 attacks per turn.

A space station can repair 1 point of damage to 1 ship Stacked with it each turn in end phase. A space station can support up to 50 fighters.

Civilian Ships

These are included in some scenarios. They typically carry no weapons and have no defenses.

Scenario Design

Each side should have a fleet composed of an equal number of SDP (Scenario Design Points)

Scenario One: Sathar Sortie

UPF vs Sathar UPF Fleet:

- 2 Assault Scouts, 2 Frigates, 2 Light Cruisers, 1 Battleship 1 Carrier, 6 Fighters Sathar Fleet:
- 4 Destroyers, 2 Heavy Cruisers, 1 Carrier, 6 Fighters

Each Fleet is spread out evenly on opposite back rows of the board. Fighters are stacked with carriers. Sathar go first.

If a side loses all of its Large ships, it is defeated.

Setup

Shuffle the Deck. Each player is dealt 5 cards. Place ships according to scenario Scenario determines who goes first.

Card List

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 Phases:

1. Tactics Phase
2. Action Phase
3. End Phase

Tactics Phase

Draw 5 cards. If the deck runs out shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Action Phase

You may play cards from your hand. Use move cards to move a ship the indicated number of spaces. Each ship can move a max of once per turn.

The number on attack cards indicate range. Attacks and moves are orthogonal or diagonal. All attacks do 1 point of damage.

Use defense cards to negate a target attack. Played cards are discarded.

End Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Damage

Each ship has a number of Hits. Use counters to keep track of Damage. If a ship has more damage on it than it has hits, it is destroyed.

Troop Attacks

The targeted ship comes under control of the attacker. The attacking ship must be the same current size (Hull Points) or larger.

Point Blank Range Rule

If enemy ships are in the same space, any attack card may be used to Attack them getting a range = 0 for that purpose.

Knights & Castles

Introduction

Card game for 2-6 players.

End Of The Game

The game ends when the last card is drawn from the deck.

Victory

Have the most gold in your treasury when the game ends.

Gold

Use change to represent gold. 1 cent = 1 gold.

The Deck

Players share a common deck of all the card types mixed together. The deck has one of each type of card in the card list except for certain Resource cards.

Card Types

There are 6 types of cards in the deck: Disaster cards Resource cards Advance cards Invasion cards Leader cards Event cards

Dice

Six sided dice (D6) are required to play.

Setup

Each player starts with a hand of seven cards. Players start with 0 gold. Determine turn order: Roll high on 1D6.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Tax Phase
3. Build Phase
4. Research Phase
5. Event Phase
6. Trade Phase
7. End Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 card. You may draw additional cards for 5 gold each.

Tax Phase

Gain gold from each of your resource cards that have a revenue value.

Build Phase

In this phase you may build (put into play) Resource and Leader cards. You do not have to build if you do not want to. You may put any village cards in your hand into play under your control.

Cards in play are placed face up on the table. Cards in play stay in play until they are destroyed by the action of another card. Other non-village resource cards have support requirements.

Towns, Mines, and Castles require 1 supporting village each. A village can only support one other resource card. 1 town can support 1 city.

A castle can support up to 2 Knights. A city can support up to 2 Ships, and one Leader. Any number of resource cards may be built as long as they are supported.

If a resource is ever unsupported in this phase it is immediately discarded unless its owner pays 1 gold.

Research Phase

Advances represent improvements in science and technology. Advance cards require no support. Advance cards cost 5 gold to put into play.

The player with the advance gets the benefit of the card for the rest of the game. If another player has an advance you want, pay 10 gold at any time to also gain the benefit of the advance for the rest of the game.

Event Phase

You may play one Event, Disaster, or Invasion card. Non-advance event cards are discarded at the end of the phase. You target yourself for good events.

Target one of your opponents for bad events. Most bad events such as disasters and invasions cause the target opponent to lose 1D6 Defense points (DP) worth of resource cards. Each resource card has 1 or more DPs.

The target player must discard resource cards in play with enough combined DPs to cover the loss. You may discard one of your Knight cards in play as an act of war: Treat the discarded knight card as an invasion card.

Trade Phase

Players may trade gold, cards, and favors.

End Phase

Max hand is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Feedback

by Brian Peterson. The game is great, it beats the pants off of most of the games you'd have to pay $20-$30 for here in the U.S. It moves along quickly and plays very well. My 9-year old son at first really didn't want to play some "stupid paper game". Why heck that would require an imagination and some basic math/money skills. Once he started playing though he was absolutely hooked. It was fun to see. He helped come up with new rules and loved being the banker (handing out the gold and making change). He even plays solo on occasion now when I'm not around. Here are a couple of game notes and variations we would like to make public. Frequently one player gets off to a good start and then totally dominates the game while his opponent plays only to postpone their inevitable doom. The other game note is that until you are able to generate revenue and get a few good resources (i.e. towns & cities) there is not much to do except hope & pray until you draw a good resource. In order to combat the above issues and spice up the game me and my son came up with a few K&C variations:

- If a player collects less revenue than his opponent during a turn then he is entitled to draw one extra card. This actually produced an unexpected strategy element to the game. . . When do you build? Is it better to hold off building and draw an extra card or build and begin collecting the extra revenue? It also frequently makes for an entertaining cat & mouse style game and can be a nail-biter when you get close to the end.

- Do not allow players to purchase extra cards (once an opponent gets rich and starts buying up extra cards each turn it is nearly impossible to catch up).
- Knights are allowed to attack an opponent regardless of whether they have been played on the game board or are still in your hand. No castle is required for them to attack, just to defend your kingdom. The purpose of this variation is to keep a player from twiddling their thumbs until they get a castle (which requires a town by-the-way). It makes the game slightly more combative and less defensive.

NOTE: The above variations are for a two-player game only.

Knights Templar

Introduction

Card game for 2-4 players. Each player is a faction of the Knights Templar. Players try to build the best Legacy for the Templars possible.

Game End

The game ends when one player has 5 or more Downfall cards, or When there are no more cards in the deck.

Victory

When the game ends the player with the most Victory points wins.

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck has 9 types of cards: Legacy, Allies, County, Treasures, Mission Power, Battles, Enemies, Downfall

Setup

To determine which Player is the First Grand Master: Each player draws 10 cards. The player with the most Mission cards becomes Grand Master. If there is a tie, the tied players draw again.

Players discard all cards and shuffle them into the deck.

Turn Sequence

- Each turn has 3 Phases:
1. Draw Phase
 2. Select Phase
 3. End Phase

Draw Phase

Flip over the top X cards of the deck. Have them be face-up in the middle of the table visible to all players. These are called the Fate cards.

X is determined by the number of players:

Players	X
2 or 3 or 6	7
4 or 8	9
5	6
7	8

Select Phase

The Grand Master selects (picks/chooses) one Fate card. He then selects another player to pick the next card and so on until all Players have selected a card. This is called a Round. If there are Fate cards remaining, a new round starts.

This continues until all Fate cards have been claimed. When a card is selected, it is immediately played. Each card type has its own special effect when played.

End Phase

Determine who the Grand Master is for next turn. Determine who gets the 1 VP for having the most County cards. Determine if the game has ended.

Legacy Cards

When you pick a Legacy card, put it face up in front of you. The player with the most Legacy cards at the end of the game gets 5 Victory points. If there is a tie, each tied player gets 3 VP.

County Cards

When you pick a County card, put it face up in front of you. The player with the most County cards in each End Phase gets 1 VP. If there is a tie, no one gets any VP.

Treasure Cards

When you pick a Treasure card, put it face up in front of you. At the end of the game, get 1 VP for each Treasure card you control.

Mission Cards

When you pick a Mission card, put it face up in front of you. The player with the most Mission cards becomes the Grand Master. If tied, the previous Grand Master retains his position.

Power Cards

When you pick a Power card, put it face up in front of you. The player with the most power cards must draw and play one card from the Deck at the end of Select phase. If there is a tie for power, all tied players will draw a card.

Enemy Cards

When you pick an Enemy card, discard it. Choose a card in play controlled by another player: That card is discarded.

Battle Cards

When you pick a Battle card, discard it. Choose a card in play controlled by another player: Steal it: Put it in play under your control.

Ally Cards

When you pick an Ally card, discard it. Draw 2 cards from the deck: Discard one and play the other.

D	Blasphemy

Faq

Q) In the Select Phase, when every player has picked a card that concludes a Round. If there are any more cards to pick then that's another Round.

A) Yes

Q) After each Round do you then go on to the End Phase, or wait until all 7 cards have been picked?

A) Continue with further rounds (all within the select phase) until all cards are picked.

Q) There are more cards than players.

A) Yes, some players will get to pick more cards.

Q) Since 6/7 of the cards are beneficial isn't there an incredible advantage to whoever picks earlier because they'll get more cards?

A) Possibly. It also could make them more of a target for enemy and Battle cards. The Master would also have to keep picking Mission cards to maintain his position. Plus he is the most likely to have to pick a Downfall card.

Q) Am I understanding correctly that "strategy" in this game is as much kissing-up to the Grand Master, so he'll let you pick earlier, as figuring out what card(s) you want to pick?

A) I figure treachery and "Take That!" will also play a role in addition to but-kissing.

Koggen

Introduction

Board Game for 2-4+ players. From the 12th to the 16th century trade in the Baltic Sea was controlled by an organization of German merchants known as the Hanseatic League. Each player takes the role of a Hansa Captain of a single Merchant ship (Cog).

Victory

The first player to accumulate 100 Gold wins the game.

The Board

The board depicts Northern Europe including Scandinavia and parts of England and Russia. 13 Cities are marked on the map. These are the main cities where the Hanseatic League conducted business.

The cities are connected by lines called trade routes.

Terminology

Hanseatic League = Hansa = Hanse Koggen = Cogs = Ships = Boats = Pawns Trade Cards = Trade Goods = Goods = Cargo = Load Locations = Cities = Kontores = Counting Houses

Gold Coins

Level = Rank = Number = Score = Value Counters = Tokens = Markers = Cubes = Chits

Gold Coins

Use coins to keep track of gold. Gold not owned by anyone is kept in the Bank. The bank never runs out of coins.

The Decks

There are 2 Decks: The Captain Deck The Hanse Deck

Ships

Ships are also referred to as Cogs. Koggen is German for Cog. Each player gets 1 ship pawn and 1 random Captain card. Use Pawns to represent ships on the map.

Each player gets a pawn of a unique color. The captain card represents that ship off the map. Each Captain card may stack 4 Trade Good cards under it as cargo.

Any number of ships may stack at the same location.

Captain Deck

Each player has 1 Captain. There are 6 different Captains: Sailor Captain, Pirate Captain, Merchant Captain Diplomat Captain, Shipper Captain, Smuggler Captain

Sailor Captains

The Sailor Captain is immune to storms. In a single turn, if he is simply moving (and not buying or selling), he may move 1 extra time.

Pirate Captain

The Pirate Captain is immune to piracy cards. If the Pirate captain has no cargo he may spend the turn pirating: Draw 4 cards: Keep trade good cards and discard all Event cards. The Trade good cards immediately become cargo and are put in your hold.

When Pirating the player must skip his action phase. Note: Hanseatic pirates would target Danish, Dutch, and English ships and not Hanse ships.

Merchant Captain

The Merchant captain gets 1 extra gold every time he sells a good.

Diplomat Captain

The Diplomat captain can ignore Boycotts. The max hand size of the Diplomat captain is one greater.

Shipper Captain

The Shipper Captain can hold extra goods on his oversize ship: He can carry 5 goods instead of 4.

Smuggler Captain

The Smuggler Captain is immune to tariff cards. The Smuggler captain draws 1 extra card per turn. The cargo capacity and max hand size of the smuggler captain are 1 less.

The Hanse Deck

The Trade deck has 2 types of cards mixed together: Trade Good Cards and Event Cards There are 18 types of Trade goods. Each Trade Good Card contains the following information:

1. Good Type (Cod, Grain, Wax, etc.)
2. Supply Locations (Places where you can get the good)

3. Demand Locations (Places where you can sell the good)

4. Selling Price (in Gold)

Some Demand Locations are marked with a +1. These locations will pay an Extra 1 gold for that good.

Setup

Each player starts with 1 Ship pawn in Lubek. Each player starts with 1 Captain card randomly drawn from the Captain deck. Each player starts with 5 Gold.

Shuffle the Hanse deck. Each player is dealt 3 cards. Players cut the deck (Highest selling price) to determine who goes first. Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Action Phase
3. End Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 2 cards from the Hanse deck and put them in your hand. If the deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Action Phase

A player may do the following in Action phase:

1. Move (1 Free move per turn)
2. Pick up cargo in the current city (Unlimited)
3. Sell cargo in the current city (Unlimited)
4. Play an Event card (Unlimited)
5. Dump unwanted cargo in Lubek or Visby (Unlimited)
6. Trade with another player at the same city (Unlimited)

End Phase

Max hand size is 5 cards. Discard excess cards.

Moving

On your turn you get 1 Free Move. You may use a move to move your ship on the Map from one City to another City it is directly connected to by a Trade Route. A player may play a Koggen card to get an extra move.

You may load and sell without limit at each City you move to.

Picking Up Cargo

If your ship is at a city that produces a good that you have a Trade good card of in your hand, you may load it onto your ship. The Trade good card is now considered to be a Cargo card. Stack the Cargo card face-up and staggered under your Captain card.

A ship may hold a max of 4 Cargo cards. A single ship can load multiple goods from a single city it is at during the turn. Other players may see your Cargo cards.

Selling Goods

If you have a ship at a location that will buy a cargo good that is in the ships hold, you may sell it for the selling price listed on the card. Certain locations will pay an additional premium of +X gold. A single ship can sell multiple goods at a single city during the turn.

Goods can only be sold at cities listed as having a demand for it on the Trade card.

Trade Centers

Lubek and Visby are Trade Centers. Players can discard cargo they do not want only if their ship is at one of these cities.

Trade Among Players

If 2 players have their ships at the same city, they may trade cards, cargo, and gold Without limit by mutual agreement.

Event Cards

Event cards are discarded as soon as they are played. You may play multiple Event cards in a turn.

Boycott Event

Pick a target City. The City is boycotted by the League due to war or to enforce its monopolies. Ships may not load or sell Cargo at this City.

Mark the location with an Event Counter. The City remains Boycotted until any player plays a Contact card.

Monopoly Event

Pick a Target City and a Trade Good produced by that City. Write this information down. For the rest of the game, anytime any player loads that Good at that city, you gain 2 Gold from the Bank.

Accord Event

Pick a Target Trade Route. (Trade route = The line connecting 2 adjacent cities) Write this information down. For the rest of the game, anytime any player moves their ship along that Route, they must pay you 1 Gold.

Kontore Event

Pick a Target City. Write this information down. For the rest of the game, anytime any player sells a Cargo card at this City, they must pay you 1 Gold.

Board and Components made by my good friend Darrell.

Krull Quest

Introduction

Board & Dice game for 2 players. Based on the Fantasy Film Krull. One player is the Good Prince Colwyn.

The other player is the Evil Beast in his teleporting Black Fortress.

Disclaimer

Krull is a copyrighted, licensed, trademarked property. This is merely a fan site.

The Board

The board is a circular track divided into 32 spaces. Every 4th square is a Village (there are 8 villages) For aesthetics you can divide the board into 4 sections: Mountains, Forest, Swamp, Plains

Pawns

Each player has two pawns. The Good player has a white pawn representing Prince Colwyn and his Companions. The Evil player has a black pawn representing the Beast in his Black Fortress.

Setup

The Prince player places his pawn on any village (The Castle). The Beast player places his pawn on an empty space on the opposite side of the board. The Prince player starts the game with 10 men.

Dice

A six sided die is needed.

Coins

The Beast uses coins to represent Slayers and Changelings. Use pennies for Changelings & nickels for Slayers.

Special Table

1D6	Result:	Notes:
1	The Magician	Aid: Reroll any one target roll per turn
2	The Cyclops	Aid: Get +1 to rolls on the Changeling Table

Markers

The Beast uses markers to represent Cursed Earth.

Tokens

The Prince uses tokens to represent Men. The Beast uses Raze Tokens to mark Villages he has destroyed. There are also Lore Tokens.

Victory

Destroy your opponent. The Beast can only be killed in Fortress phase. The Prince is killed if he is ever reduced to zero or less men.

The Prince can also be killed by a Changeling attack. The Beast can also win by razing all 8 villages.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 6 phases:

- Prince Phase
- Beast Phase
- Black Magic Phase
- Slayer Phase
- Changeling Phase
- Fortress Phase

Prince Phase

The Prince rolls 1 die and moves that many spaces in either direction. If the Prince lands on a Slayer or a Changeling coin, it is Destroyed, remove the coin from play. If the prince lands on a Cursed Land Marker, the Prince loses 1D6 Men and remove the marker from play.

If the Prince lands on the Black Pawn go to Fortress Phase. If the Prince lands on a village without a Raze token, roll on the Village Table.

Village Table

1D6	Result:
1-3	Gain 1D6 Men
4-6	Roll on the Special Table:

5	The Emerald Seer	Aid: Gain 1 Lore Token
6+	Fire Mares	Go immediately to any Space on the Board

Except for Fire Mares, The Prince can only get each special once. If you roll a result you already have, take the next listed result instead. Aid results give a benefit to the Prince for the rest of the game.

White Pawn go to Fortress Phase. If the Beast lands on a village put a Raze token on the Village.

Beast Phase

The Beast rolls 1 die and moves his pawn many spaces in either direction. If the Beast lands on the

Kung Fusion

Introduction

2 player Card game of Martial Arts combat. Role-playing elements.

The Action Deck

The Deck contains 8 of each of the following 7 card types:

- Punch
- Kick
- Block
- Grab
- Move
- Zen
- Combo

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 Phases:

- Maneuver Phase
- Out-Maneuver Phase
- Action Phase

Maneuver Phase

Both players fill their hands to 8 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. If an attack effect says: Opponent discards X cards next turn, then discard the cards at end of this phase.

Out-maneuver Phase

Players may discard up to half their current cards and draw replacements.

Action Phase

The Active player may only make Attack Maneuvers. The Defending player may only make Defense Maneuvers. The Active player may play 1 Punch card to make a Simple Punch.

Master Maneuver Table

1D10	Result
1	Roll on the Minor Punch special maneuver table
2	Roll on the Minor Kick special maneuver table
3	Roll on the Minor Block special maneuver table
4	Roll on the Minor Grab special maneuver table

The Active player may play 1 Kick card to make a Simple Kick. The Active player may play 1 Grab card to make a Simple Grab. Simple Attacks do one point of damage.

The Defending player may play a Block card to negate 1 point of damage from a Punch or Block Attack. The Defending player may play a Move card to negate 1 point of damage from a Kick or Move Attack. The Defending player may play a Zen card to negate 1 point of damage from a Grab or Zen Attack.

Instead of making a simple attack, the attacker may make a Power Attack. Power Attacks require a combination of 2 or more cards to be discarded. A Power Attack will do 2+ points of damage, as indicated in the Maneuver Lists.

Likewise, the defender can make power defenses that can negate 2+ damage of any type, unless otherwise specified. A combatant can only make a special Attack or Defense he knows as determined in Character generation. A player may only make 1 attack or defense per turn.

A player may discard a Combo card to make an extra attack or defense during the phase. (A player may make multiple Combos in a single turn) All played cards are discarded. Simple one card defenses CAN be used to negate 1 point of damage from a Power Attack of the proper type.

A Power Defense can be used against a simple attack if you lack the correct simple defense (or simply choose to use the bigger hammer).

Object

Reduce your opponent to 0 or fewer Hit Points.

Combatant Character Generation

Before fighting, each player must create a fighter. All fighters have a base 10 hit points. To create a fighter roll 10 times on the Master Maneuver Table.

Record what Maneuvers the fighter knows. Reroll duplicate Maneuvers.

1D10	Result
5	Roll on the Minor Move special maneuver table
6	Roll on the Minor Zen special maneuver table or reroll
7	Gain 2 Hit points or reroll
8-10	Roll on any Major special maneuver table* or reroll

* You must have at least one Minor special maneuver before you get a Major one of the same type. For example: You must know a Minor Punch Maneuver before you can get a Major Punch Maneuver.

Faq Section

- How is it decided who gets to be the active player on the first turn? (We assumed that the passive player on one turn is always the active player the next.)

- What happens when a power attack/defense goes below 2 points? Bite (C1d6-1) is an example where this can happen. Does it still cause 2 points? Or is it a reroll? Or does the rule that says that all power maneuvers score 2 minimum refer to the average?

- Do Zen special maneuvers always count as defenses, or does that depend on their application? In the former case, the Kai! (typo for "Kiai!", I assume) maneuver makes very little sense. In the latter, the correct application should be clearly indicated for each maneuver. If Zen maneuvers can be used as attacks, does that mean that simple defenses are useless against them?

- In the Master Maneuver Table, is the 8-10 reroll an option or does it apply only when a Major special maneuver roll is not possible?

- When a combo attack is made, does the score of a single defense apply to both attacks combined, or only to one of them? On a similar note, can a combo defense be made to a single attack, or must each maneuver in the combo defense be directed towards a specific maneuver in a combo attack? Suppose that the active player makes a combo simple kick and power grab and the defensive player reacts with a combo of two simple move defenses. Could the score from the defense apply to the damage from the grab as well, even though simple moves are normally not applicable to grabs?

(I do not actually expect you to answer any of these questions. I just want to point out where the rules may need to be clarified.)

Once we got past the rule ambiguities, we found that there was just one major problem with the game. It is way too slow. The card design is one reason for that. Another is all the cards that have to be discarded all the time. We made a house rule that players may opt to keep cards at the end of the action phase. I would now like to amend that to read thus: "Players may not discard any cards at the end of action phase." I would further like to suggest that only two cards may be discarded in the out-maneuver phase. This means that the deck will have to be reshuffled much more rarely. It also means that more strategy must be used when the cards are played in the action phase.

Another way we found to speed up the game was to allow one attack and one counter-attack during each action phase. The active player goes first with his attack and the passive player (after having defended himself) may optionally follow up with an attack using whatever cards he/she has left.

The rolling of new characters also took too long. An easy way to solve this would be to provide a number of pre-rolled characters as an option to get started more quickly. These should not be randomised, but should be carefully constructed to be well balanced and should of course have some cool names and each a special profile.

As a minor quibble, I also found that some attacks are unbalanced with regard to card cost and effect. In particular, maneuvers which cost 5 or 6 cards of the same type are almost impossible to carry out, even when you are allowed to retain cards after the action phase. As an example, Hurricane Kick and Dragon Kick both cost 5 cards and both cause 5 damage, but Hurricane is much easier to score, since gathering five Kick cards is very unlikely. Even at four similar cards, this effect starts to show. I have no ready solution to this problem. Extensive play testing or advanced probability calculations may be necessary to balance the game properly.

Setup

Each player is dealt 5 random Heir cards to form their Heir Pile. The cards in ones Heir pile are kept stacked face-down. Flip over the top card of your Heir Hand to be your first Heir in play.

The Lancaster player starts out as King. Both players are dealt a hand of 4 Resource cards. The Lancaster player goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 9 Phases:

1. Heir Phase
2. Draw Phase
3. Recruit Phase
4. Intrigue Phase
5. Rebellion Phase
6. Battle Phase

7. Claim Phase
8. Killings Phase
9. End Phase

Heir Phase

If you do not have an Heir in play, flip over the top card of your Heir Pile. If you have no Heirs left, you automatically lose.

Draw Phase

Both players draw 2 cards from the Resource Deck. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Recruit Phase

You may put Supporter and Troop cards face-up into play.

Intrigue Phase

You may play (discard) Intrigue cards. For each Intrigue card played you may take control of one random opposing Supporter Card.

Rebellion Phase

Both players may play rebellion cards. Each card has a Force value. The player with the highest total Force value wins the Phase.

The Rebel wins ties. If the King wins, skip Battle Phase.

Battle Phase

If the Rebel won Rebellion Phase there will be a Battle. Both Players may play (discard) Battle cards. Each player adds up the total Force value of their Heirs, Supporters, Troops, and any Battle cards they play.

The player with the highest total point value wins the Battle. The King wins ties. Both players must discard all their Troop cards at the end of the battle.

Claim Phase

If the King won Rebellion or Battle phase he remains the King. If the Rebel won in Battle phase, he becomes the new King and The old King becomes the Rebel.

Killings Phase

The current King may play (discard) Killing cards if he won a Battle this turn. For each Killing card played the Rebel player must discard one random Lord.

End Phase

Max resource hand size is 4 cards. Discard excess cards.

Land Of Industry

Introduction

Board game for 2-6 players. Theme: Industrial growth in the 19th to early 20th Centuries.

Victory

The player with the most Victory Points at the end of the game wins. The game ends the turn the last card is drawn from the deck.

Victory Points

Use Tokens to keep track of Victory Points.

Money

Money is units of $1 Million, $5 Million, and $10 Million. Use play bills or coins to keep track of Money.

Dice

10 sided Dice (D10) are needed.

Income Level

This is how much Money you make each turn. Use Poker Chips as Income Chips to keep track of Income Level.

Route Markers

Each player has a set of rectangular (brick) markers of a unique color. These are used to mark ownership of Railways and Shipping Routes. A Route with a Marker on it is considered to be "Built Out".

Development Markers

These are circular disks all of the same color used in common by all players. These are used to keep track of how many resources have been built on a city. A City can have a maximum of 4 Development Markers (DM).

When a City is at its Max it is considered to be "Built Out".

The Basic Map

The Basic Map has 15 numbered Cities.

- Cities (Black Lined Squares with Red Numbers) are connected to each other by:
- Railways (Black lines)
- Rivers (Thick dark blue lines)
- Canals (Dotted blue lines)
- The areas adjacent to cities include the following Terrain Types:

- Coastal (Light Blue Border)
- Lakes (Medium Blue Blob)
- Forest (Green Irregular Shape)
- Plains (Thick Green Lines)
- Mountains (Grey Angles)
- Hills (Brown Hemi-Circles)
- Deserts (Thick Yellow Lines)

Export Markets are indicated by an "X" symbol. Cities are connected to other Cities and Exports by Railways (Black Lines) or Shipping Lines (Thin dark blue lines). Note some Railways are double (Two thin black lines).

Un-built Railways, Canals, Rivers, and Sea Shipping Lines are collectively referred to as Routes.

Adjacency Rules

Cities are adjacent to all areas they touch. For example: City 5 is adjacent to 3 Plains, 1 Forest, and 1 Desert. City 2 is adjacent to the Coast, 2 Deserts and 1 Plains.

City 13 is adjacent to 1 Plains, 1 Mountains, and 1 Hills. City 1 is adjacent to the Coast, 1 Forest, and 1 Plains.

The Basic Development Deck

The Basic Deck has 100 Development Cards: 60 Sites, 30 Railways, and 10 Shipping Lines. The deck also contains 10 Action Cards.

Setup

Shuffle the deck. Determine First Player Randomly.

- Each player starts with $10.
- Each player starts with 10 VT (Victory Tokens).
- Each player is dealt 2 cards.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 8 Phases:

1. Event Phase
2. Revenue Phase
3. Planning Phase
4. Build Phase
5. Shipping Phase
6. Mayor Phase
7. Magnate Phase
8. Waste Phase

Event Phase

Skip this phase each players first 5 turns of the game. Roll 1D10 on the Event Table:

1D10	Event:	Notes:
1	Used-Up	Discard 1 Resource Site. Lose 1 IC
2	Labor Strike	Lose $1 and 1 VT
3	Oppprtunity	Draw 1 Card
4	Obsolescence	Discard 1 Processing Site. Lose 1 IC
5	Taxes	Lose $2
6-10	Nothing

Revenue Phase

Gain $1 for free. Also gain $1 for every 2 Income Chips you own. The number of income chips you own = Income Level.

Loans

You may take a Loan in Revenue Phase: Gain $5 and discard 1 Income Chip and lose 1 Victory Token. You can take a max of 2 Loans per turn (your turn).

Planning Phase

Keep the top 5 cards of the deck face-up. These are called the Draft cards. You may take 1 of the Draft cards or draw the top card of the deck.

Every time a Draft card is drawn immediately replace it with the top card of the deck. You get 1 Free card draw. You may buy extra cards for $5 each.

Build Phase

You may build one or more cards from your hand. It costs $X to build a Development card. X is specified on the card.

Place the Card face-up in front of you. You now "own" it, and the card is referred to as a "Development". Not all locations are immediately available to be built upon. In the basic scenario City #1 is at the beginning of the game the starting point and is considered to be "Available".

Sites can only be built in Available Cities. Lines and Rails can only be built on Routes that are connecting to Available Cities.

A City becomes available as soon as a connecting railway or Shipping Line (via water) is built to it. When you build a site, place a Development Marker on the Target Available City. When you build on a Route, place a Route marker of your color on it.

A single line Route can have 1 Route Marker on it. A double line Railway Route can have 2 Route Markers on it from the same or different players.

Action Cards

Stocks and Bonds are used in Build Phase. The previous owner is paid the Cost and loses 1 IC. Scandal cards are worth $7 in a Mayoral Bid (one time use).

Buy a Charter in Build Phase and pick a target city with no Development Tokens: Only you can build Sites in that City. Play a Used-Up card in Build Phase: Discard a Target Mine or Oil Field. The Owner loses

1C. Action Cards are discarded immediately after being used.

Note: The scandal card is discarded even if you don't win the Race.

Site Building Limit Rules

Certain Sites can only be built at a City if that city is adjacent to certain Terrain Types or connected to certain Route Types. For Instance, a Fishery can only be built in a city if the City is adjacent to the Coast or a Lake, or connected to a River. An Oil Field can only be built in a city adjacent to a desert.

Shipping Phase

This only applies to Development cards you built this Turn, not previous turns. If you built a Railway gain 1 Income Chip. If you built a Shipping Line gain 1 Income Chip.

If you built a Site gain 1 Income Level Chip and 1 Victory Token and Trace a Path from the Site to the nearest connected Export Market. All Routes on the way must be Built Out. This is called the "Transport Path".

Each owner of a Route along the Transport Path earns $1. If unable to connect to an Export Market, nothing further happens. If you are able to connect to an Export, gain Special Scoring Bonuses as indicated by the Card text.

Mayor Phase

A City is Built-Out when it has its full allotment of 4 Development Markers. For each City built-out this turn, there will be a separate Mayoral Race. (Each City will have 1 Race during the Game) For each race all players make a secret Monetary bid.

Bids are revealed simultaneously. The Highest Bid wins. The winner is The Mayor and receives 1 Income Level Chip and 5 VT. If tied, flip a coin to see who wins.

All money bid by all players is lost.

Magnate Phase

If all the Routes connecting a City are built this turn, the player who owns the most of those Routes gains 3 VT. (This will happen 1 time for each city during the game) If tied, each tied player gets 1 VT.

Waste Phase

Maximum hand size is 8 cards. Discard excess cards.

Trading

In between turns, players may trade ownership of cards, developments, Victory Tokens (VT), money ($), Income Chips, and promises.

End Game Scoring

Convert Money into VT: Every $10 is worth 1 VT

- The player with the most Energy (Oil and Coal) Developments gets 6 VT.
- The player with the most Food (Farms, Ranches, Fisheries) Developments gets 4 VT.
- The player with the most Transport (Railways and Shipping) Developments gets 7 VT.
- The player with the most Material (Wood, Stone, and Metals) Developments gets 5 VT

SearchX: = Look at next X cards in the deck. If any of them are of the indicated type, put them in your hand.

Highway Option

In addition to rivers/sea routes, canal routes, and Railway routes, there are also Highway Routes. Use thin Brown lines to indicate these on the map. These use Highway (or Road) cards to build on and use Route Markers. Highway Card: Cost = 5. Similiar to other Routes in all other respects.

Bridges

Railways and Highways can cross over rivers and canals.

- Canals cost an extra $1 to build across.
- Rivers cost an extra $2 to build across.

Lakes

You may build a Shipping Lane in a Lake adjacent to an Available City. Simply place one of your route Markers into the Lake. The Shipping lane will automatically connect all Cities adj to the Lake.

Severn Gorge Event Table

Terrain Development Limits

Everytime you build a Resource Site (RS) in a city in addition to placing a Development Marker (DM) on the city, also place a DM on the adjacent terrain the RS is requiring (If several are available pick one). A Terrain can hold a maximum of 4 DM. Example: You build a Ranch on City 5. It requires a Plains. Also place a DM one of the 3 Plains City 5 is adjacent to.

This only applies to Land Terrains. Water type Terrains (Coastal, Lake, River) ignore this. This rule does not apply to Processing Sites (PS) and Other Sites (OS).

Mulligan Rule

At the beginning of planning phase, If you have not taken or bought a card yet this turn, you may call a Mulligan: Place the current 5 Draft Cards on the bottom of the deck. Draw 5 New Draft Cards. You may do this a max of once per turn.

Severn Gorge Scenario

Birthplace of the Industrial Revolution circa 1800.

Severn Gorge Map

There are only 2 types of Routes: Toll Roads and Waterways. Roads are Black Lines. The River is dark blue. Canals are light Blue. The settlements are Towns (not Cities) and can each hold 3 Development Markers.

Starting Available Town is Calcutts.

Last Men Standing

Introduction

Solo Card Game. This game is a tribute to the genre of Squad Level, Suicide Mission, Ensemble Cast, Survival, War Movies such as: Sahara, Saving Private Ryan, The Big Red One, The Dirty Dozen, The Desert Rats, The Guns of Navarone, Inglorious Bastards.

The Formula

Most of these type Movies included several common themes:

1. A very Dangerous (Commando) Mission.
2. Lots of casualties. Usually only 2 or 3 Members of the Squad survive.
3. Characters with different national and racial backgrounds working together.

Disclaimer

The game does not try to perfectly simulate any one Movie but instead, you Create your own band of Misfits and lead them to their Glorious ends.

Themes Not Used

Some of these movies have a period where the recruits are trained together, Where they learn to work together. This piece is left out. Some of these Movies have a very detailed step by step mission plan. This is Not simulated, rather the game works as a series of encounters.

Victory

Play 30 Turns, complete the last Mission, and have at least 1 Soldier survive.

The Decks

There are 4 Decks:

1. Soldier Deck
2. Mission Deck
3. Encounter Deck
4. Aid Deck

Soldier Deck

These are the Soldiers you start with and some you acquire along the way.

Mission Deck

This is the one main objective you are trying to achieve in the last game turn.

Encounter Deck

These are the Foes and Difficulties you encounter along the way.

Aid Deck

These are Help and Friends you acquire during the game.

Skills

Encounters and Missions require certain skills to overcome them. Soldiers and Aid cards provide those skills. Most Soldiers provide 1 to 3 Skills.

Most Aid cards provide 1 to 2 Skills. Most Encounters require 1 to 3 Skills. Most Missions require 4 Skills to complete.

There are 18 Skills.

Skill List

1. Courage
2. Leader
3. Martyr
4. Tactics
5. Stealth
6. Disguise
7. Mechanic
8. Medic
9. Sniper
10. Firepower
11. Anti-Tank
12. Demolitions
13. Cover
14. Grenades
15. Speed
16. Intelligence
17. Interrogation
18. Diplomacy

Setup

Shuffle the decks Draw 12 Soldiers. You may discard up to 4 Soldiers and draw replacements. Note: You can have a max of 2 Leaders in your squad.

Soldier cards are kept face up in front of you. Draw 4 Aid Cards and put them in your hand. Draw 1 Mission Card and place it face up.

Draw 14 Encounter cards. Place these face down in a row leading Up to the Mission card. This is called the Encounter Row.

Turn Sequence

Each turn has 3 Phases:

1. Aid Phase
2. Encounter Phase
3. End Phase

Aid Phase

Draw 1 Aid card and put it in your hand. If the Aid deck ever runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Encounter Phase

Flip over the next card in the Encounter row. See what skills it requires. Check your Soldiers and Aid cards to see if you have those skills.

If you are missing one or more skills, a random Soldier is killed. Martyrs are killed first. Leaders are killed last. If you needed to use one or more Aid cards discard them.

If you completed the encounter successfully roll 1D6: on a roll of 5 or 6 a Random Soldier is killed anyway (these are dangerous missions). This is called the Danger Roll. If all the encounters are finished, the squad faces the final Mission.

When facing the final mission you may draw an extra 2 Aid cards. You only win the game if the final Mission is completed successfully.

End Phase

Max hand size is 5 Aid cards. Discard excess cards.

Special Rules

1. If you used the Interrogation Skill during an encounter, you may Look at the next 2 Encounters.
2. If you have the Medic Skill roll 6 on 1D6 to prevent a casualty.
3. If you used the Intelligence Skill during an encounter, draw 2 Aid cards.

Latin Intervention

by Alex Kremer

Latin Intervention - One Page Wars (C)

By Alex Kremer For 2 players
Latin Intervention is about cold war influence.

- Place the Panama canal in Panama. (This can not be moved!)
- Russia goes first.
- Each turn a player may move or play one of their pieces. (Place an Aid counter on Nicaragua for example.)
- At the end of each turn a contest of political wills occurs for every nation which has been influenced by a major power. Thus when you put aid in Nicaragua you will now roll.
- Each side (That has a piece in the nation) rolls 1d6. If the 1d6 = 6 or greater then the nation is now under your influence. (Place an influence counter.) If both sides get 6 or greater then no one gains the influence.
- Who ever gains the influence of 5 nations wins the game.
- Each time you play a piece you must move up the 'Threat Level.' If the threat level reaches WARNING. Then the game ends (With the one who triggered the warning losing the game. Consider this a situation of brinkmanship.)
- If you do not move or play a piece then you move down by 1 green each turn.
- If there is a green circle, then move the threat level up 1 green. A red = move +1 red one. The number above the star is the amount you add too an influence roll.
- Any time a nation gains an influence they can be challenged only if there is another piece from another nation in the nation.

When a nation successfully challenges and takes a position remove all opponets pieces from that nation. (Do not reduce threat!)

Lawrence Of Arabia

Introduction

Card Game for 2+ players. Each player represents an incarnation of Lawrence of Arabia. Players recruit Arab allies and use them to attack the Turks.

Victory

The first player to have Mission cards in his Victory pile with A total Force Rating of 40 or more wins.

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

The Cards

There are 5 types of cards: Events, Leaders, Tribesmen, Missions, Defenses

Dice

Six-sided dice are needed.

Setup

Most well traveled player goes first. Each player is dealt a hand of 5 cards.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. The current player is called the active player. Each turn has 6 Phases:

1. Fate Phase
2. Recruit Phase
3. Mission Phase
4. Attack Phase
5. Loot Phase
6. End Phase

Fate Phase

Draw 2 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Recruit Phase

Put 1 Leader face-up into play from your hand. You may attach face-up any number of Tribesmen cards from your hand to this new leader. If you did not play a leader, you may attach one Tribesmen card from your Hand to one of your Leaders in play.

A Leader cannot attach more Tribesmen than his Force Rating.

Mission Phase

You may put 1 Mission card face-up into play. Designate 1 of your Leaders to attack it. The player to your left may attach Defense cards from his hand to the Mission.

Attack Phase

Mission cards and Defense cards have Defense Point Values. For every Defense Point roll one six sided Die (Defense Rolls): On a roll of 4-6+ Active player must discard 1 Tribesman attached to attacking Leader. All Leaders, Tribesmen, Missions, and Defense cards have a Force Rating Add up the Force Rating of all you Leader and Remaining Tribesmen (Arab Total).

Compare this to the total Force of the Mission and attached Defenses (Turk Total). If the Arab Total is greater than the Turk Total, the Attack succeeds. If the attack succeeds, the active player puts the Mission card into his Victory pile.

If the Attack fails, the Mission stays in play, with attached defenses, and The other players on their turns may attack it.

Loot Phase

After an Attack, win or loose, roll 1D6 (The Loot roll): On a roll of 4-6+ the Leader is discarded (In Shame or with Honorable Loot) If the Leader is discarded, also discard all attached Tribesmen.

End Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Battle Phase

Play (discard) an Attack card to have a unit attack. The attack card has a number. This is the range of the attack.

Attacks are diagonal or orthogonal. "Knight" type attack cards produce an attack with a range like a knight in chess. The enemy unit that is the target of the attack takes 1 hit of damage.

Units cannot attack through other units except for Archers and Spells. Your opponent may play certain Defense cards to negate your attack. A unit can only make one attack per turn.

Champions can make two attacks per turn (using two attack cards)

Players take turns. The current player is the Attacker. The other player is the Defender. Each turn has 6 Phases: Support Phase Recruit Phase Battle Phase Siege Phase Conquest Phase End Phase

Support Phase

Both Players draw a number of cards according to the Territory Chart.

Recruit Phase

The Attacker may put Leader and Army cards into play. The Crusader player as Attacker may put a max of 1 Leader and 1 Army in play. For every Transport card the Crusader plays, he may put an Additional Leader and Army card into play.
The Crusader player may have a max of 3 Leaders in play at a time. The Muslim player as Attacker may only put 1 Leader into play, but may put Any number of Armies into play. The Muslim player may have a max of 1 Leader in play at a time.

Defender Phase

The Defender may put up to 1 Fortification card, 1 Leader, and 1 Army card into play.

Battle Phase

Totals are called Battle Totals (BT). Higher BT wins. Defender wins ties. For every natural roll of 6, your opponent must discard 1 Army card.
If the Attacker loses battle Phase, skip to End Phase.

Siege Phase

Skip to End phase if the Attacker does not have at least 1 Leader & 1 Army in play. Both players roll 1D6 for each Leader and Army card they have in play. The Defender rolls 1D6 for each Fortification card in play. Players may roll an extra 1D6 for each Siege card they play (discard) from their hand. Totals are called Siege Totals (ST). Higher ST wins. Defender wins ties.
For every natural roll of 6, your opponent must discard 1 Army card of his choice. If the attacker wins, the defender must discard half (round up) of his fortification cards and Give the other half to the attacker.

Conquest Phase

If the Attacker won both Battle and Siege Phase, and he has at least 1 Leader and 1 Army in play, he may take a TT from his opponent. The victorious Attacker may then continue his conquest by playing an Extra Battle and Siege Phase. This is called an Extended Conquest. An Attacker may capture a maximum of 2 TT in one Turn.

End Phase

Roll 1D6 for each Leader and Army in Play. (The Age Roll) On a roll of 1-3 on 1D6 discard the card. Leaders are automatically discarded after 2 crusades (old Age). Max hand size is 7 cards; discard excess

Strike At Egypt

Egypt is represented by a fourth unique Territory Token. The Muslims start in control of Egypt. The crusaders may always choose to attack Egypt instead of the regular TT's.

If Egypt is attacked, the Muslim player immediately draws 6 cards. If the Crusaders conquer Egypt, the Muslim player always draws 2 less cards in Support Phase, until it is won back.

Librarium

Introduction

Game for 2 or more players.

Winning

Players play for as long as they collectively wish. At the end of this time the player with the most correct guesses wins. A tie is a tie.

Setup

This game requires the players to be sitting together in a small library. The Host goes first.

How To Play

Players take turns. The current player is the Reader. The other players are the Listeners. At the beginning of your turn the Listeners must close their eyes.

They may talk amongst themselves. On your turn select one book from the library. This should be done quickly, within a fraction of a minute. The reader asks the other players to be quiet.

Read a passage from the book out loud so everyone can hear. Place the book where it was back on the shelf as silently as possible. The Listeners may open their eyes.

There may be some discussion. Listeners may pose questions to the Reader. Going clockwise each Listener may in turn try to guess what book it was. If a player guesses correctly he gets a point and the turn ends.

If no Listener is able to guess correctly the Reader gets a point.

Light Saber Duel

Introduction

Two player game of Manual strength and dexterity.

Rules

Players sit across from each other at a table. Each player gets a pencil. Pencils are of equal length. Pencils must have erasers.

With one hand players hold their pencil by the tip between their thumb and forefinger. Players rest their elbows at the edge of the table, arms bent toward Each other at a 45 degree angle. Players hands should be at the same height about a pencil length apart.

Players may only move their wrists. If you knock your opponents pencil out of his hand with Your pencil you win. With your other hand you can toss bits of tinfoil at your opponent.

(To simulate telekinetic debris attacks)

Safety Rules

Play nice. You must wear safety goggles. Absolutely no stabbing.

Do not play if you are stupid or intoxicated.

Theatrical Rules

Play Star Wars Music in the background. One player must wear a Darth Vader mask if you have one. This player must say "Luke I am your Father" as much as possible.

Always talk in Character. Use the Force. Make light saber sound effects.

Place Star Wars toys and Action figures strategically around the table.

Game Designers Notes

After experimenting with multiple complex card systems I decided this Would be the most fun.

Lighter Than Air Warfare

by Dale Poole

A modified version of Lloyd Krassner's ZEPPELIN BATTLES of the GREAT WAR, Adapted for Play-by-E-Mail

Introduction

Imagine if Orville and Wilbur Wright did not successfully fly their powered airplane in 1903, but instead ten years later. In such an alternate history there would be no effective combat airplanes. Commitments in military research and industrial production might have instead, focused on the Zeppelin as a weapon carrier. This game provides a tactical simulation of such Zeppelin warfare.

Zeppelin Unit Types Table

Airship	Cargo	Move	Hydrogen	Cost in
Class	Slots	Points	Gas	Resource Points
–	–	–	–	–
Scout	2	5	10	17
Escort	3	4	20	27
Destroyer	4	4	30	38
Frigate	5	3	40	48
Cruiser	6	3	50	59
Battleship	7	2	60	69

Weapons Cargo Table

Other Cargo	Slots	Notes
Engine	1	Increase Base Speed +1
Ammo	1	10 Large or 20 Small Cannon Shots.
Patch Crew	1	Repair Punctures and put out fires.

The Ships

Zeppelins as depicted in this game, have three statistics; Movement Points, Cargo Slots and an amount of Gas, all measured in arbitrary units.

Movement Points are outlined below. They determine the maximum distance a Zeppelin can travel in a turn.

Cargo Slots hold Weapons, Ammunition, Personnel and possibly other items as may be required by a given scenario.

Gas determines your Zeppelin's buoyancy - if you lose all of your Gas, you plummet to the ground!

Each Zeppelin in your fleet requires the expenditure of Resource Points, and must be further equipped with various items at a further cost in Resource Points.

Cargo -
Gas Tanks	1	10 Gas
Bombs	1	May be dropped on Zeps.
	-	Target destroyed on roll of 1-3 on 1D6.
Passengers	1	May function as 'Small Arms' weapon
Bulk Cargo	1	May apply to scenario victory conditions

Basic Turn Sequence

1. Determine Initiative
2. Submit Movement Orders
3. Map Update
4. Submit Combat Orders
5. Wind Randomization
6. Map Update
7. Resolve Combat and Damage
8. Make Repairs

Initiative

- initiative is determined by a simple die with the highest roll winning the initiative. All ties are re-rolled.
- initiative is determined for all players before movement occurs.
- the player with initiative chooses whether he will move first or last.
- if he chooses to move last, then initiative takes place in the reverse order of the rolls, with the lowest roller playing first, then the next lower and so on.
- if he choose to move first, then initiative takes place with the initiative winner moving first, then the next highest roll moving and so forth.
- on subsequent turns, a die roll is made as usual, however the winner of initiative in the previous turn determines if initiative will take place high to low or low to high.

Movement

- in each turn a Zeppelin can increase or decrease speed, changing facing (direction) gain or lose altitude
- Zeppelins have a maximum number of Movement Points, which determines how many hexes the Zeppelin can move.
- a Zeppelin can never move more than it's maximum Movement Points in "Orders" (see 'Winds' below)
- a Zeppelin may be ordered to move zero in which case it will remain in place
- 1 Movement Point is expended to change direction my one hex face; Zeppelins will always face a hex side
- 1 Movement Point is expended for each step of altitude gained or lost
- there are 10 steps of altitude, with '0' being ground level
- Zeppelins will also lose altitude when they start losing Gas
- after Combat Orders are received, all Zeppelins are subjected to a randomized Wind Effect

Winds Table

1D12	Wind Direction
1	NW
2	N
3	NE
4	SE
5	S
6	SW
7	W
8	E
9	Zep rotates to left 60 degrees. Do not roll Wind speed.
10	Zep rotates to right 60 degrees. Do not roll Wind speed.

12	Zep pushed down 1 Altitude step. Do not roll Wind speed.

1D6	Wind Speed
4	1

1D6	Wind Speed

1D6	Wind Speed
6	2

COMBAT and DAMAGE

- each weapon on your Zeppelin may fire once per turn
- each weapon fires out of one set 90 degree Arc of Fire; Forward, Aft, Starboard, or Port

- small arms fire can take place in any Arc of Fire and may change from Turn to Turn
- targets must be at the same altitude or up to 2 altitude steps below
- all Combat is simultaneous as per Orders

Damage Table

Damage Result	Flamethrw	Small	Machine Gun	-
on 1D20	L.Cannon	Cannon	Small Arms	Notes
-	-	-	-	-
Cargo Hit	1	1	1	1 random cargo destroyed
Steering Hit	2	2	2	Zep cannot turn
Engine Hit	3	3	3	Base Speed -1
Cabin Hit	4	4	4	Spark- Zep catches on fire
Minor Puncture	5-7	5-14	5-20	-1 Gas per turn until patched
Major Puncture	8-12	15-19	-	-2 Gas per turn until patched
Crit Puncture	13-18	20	-	-3 Gas per turn until patched
Blowout	19-20	-	-	Zeppelin Destroyed

- if Ammo, Gas Tanks, or Bombs are hit, the Zep suffers Blowout.
- a Zeppelin hit by a flamethrower is considered to be 'in flames' and must roll on the flamethrower damage column once each subsequent turn until a patch crew puts the flames out.
- each turn a Zeppelin is at 50% or less Gas, it loses 1 altitude step
- each turn a Zeppelin is at 25% or less Gas, it loses 2 altitude steps

turn:

- * extinguish a fire
- * patch a Critical Puncture to a Major Puncture
- * patch a Major Puncture to a Minor Puncture
- * patch a Minor Puncture, preventing further Gas loss

Play-by-e-mail Notes

Die Rolls

In order to smooth game play and keep the randomization afforded by Die Rolls, each player is required to submit a list of die rolls to the Referee, prior to the start of the game.

The Referee will provide the details of which Die Roll Server to use, as well as which and how many of each Die Roll is required. When the Die Rolls for each player are received, Initiative will be determined.

For those who are interested, the Die Roll Server will create the list with your Player Name on it and the list will be e-mailed to the Referee. This prevents a player from stacking their rolls.

At the end of each game the Referee can mail the list of rolls received and used so far, to any player who makes the request. This allows the Player the opportunity to double check the Referee's work.

At the end of the game, the complete list of Rolls submitted to each player, will be mailed to each player, showing the complete list and each roll used on their behalf.

Note that your opponent's rolls will never be revealed to you - Die Rolls are a matter strictly reserved between each individual Player and the Referee.

Map Updates

Turn Sequence 3 and 6 are 'Map Updates', provided to allow the player some opportunity to exercise his own brand of tactics. These Map Updates will be provided on the game website, as soon as Movement Orders are received (in the case of Turn Sequence 3), and Combat Orders are received (in the case of Turn Sequence 6). Please feel free to check the site as often as you like.

Adaptations

Lloyd Krassner's ZEPPELIN BATTLES of the GREAT WAR was originally conceived as a table top game, designed to be played on a physical map with figures or counters to represent your Zeppelins and other support props such as dice.

Some obvious modification were required to fit the game into the PBEM format.

Most notably are the introduction of the 'Map Update' Turn impulses and the elimination of random dice throws for things like Damage, Patch Crew Repairs, and Altitude Loss due to Gas Loss.

Initiative was significantly changed, to allow some tactical decision making on the part of the players. Initiative is usually regarding as the luck of the dice, something the player can't influence. Now there is a reason to hope to get the initiative and important decisions to make if you do. That decision may not always be to your benefit. Along with Wind Effects, the Initiative system simulates the inaccuracies of positioning and firing from a highly vulnerable platform.

Finally, a point system was introduced in an effort to achieve some sort of game balance while maintaining the players' ability to exercise their own decision making. This is my first attempt at a point system, and all point values were assigned in a highly arbitrary manner! I would be interested in hearing what changes you think would improve the game.

Please give Lloyd the honour he deserves for this game by visiting his website if you haven't already done so. Send him your comments and while you're there, check out some of the myriad other games Lloyd has created - he has a fabulous mind and as a game designer I know he craves feedback of almost any type on his work!

Linear Progression

Rules

1. Linear Progression is a two player abstract strategy game played on a regular chess or checkers board.
2. One player gets a set of black tokens. The other player gets a set of white tokens. Plastic winks work great.
3. Players begin by dropping one of their tokens onto the board. The square it lands on is their starting location.
4. Players take turns moving. White moves first.
5. Tokens move like queens in chess.
6. Every space your token moves into or through put a token of your color into that square.
7. If an opponent had tokens in spaces you moved into or through, remove them and replace them with your tokens.
8. A player moves only one token per turn but it can be any of their tokens.
9. A token cannot move into or through an opponent's last remaining token on the board.
10. For a move to be legal you must enter at least one empty space on your turn.
11. If you move into a space occupied by one of your own tokens you must stop moving and your turn ends.
12. The game ends when the last empty space becomes occupied. The winner is the player with the most spaces of their color on the board.
13. The corner spaces of the board are not used and cannot be entered.

Optional Rules

Equal Number of Moves: Black always moves last even if white occupied the last empty space.

Blockers:

Use rooks for blockers. Tokens cannot move into or through blockers. Blockers move like queens: They can move onto or through spaces that are empty or occupied by tokens.

Blockers cannot move into: The last unoccupied space on the board or Onto a player's last remaining token on the board or Into the last space your opponent moved into last turn. Players can move one blocker per turn in addition to one token. If a blocker is on top of a token that token cannot be moved.

Tokens a blocker moves through or onto are not removed. Players start the game with one blocker. This blocker starts in any unoccupied corner space.

Variant Boards

Try using boards of different shapes and sizes. This may include "islands" in the middle that cannot be moved into or thru.

Faq

Q....Rule 10) So you can finish a turn in an occupied cell? YES In the case of your own colour you are required to stop (rule 11), YES in the case of the opposing colour, you replace it with a token of your own? YES

All Demon Lords are Force 6, move Fast, are attuned to their particular Domain, and possess the special attributes of Leader, Flying and Magic (3).

Each player sets up their Demon Lord, 5 random general units and 5 random Domain units, in the Domain of their particular Demon Lord.

Action Deck

Players share a common Action deck (at bottom of page).

Movement Phase

Stacks move at the speed of the slowest unit in the stack When moving through a Portal, any units that do so forego their normal movement. They just move from one Portal territory to the connecting one.

Revenue Phase

Revenue is counted in units called Souls. Each territory generates 1 Souls per turn. If a player controls all the territories in a Domain, then those territories produce 2 Souls per turn.

Recruitment Phase

A player may draw 5 random unit chits in their phase from the general pile, or any Domain pile that they control a territory in. Units of a particular Domain can only be recruited into a territory in that Domain. If a Demon Lord is killed, then he may be recruited again as a normal unit. If a player does this, however, they do not draw any unit chits that turn.

Battle Phase

Units of a particular Domain receive -1 to their force if they are battling in an opposing Domain. This also affects Demon Lords. The opposing Domains are as follows:

- Fire-Ice
- Blood-Rot
- Bone-Steel
- Hate-Pain

Void has no opposing Domain.

Special Attributes Unit chits may have the following special attributes that may effect their Force in battle, or have other effects:

Force	Effect
Missile:	Unit has +1 Force if they are Defending
Brute:	Unit has +1 Force if they are Attacking
Horde:	For each unit more than one in the stack, add +1 to the stack's Force total for that battle (Maximum: +5)
Flying:	Unit may move through territories occupied by enemy units
Magic (x):	A unit with this ability may cast a number of spells per combat equal to (x).

Lost Girl Quest

Introduction

Board game for 2 -4+ players based on the TV show. Players move their pawns around a circular track collecting tokens Needed to solve a central Mystery and its complications.

Disclaimer

Lost Girl is a licensed, copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

Carousing

In the spirit of the show, there should be drinking (and kissing).

Victory

Be the first player to solve 3 Mysteries.

The Board

The Board is a circular track with 12 spaces:

#	Space (Notes)
1	Bo (Gain 2 Tokens of any type except Lore)
2	Weapon or Disguise (Gain 1 Guile or Fight Token)
3	Kenzi (Gain 2 Guile or Heart Tokens or 1 Fight or Search Token)
4	Complication (Draw 1 Card from the Complication Deck)
5	Dyson (Gain 1 Token of any type or 2 Fight Tokens)
6	The Dal (Have a Drink and or a Kiss)
7	Hale (Gain 1 Token of Lore, Search, Magic, Fight, or Guile)
8	Relic or Story (Gain 1 Lore or Magic Token)

11	Lauren (Gain 2 Search Tokens or 1 Heart, Lore, or Guile Token)
12	Victim or Investigation (Gain 1 Heart or 1 Search Token)

Pawns & Dice

Each player gets 1 pawn of a unique color. Pawns start on the "Bo" space and move clockwise. One six sided die is needed.

Traits & Tokens

There are six types of Tokens, one type for each of the six traits.

Trait:	Toke Color:	Notes:
Guile	Yellow	Trickery, Cons, Persuasion, Wit, Sleight of Hand
Lore	Green	Contacts, Knowledge of Fae Biology and History
Search	Blue	Investigation Techniques, Analysis, Interrogation
Heart	Red	Family, Friends, Sacrifice, Courage, Willpower
Fight	Orange	Weapons, Strength, Fighting Ability
Magic	Purple	Magic Powers, Potions, Spells, Relics

Or assign colors according to whatever Tokens you have.

Decks

There are 3 common decks of cards:

1. Mystery Deck
2. Complication Deck
3. Assistance Deck

If any deck is used up, shuffle its discard and draw from it.

Mystery Deck & Solving Mysteries

Each card represents a Mystery that must be solved or resolved. Much like how there is one or more "cases" to each episode. To solve a Mystery a player must collect 3 of each Token type, plus Extra Tokens required by individual Mysteries and complications.

An individual Mystery card lists any extra Tokens required in addition to the 3 of each type. When a Mystery is solved, the solving player keeps the card and A new card is drawn from the Mystery Deck to be the new Mystery.

Complication Deck

When a player lands on the Complication space, they draw a Complication card. This card is placed face up next to the board. This card lists extra Tokens that need to be gained to solve the current Mystery.

This additional burden applies to all players. When the current Mystery is solved, these cards are discarded.

Assistance Deck

When a player lands on the Assistance space, they draw an Assistance card. This card gives that player one or more extra Tokens. The Assistance card is then discarded.

Setup

Shuffle the 3 decks. The Top Mystery Card is placed face up in the middle of the movement track. Each player selects a Pawn.

Pawns are placed on the "Bo" space. Players roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first. Play proceeds clockwise.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 phases:

1. Move Phase
2. Action Phase
3. End Phase

Move Phase

Roll 1 die and move that many spaces clockwise along the track.

Action Phase

Most spaces when you land on them give you 1 or more Tokens. If you land on a Deck space, draw a card from the indicated deck.

End Phase

If you have enough of the right Tokens to solve the Mystery and all of its Complications, declare your intent. Keep the Mystery card. Discard all complications. All players discard all of their Tokens.

Landing On An Opponent's Pawn

If you land on an opponent's Pawn, steal 1 Token of your choice from him. Skip all other actions you would take at that space.

Lotr Warrior Dice

Introduction

Dice game for 2 players. Each player is a Warrior represented by a single die.

Dice & Bits

Each player needs one Ten-sided die. Use spare change to keep track of Hits. Note: This is a very portable game. (Keep Battle tables written on Index cards)

Victory

Reduce your opponent to zero hits.

Anatomy Of A Die

One Face (1) is the Adder. If you roll the Adder, Roll again and add 10 to the Force of the roll. One Face (2) is the Doubler.

If you roll the Doubler, Roll again twice and keep one of the rolls. The other eight faces are a combination of Attack and Defense results. An Attack or Defense Face has a Force value.

A Force value is always a number that is a multiple of 10.

Setup

Choose which Warrior you want to be. Each basic Warrior starts with 100 Hits. Players roll high to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Each turn is divided into 3 phases:

- Attack Phase
- Defend Phase

- Damage Phase
- ATTACK PHASE The attacker (the current player whose turn it is) rolls his die.
- If you roll the Adder, Roll again and add 10 to the Force of the roll.
- If you roll the Doubler, Roll again twice and keep one of the rolls.
- If you roll a Defense result the turn ends.
- If you roll an Attack face proceed to the Defend phase.

Defend Phase

The defender (the other player) rolls his die. If you roll the Adder, Roll again and add 10 to the Force of the roll. If you roll the Doubler, Roll again twice and keep one of the rolls.

Damage Phase

The Attacker does damage (in Hits) to the defender equal to the Force of his Attack result. If the defender rolled a Defense result in Defend phase, he subtracts the Force of The Defense result from the Damage he receives. (Treat a negative result as zero)

Special Results

Neutralize: this is a type of Attack result: Your opponent skips his next 2 attack phases. All Out: this is a type of Attack result: If ATTACKING, roll again and double the Force of the result.

Design Your Own Warriors

Basic Warriors are 300 points: 100 Hit points 100 points distributed to Attacks 100 points distributed to

Defenses "All Out" Attacks are worth 10 points "Regain 10 Lost Hits" Defenses are worth 20 points "Neutralize" Attacks are worth 20 points

Experience

XP Experience Points

Every time you defeat a lesser warrior get 1 XP. Every time you defeat an equal warrior get 5 XP. Every time you defeat a greater warrior get 10 XP.

Each 10 XP allows you to do one of the following:

1. Add 10 to one of your Attacks
2. Add 10 to one of your Defenses
3. Gain 10 Hit Points
4. Create a new Attack or Defense with a Force = 10.

The new Attack or Defense shares a Die roll Indicator (1-10) with one of your existing results and can be used instead of the original at your discretion during combat. For Example: The Samurai turns in 10XP to gain a new Attack he calls Wakizashi (Short sword) with a Force = 10. He assigns this new attack to his #7 slot which already has the Defense of "Armor" (Force = 10). So from now on, every time he rolls a #7 he can choose to have it mean either Armor or Wakizashi.

FAQ's

1. Situation: I roll the Adder, then the Doubler. How is that handled? We have been using a spot ruling that only the last one rolled is applied. A. You get +10 (from the Adder) then roll again twice (from the Doubler) and pick one of the results.

2. What if I roll the Doubler then an All Out Attack? Made basically the same ruling as #1, above. A. In this case you picked the "All Out Attack" which then allows you to make another roll.

3. Does Neutralize automatically affect the target? We've been reading it as 'Yes'. A. Good point. Some defense against "Neutralize" attacks should be allowed. I rule that a defense of 20+ Force should negate a Neutralize Attack.

4. Can you Double a Neutralize to 4 turns? We read that as 'No'.

A. I would agree that Neutralize Attacks cannot be doubled.

Warrior Dice

Shadow Warriors By Brian Rayburn (scarecrowking@unclebear.com)

Shadow Warriors is a background setting for on-going games. Each character is a being that exists beyond the boundaries of the mortal sphere. Most can become younger or older at will, but each being of Shadow can recognize another on sight. Most have long-reaching schemes that they wish to see to fruition. However, with immortality and power comes arrogance, and they see each other as obstacles in their power plays. Therefore, most attack each other on sight, or at the earliest opportunity. Most have an unseen (in normal games, at least) mentor, another creature who has been on Earth for centuries amassing power. This simply gives a background for the character to be and have what he does.

One important difference from the warriors described in the basic rules is that Shadow beings can never truly die, at least not in a way understandable to mortals. Truly powerful majicks would be needed to permanently banish even one from our plane of existence, and sorcerers of that caliber are unique, if not extinct. To reflect this in game terms, each time a character is brought to 1/10 of their starting Hits, they may yield, and no Shadow being can pass the opportunity to know, if even for only a while, that they held the upper hand. Of course, if a blow brings a character to 0 Hits, the victim is dead.

For a while. See, Shadow creatures can reform. At a cost. Each time this happens, subtract 10 from the Force of one Attack or Defense, or 10 Hits permanently. The point value of a character reforming this way should be adjusted down as well. The lost points can be bought again with XP as normal, but if the character dies again, 10 more points have to be subtracted again. If a character insists on fighting until they are reduced to below 30 points, then that character's life force is banished back to the Shadow Realms, to work it's way back up the ranks of the dark masses to again wield the power to manifest in our realm.

Another difference is that a character actually inhabits a mortal body, even if that body was crafted by the creature's force of will. As such, a character is limited to one 'supernatural' attack form, such as manifesting claws or spitting a stream of venom. Many times these traits resemble animal abilities, in a twisted way. Although characters begin with only one supernatural ability, more can be obtained. Each time you force another Shadow being to reform, you may absorb some of his essence. After tallying the XP for the battle, if the winner has enough XP to purchase a new Attack or Defense, she may decide to make it the same type as the defeated character's supernatural trait. If a defeated character has more than one already, the winner may choose one. Here's some examples:

Miranda Thorne and Gregor Kaprov have met in battle in the main building of her mentor's corporate empire. Both being beginning characters, each has one supernatural trait. Miranda designated one Attack as 'Claws', which she took at Force 30. Gregor can transform his face during combat, and manifest an Attack as 'Fanged Bite', which he allotted 40 Attack Force to. Miranda gains the upper hand, and rips Gregor's throat out. Since they were of equal point value, Miranda gains 5 XP. Since she also made Jasmine yield a few months ago, that brings her to 10XP. She decides to spend the XP immediately, and take on Gregor's trait. She decides to keep with the theme set by her Claws, and decides hers will manifest as a more feline appearance. She places it as the second option of her #4 slot, as 'Fanged Bite 10', and is now a 310 pt character. In a few weeks Gregor will be back. He will have lost 10 points from the Force of one Attack or Defence, or his Hits, but will still have the trait 'Fanged Bite 40', assuming he didn't subtract the 10 points from that trait. Gregor is now a 290 pt character.

Existing abilities can be improved upon, and even expanded. For example, if a character took 'Winged Retreat Defense 20' as their #6 slot, she could buy 'Wing Slap Attack 10' as a new ability at any time she has the XP.

Before a Battle, roll on the chart below to see where your encounter takes place.

1. Beach Uneven footing gives all Attacks -10 Force
2. Alley Roll 1d10 at the beginning of each turn. Someone stumbles upon you and the battle ends if a 1 is rolled.
3. Warehouse Shelves and crates give all Defenses +10 Force
4. Corporate Boardroom Desks, tables, and chairs prevent All Out attacks, treat as a lost attack
5. Place of Darkness Mystic vibes give all Attacks +10 Force
6. Unholy Site Once per Battle, each Immortal may choose to trade any single Defense roll of 40 or higher to heal up to 20 lost Hits
7. Opera House Smooth stage gives all Defenses -10 Force
8. Rocky Ground All Force scores are at -10
9. Parking Garage Roll 1d10 at the beginning of each turn. Someone stumbles upon you and the battle ends if a 1 is rolled.

0. Nexus to the Shadow Realm All Force scores doubled

All sides have been openly hostile to each other in the ensuing confusion & carnage.

The Decks

Each Player has his own unique deck.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 3 phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Deploy Phase
3. Attack Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 card from your deck. If your deck runs out, shuffle your discard & draw from it. Max hand size is 10 cards. Discard excess cards.

Deploy Phase

Put unit cards from your hand into play. Attach Modifier card to target units (Max 1 per unit).

Attack Phase

Each of your units may attack. Declare attackers. Bases cannot attack and they inflict no damage. Unblocked attackers do damage to a target base.

Opponent declares blockers. Blockers may not combine. Blocking/blocked units do damage to each other.

Use counters to mark damage done to Bases & Units. A Unit or Base with more Damage points than Force is destroyed. Event cards are discarded after being played.

Faq Section

Q) Each Player has a separate Escapade? That is "you may only have one Escapade card in play at a time." Doesn't mean only one, period, but one for each player can be in play? A) Each player may have one Escapade in play.

Q) You need not capture an Adventure in a given turn? That is, you play an Escapade, opponent(s) reinforce it with nemesis/complications, then when you play your Meld you simply don't have enough characters/help to capture it. You can add characters/help, in subsequent turns as many turns as it takes, until you have enough to capture it in that turn's Action phase? A) Yes to all. Remember, you can also capture opponent's escapades too.

Q) What if, after laying out 4 characters + 3 help you simply don't have enough points to capture the Adventure? You can trade out Characters, but except for trading a major character for "Pops Zenigata to the Rescue" you can't build up your Meld thereafter. My guess is that this will seldom if ever happen. A) Rules change: You can trade out Help cards too. This makes an "Impossible to complete" Adventure even less likely.

Mad Scientists

Introduction

Board game for 2+ players. Science Fiction theme. Players are Rival Mad Scientists bent on World Domination.

Victory

Destroy all Enemy Bases.

The Map

Use an 8x8 chessboard.

Units

Use chits (Counters) to represent units. Chits are mixed together in a common pool used by all players. There are 4 basic types of chits: Bases(B), Units(U), Modifiers(M), and Specials(S).

Unit & Base Attributes

Each unit or base has 3 Attributes or Traits: *Move: the number of spaces the unit can move per turn. *Range: the maximum number of spaces distant the unit can apply damage. *Defense: the amount of damage the unit can take at one time before having to retreat.

Some units have additional special abilities.

Special Chits

Players hold onto Special Chits until they want to use them. Special Chits are discarded to produce an effect.

Unit Special Abilities

Setup

Each player places one Base on one square of his back row. Determine who goes first in a non-random manner.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 phases: Invention Phase Deploy Phase Move Phase Attack Phase

Invention Phase

Each player draws 2 random chits from the common pile.

Deploy Phase

Play a unit chit onto the board into an empty space on your back row or Adjacent to any of your bases. You may play a Base adjacent to a friendly unit but not adjacent to Another of your bases or an enemy unit. Modification Chits are attached (placed under) units and bases.

Modification Chits alter the Traits of the attached unit or base.

Move Phase

You can move some, none, or all of your units in move phase. Units can move orthogonally or diagonally. Units can move up to a number of spaces equal to their Move Trait.

Units cannot stack. Units cannot move through other units or bases.

Fire Phase

Each of your units can attack one target enemy unit in Fire Phase. Different units may attack different targets. Each unit has a Range Trait (number of spaces out it can attack into) A unit can only attack a target that is within its range.

Units with ranges 2+ can attack over other units. An attack does 1 point of damage unless otherwise stated. As soon as a unit takes damage in a single turn equal to its Defense Trait, it must retreat.

A retreating unit must move laterally or back towards its side of the board 1 space. A retreating unit unable to move is destroyed and is removed from the board. Units that retreat off the board are destroyed.

A unit cannot move laterally if it will come in contact with an enemy unit. Bases cannot move, so they are destroyed if they must retreat.

Double Whammy Rule

If you can force a unit to retreat a second time in the same phase, it is automatically destroyed.

Chit List Notation

Immobilization: Target Unit cannot Move or Attack for 3 turns. Interrupt: Target Opponent skips his next Invention Phase. Stealth: Unit can Move through other units.

Think: Base Modifier only. For every 2 Think cards draw an extra Chit in Event Phase. A Base may have a maximum of 1 Think card attached. Note: Units can be either Troops or Guns.

Magery

Introduction

Chess Variant. Fantasy Theme. 2-Player. Worker Placement. Minion Pieces can be used as Workers or Chessmen.

Victory

Eliminate all of your opponent's Minions from the chessboard or capture 5 Greater Minions (any combination of types) or capture 3 Greater Minions of 1 type.

The Boards

- There are 2 Boards:
1. A regular 8 x 8 Chessboard. The Chessboard is also called the Arena.
 2. A special Mage Tower board.

The Chaos Mage Deck

This is a deck of 12 Cards.

Minion Recognition Table

Type	Rank	Movement
Dragon	Greater	Queen
Myrmidon	Minor	Two Space King
Undead	Pawn	Orthogonal King
Fey	Minor	Knight

Dragon Minions

On the chessboard the Dragon moves like a Queen.

Myrmidon

On the chessboard the Myrmidon jumps in any direction exactly 2 spaces.

Undead

On the chessboard the Undead can move orthogonally 1 space. It can move backwards.

Fey

On the chessboard the Fey jumps exactly like a knight in regular Chess.

Elemental

On the chessboard the Elemental moves like a Bishop.

The Orb

Use a small trinket or piece of jewelry to represent the Orb. Possession of the Orb determines turn order during the Round.

Minions

There are 8 types of minions. Each player has a set of 24 Minions, 3 of each type. Sets should be differentiated by color.

Minion Usage

At any given time, a minion can be in one of three places:

- In the Arena (in play on the Chessboard).
- In the players Reserve Area. Minions in the Reserve can be played onto Chambers of the Mage Tower or be Summoned to the Arena.
- Destroyed (Captured, out of play): Keep these in a separate Dead Pile. Dead Minions do nothing and cannot be returned to play.

Type	Rank	Movement
Elemental	Greater	Bishop
Beast	Pawn	Diagonal King
Construct	Greater	Rook
Spirit	Minor	Far Knight

Beast

On the chessboard the Beast can move diagonally 1 space. It can move backwards.

Construct

On the chessboard the Construct moves like a Rook.

Spirit

On the chessboard the Spirit jumps like a modified Knight: Instead of moving two spaces and over one like a regular Knight, it moves three spaces and then over one.

The All Important Backrow Rule

A Greater Minion on its own Backrow cannot in a single move enter a Space on his opponents Backrow!

The Mage Tower Board

This represents a tower with 16 floors. Each floor has 1 Chamber occupied by 1 Mage. When designing a Mage tower Board, each space has to big enough to Hold 1 Minion and 1 Card.

Mage Tower

Floor	Mage:	Power:
16	Fourth Chaos Mage	Per Card
15	Third Chaos Mage	Per Card
14	Second Chaos Mage	Per Card
13	First Chaos Mage	Per Card
12	Magician	Remove a Minion from the Mage Tower
11	Oracle	Gain Possession of the Orb
10	Mystic	Move 1 of your Minions to any Empty space in the Arena
9	Animist	Move any 1 of your Minions in the Arena
8	Dragon Lord	Move or Summon one of your Dragon Minions
7	Elemental Master	Move or Summon one of your Elemental Minions
6	Artificer	Move or Summon one of your Construct Minions
5	Druid	Move or Summon one of your Fey Minions
4	Warlock	Move or Summon one of your Spirit Minions
3	Wizard	Move or Summon one of your Myrmidon Minions
2	Sorcerer	Move or Summon one of your Beast Minions
1	Necromancer	Move or Summon one of your Undead Minions

Setup

Shuffle the Chaos Mage Deck. Decide who is white and who is black. Each player gets a set of 24 Minions.

Place 1 Minion of each type on your backrow in any configuration. White starts in possession of the Orb. White sets up first. White goes first in the first Round.

Randomly place 1 Chaos Mage card in each of the top 4 chambers of the tower.

Round Sequence

The Round is divided into 2 Phases:

1. Decision Phase
2. Action Phase

Decision Phase

Starting with the Orb holder, players take turns placing one Minion from their reserve on one Chamber of the Tower. A Chamber may contain a max of 1 Minion. Continue until all Chambers are occupied, or both players pass. (Players usually pass because of a shortage of remaining Minions) Note that any minion from your reserve can be placed in a Chamber.

No chamber requires a specific type of Minion to occupy it.

Action Phase

Starting with the Orb Holder, players take turns removing their Minions from the Tower... one minion at a time. As a Minion is Removed, the special power of the Mage the minion was occupying is Activated. Resolve these actions immediately. Some Mages give you a choice of Actions.

Important Note: Minions in the Arena do not move unless you activate a Mage Action that allows them to! Note: sometimes you cannot or don't want to take the a Mage action when you Remove the Minion. In this case no action occurs (you still remove the Minion) and Then it goes on to your opponents turn. In general when you remove a Minion from a Tower Chamber it goes back to your Reserve. However some Chaos Mages cause the particular Minion that was on them to go to elsewhere, instead of the Reserve.

Summoning Rules

When you summon a Minion you take the appropriate minion type from your reserve and place it onto a space in the Arena. When you summon a Greater Minion, it must be placed on an empty space in your back row. When you summon a Minor Minion, it must be placed on an empty space on your side of the board.

When you summon a Pawn Minion it must be placed on an empty space.

Chaos Mage Deck Card List

Mage: Power

- Seer: You or your Opponent (your choice) must take the next 2 turns in a row.
- Magus: Place this Minion on any empty Mage Camber.
- Alchemist: Replace 1 of your Minions in the Arena with one from your Reserve.
- Mentalist: Move an Opponent's Minion (It may not Capture).

and move the other 3 up one Floor. Then draw a new card and place it on the First Chaos Mage Chamber. If the Deck runs out, shuffle the discard And draw from it.

Archmage Option

The Deck

Players share a common deck. The deck is referred to as the Ally Deck.

Setup

Players start in opposite corners or as far apart as possible. Each player draws 1 random card from the Ally deck to see what their Race is. The player & all his Tokens will henceforth be referred to as members of that race.

The player and his Tokens will always have the Special Ability of that race as it is described on the card. Each player starts with a Stack of 10 Tokens. Roll high on 1D6 to see who goes first.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 4 Phases:

1. Ally Phase

2. Recruit Phase

3. Move Phase

4. Battle Phase

Ally Phase

Draw 2 cards from the Ally Deck. Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. Some Ally cards can be played to affect the drawing of Ally cards.

Recruit Phase

Gain 1D6 Tokens. Stack these with one of your already existing stacks. Get +1 Token if you control all 5 Territories of a single type.

Some Ally cards can be played to affect Recruitment. Max tokens in one stack = 20. Discard excess Tokens.

Move Phase

Roll 1D6. You may move that many of your Stacks (Armies) one space each. You may also move parts of your stacks to break them up.

A single token cannot move more than one space. You must combine all your tokens in a single space into one stack. Some Ally cards can be played to affect Movement

Battle Phase

The current player is the attacker. The other player is the defender. If opposing stacks occupy the same space, they will battle. There may be multiple battles in a single turn.

Each player rolls 5D6. These are called Battle Dice and the results Battle Rolls. Each of your Tokens has a base Force = 1. Your sides Battle Total = Force of Tokens + Battle Rolls.

Players may play Ally cards from their hands to increase their Battle Total. The side with the higher total wins. The attacker wins ties. The losing stack is discarded. The winner draws 2 cards.

Magicians

Introduction

Card game for 2-4+ players. Players are rival Stage Magicians circa 1890-1914. Players try to put on the best performances and outdo each other.

Victory

The first player to accumulate 100 Prestige Points wins.

Prestige Points

Use paper and pencil to keep track of Prestige Points (MP).

The Decks

There are 2 Common Decks:

1. The Magicians Deck
2. The Trick Deck

Magicians Deck

Each card represents one Magician and describes his special ability.

The Trick Deck

There are 3 types of cards in the Trick Deck:

1. Support cards (Assistants, Helpers, Stages, Props, Traits)
2. Tricks
3. Sabotage

Setup

Shuffle the Decks. At the beginning of the game pick a random card from the Magicians Deck to determine your Identity. Players reveal their identities.

Each player is dealt a hand of 5 cards from the Trick Deck. The player who is the most accomplished magician goes first.

Mulligan Rule

If you do not get a level 1 Trick in your Initial draw, you may discard and draw again.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 7 Phases:

1. Draw Phase
2. Management Phase
3. Dirty Trick Phase
4. New Trick Phase

5. Intermission Phase
6. Prestige Phase
7. Finale Phase

Draw Phase

Draw 1 card and put it in your hand. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Management Phase

Do one of the following:

1. Put an Assistant card into play (1 Max)
2. Put a Helper card into play (3 Max)
3. Put a Stage card into play (1 Max)
4. Put a Prop card into play (No Limit)
5. Put a Trait card into play (No Limit)

Collectively these types of cards are referred to as Support cards. Support cards stay in play face-up in front of you until the end of the game or a Sabotage card causes them to be stolen or discarded. If you are at your Max, you may discard a Support card in play to play a replacement.

You may not play a Stage card unless you have a Trick of equal or greater Level. If your highest Trick Level is ever decreased, discard the Stage card. To play a Trait card, you must have 5 Tricks in play.

You cannot have more Helpers & Assistants in play than Tricks. You cannot have more Props in play than Tricks.

Dirty Trick Phase

Skip this phase if you played a card in Management Phase. You may play one Sabotage card. Discard the Sabotage card once it is played.

New Trick Phase

Skip this phase if you played a card in Management or Dirty Trick Phase. You may put one Trick card into play. Trick cards stay in play face-up in front of you until the end of the game or a Sabotage card causes them to be stolen or discarded.

Tricks are ranked levels 1 through 5. You may always play a level 1 Trick. To play a level 2 Trick you must have at least one Level 1 Trick in play.

To play a level 3 Trick you must have at least one Level 2 Trick in play and so on. You may have more than one Trick of the same level in play. If at the end of this phase you have more than 5 Tricks in play, you must Discard down to 5 Tricks (or whatever your modified Maximum is)

Intermission Phase

If you did not play a card in Management or Dirty Trick or New Trick Phase, you may draw an extra card.

Prestige Phase

You score Prestige Points (PP) in this Phase. Each Trick you have in play earns PP equal to its level. Each of your Support cards earns PP equal to its level.

Certain cards will earn you extra PP according to the card text.

Finale Phase

Max hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Magus

Introduction

Fantasy-Board-Wargame. 2-4 players. Lots of Recruiting.

Armies

Each player has seven Army tokens. Different players should have different color tokens.

The Board

The board is a 13 x 13 square track. Each corner square of the outer track contains a Tower. The spaces closest to the Towers are Black spaces.

Next to the Black spaces are Blue spaces. Next to the Blue spaces are White spaces. Next to the White spaces are Green spaces.

Next to the Green spaces are Red spaces. The center (7th) space of each side is a Gold space. Spaces must be large enough to hold a stack of cards.

Victory

You win if you have an army on all four Tower spaces.

Setup

Each player places one Army Banner Token in one of the Towers. Draw 4 creature cards and place them under the token. Each player draws 2 random artifacts.

Artifacts

Artifacts stay with the player for the entire game. Artifacts are placed face-up next to the player.

Decks

There are 7 decks: Magic Card Deck Black Recruit Deck Blue Recruit Deck White Recruit Deck Green Recruit Deck Red Recruit Deck Artifact Deck The decks and discard piles are placed in the center of the board. The Magic & Artifact decks contain 1 of each card in the list. Recruit decks contain 3 of each card in the list.

The Recruit decks are face-up. The Magic & Artifact decks are face-down.

Turn Sequence

Players take turns. Each turn has 5 phases. Magic Phase Travel Phase Recruit Phase Split Phase Battle Phase

Magic Phase

Draw 1 card from the magic deck. Maximum hand size is 7 cards. Discard excess cards.

Travel Phase

Roll 2 six sided dice. If you only have one army you must move it a number of spaces equal to one of the dice of your choice. You may move either direction, but you must move the whole amount.

If you have 2 or more armies you must move one of your armies a number of spaces equal to one of the dice and another one of your armies a number of spaces equal to the other die. If an army lands on an enemy army they will fight in Battle Phase. An army may not land on a friendly army of the same player.

The army includes the army token and the cards stacked under the token. You may look at the cards under your army tokens any time. You may not look at the cards of opponents armies.

Recruit Phase

If a moving army lands in an empty (no armies) space, you may draw the top card from the indicated Recruit deck and put the creature card face down under the token of that army. For example, if you land on a Black space draw a card from the Black recruit deck. If an army lands on a Gold space you get to draw one Magic Card.

Split Phase

If an army contains more than 5 cards it may split in two. There must be an empty space adjacent to the full army. Put another token into the adjacent space and put 2 of the cards from the old army under the new army.

A player can have a maximum of 7 armies.

Battle Phase

The active player is the attacker. The other player is the defender. Reveal the cards of the two opposing armies. Each creature card has a force value and spell points.

If an army has 2 creatures of the same color (Black for instance) it gets a +1 Force bonus. If an army has 3 creatures of the same color it gets a +3 Force bonus. If an army has 4 creatures of the same color it gets a +6 Force bonus and so on.

If an army has 5 creatures of the same color it gets a +10 Force bonus. The side with the most Arrow units get a +3 Force bonus. The side with the most Regeneration units get a +3 Force bonus.

The side with the most Flying units get a +3 Force bonus. Players may play Magic cards to increase the value of their side. A player may play as many Magic cards as his army has spell points.

Magic Cards and creature special abilities may cause opposing creatures to be destroyed (discarded) All creature special abilities can only be used during battles. Get the total for each side. The side with the lower total is destroyed completely.

The winning side loses no creature cards except for those that were destroyed by Magic & special abilities

Making Plays

Introduction

2 player card game. Simulation of an American Football game.

Victory

As in regular football, the player with the most points at The end of the game wins.

Rules

Assume regular football rules are in effect, however, Game simplifications may abstract some of these away. Common Sense should in all cases prevail.

Tokens	Field Position
0	Own End Zone Line
1	Own Red Zone
2	Own Territory
3	Midline

Upon Conversion (players, switching Of- fense/Defense Roles) all Tokens are discarded.

Down Tokens

As the offensive player (OP), you accumulate Down Tokens (DT) If the OP accumulates 5 DT, possession immediately goes to the opposing team. Upon Con- version (players, switching Offense/Defense Roles) all Tokens are discarded. Every time the OP gains 1 or more FPT the OP discards all DT except 1.

Setup

One player gets to be the Home Team. Toss a Coin. The winner gets to be the Offensive player (OP) first. The other player is the Defensive Player (DP) Both play- ers are dealt 5 cards.

Turn Sequence

Each Play (Turn) is divided up into 9 phases:

- New Down Phase
- Huddle Phase
- Blitz Phase
- Play Phase
- Touchdown Phase
- Extra Point Phase
- Field Goal Phase
- Punt Phase
- Kick Off Phase

The Deck

Players share a common deck.

Dice

Six sided dice are needed.

Field Position Tokens

Field position is abstracted in this game. As the offensive player (OP), you accumulate Field Position Tokens (FPT)

Tokens	Field Position
4	Enemy Territory
5	Enemy Red Zone
6	Enemy End Zone Line
7	Touchdown

New Down Phase

Skip this phase if a Kick Off is being conducted, in Which case go directly to Kick Off Phase The OP gains 1 DT.

Huddle Phase

Each player draws 3 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it. The OP declares: Regular Play, Punt, or Field Goal Attempt.

OP may Punt only if he has less than 4 FPT. If Punt, go directly to Punt Phase. OP may make a Field Goal Attempt only if he has more than 3 FPT.

If Field Goal go directly to Field Goal Phase.

Blitz Phase

The DP may play a Blitz Card. If it is not countered by the OP using a card that Negates Blitz Cards, the play is over.

Play Phase

If the OP declared a Regular play in Huddle Phase, he must now Declare either a Running Play or a Pass Play. The OP may discard any 1 card to act as either:

1. Short Pass: (Pass Card): Gain 1 FPT
2. Rush: (Run Card): Gain 1FPT

If the Card is not countered by the DP, the OP may then play 1 additional Pass card (Pass Play only) and 1 Run card (either play) to further increase the FPT gained.

Touchdown Phase

If the OP accumulates 7+ FPT he gets a Touchdown = 6 Points, and May then go for the Extra Point.

1D6	FPT
6	3

Extra Point Phase

Roll 1D6: On 4+ the OP gets +1 point. The Play is over and next turn starts with a Kickoff.

The Receiver may run it back by playing a Run card. The Kicker may block the run back with a suitable card.

Field Goal Phase

Roll 1D6:

- 4 FPT: Long Shot: Field Goal successful on a roll of 5+
- 5 FPT: Field Goal successful on a roll of 4+
- 6 FPT: Chip Shot: Field Goal successful on a roll of 3+

A successful Field Goal is worth 3 Points. The Play is over and next turn starts with a Kickoff.

Runback Rule

If the DP gains possession by an Intercept or Fumble card, he Immediately gains FPT = 7 - the FPT the other team had and may Run it back by playing a Run card, which may be countered by an Appropriate Defense card.

Conversion Rule

If the OP accumulated 5 DT the DP becomes the new OP with a starting FPT 7 - the FPT the other team had.

Punt Phase

The OP kicks to the DP. Roll 1D6 to determine starting position of Receiving Team:

2-3	2
6	4

The Receiver may run it back by playing a Run card. The Kicker may block the run back with a suitable card.

Malta Convoy

Introduction

Solo dice game. WWII Simulation of the Allied relief convoy to the British Island Stronghold of Malta August 3rd, 1942. Also known as Operation Pedestal.

Convoy Composition

Ship Type:	Number of Ships:	Notes:
Cargo Ships	3D6	Merchant Men
Oil Tankers	1D6	-
Aircraft Carriers	1D3	-
Cruisers	1D6 + 6	Warship
Destroyers	3D6 + 20	Warship

Record how many of each type of ship you have.

Length Of Journey

The game will last 20 + 1D6 Turns Make a column of that many boxes on a piece of paper. Number the boxes.

Friendly Waters

The convoy will not be attacked for the first 1D6 turns.

Materials

Paper, pencil, 1-2 six sided dice, nobody to play with.

Covering Force Returns

When you are halfway through the trip roll 1D6 for each of your remaining Aircraft Carriers. On a roll of 4-6 they return to their bases with 3 +1D6 warships each.

Contact

Every turn make one contact roll.

1D6	Contact:	Notes:
1	Dumb Luck	-1 to this roll next turn
2-3	No Contact	Turn Ends
4	Reconnaissance Plane	+2 to this roll next turn
5	Surprise Contact	Force Size -1
6	Contact	Force Size No Change
7	Sortie	Force Size +1
8	Attack Force	Force Size +2

Enemy Force

If contact is made roll to see what type:

1D6	Type:	Notes:
1	U-boats	Force Size -1
2-3	Italian Air force	Attack Rolls -1
4-5	German Air Force	Attack Rolls +1
6	Combined Air Force	Force Size +1

Force Size

Roll 1D6. The result of this roll is the Force Size of the enemy force. The Force size is a minimum of 1 with Modifications.

Interception

Make 3 Interception Rolls. Make one additional roll for every Aircraft Carrier you have. Make one less roll if all of your cruisers are destroyed.

Make one less roll if all of your destroyers are destroyed. For every roll of 1 on 1D6 the size of the attacking enemy force is reduced by one.

Enemy Attacks

(Attack Rolls) Roll a number of times equal to the enemy force size:

1D6	Damage:
1-2	Miss
3-4	Ship Damaged
5-6	Ship Destroyed

1D6	Type:
1	Tanker
2	Cargo Ship
3-4	Aircraft Carrier

If there are no Aircraft carriers left treat the result as a Cargo Ship. If you already have a damaged ship of a certain type and you get another 'Ship damaged or destroyed' result for that type there is a 1-3 in 1D6 chance that the damaged ship is hit again and sunk.

Options

You may take an option at the very beginning of your turn. You cannot take another option if you are currently using one.

Decoy Option

Once during the trip you may send out a dummy convoy. Target rolls +2 for 1D6 turns. Get 1 less intercept roll.

Split Option

Once during the trip you may split up the fleet (Every ship for himself). Force Size -1 for 1D6 turns. Contact rolls are at +1.

Targets

(Target Rolls) If a ship is damaged or destroyed make a Target roll to see which type:

1D6	Type:
5	Cruiser
6	Destroyer

Evade Option

Once during the trip you may take an evasive route. Contact rolls at -2 for 1D6 turns. Game length increases by 1D3 turns.

Screen Option

Once during the trip you may set up a screen of warships to face the enemy routes of advance. Get two additional Intercept rolls for 1D6 turns. Attack rolls are at +1.

Scoring

Start with 100 points. Lose 2 points for every cargo ship lost. Lose 1 point for every cruiser lost.

Lose 3 points for every tanker lost. Lose 5 points for every aircraft carrier lost. Gain 1 point for every Interception.

Lose 10 points if all of your Tankers are destroyed. Lose 10 points if all of your Cargo ships are destroyed.

Man-o-war

Introduction

Card game based on the Games Workshop Game called Man O'War.

Disclaimer

Man-O-War is a trademarked, copyrighted property. This is merely a fan site.

Fleet Construction

Each player chooses Ships from one list. A Fleet will have 20 points worth of Ships. Record your ships on a scrap paper.

A Fleet will get 5 draws from the Improvements deck. Each Improvement card can modify one ship. A ship can only be improved twice.

Victory

Sink all of your opponent's Ships.

Turn Sequence

Play proceeds in Rounds. During a Round each Ship gets its own Phase. Players take turns giving one of their ships a phase.

The player with the most ships goes first. For Example: Player X has ships A, B, and C. Player Z has Ships D and E. Player X goes first. He uses Ship B. Player Z goes next with ship E. Player X then goes with ship A, and so on.

A ship whose turn it is, is called the Active ship. A Phase has 4 Segments: Draw Segment Move Segment Attack Segment End Segment

Draw Segment

First discard any cards from your hand you don't want. Next, fill your hand to 7 cards. If the deck runs out, shuffle the discard and draw from it.

Move Segment

Pick an enemy Ship to be the target of your attack. Your opponent may discard a Row or a Sail card to force you to pick another target. You may play Row cards or Sail cards.

Your Ship has stats for Rowing and Sailing. Multiply the number of Row or Sail Cards you play by the corresponding stat. The total you get is called your Speed Score.

Your opponent does the same for his target ship. The target ship cannot play any cards if it rammed or boarded in its last phase. If your Speed score is higher than his, you may attack the target this phase.

Discard played cards.

Attack Segment

Play one Attack Card. There are 4 types of attack cards: Broadside, Fire-Forward, Ram, and Boarding Action Your ship has a stat for each type of attack. The value of the stat that corresponds to the played card is called the Attack Score.

Roll a number of six sided dice equal to your attack score. Every roll of 4-6 on a six sided die does one point of damage to the target ship. Subtract one from the roll for Indirect fire.

Record damage for all ships. Any time a ship has damage equal to or greater than its Hull stat it sinks. If you made a Fire-Forward attack the target may simultaneously play a Fire-Forward.

A ship cannot automatically return fire against a ship with Indirect fire unless it also has indirect fire. If you made a broadside attack the target may simultaneously play a broadside. If your ship made a broadside attack it may attack a second ship using the same attack card.

The second broadside attack must first repeat Move Segment with the new target. If the attack is a boarding action the target may play a broadside first. If the attack is a boarding action the target may simultaneously play a boarding action.

A ship cannot ram if it was rammed since its last phase. Discard played cards.

End Segment

Fill your hand to 7 cards.

Playing Pieces

ITS can be represented by coins. Dice are also needed.

The Deck

Players draw from a common deck. The deck includes 42 conflict cards and 23 influence cards.

Setup

Each player starts with a hand of 2 cards. Each player begins in control of adjacent Regions with a combined Influence of 3. For example: North America (3) by itself; or Japan (2) and SE Asia (1) Alternatively, a player could start with an Influence of 2 and 2 extra cards. Each player starts with a reserve of 1D6 Influence tokens.

A player places one of his chits on a region he controls. All regions not controlled by a player are

Bidding Rules

Bidding is the mechanism for resolving all conflicts. All bids are secret. Players are bidding Influence tokens (ITS).

A player may bid none, some, or all of his ITS. A player cannot bid more ITS then he has. Bids are written on pieces of paper and are then revealed simultaneously.
